BURGLARS HAVE SOCIETY'S SECRETS

Robbed Chatham Lodge Room, Taking Away Valuable Jewels and Secret Work of Order.

Chatham, Feb. 5.—The carefully guarded news leaked out on Thursday morning that the Oddfellows' Temple, King street, was broken into Tuesday night by burglars, who got the combination of the safe and robbed it of many of the costly jewels and ornaments. Skeleton keys must have been used to gain admission to the lodge room. But it is not the theft of the valuables which is most worrying the local Oddfellows.

The thing which has caused the most consternation was the discovery that copies of the secret work of the order kept in one of the inmost shelves of the safe, were taken by the thieves, who, it is feared, will sell them to the first publishing concern that will buy.

It is understood that the pass-words, grips and other signs recognized by the order were all contained in the books which were stolen.

HAD OPERATED ON MOST OF HIS HOSTS

Dr. Deaver Had Removed Appendix From 125 Out of 150 of His Medical Hosts.

Examiner Special.

Philadelphia, Feb. 5.—Dr. John B. Deaver is to be given a dinner at the University Club on Feb. 15, when his hosts will be 150 physicians on whom he has performed surgical operations, and from 125 of whom he has removed the vermiform appendix. These physicians will come from all parts of the country.

Dr. Deaver was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1878, has been professor of anatomy here, has lectured extensively on appendicitis and for several years has been chief surgeon at the German Hospital. He is credited with having performed more operations for appendicitis than any other surgeon on earth, and is said to have made a world record in removing 450 appendices within a year.

PETER WAS MARRIED BEFORE HE KNEW IT

"Too Late," Said the Magistrate—"Five Dollars, Please," and the Bridegroom Paid.

Fairfield, Ill., Feb. 5.—Peter Schulz and Lola Walters were married to-day before they knew it. The wedding was set for to-morrow night at Noble. They came together into town and obtained the license.

Justice McNeil, who was standing by, took the license and told them to join hands. In less than a minute they were married. He asked them no questions.

All he said was: "I pronounce you man and wife; five dollars, please."

"Hey, stop!" yelled the bridegroom. "We don't want to get married right now. We are going to get married to-morrow night, and there's going to be a supper and big doings. The whole county is invited."

"Too late," replied the Magistrate. "Thought you wanted the knot tied. Five dollars, please."

The bridegroom paid. "The wedding supper goes, anyhow," he said, "but I don't know about the church business."

SPRING ASSIZES ON FEBRUARY 22

Mr. Justice Clute at Annual Spring Jury Sittings.

The Spring Assizes will be opened on Monday, Feb. 22nd, at the Court House before Mr. Justice Clute. This is the annual spring jury sittings.

Date Of Mitchell's Trial Has Been Set For Wednesday Next

Charles Mitchell, who was committed for trial yesterday by Magistrate Dumble, on the charge of stealing six dollars from the mails, appeared before Judge Weller yesterday afternoon at 4.30. He pleaded not guilty and the date of his trial was arranged for Wednesday, February 10th. The statement in yesterday's paper that he would be tried at the Spring Assizes was based on a misunderstanding. Mr. Kerr stated that he held that the decoy letters were not postal letters, as defined by the law, and that the offense was simply of stealing six dollars not from postal letters. It is understood that the punishment for robbing the mails is a term in penitentiary for a period of not less than three years and not more than seven.

LAKEFIELD SCHOOL CONTROVERSY HAS BEEN SETTLED AT LAST

The question that has long been agitating the minds of the Lakefield and Douro people in regard to the division of the School Sections was settled this morning before His Honour Judge Weller.

It will be remembered that the difficulty arose in the first place from the disinclination of some of the residents in Douro to allow their children to go to the Lakefield school on account of the distance involved. The County Council last year appointed arbitrators to strike out a new school section. This was done but the division did not meet with the approval of many of those interested in the division. The matter was brought before the notice of Judge Weller, and he, this morning, decided to amend the plan adopted by the late arbitrators by placing those who were dissatisfied with the late adjustment in the Lakefield section.

Messrs. E A Peck and F D Kerr appeared on behalf of the Union School Board; Mr. D W Dumble for the Lakefield School Board and Mr. O A Langley for two of the interested ratepayers.

Fracas Case At Havelock Heard By Magistrate Edmison

Magistrate Edmison's case in Havelock is not yet finished, although it has been under hearing for some time. It was an assault committed two weeks ago resulting in a general fight, in which four men were participants. The charge was laid by Wm. E. Griffith against Jason Roe and John McArthur. A second case is that of Roe vs. Griffith. Mr. R. E. Wood represented the prosecution and Mr. Geo. Hatton appeared for the defendants in the first case.

The fight is said to have been started by a man named Howard Peters, who was going to lick Roe, no matter what happened. Griffith held Peters' coat and the latter made a rush at Roe, striking him with such force that he rebounded the length of a horse."

Peters and Roe are alleged to have been drinking and it was likely a stagger rather than a direct rebound. A clinch followed and Roe occupied the upper position. The two men rolled around on the ground and finally into a cutter and out the other side. Roe held on like a leech and was apparently getting the best of it.

Then McArthur decided that the game had gone far enough, and thought it was time to stop it. He grabbed Peters' leg and whirled him around, and in some way all four had a hand in the melee. Roe gave Peters two black eyes and broke the bridge of his nose, besides scratching his neck, according to the evidence offered. A settlement has not yet been reached.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 4—Fred Simpson, the Canadian Indian who is ambitious to wrest the laurels from Longboat, Shrubb, et al., lowered the American outdoor record for fifteen miles here to-day. He ran over a part of the Grand Unix automobile course. Time, 1.27.2 4-5.

Five miles of the run was in the teeth of a stiff wind. He insisted strongly and afterwards gave an exhibition of his sprinting in front of the grand stand. Simpson is here to train for the international Marathon which will be run in Madison Square Garden on St. Patrick's Day.

GOOD ICE FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME TEAMS ARE IN GREAT SHAPE

Although the weather is mild outside there is a good sheet of ice available at Brock street rink for to-night's big game between Lindsay and Peterborough, which decides whether Peterborough and Lindsay will be tie for the championship or whether the Scugog team will win the district. The reserved seat plan was sold out with the exception of a few seats this morning and the indications point to one of the biggest crowds that ever saw a game in Peterborough. Word was received from Lindsay this morning that they are bringing down 200 fans on the special train which leaves Scugogville at 7 o'clock. That there will be excitement galore goes without saying.

Both teams confidently expect to win and it will be a sensational game from start to finish.

The game will start sharp at 8.15 o'clock and the masculine end of the crowd is reminded that no smoking will be permitted. It will be in the interests of the players if the smokers will kindly refrain until after the game is over.

W. S. Hancock, of Toronto, will referee.

The teams will be as follows—

Newton		Derocher

Koyl		Glover
	Cover Point
Sullivan		Moore
	Rover
Stoddard		Ray

NEW STYLE OF C.P.R. BOX CAR

Entirely of Steel With Structure Work on Outside—Smooth on the Inside.

Some of the steel box cars to be brought into active use on this part of the Canadian Pacific, were seen here recently. They are of solid metal with the structural work all on the outside. This presents a perfectly smooth wall and floor, and the car is so closely built that the leakage of grain is almost an impossibility. While freight men think that it will be some time before this style of car comes into general use there seems to be little doubt that with the increasing prices of lumber the car will be found more economical than the old wooden car. The new cars are the output of the Angus shops, Montreal.

MISSING MAIL MATTER FOUND

Mr. W. H. Perkins Identifies Silverware Found In Chas. Mitchell's House.

Mr. W H Perkins, King street, reported to the police the loss of a parcel of silverware from England expressed on January 4th. He had been told of its being mailed but had not received it. The route was on that of Charles Mitchell. Last night P. C. Newhall and Mr. Perkins visited Mitchell's house and after diligently searching they found all but two of the articles which Mr. Perkins had described. Among the articles was one gold keeper, 9 karat, one gold ring 9k. with 9 diamonds, one silver necklace with attachments, one silver Mezpah brooch and several others. Mr. Perkins stated that while waiting for the arrival of the goods, Mitchell had promised to let him know when they arrived. Mr. Perkins, it is stated, identified the goods as his.

RECEPTION TO BERNARD DALY

After the presentation of "Rory of the Hills," the Irish play which was presented at the Grand Opera House last night, a reception was extended to Mr. Bernard Daly, who starred in the leading role, by the Peterborough Council of the Knights of Columbus. The affair was entirely informal and was thoroughly enjoyed by those who were present. Mr. Daly, apart from his geniality of disposition, is a splendid singer, possessing a high tenor voice, of unusual quality. He sang a number of Irish songs, two of the most pleasing being "The Last Rose of Summer," and "Killarney," which were given in a charming manner. Mr. Daly is a member of Aquinas Council.

FAIR REPORTING.

The Conservative journals give great credit to Mr. Borden, for his action in the House looking to measures for the conservation of our national and natural resources. The impression is created that he is the originator of the idea and the prime mover in the matter, whereas the Laurier Government has taken practical steps in the same direction; but Sir Wilfred met Mr. Borden's proposition and suggested improvements with the idea of better results. No one wishes to deprive Mr Borden of any credit for initiative, but to make him the head and front as the Mail and Empire seeks to do is not only absurd but not honest journalism. Reports of parliamentary proceedings should be fair as they are in the Globe and other journals. But the Mail carries the extreme partizanship that marks its editorial columns into its news reports of public events. In the report of parliamentary proceedings on Wednesday, the organ sins conspicuously. Mr. Sinclair, of Guysboro, Nova Scotia, introduced a resolution for the appointment of a special committee to investigate the interests of the coast fisheries of the Maritime Provinces. The Mail says, "Mr. Sinclair, Government supporter from Nova Scotia, trailed in the wake of Mr. Borden." This is a direct misstatement of fact, inasmuch as Mr. Sinclair had introduced a similar motion last year and it was Mr. Borden who had done the "trailing." What the public expect from a newspaper is news that can be relied upon, free from the distortion of partizan bias. The editorial page is the critical department of a well conducted newspaper. In other parts of the paper we look for facts. A newspaper conducted on biassed lines appeals only to narrow partizan prejudice and forfeits any claim to general intluence. The people want true pictures, not caricatures of what is done in parliament, so that they can form a just opinion. The action of the organ in the matter mentioned is the more remarkable with the incident of a day or two before in mind. Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, proposed a measure looking to the conservation of our national resources, and though his proposal was in line of the Government policy already put in motion, Sir Wilfred Laurier welcomed Mr. Borden's motion with practical suggestions to make it more effective. This is as it should be. Both parties are interested in the promotion of the welfare of the country, and, though differing in details, can work harmoniously to this end. But the idea of all good being on one side of the House is vicious in its tendency, and hostile to good results. The fair reporting of Parliamentary debates is necessary for public enlightenment.

The coast fisheries of Nova Scotia alone employ 25,000 men and the output is estimated at $30,000,000 per year in value.

DOSEN'T APPLY HERE.

The Examiner has received a communication from a gentleman in Halifax, inviting our co-operation in "checking some of the performances given by these cheap vaudeville and moving picture shows • • • n class of amusement that is not fit to be produced before women, young girls and small children." We don't know what the conditions are in dear old Halifax, but we assure our correspondent that there is not the slightest need nor opportunity for such a crusade here. We have two excellent moving picture establishments in Peterborough; and so far as is known nothing objectionable on moral grounds is ever presented; nothing to shock the modesty of the most proper person or undesirably enlighten the most unsophisticated. It is understood that it, by chance, "films" of any approximation to riskiness are sent, they are not used. Of course there will be differences of opinion as to what constitutes objectionable pictures, as there is differences of opinion respecting the merits of a picture or the beauty of a bouquet or a woman; but in Peterborough so far as known good, sound, sane, sensible public opinion finds nothing in our moving picture theatres to adversely criticise on the score of morals or immorals. We are not quite as old as Halifax, and maybe not as wise, but our public sense of propriety is of a character to deter any entertainer from transgressing the limits of decency. We should tell anybody rash enough to offend in this respect, to "go to Halifax."

OVER-REACHING GREED.

Monopolistic greed sometimes overreaches itself. The Bethlehen Steel Company insisted on claiming its patent rights in Great Britain on air-hardened high-speed steel. This led the Continental Steel Works of Sheffield, England, to discover a steel producing process which would make them independent of the claim set up by the United States patentees of air-hardened steel. The result was that a revolution has been effected in the hardening process and the metal can be hardened in oil or paraffin as well as in water. Mild steel, hardened by the new process will do double and treble the work as at present and the new hard material will do six or seven times the work. Actual experiment has demonstrated that a tool made of the new steel worked effectively on extremely hard material a day and a half without regrinding, and remained still sharp, whereas a tool made of the usual steel, working under the same conditions required grinding five or six times in one day. The new steel is more expensive than the present steel, but it has the advantage of possessing four or five times the cutting power which more than compensates for the slightly additional cost.

The amount of the bounties paid iron products in Canada in 1908, was $2,303,140.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Anti-Japanese sentiment in California and Nevada may make war. In British Columbia, masquerading under false yellow, it only made votes—for Mr. Borden.

It is stated that Conservative Senators and Members of Parliament are to give Mr. R L Borden, leader of the Opposition, a banquet. Mr. Borden should make a good meal—his party friends have not fed him enough lately to impair his appetite.

Provincial Secretary Hanna has reconsidered his intention of impeaching Judge Fralick, of Belleville—for lese majeste—in not showing sufficient respect for the spy system of enforcing the license law—employing a paid informer to induce youths under the age limit to buy whiskey—debauching a boy to get a case against an hotel keeper. Committing a crime to create a crime is hardly Scriptural.

Poor free trade England is going to the dogs. A British firm of ship builders—Vickers Sons and Maxim—have secured a forty million dollar contract to build a squadron of Spanish war ships. It will be remembered that the Spanish fleet was sunk in Manilla Bay by the concussion produced by the firing of the guns of the American fleet. The new fleet will need something more substantial to sink them.

Sir James Whitney told a deputation that there was "no excited demand for law reform in the homes of the province." The public have grown so accustomed to the hoary presence of the burden of law and litigation that they bear it without showing any excited desire for better things. Appeals to the Whitney Government promise to be as unsatisfactory as appeals to the courts, the only difference being that they are not so costly.

The Whitney Government is called upon to see that Canada's reputation for securing law and order in even unorganized districts is not sullied. The Toronto World gets frequent letters from its "man on the trail" at Gowganda and every letter begins with a paragraph deploring the lawlessness that exists in the mining camps. "Old timers" say that if such conditions continue it will be necessary for the men to "take the law into their own hands." A little attention to these conditions, on the part of the Whitney Government, will be a practical step in "law reform."

THINGS EDUCATIONAL.

The Board od Education of London, Ont., have decided to tender the teachers of the city a banquet, but as it would not be permissible to spend the city's funds on a social function, the teachers will be asked to contribute a dollar each and the members of the Board will personally bear the rest of the expense.

MAGISTRATE'S ECZEMA

CURED AFTER 20 YEARS OF SUFFERING.

ZAM-BUK'S POWER PROVED BY SCHOOL COMMISSIONER & BAPTIST DEACON

So great are the healing powers of Zam-Buk that men of elevated rank all over the Dominion are glad to testify to its merits. One of the most recent converts to the Zam-Buk method of treating and curing disease is Mr. C. E. Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N.S.

Mr. Sanford is a Justice of the Peace for the County, and a Member of the Board of School Commissioners. He is also deacon of the Baptist Church in Berwick. Indeed throughout the County it would be difficult to find a man more widely known and more highly respected.

Some time back he had occasion to test Zam-Buk, and here is his opinion of this great balm. He says:—

"I never used anything that gave me such satisfaction as Zam-Buk. I had a patch of Eczema on my ankle which had been there for over 20 years. Sometimes also the disease would break out on my shoulders. I had taken Solution of Arsenic, had applied various ointments, and tried all sorts of things to obtain a cure, but all in vain. I was advised to give Zam-Buk a trial, and as I am a firm believer in nature's remedies, I did so. From first applying it I saw it was altogether different to the ordinary ointments and embrocations, and it soon began to show signs of clearing away the eczema on my ankle. This was so gratifying that I persevered for some time with it, and I am glad to say it had the desired result. I am now cured of the disease which defied every other treatment for twenty years.

"This is not the only direction in which I have proved the merits of Zam-Buk. I suffered for a long time from piles, and I found a perfect cure for this painful ailment in Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk soothes the pain, relieves the congested veins, and so restores the elasticity to the tissues, that the piles gradually but surely disappear.

I take comfort in helping my brother man, and if the publication of my opinion of the healing value of Zam-Buk will lead other sufferers to try it, I should be glad. For the relief of suffering caused by piles or skin diseases, I know of nothing to equal Zam-Buk."

WHAT YOU SHOULD USE ZAM-BUK FOR.

Zam-Buk is a positive and certain cure for cuts, burns, bruises, sprains, piles, festering sores, ulcers, scalds, blood-poisoning, eczema, chapped hands, cold cracks, chilblains, ringworm, scalp sores, bad leg, diseased ankles, and all other skin diseases and injuries. Rubbed well into the parts affected, it cures neuralgia, rheumatism, or sciatica. All druggists and stores sell at 50 c. box, three for $1.25, and post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for prices. Refuse the harmful imitations sometimes represented to be "just as good."

HOW WORKING PEOPLE BENEFIT FROM ZAM-BUK.

Every working man and woman occasionally sustains accidental injuries at business which give rise to great pain, and sometimes "take the wrong way." When Zam-Buk is kept handy, it gives speedy relief in such cases and ensures quick cures. The following cases are interesting in this connection:—

SEVERE BURN CURED.—Mr. J. Nixon, blacksmith, of 901, William Ave, Winnipeg, says:—"While working at the C.P.R. shops I burned my left foot severely. When about to weld two pieces of iron together, some of the hot metal fell on my foot, burning a hole through the shoe, sock, and into the flesh quite deeply. I suffered terribly all that night with the burning pain, and the next morning my foot was badly inflamed and showed indications of blood-poisoning. I had now an angry sore which discharged freely, and for three weeks could not bring about a cure, though various remedies were applied. At last I obtained a preparation from the doctor which seemed to stop the discharging and made me feel quite hopeful, but finally the wound became as bad as ever. I was then advised to use Zam Buk, and from the first application the balm gave me relief. The inflammation was thoroughly checked, and the poisonous matter cleared away in a very short time after beginning with Zam-Buk. Healing then began, and in less than two weeks the wound was healed and a thorough cure brought about, for which I am very grateful."

SCALDS CURED.—Mrs. M. Maskell, of 210, Gladstone Street, Winnipeg, says:—"Last February I scalded my right arm with the escaping steam from a kettle of boiling water. Large blisters formed quickly, and the burning heat and pains were almost unbearable. Directly this was done I applied a soothing oil I had in the house, but the next day while doing the work about the house the water blisters were broken. Inflammation set in, and before I was aware of it I had an angry sore on my arm. For upwards of a month I kept treating the sore with first one remedy and then another, but it refused to heal until I began using Zam-Buk. After three applications of this balm the inflammation was banished and the sore thoroughly cleansed so that healing began. In a week's time Zam-Buk had healed the sore nicely, new skin having formed."

A MOTHER'S APPEAL TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. C. J. Irlam, of 907, William Ave, Winnipeg, says:—"I am quite sure that every mother who once proves the all-round value of Zam Buk in the home, will never again be without a box."

She goes on to show how on three distinct emergencies in her own home Zam-Buk proved an unspeakable boon.

"Some eight weeks ago," she says, "my brother, while at work had a rusty nail driven into the palm of his right hand. The rust and dirt on the nail set up blood-poisoning and inflammation. He attended the General Hospital, and the doctor ordered poultices to draw out the poison and inflammation. We obeyed the order, but when after some days there was no improvement, I left off the poultices and applied Zam-Buk. The change of treatment had an almost magical effect! Zam-Buk soothed the pain, drew out the poison, and allayed the inflammation. Healing then set in, and in a few days he was able to go back to work.

"About six weeks ago, my husband, while returning home quite late in the evening was bitten by a dog. The animal's teeth penetrated his thigh just above the knee and inflicted an ugly wound. Directly he got home we applied Zam-Buk, and in a few days the soreness was gone and the wound almost healed.

"Still a third instance occurred in which Zam-Buk again proved its great healing power. My little boy of five was at play one day when he fell and striking his head upon a sharp stone inflicted a nasty gash. I washed the wound and put on some Zam-Buk. The way in which this balm relieved the little fellow's pain was really splendid! Within a week the cut—a very ugly one—was quite healed.

"We have proved Zam-Buk's power in still other ways, and I have no hesitation in saying that as a household balm—ready for all emergencies, and a sure cure for any form of skin injury or disease—it is without equal."

LIVED NINE YEARS ON HARDWARE DIET

SUCCUMBED TO PUNCTURE

Inmate of Hospital For Insane Dies After Nine Years of Swallowing Hardware of All Sorts—He Might Have Lived For a Long Time But For an Unlucky Piece of Wire Which He Ate.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—A human ostrich has just died in the Hospital for the Insane at Verdun. He has been an inmate for the past nine years, and during that time developed a fondness for nails, wire, glass, hairpins, etc. Had not a piece of wire punctured his stomach he might have lived and thrived for many years on his diet of hardware.

Following is the almost incredible list of articles found to have been swallowed by him. Three bundles of broom fibre; one piece of whalebone, eight inches long; one bundle of hair; one four-inch nail; a piece of wire, bound with string; one piece of wire, four inches long; one three-inch nail, with piece of cloth attached; one buttonhook; six pieces of pipe stems; twenty-one tobacco tags; thirty-one small pieces of wire; four screws; one piece of insulated tape; one booteye; one steel spring; twenty-seven pins; five one-inch nails; two plum-stones; one paper fastener; one piece of twisted picture wire; nine pieces of iron; nine pieces of glass; one iron nut; four hairpins; four tacks; one horseshoe nail; fifty-two two-inch nails; seven two-and-a-half inch nails; thirty-two three-inch nails; one five-inch nail, and two pieces of stone, one half an inch square, the other an inch long by half an inch wide and half an inch thick.

Fumes Were Fatal.

Cornwall, Feb. 5. Joseph Sibley is dead from inhaling sulphur fumes. Sibley was employed in the Toronto Paper Co.'s pulp mills, and remained in the room one day last week after the digesters were emptied. As the sulphur fumes cooled they dropped, and Sibley and a man named Morin started for the window, but Sibley was overcome. He was 37 years of age, and leaves a wife and four children.

Carrie Nation Fined.

London, Feb. 5.—Carrie Nation became acquainted with the London police courts yesterday when she was fined $7.50 for thrusting her umbrella through a window of a car on the underground railway, upon which a cigarette advertisement was pasted.

When the magistrate announced the amount of the fine, Mrs. Nation said: "Thank you, I expected it would cost me more."

NEWFOUNDLAND GAINS.

Fisheries Dispute Is Settled With Concessions to Colony.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 5.—Sir Robt. Bond, the Premier, announced last night that an agreement in the fisheries dispute between the United States and Newfoundland had been reached and that Newfoundland had gained certain concessions. The Government claims that the terms of the agreement as a whole are of a satisfactory character.

It is announced that the Americans agreed to the arbitration of the question of their rights to fish within the inlets of the west coast. The Americans have contended that the treaty of 1818 gave them this right to fish there. The Newfoundland Government set up the claim that the treaty permitted the Americans to fish only along the seaboard.

Should The Hague Tribunal decide that the treaty does not give the Americans the right to fish in the west coast inside the frozen herring industry, in which scores of New England vessels are engaged each year, will have to be abandoned.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The Canadian Stock Food Co. plant at Brockville was burned; loss $3,000.

For theft of money from the mails, Charles Mitchell, postman, was sent for trial at Peterboro. He was caught by decoy letters.

Crown Prince George of Servia has suffered another automobile accident as a result of his indulgence in fast driving. He collided with a telegraph pole.

A construction train on the New York Central Railroad ran into a group of track walkers near University Height in New York. Six of the track walkers were killed.

W. J. Ross has been appointed to the joint street railway board at Port Arthur. Jones, resigned, owing to his connection with the dismissal of Manager Pilcher. The latter has been reinstated.

The Norwegian steamship Munin, Captain Larsen, bound from New York to Warien, Ga., to load lumber, is four days' overdue, and may be the vessel wrecked on Saturday off Diamond Shoal lightship.

A special officer of the Postoffice Department was recently sent to Gowganda to look into the postal situation there, and the Department hopes to be able to deal finally with the matter in a short time.

Riot Follows Theatre Raid.

Amoy, China, Feb. 5.—Serious complications are likely to ensue as the result of the raiding of a theatre which is being run by a Chinese, who is a Spanish subject, in defiance of the imperial mourning edict. The theatre was raided by police and a riot followed. Several shots were exchanged and two policemen are missing.

FIVE YEARS FOR ELOPER.

Edwin Barnhart Is Given Stiff Sentence at Brockville.

Brockville, Feb. 5.—Yesterday afternoon Judge McDonald sentenced A. E. Barnhart to five years in the Kingston Penitentiary on a charge of theft.

The prisoner was mixed up in an elopment with Mrs. J. A. Pyke, who stole her husband's household effects and portions of his clothing before making her departure with Barnhart. The couple were separated at Lyn and the trunk containing the articles, which had been shipped to Kingston under the name of E. Smythe, was returned. The crown's theory that Mrs. Pyke took the goods at Barnhart's suggestion was borne out by her evidence, but the judge showed the prisoner no quarter on account of the schemes he evolved to get possession of Mrs. Pyke and at the same time professing friendship for her husband, at whose house he visited. The prisoner broke down when sentenced.

The Capital For South Africa.

Cape Town, South Africa, Feb. 5.—(C.A.P. Cable)—Responsible papers in the Transvaal refuse to denounce the compromise on the location of a capital for the new confederation. The Cape press is moderate, but Natal is still hostile. It is understood the arrangements for administration follow the Calcutta and Simla, London and Dublin, model, including the establishment of an official telegraph and an accelerated train service.

Was Troubled With Weak Back For Years.

Could Not Perform Household Duties. Doctors Attended Without Avail.

Mrs. Arch. Schnare, Black Point, N.B., writes: "For years I was troubled with weak back. Oftentimes I have lain in bed for days, being scarcely able to turn myself, and I have also been a great sufferer while trying to perform my household duties. I had doctors attending me without avail and tried liniments and plasters, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was about to give up in despair when my husband induced me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after using two boxes I am now well and able to do my work. I am positive Doan's Kidney Pills are all that you claim for them, and I would advise all kidney sufferers to give them a fair trial."

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realizing quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure Backache and all forms of Kidney and Bladder Disease.

A medicine that strengthens the kidneys so that they are enabled to extract the poisonous uric acid from the blood and prevent the chief cause of Rheumatism.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, nt.

In ordering specify "Doan's."

MAY RESULT IN ANARCHY.

British Columbia Socialist Warns His Fellow Legislators.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 5.—The Attorney-General's bill to amend the provincial elections was up in the Legislature as a theme for debate. The bill was roundly attacked by the member for Delta and by the three Socialist members.

Mr. Williams (Newcastle) warned the Government that there were in this province growing bodies of workingmen whose aim was to get their rights otherwise than by the ballot. He said it was time to reform the election methods now, to prevent any encouragement of these bodies. His view was that the present electoral lists should be cancelled and new lists prepared for each election.

To Compel Use of Wireless.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Appreciating the value of suggestions that have arisen since the introduction of his bill to require all ocean passenger vessels to be equipped with wireless telegraphy, Representative Burke of Pennsylvania re-introduced his bill, with several amendments, making it apply to ocean passenger steamers certified to carry 50 passengers or more, between ports 200 miles distant, instead of 500 miles, as in the first bill.

The penalty is changed so as to provide for a maximum fine of $1,000 or one year's imprisonment.

All the World to Blame.

Cleveland, Feb. 5.—"The world, debtor in account with Edward Mallan, creditor. To one life, ruined; to carbolic acid, 10 cents; to hell, one eternity. This account may be squared by giving me a decent grave."

This is all that remains to tell of the identity of a man who died by his own hand in a lodging house here Wednesday night. The inscription, written on a torn and dirty scrap of paper, was found on a chair in the suicide's room. The man who died was not of the lodging-house type. He was fairly well dressed. His thin face was that of a man of refinement.

Manitoba Opens House.

Winnipeg, Feb. 5.—The second session of the twelfth Legislature of Manitoba was opened yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant-Governor Macmillan with the customary ceremony. The speech from the throne makes a record for brevity, being under 300 words. Bills to amend the King's Bench Act and Succession Duties Act will be brought down, and the estimates at an early date.

Behind Closed Doors.

Edinburgh, Feb. 5.—Tired of having his court turned into a theatre filled with curious men and women who have seemed to regard the Stirling-Cruss divorce case as a lurid melodrama, produced for their benefit, Judge Guthrie yesterday closed the doors on all except those directly identified with the suits.

To get ahead in the world all you have to do is to be reasonably wide awake.

ADVANCE NOTES OF MEN'S MODES

The dictum of the tailor general or whoever it is that guides the trembling manfolk along the tottuous ways of fashion, has gone forth, and now even the most modest minded man must hie himself to his tailor, and doff his suit of black or brown or blue, to appear in the latest checker board or convict stripe.

The suitings that are the things for the coming season will cry aloud to you as you near them on the street, they are so pronounced. Grey will be the prevailing mode, light in color, with rather exaggerated patterns. The variety known as Shepherd's Plaid will be much in evidence, but grey stripes will also be prominent, not the gentle little stripe of the past season that hid itself coyly in the surrounding fabric, but a real stripe that no one can miss.

There is a dark olive green cloth, without a pattern of any sort, which will likely be very popular, and, of course, blacks and blues are never out of fashion.

If anything, coats will be worn a trifle shorter this year. Otherwise there will be only minor changes. A style that seems likely to be popular is that known as the two piece paddock suit, that is made without a seam in the back.

In dress clothes a certain innovation lately started is becoming more popular every day. That is to have dress suits made out of dark navy blue cloth, instead of the conventional black. The makers claim that in artificial light the blue looks much better than the black, as it is a deader colour, looking like black but without that brownish tinge that artificial light always gives to black.

SMITH FARMERS SELL HORSES

Dispose of Them to Buyer Who Will Ship to Battleford.

Examiner Special.

Smith, Feb. 5.—A horse buyer from Battleford has been through Smith township and a number of sales are reported. Mr. Thos. Fry disposed of a team and Mr. Clifford Hancock sold a single horse. They will be shipped west shortly.

Mrs. Anna Hunter is visiting Mrs. George Walton.

A few of the farmers have a number of choice cattle which will come in fine for export. They intend to hold them until Easter or perhaps the first of May and expect to get a good price.

The farmers are cutting ice in the part of Lily Lake near the second line. A great number take advantage of this chance to get a good supply for the warm days of summer.

BRILLIANT RECITAL AT THE CONSERVATORY

A very successful and enjoyable pianoforte recital was given at the Conservatory of Music Hall Thursday night by the advanced pupils of Mr. Gliddon, assisted by Miss Kline, vocal pupil of Herr Lautz, of the Conservatory staff.

There was a large attendance, more than four hundred being present, and they were well rewarded for their attendance. The programme as presented provided not only a pleasant musical treat but gave decidedly effective demonstration of the high quality of the musical teaching and training imparted at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music.

The programme opened with a two piano—eight hands — number, the Liszt Rakoczy March, played with fine effect by Mrs. Hodgson and Misses Sisson, McKee and Starke. This was followed by a brilliantly performed valse arabesque, Lack, by Miss Geraldine Rudkins. Miss Sisson's treatment of her double number, (a) Berceuse, Chopin, and Liszt's beautiful Venezia Gondoliera, was marked by executive skill, which served to give effect to a fine understanding of the spirit of the selections. Miss Irvine contributed very creditably a mazurka by Godard. Miss Starke's Nevin, "Notturno," was an excellent contribution. Miss Kline sang Weatherly's Coolan Dhu with sweetness and expressive spirit, and for a recall number gave great pleasure with "Absence." Miss Buck, of Norwood, played with fine spirit and execution a double number, A Chopin waltz and Nevin's "Shepherds All and Maidens Fair,"—"In Arcadia." Miss McKee's treatment of Beethoven's immortal "Moonlight," showed a fine tone in the largo monement, while the allegro brought out a capable technical quality, the latter also characterizing the Rachmaninoff Prelude, performed by Miss McGill. Mozart's "Zauberflaute," given on two pianos by Mrs. Hodgson and Misses Sisson, Starke and McKee, brought to a brilliant finale an excellently presented programme.

While the general features of the playing developed technical resources, the chief distinction was the excellent interpretative ability—the spirit of musical understanding, the real soul of music—shown by the pupils, indicating that they had received all-round, effective instruction.

The recital, as a whole, afforded another striking tribute to excellent and solid musical instruction, and more than that, musical education, imparted at the Peterborough Conservatory of Music.

At the second grand annual concert of the Conservatory on Thursday, February 11th, the Conservatory orchestra will make its debut and Hope Morgan, the great soprano, will appear. The work of the orchestra will be a pleasant surprise to the musical people of the city, representing a splendid beginning in the co-operation and corporate development of the abundant musical talent we possess.

Report From Local Barbers' Union To The Trade Journal

Mr. Harry M. Gainey Writes Expressing an Opinion as Representative of Peterborough—Reference to Annual Banquet.

REGARDING CONVENTIONS

In the February number of the Journeyman Barber there appears the report of the eighth annual banquet of the Peterborough Union, No. 402. At the time it was held here an account was given in their council, but the following is the rest of the article, which was forwarded by Mr Harry Gainey, the secretary of the local union:

"And just to combine business with pleasure I will say a word or two in regard to current topics in our journal. In regard to hours and wages, I think there should be an International law allowing no union man to work more than eight or nine hours, commencing on January 1, 1911. I think at the next convention this should be taken up and such a law passed by the International Union, so as to give support to the locals, just as the Typographical Union did when they got their eight-hour day, as no local, I think, could handle this alone, and I think when they had a good backing they would have more nerve and staying power. It can easily be done, only give the people a little time to get educated to it.

Travelling Organizers

"In regard to travelling organizers who could also act as auditors in different parts of the country, I think it is needed worse than any home or anything like that, for if you wish to keep locals alive you must see some International officer more than once in a lifetime, as we have never seen one in this part of the country since we organized, in 1902, and I am sure we need one, and it would be money well spent. I know I heard great things at the last convention, which we would get if we had a member from Canada on the executive board of the J. B. I. U., and we got one and I have never heard of him since. I understand he had time enough to go out stump speaking at our last election. Surely he should give us a little time once in five years.

"A license law will come up at the next session of parliament, and I think our organization would be the proper person to introduce it to the different members, but I have never heard him say a word in regard to same. Now, Mr. Editor, I think I have said enough, perhaps, to awaken some of our orators from Canada, but just before closing I wish to say in regard to Brother Klupetky's saying that conventions are getting to cost too much money, that we should pass a law at the next convention not to have a convention for five years and in the fifth year take a referendum vote of the entire membership and see if they think a convention is needed, and if it is not let things go on for five years more and then have a convention, and surely then if we progress the way we have in the past, in the future we will need quite a number of changes in the constitution in ten years.

"In regard to raising dues, I think they might be raised to 75 cents per month, but any more I think would be a mistake. Now, Mr. Editor, I have said sufficient for a while, so will ring off, wishing you all a prosperous New Year.

I remain,
Fraternally yours,
M. H. GAINEY,
Secretary Local (No. 402.

WRITER SAYS THE TAXES WERE NOT HIS

Has Something to Say About the North Monaghan Council's Methods.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly insert this letter in your valuable columns. I wish to contradict a statement which appeared in the report of the first meeting of the Township Council, to the effect that my taxes had been remitted, which statement I wish to deny. The taxes they have reference to are those that were not paid by the parties that were assessed in the year 1901, and when I took possession of this place in 1902, I did not have the least idea that there was anything against this property, and it has taken the council from that year up to 1908 to find out where the place was upon which the said taxes were not paid, and they took no trouble to find but the full particulars of the case, and strange to say upon all the tax papers there is a place for arrears of taxes and they never had any such arrears placed upon the said tax papers. Neither was I ever notified by them that such taxes had not been paid; neither did they ever take any steps to collect the same, and when I went to see the county clerk I found that the taxes for 1901 were $2.61, which with interest had run up to $5.68, which were paid last August to the township treasurer, and when I went to see the County Clerk to my surprise I found that the council had not notified him that these taxes had been paid. It appears to me to be a peculiar way for any council to transact business.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.
Yours truly,
WM. STEVENS,
High street, North Monaghan.

LOCAL WINDOW WON THIRD PRIZE

Kingan Hardware Co's Christmas Show Window is Recognized.

The window dressing contest which was conducted by Hardware and Metal, to be competed for by Canadian hardware stores, has been concluded and the prize winners are announced. The third prize comes to Peterborough and was won by the Kingan Hardware Company's window which attracted so much attention at Christmas. It was the winter scene of Santa Claus with his sleigh and reindeer, showing a little cabin near at hand. The following is the note that appeared with the illustration in Hardware and Metal:

Third prize went to A. A. Letellier and H. J. Hanwell, with the Kingan Hardware Company, Peterborough, their window differing from the others in being one calculated to draw a crowd. Had it been accompanied by a good companion "selling" window it is probable first prize would have been given. The window shows a fair line of gilt hardware but its merit is in its ability to attract big and little children and bring them to the store.

SAID FAREWELL TO CLUBMAN

Belmont Club Regrets Departure of Mr. Walter Snow—A Popular Member.

The Belmont Club said farewell last night to one of its most popular members, Mr. Walter Snow, of the staff of the local branch of the Bank of Ottawa. He is leaving Peterborough shortly, and his fellow clubmen took the opportunity of expressing their regret at his departure. The occasion also served as a celebration of the club hockey team's victory, and as a result nearly all the members were present. A short musical programme was enjoyed during which an address and presentation was made to Mr. Snow. Mr. O Millburn read the address and Mr. Harold Tanney presented Mr. Snow with a handsome pin. The latter made a very suitable reply, thanking the boys for their kind remembrance and expressing the desire that the club would meet with continued prosperity, and that it would always enjoy the splendid record it has already attained.

The rest of the evening was spent socially, refreshments being served and with music and song a pleasant time was the result.

Mr. Snow has won many friends during his stay in Peterborough and will be particularly missed from the Belmont Club.

DRINK PLENTY OF GOOD WATER

Also Valuable Recipe to Relieve Kidney Trouble Anyone Can Prepare

TRY THIS AT YOUR HOME

"The people here do not drink enough water to keep healthy," exclaimed a well-known authority. "The numerous cases of kidney and bladder diseases and rheumatism are mainly due to the fact that the drinking of water, nature's greatest medicine, has been neglected.

Stop loading your system with medicines and cure-alls; but get on the water waggon. If you are really sick, why, of course, take the proper medicines—plain common vegetable treatment, which will not shatter the nerves or ruin the stomach."

To cure rheumatism you must make the kidneys do their work; they are the filters of the blood. They must be made to strain out of the blood the waste matter and acids that cause rheumatism; the urine must be neutralized so it will no longer be a source of irritation to the bladder, and, most of all, you must keep these acids from forming in the stomach. This is the cause of stomach trouble and poor digestion. For these conditions you can do no better than take the following prescription: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Mix by shaking well in bottle and take in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime, but don't forget the water. Drink plenty and often.

This valuable information and simple prescription should be posted up in each household and used at the first sign of an attack of rheumatism, backache or urinary trouble, no matter how slight.

PADEREWSKI'S FINGERS.

New York, Feb. 5.—In the midst of the "passionate storm and stress" of his rendition of one of Beethoven's sonatas on Wednesday afternoon at Carnegie Hall, Ignace Paderewski, during the progress of his only recital in the city, suffered a curious accident which, it developed later, was to rob Philadelphia folks of their eagerly anticipated opportunity to see and hear the great Polish pianist to-day.

To an ordinary man the accident—which was nothing more or less than the splitting, to a slight extent, of the nail on the first finger of the right hand — would have meant scarcely a passing thought.

But to Paderewski, every movement of whose fingers is safeguarded by accident insurance policies aggregating a large amount, the mishap had a serious financial aspect.

Charles A. Ellis, his manager, will collect from the insurance companies a round sum in solid cash in recompense for the concert which Paderewski cannot give in Philadelphia because his finger is somewhat sore and needs a rest.

BELMONTS BEAT WEST END TEAM

The Belmonts and West Ends had the honour of bringing the City League season to a close playing the last game of the evening last night, the Belmonts winning by 4 goals to 2. They were ahead 2—1 at half time, and had the better of the going all through, although the West Ends made it close, scoring the first goal. Neither team had won a game previously in the League race. A large part of the crowd remained and found the game very interesting.

THRONGED WITH ADMIRERS.

The Toronto Globe in a recent issue says: "Fashionable Toronto turned out in goodly numbers to welcome Miss Hope Morgan on the occasion of her first appearance since her return from England, when the capacity of the Conservatory of Music Hall was taxed to the utmost. Miss Morgan has won many triumphs abroad, when the largest halls in England and Europe have been crowded with her admirers, but it is doubtful if any of her audiences were more spontaneously appreciative than were those who gathered to welcome her in the lyric dramatic hymnal presented."

CHIEFTAINS BEAT GEORGE ST. SEVEN

Jack Thirnbeck's Chieftain team captured the championship of the Junior City Hockey League last night, when they defeated the George Street team by 3 goals to 2 in a hard fought game that was always interesting. The Chieftains were ahead all the wayy, but the play was remarkably even and neither team had much on the other at any stage. The checking was close and the winners had not their usual opportunities of getting away for combination work, although at times they did some clever passing. The Chieftains scored first, but George Street came back with one. The Chieftains retaliated and at the half were out in front by 2—1. They scored again immediately after half time, but George Street found the nets soon after. The Chieftains, however, although pressed closely, managed to hold their lead until the end of the game.

Bill Rose refereed satisfactorily and the teams were as follows:

ST. ANDREWS WON LISTLESS MATCH

St. Andrew's beat George street in a slow, listless minor church league game at Knox rink last night by 7—0, leading at the half by 1—0. The ice was sticky and the mist made the puck hard to follow, and neither played much hockey. The St. Andrew's defence was too strong for the Methodists and Patterson in goal had only two shots to handle all night. Flannagan was the star of the game. Harry Morgan gave every satisfaction as referee and the teams were:

PETERBOROUGH BOY WITH GRAND FORKS

Art Mann, of the Stratheonas, 1907 championship team, is playing for Grand Forks, B. C., in the Boundary League, and a despatch says:

Grand Forks, Feb. 4.—The seventh game of hockey in the Boundary League was played here last night, between the Greenwood and Grand Forks teams, which resulted in a win for the latter by a score of 6 to 1. The game was to have been played on Friday evening last, but owing to the softness of the weather, was postponed. The ice was in first class shape, and a fast game was the result.

The local team, to a man, were in fine condition, and gave the best exhibition of hockey witnessed in the rink here this season. The refereeing, which was done by George Cole, of Phoenix, was good; Cole watching the game closely and penalizing every offender, with the result that there was a good, clean game—all hockey. Elliott and Mann for Grand Forks, played an exceptionally good game, the latter making a very pretty individual play in the last quarter, taking the puck up the whole length of the rink alone and making a successful shot at the Greenwood net. The winning of this match by the Grand Forks team places them at the top of the league, and their supporters look to see them capture the cup.

BUCKHORN DEFEATS BRIDGENORTH AGAIN

Buckhorn hockey team played the return game with Bridgenorth yesterday afternoon and defeated the homesters by 7 to 1. The game was played on the lake near the village and was a hard contest. Bridgenorth tried to avenge their defeat on Buckhorn ice a week ago, but failed. Quite a number of spectators witnessed the contest. Mr. Leo Quinn, of Lakefield was a satisfactory referee.

Government Scores First Majority of Forty-Two.

LASH FOR WIFE-BEATERS

Mr. Bickerdike's Bill Providing Flogging as Penalty For Assaults on Women. Robbery, Etc., Is Criticized—Hon. Mr. Aylesworth Disapproves of Retaliatory Punishment — The Boundaries.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—The first test of strength in the new Parliament, upon which a large number of election bets depended, resulted yesterday afternoon in a Government majority of 42. The division took place upon Dr. Reid's motion relating to the reception and opening of tenders, and Mr. Guthrie's amendment thereto, and was awaited with intense interest. No effort had been spared by the Opposition to beat up members in the hope of making a good show in the first count of a session, which, they had contended, would find them a majority, but the Government Whips were no less vigilant, and in view of the fact that a number of Liberals were unavoidably absent the result was hailed by the party to the right of the Speaker with great satisfaction, and with corresponding disappointment by the Conservatives. Out of 218 members 194 voted, the figures being: For the amendment, 118; for the motion, 76.

All the newcomers were applauded. Beginning with Mr. Stratton on the Liberal side, after the first outbreak which always follows the rising of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as each baby member recorded his preference, there was a rising tide of enthusiasm. The Conservatives applauded lustily their leader, and when the back rows were reached there was tumultuous desk pounding. Glen Campbell, the vanquisher of Theodore Burrows, was given probably the most boisterous reception, but Capt. Wallace, Capt. Sharpe, and Joe Russell also were greeted with a tremendous volley of acclamations by the Conservatives. In a full House the majority would be 47, with Comox-Atlin vacant. In the last House the majority was 66.

The bill of Dr. Reid of Grenville to amend the Passengers' Ticket Act was given a second reading and referred to the railway committee. Dr. Reid insisted that the law should be so amended as to make mileage books good on the train instead of the holder being compelled to go into the station to have his mileage ticket marked off.

Mr. Bickerdike's bill to amend the criminal code came in for severe criticism. It provides "three years' imprisonment, and to be whipped" as the punishment for anyone "who assaults his wife or other female and thereby causes bodily harm." Whipping is also prescribed for robbery and several other offences, including the carrying of concealed weapons.

The Minister of Justice opposed the indiscriminate use of the lash. It was a survival of old-time doctrine of retaliation in punishment. He pointed out that it would be difficult to find men to inflict the punishment, even in the case of crimes against women. Mr. Aylesworth was disposed to regard imprisonment as the proper penalty.

E. N. Lewis retorted upon the Minister of Justice the remark that his argument might as well be applied to the obtaining of men to inflict capital punishment.

W. B. Northrop argued that the Minister of Justice seemed to view the matter rather from the standpoint of the offender than the offended. He failed to see how any punishment could farther degrade the man who would beat his wife.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that it should be remembered that the Minister of Justice, while dissenting generally from the use of the lash, admitted that in the case of offences such as some of those described in the bill, such punishment might be permissable. The inflicting of corporal punishment was doubtless abhorrent to every man, but in the case of a wife-beater the House should be prepared to say that a man who inflicts corporal punishment upon his wife should be administered a dose of his own medicine.

It was true that the application of the lash had diminished the crime of garroting in England, but he was doubtful whether it should be applied as suggested, in the case of such offences as robbery.

Mr. Madden (Conservative, Cape Breton) opposed the bill as a return to barbarism, but wanted to know why the promoter had omitted women who beat their husbands. There was a laugh at this, but Mr. Madden declared that criminal statistics would show that this offence was quite as prevalent as that of wife-beating.

Mr. Lancaster moved in amendment to restrict the use of the lash to the offence of wife-beating, striking out the phrase, "any other female." The amendment was defeated on division by 71 nays to 41 years. The bill goes over.

Dr. Roche of Marquette asked what progress had been made towards arriving at a settlement with the Government of Manitoba in regard to defining the boundaries of Manitoba.

In reply Sir Wilfrid said that a bill was now being prepared in the Department of Justice to give effect to the resolutions adopted last year with regard to Manitoba will be submitted to the Provincial Government in time to be considered by the present Legislature.

Mr. Oliver told Mr. Sharpe (Lisgar) that no changes in the conditions relating to South African land grants were contemplated, and Capt. Sharpe (North Ontario) was told that the amount of the trust funds held by the Government on behalf of the Indians on the Rama Reserve (North Ontario) was $14,335. The capital account of this fund had not been diminished by the Government lately.

Gypsies Camp In Open.

Kingston, Feb. 5.—A pitiful case was brought to light by the police yesterday. At Cartwright's Point they found six people, one a babe in arms, living in a tent in zero weather. For two days, they had no tent and endeavored to keep warm at a bonfire. They slept on the ground. The party includes a man of 80, his wife, another married couple and their two children. The men were sent to jail for vagrancy and the women and children will be cared for. They are in ill-health from exposure. The party lived all summer as gypsies and are well known, having been driven out of several places. The men were arrested several times for theft from farmers.

Liable to Death Penalty.

Baltimore, Feb. 5.—So small that her head fell below the magistrate's desk in Central Police Court, eleven-year-old Katharine Doerch of Brooklyn stood shaking from head to foot from weakness and fright, and related the story of her abduction by Joseph Janer last Monday.

When she had finished the Maryland authorities, headed by the governor, were so enraged that they agreed to resist all attempts to extradite Janer to New York, and determined to indict and try him within a week for a crime that, under Maryland law, is punishable with death.

Wolf Shot In Kent County.

Glencoe, Feb. 5.—A wolf, supposed to have escaped from the park at Belle Isle a couple of years ago, and which since that time has been devastating the sheepfolds of Mosa Township, was shot yesterday afternoon on the farm of Donald McAlpine, by Malcolm McKellar. The wolf was a fine specimen, weighing 42 pounds. The animal has killed nearly $1,000 worth of sheep.

Lodge Secrets Are Stolen.

Chatham, Feb. 5.—The carefully guarded news leaked out yesterday that the Oddfellows' Temple, King street, was broken into Tuesday night by burglars, who got the combination of the safe and robbed it of many of the costly jewels and ornaments.

Noiseless Motor Boats.

Washington, Feb. 5.—No more will motor boats disturb landsmen with their exhausts, if a bill which was unanimously reported yesterday from the merchant marine and fisheries committee becomes a law. This bill would require mufflers on motor boats which do not have exhaust pipes under water.

An "Empress" Record.

Montreal, Feb. 5.—The Empress of Ireland entered Halifax harbor yesterday morning at 10.15, making the passage from Liverpool in five days, 18 hours, which is the record winter voyage, being one hour faster than the trip her sister ship, the Empress of Britain, made in 1907.

DESCRIES TROUBLE FROM THEEAST

MILITIA NEEDS ATTENTION

In Speech at University of Toronto Inspector-General of Forces Declares That Canada Must Look to Her Western Coast For Japan, China and Perhaps India Will Outrun Their Confines.

Toronto, Feb. 5.—A note of warning, for Canada to be prepared to resist an invasion on the Pacific Coast, was sounded by Gen. Lake, inspector-general of Canadian militia, in presenting the D.R.A. trophy to the University of Toronto Rifle Association yesterday.

Now that Japan and China had become awakened to their national greatness and that India was destined to become a nation in the next century, these densely populated countries would begin to look for a place in which to expand, and in all probability cast their eyes in the direction of Canada, he says.

The question of trade and commerce was at the bottom of every way. Britain's policy and Gemany's policy of war was usually for trade or food, and in fact the same principle had moved every nation in Europe to military strife.

When Japan came to realize that she had reached the limit of food supply and when China found that its hundreds of millions of people were existing with great difficulty, they would not be satisfied to mark time.

MAJOR-GENERAL LAKE.

Nor would India, a nation that had been educated by Britain. The recent agitations in India might check the progress for a time, but it would not be a century before Britain would have to face the desire to expand on the part of the orientals.

Western ideals and western civilization must be imposed on the Orient, and if England couldn't make them submit by mere argument, it might become necessary to use force—"and we must be prepared to fight," added the general.

Rifle shooting was a most excellent training and the faculty of the universities should have an interest in the great question of defence. The trial was approaching; it was possibly not near, but it was inevitable, and who could say that the neighbors to the south might not show uncertain traits? Rifle shooting should be encouraged, because it developed cool heads, steady nerves and good judgment.

Continuing, Gen. Lake said he would like to see Canada spend more money on its militia. It is quite impossible for the present recruit to become efficient with the training afforded him. If Canada was to have an army fit and capable of defence, the men personally must become interested, and the university and collegiate institute, cadet corps must provide the training.

Girl Kills Herself.

Kittanning, Pa., Feb. 5.—Laura Fitzgerald, 15 years old, grieving because a schoolboy friend had shown more attention to another girl than to her, blew herself to pieces in her father's home yesterday morning. She emptied into her breast both barrels of a shotgun. Attired in black to go with her mother to a neighbor's funeral, she asked Mrs. Fitzgerald to wait a few minutes and went to her room. There she took her father's gun, strapped it to a chair, tied a string to the triggers and, standing in front of the weapon, fired a large quantity of buckshot into her body.

To Be Dyspeptic Is To Be Miserable.

Dyspepsia is the prevailing malady of civilized life. It is largely due to gross errors in diet, over-eating, too free indulgence in stimulants and over-taxing the stomach with indigestible food, eating too rapidly without chewing the food sufficiently, indulging in hot biscuits, pastry, pickles, confectionery, etc.

Constipation, headache, heartburn, sour stomach, distress after eating, belching of wind, faintness, and fullness and distention of the stomach are a few of the many distressing symptoms of the poor, weary dyspeptic. Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the stomach, stimulates the secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, removes acidity, purifies the blood, and tones up the system to full health and vigor, and thereby cures dyspepsia and all its tributary diseases.

Mr. Amos Sawler, Gold River, N.S., writes:—"I was greatly troubled with dyspepsia, and after trying several doctors to no effect, I commenced taking Burdock Blood Bitters and I think it is the best medicine there is for that complaint."

Lakefield Team Champions Defeated Strathconas 8 To 6 In Desperately Fought Game

One of the Best Games in the City League Record Was Played Last Night--Over Confidence, Coupled With Lakefield's Great Checking, Beat the Straths.

BIG CROWD ON HAND

The City League honour roll.
1905—T. A. S.
1906—Charlotte Street.
1907—Strathconas.
1908—Strathconas.
1909—Lakefield.

Lakefield have been four years in the City League. They were runners-up in 1906 and have always been a thorn in the side of the opposing team.

The Straths have also been in the City League race four years, playing the first year under the name of the Suicides. They were never contenders that year, but next year won the championship and were never defeated since vuntil last night.

The greatest surprise that has been pulled off in local hockey circles for some years occurred at Brock street rink last night when Leo Quinn's Lakefield team walloped the Strathconas in the final game for the City League championship by eight goals to six, thereby defeating the High Commissioners for the first time in three years and robbing them of the great opportunity they had of making the Stratton Trophy their property. A win for Lakefield was not even thought of by their most enthusiastic supporters and it was confidently predicted that the Straths would win on a big margin. On the form shown by the two teams in other games this season it was thought that the red and white team would win under wraps but this was one of the cases in which the form sheet was not to be followed. Over 600 fans were present and they saw one of the hardest fought and most exciting struggles that has ever been waged over the city League silverware. From the first bell it was hard, fast hockey with both teams digging in for all that was in them and the spectators grew wildly excited as the battle progressed.

Over confidence was about the principal reason for the Straths defeat. Ben Dusty, the ex champion's cover point sized up the game after the contest by saying, "We had the game won before we went out on the ice, while they went out to win," and that sums up the situation to a nicety. The High Commissioners went on the ice bubbling over with confidence, so confident indeed that Charlie Ray, their crack rover was kept out of the game to be fresh against Lindsay to night.

They expected to win without trouble while Lakefield on the other hand knew what they had to expect and went into the game with the firm determination to play for every ounce that was in them. The result was that the over-confident Straths found themselves four goals behind within nine minutes from the first face of. Lakefield went right at them from the start and slammed in four counters, before the Strathconas got into the game at all.

They were beaten right there although they did not give up by any means, and seemed to get rattled. Their machine like combination went to pieces and they found themselves so closely checked that they could not get away together as usual, while the fact that they were behind had its effect upon them. It was something new for the red and white team to be in the rear in a City League game and they did not find the situation to their liking. On the other hand Lakefield stimulated by their successful start, dug in with renewed vigour and although the Straths had the better of the game from that point on as far as scoring went the Local Option seven managed to hold their lead until the finish although they were hard pressed in the losing periods of the game. The Straths working desperately pulled the lead down to 7-6 with four minutes to play and looked for a while as if they might pull the game out of the fire. Lakefield's goal keeper was ruled off for lying down in the nets but the losers could not score even with the guardian off, and then Leo Quinn got away for a rush and scored the game sure for Lakefield.

It was a grand game of hockey, undoubtedly the best game seen in the City League. Both teams were in superb condition and the pace they set from the start was terrific. There was not a let up in the play, the teams working like beavers and the puck travelled up and down the ice in a manner that kept the big crowd in a delirious condition. The checking was close and there was a considerable amount of tripping and slashing but considering the issue at stake the game was not rough. It was hockey all the way and hockey of the brand that makes the game what it is.

The team that played the better hockey last night won the game. The Strathconas admit that, and although they still claim that their team is superior to Lakefield do not wish to take any of the credit away from Lakefield for their hard earned victory. It is safe to say that in their four years of City League hockey, the winners never dished out such a brand of hockey as they showed last night. They checked like fiends and showed amazing speed covering up the Straths line so that they were unable to get away together as usual and with their combination broken up and their best individual man, Charlie Ray, out of the game the Commissioners found themselves at a loss to know what to do. Every Lakefield man stuck to his check like glue and there was no asking them. They checked back untiringly, coming back with the Straths line so closely that they had few opportunities of working clear. The Commissioners employed the same tactics and as result there was little or no combination it being impossible under the conditions. To their great checking more than any thing else Lakefield can give credit for their victory.

The team from the north played grand hockey and the victory was well earned on their part.

The Straths seemed disorganized after their bad start and never got going in the style that has won two City League championship for them.

They worked hard and unceasingly and never stopped for a second until the timers climbed over on to the ice but their efforts were rendered futile by the great checking and checking back of the winners.

For Lakefield Leo Quinn at cover point was the bright star and demonstrated that the critics were wrong when they said that he was not an effective defence man. His speed and stick handling were always acknowledged but it has been stated that he was not a success as a checker. The way in which he broke up the Strathconas' rushes last night could not have been improved upon however. He was an awkward man to pass and when the Commissioners did get around him he checked back and interfered with their shooting. In addition he got away with a number of great rushes. On the forward line every man played the game of his life Tony Sabatino being especially prominent. He watched Long so closely that the big Strathcona centre had few of the opportunities in front of the net that generally come his way. Simpson was always effective and the two wing men played energetic and untiring games. M Sabatino was good at point and Crawford in the nets turned off many hard shots.

All the Straths worked hard and there were no particular stars. Herb McMillan at left wing played the game of his career never letting up for a minute. He dug in with a vengeance and was always working Dusty played a desperate game working like a Torjan. He was at it all the way and although he was checked closely by the winners he managed to get away frequently Long did good work at centre and no fault could be found in the work of McWilliams and Dobson on the defence Wilson was somewhat off colour in the nets, several of the shots that beat him coming from away out and with no speed attached.

Bill Rose handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams and the crowd.

The teams lined up as follows:

	LAKEFIELD
	Crawford
	M Sabatino
	Quinn
	Simpson
QMorin	T Sabatino	J Quigley
McMillan	Long	Seymour
	Dusty
	McWilliams
	Dobson
	Wilson
	STRATHCONAS

The game started at an awful clip with both teams working at top speed. To the delight of the big crowd, seven-eighths of which was rooting for Lakefield, Lakefield pressed from the beginning. Their forward line was working heroically, and they smothered up the Straths, so that the Commissioners could not get way. In one minute Morin scored for Lakefield on a long shot from the side and the crowd went wild. Two minutes afterwards, Quinn scooped one in front outside the defence, and a worried look came over the faces of the Straths, while their supporters on the side merely smiled and asked Lakefield people to wait for a while.

Simpson was penalized for tripping, but playing six to seven Lakefield still had the better of the play, and the extra ted Strathcona tally did not materialize. In two minutes more Tony Sabatino made it three for Lakefield.

The Lakefield seven kept hammering along at a terrific pace, and in four minutes Morin scored again on a long shot from the side.

Dusty was sent away for a too heavy body check, and on his return secured the puck near his own goal and tearing down the ice, passed to McMillan who carried the puck right in for the Straths first score in three minutes.

Joe Quigley was benched for bodying, and Long followed him a moment after for slashing. There was no further scoring until both were back and then Long hammered one in from a scrimmage and the Straths' stock went up.

They were having the better of the play at this stage, and for some minutes kept the puck hovering round the Lakefield nets. McWilliams was sent away for an unintentional trip, but was back before any damage was done. Morin made it 5-2 for Lakefield in five minutes. J. Quigley was penalized for rough work, and Seymour followed him for hooking.

Just before half time Long and Tony Sabatino got into a mix-up in which they dropped their sticks and went at each other, and both were sent away until half-time.

The Straths changed their sweaters at half time. The sashed uniforms of the two teams were very hard to distinguish between, and it was thought that by putting on blue sweaters the Straths combination would improve. They started off as if they were going to overcome the lead. Dusty got away nicely and passed to Long who made the score 5-3 in three minutes.

Lakefield were not to be denied, however, and three minutes afterwards Quinn got loose on a pretty rush and passed to Tony Sabatino, who scored without trouble.

The Straths came back at them with another in two minutes, McMillan shovling one past Crawford after a combination rush.

The game was wildly exciting at this stage. Both teams were working like demons. Seymour was penalized for two minutes, and while he was off Morin shot from the side and put Lakefield again three in the lead.

Score: Lakefield 7, Strathconas 4.

Seymour and Long were chased to the bench soon after, but the remainder of the Straths held Lakefield out until they were back on the ice, and then the Commissioners started a last desperate rally. Long got back just in time to slam one in and the score was Lakefield 7, Strathconas 5.

A few moments afterwards Seymour shoved one past Crawford, and with the Straths one goal behind and one minute to play, the excitement was at fever heat. The Commissioners were having the best of the going, and it looked as if they were going to tie the score. They moved the defence in a last effort to score and once had the puck squarely between the Lakefield posts with nearly every man on both teams in the mix-up. Crawford, the Lakefield goal keeper saved a counter by lying down in the nets and was penalized for one minute. Even with him off the Straths however could not score. Dusty got a good opening and shot dead on the nets, but Sabatino raked it out with his stick, and Crawford was back before any more damage could be done. Long had a splendid opportunity, being right through, but his shot was wide, and then Quinn broke away and put the game on ice for Lakefield by tearing down the ice with the whole Strathcona team in full cry behind and scoring. The Straths had all moved up in an effort to score, and there was no one to stop the Lakefield man.

Time was called a moment after, and the Lakefield rooters climbed out onto the ice and carried their heroes off on their shoulders amid the wildest enthusiasm.

1. Lakefield — Morin, 1 min.
2. Lakefield — Quinn, 2 mins.
3. Lakefield — T. Sabatino, 2 mins.
4. Lakefield — Simpson, 4 mins.
5. Strathconas — McMillan, 3 mins.

STRATHCONAS ENTERTAINED THE CHAMPIONS AFTER THE GAME

Although last night's City League game between Lakefield and the Strathconas was bitterly fought out to the last minute of play there was no ill feeling between the players of the two teams and the Strathconas were the first to congratulate the victorious Lakefield seven after the game, they carried off the Lakefield team to Hooper's Palm Parlours and treated them to a banquet immediately after the contest, and the two teams fraternized in a most pleasing manner over the oysters and other good things served. A most enjoyable time was spent and the game and many other City League games that have been played between the two teams was fought over again good naturedly around the tables. After the needs of the inner man had been attended to, Manager W. J. Metheral and Secretary F. D. Craig, of the Strathconas, congratulated the Lakefield team upon their success and assured them that outside of the Strathconas, there was no other team that they would rather have seen carry off the honours. They had been coming for four years after the cup and it was pleasing to see them win it this season.

Harry Simpson replied for the winners, thanking the Strathconas for their hospitality, and assuring them that they had always found the High Commissioners a good bunch of sports.

The Straths then sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows," in honour of the Lakefield seven, and the gathering broke up with the best of good feeling existing between the two teams.

There were present R. Crawford, M. Sabatino, Leo Quinn, Harry Simpson, Tony Sabatino, J. Morin and J. Quigley, of the Lakefield team; Clarence Wilson, Len Dobson, Amos McWilliams, Herb Long, Herb Millan, Jack Seymour, Charlie Ray, P. A. Weatherstone, President Ellis, Treasurer Parnell, Manager Metheral, Secretary Craig, Charlie Curtis and Trainer Bill Milburn, of the Strathconas, and Mr. T. Minicolo, uncle of the Sabatino boys.

LOCAL BOWLING TEAMS PLAY IN TORONTO TO-MORROW NIGHT

On Saturday afternoon a party of 16 Peterborough bowlers will take the C.P.R. for Toronto, where two five-men teams will meet the Toronto bowlers. There will be one picked team consisting of Messrs. J. B. Hay, W McIlroy, Geo. Cairns, Graham Ferguson and Herb Martin will go up against a picked team from Toronto. The latter will consist of the best men in the city, and men who have reputations to uphold. They are Messrs. Bert Neill, of international fame; Geo. Yorke, T O Ryan, of the Toronto Bowling Club; H Gillies, who was on the team that defeated Buffalo's crack team recently, and who will also be on the team to meet the Brooklyn bunch, and P Phelan. With the exception of Frank Johnston who is sick, and Sutherland who has another bowling engagement, this bunch is the strongest that can be picked in Toronto. The locals fully expect to lose but they are going to bowl their prettiest nevertheless.

The other team will be from the newspaper offices, and will compose H Lacheur, C Barber, D B McRae, B Lillie, and in case they are short a man there will be Bert Huston and Hemstead, who are now living in Toronto, to be picked from. They will play the Mail & Empire printers' league team, and the locals should hold their own.

The boys fully expect to have a big time in Toronto, and hope to make a good impression upon the Queen City bowlers.

PACIFICS TAKE THREE FROM THE EXAM. "A'S" AND ARE IN THE LEAD

The Pacifics last night settled the leadership of the Ten Pin League by taking three straight games from Examiner A, and incidentally the winners smashed the single game record and came within five pins of the three game mark. Both records were formerly held by the Bankers. Both teams played for all that was in them and the games were as interesting as any since the league opened.

The team work of the winners was excellent, Connors saving the first game when his team mates were down, while Lillie and McIlroy were there with big scores in the next two games when Connors fell away.

Cairns had an off night, and Glover carried off the high score for the losers, Lacheur being well up despite the fact that he was greatly handicapped by an injury sustained to his hand some days ago.

Waram will be unable to accompany the team to Toronto to-morrow, and the men who will bowl against the Queen City teams will include Barber, MacRae, Lillie, Martin, Ford, McIlroy, Lacheur, Cairns, Ferguson and Hay.

The big team in Toronto which the locals will play will comprise Bert Neil, Ryan, Yorke, Phelan and Herb Gillis.

The scores last night follow:—

PACIFICS—
Lillie	148	196	181	525
Conners	180	159	150	489
McIlroy	148	236	185	569

WM. JAMES GORDON

A well known and highly respected resident of Peterborough passed away on Thursday evening in the person of Mr. William James Gordon, 253 Stewart street, who for the last 36 years has been a citizen of Peterborough, where his many good qualities had made him liked by all with whom he had come into contact. The late Mr. Gordon was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, 78 years ago and came to Canada when forty-three years of age, taking up his residence in this city, where he has lived ever since. For twelve or thirteen years he was night watchman of the city and in that position he was naturally associated with the business men of the city who will regret to hear of his death. Afterwards he was an employee of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company for four and a half years as watchman.

The deceased had been in ill health for some time but was not taken seriously until about five weeks ago. Death was caused by Bright's disease.

The late Mr. Gordon is survived by his wife and one son, Mr. James Gordon of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

The funeral will take place to-morrow, Saturday, morning at 9 o'clock from the family residence 253 Stewart street to St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

The annual meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian church was held on Monday night last. Last year's report was read and proved in every way very satisfactory to all after which the officials for 1909 were appointed as follows—

Treas.—Aleck Rose

Asst. Treas.—P J Wright

Supt. S. S.—Jas Thompson.

After all business matters had been satisfactorily arranged, the presentation of a handsome gold locket and chain were made to Mr. Aleck Rose, who has acted as treasurer for the past fourteen years, accompanied by the following address—

Havelock, Jan. 25th 1909.

Dear Mr. Rose—For many years you have been our esteemed and energetic treasurer and by your systematic book-keeping and rendering of quarterly statements as well as by personal collections you have helped very materially to keep our finances on a sound basis. No one who has not had the experience of keeping a set of church books realizes the responsibility and work of looking after the financial part of the church work, a work that has fallen largely to you; and which you have carried through to the satisfaction of the congregation. No doubt many times you have thought that the congregation did not appreciate your efforts but we assure you that we have not only appreciated them but many times have spoken of your faithfulness and to-night we wish to express to you in a tangible way our appreciation of you, and wish you to accept this chain and locket as a slight token of our esteem, and the heartfelt wish of the members of this congregation is that the future may have no disappointments for you and that you may long live to enjoy the prosperity which is yours.

Signed on behalf of the congregation.

LASSWADE CHEESE FACTORY'S OFFICERS

Examiner Special.

Lasswade, Feb. 2 — We have been having a very open winter, with very little snow, and what we have had has nearly all left owing to the recent rains of Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

It brings a melancholy look to the faces of the "lumber jacks," as they have had to lay off work as the roads are broken up until it freezes again.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Snelgrove have taken their departure to reside at Oakcliffe Lodge; Mr. Leslie Carrol will move to the farm in the spring.

The annual cheese meeting of the Lasswade factory was held on Jan. 9th, and officers for the ensuing year were appointed as follows: F. J. Woodbeck, cheesemaker; L. P. Bullied, President, Chas. Grey, and E. Carlow; while Mr. Roland Kidd, Miss Mary Kidd Miss Barber Kidd and Miss Ethel Conway presided at the piano. Mr. Clarence Watts, Mr. Wallace Anderson, and Mr. Wm. and Estelle Bell ably acted as floor managers.

After supper, which took place about 12-o'clock, Mr. John Burke, who was an old resident of Dummer, but is now a citizen of Lindsay and a brakeman on the G.T.R., was called upon for a short address as to his experience on the railroad. He related some very interesting stories as to narrow escapes he had witnessed, and was asked explain the air brake. Mr. Burke explained this thoroughly and stated that he thought the present system was hard to beat as it was quick and easy to operate.

Step dancing was done by Mr. William Davis and Mr. Charles Bolton, when the two together danced the old favourite "Turkey in the Straw."

About 5 o'clock in the morning, after thanking Mr. and Mrs. Tucker for the splendid night's sport, all started for home well satisfied with the night's enjoyment.

Barristers Nearly Fight.

Ottawa, Feb. 5.—Two well-known barristers almost reached fisticuffs yesterday. Senator N. A. Belcourt, former Speaker of the Commons, acting for one Cunningham in a suit for damages against the Ottawa Electric Railway, during the heat of discussion, snatched a book from J. C. Brooke, counsel for the defence, while he was reading extracts, and left him with only a leaf in his hands. Mr. Brooke prepared himself for any emergency but the judge, expressing his disapproval of the Senator's conduct, adjourned the case.

Negro Shot by Police.

Memphis, Feb. 5.—Following a daring hold-up on a busy thorofare yesterday, Henry Morgan, a negro, armed with a revolver and with pockets filled with ammunition, ran amuck, firing repeatedly into street cars and houses and at pedestrians, and terrorized a section of North Memphis before he was shot to death by police and citizens.

UNIQUE METHOD EMPLOYED BY GUELPH MERCHANTS TO COLLECT BAD DEBTS AND TO DISCOURAGE SO-CALLED "DEAD BEATS"

Have United and Engaged a Collector—A Customer Must Pay His Debts Before Other Stores Will Sell Him Goods—A Successful System.

MANY OLD DEBTS SETTLED

"How Guelph Merchants Deal With Slow Pay Customers," is the subject of an interesting artice in the January number of the "Dry Goods Review." It concerns both customer and merchant and is a solution of a problem that has been a long-standing trouble to the merchant.

The Collector System

It was last June that the official collector system was established in Guelph. The Retail Merchants' Association there, after a lot of work and discusion, brought out their new idea. Their object was originally to appoint a collector to act as an official of their association, and to be recognized as such. They foresaw the advantage there would be in it, even in the saving of collection fees alone, and believed, that rather than let their neighbours see a recognized collector calling periodically at their homes, many of their delinquent customers would pay up. They finally decided that it would be better to have their officer paid a salary than a commission and selected for the position, in the person of an ex-storekeeper, D. A. Seroggie. They made a bargain with him to take over the work of drumming up their bad accounts for $700 a year. This amount, with the rent of the collector's office in the heart of the city, telephone fees, stationery, and other expenses amounting in all to about $900, they decided to raise by taxing the merchants who would reap the benefits of the scheme.

Each Merchant's Share

A Collection Committee was appointed, consisting of the president of the association, F. Waters; the secretary, H. O. Occomore; G. B. Ryan, a dry goods man, and J. A. McCrea, a grocer. They got together and drew up a list of the eighty odd merchants who belonged to the association, assessing each man what the believed was a fair amount, or a fair share of the collector's expenses. Their assessments, ranged from $5 to $15 per year, according to the size of the firm that belonged, and the amount of business done by them. When this list was drawn up it was presented at a meeting of the association, and all the merchants who were satisfied with their assessment on the list, signed their names opposite their respective amounts. Some of the merchants did not at first think a great deal of the idea, and believed there was little to be gained by it. Enough fell in line, however, to make the thing go, and in a very short time the rest saw the advantage of it and began to fall in line. The scheme is now working with such success that the life of the delinquent in the Royal City is anything but a bed of roses.

The Black List Plan

The official collector of the association was not very long getting acquainted with the slow pay people of the city. While by no means the most welcome visitor at their homes, he was undoubtedly one of the most persistent callers they had. Rather than have him making official calls at their homes every week or so, many people who could not be persuaded by lawyer's letters or threats of suits to settle, settled with the "pesky collector," so as to be rid for ever of him. All kinds and conditions of accounts began to come in as if the merchants all possessed magic magnets and could simply pull the money out. When asked if the money had come in to such an extent as to pay the cost of the collector, President Waters very emphatically stated that in many cases the merchants in the past few months which, after all, was only a trial, had received over ten times the amount they paid annually in fees—money that they had thought it was absolutely impossible to collect. But this is by no means the strong point of the plan.

The collector at the end of the first month, in addition to a report of the collections he had made, submitted a list to each merchant of all the "dead beats" in the city. This list was a revelation. It showed not only how much money "Mr. Dead Beat" owed, but in how many different stores he had big old accounts, so old in many cases that they were getting very grey. Then, the merchants saw really where they were at. They realised then why some customers had all at once started to deal very largely in their stores in spite of the fact that they lived in opposite parts of the city. They saw through some wonderfully touching hard-luck stories that they had heard, in a manner that set them thinking, and thinking hard. They awoke and were mighty glad of it. Nor were they alone surprised. Our friend, the enemy, got a few rather rude shocks during the next few weeks also.

When one of these smiling, affable women would come into the store on which she happened to be sponging at that particular time, and with a superfluity of excuses, would ask to have the matter of five or six dollars worth of goods added to her "little bill," the merchant would quickly look her up on the list, and, finding that she had a dozen or so more "little bills" of $20 or $30 with other merchants around town, politely but sternly refuse here any more credit. The woman, of course, would assume an attitude of indignation.

"Why, the idea! One would think, sir, that I was a dishonest person who tried to get out of paying accounts. I assure you, Mr. ——, you will not be troubled selling me anything again." And she would go in her assumed "hoity-toity" mood and, perhaps, try some other store with much the same result.

It Worked Fine

Then she would wonder how they "got wise," until in a day or so she would answer a ring at her door to meet, not a boy from the bank with a draft, or a collector from one of the stores where she owed, but the official collector of the association, not with one, but with all her local accounts. Then in a few brief, well chosen words, it would all be explained to her why she could no longer work the "pay-you-next-week-bluff," or tell with such good effect her touching tale of the temporary financial stringency. The collector would explain to her the black list system and the beauty of it in dealing with forgetful people. After several calls of this sort on the part of the tactful and persistent official the simple lesson of honesty, so long neglected, is generally learned to very good advantage, backed up as it is with the stern object lesson of the "black list." She finds that the only way to get off that list is to pay her way off it, and she generally begins to pay. It is surprising how honest she gets all at once. Sometimes, when the amounts involved have been large, the families have decided to leave town, but the watchful collector keeps his eye on the moving van, and already in Guelph several parties who contemplated leaving the city have been met at the station and finally persuaded to stay a while and make a few sundry settlements. The collections alone make the scheme a paying one, but the black list feature of it is what does the merchant the most good. It warns him not to let the bad ones get any further in on the wrong side of his ledger. If there was not a single collection made the black list scheme alone would pay the merchants for the expense involved.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

The great difficulty that ordinarily confronts one in attempting to give a short account of a man like Sir Francis Bacon, is the likelihood of not making it interesting enough to be palatable reading to the great majority of readers. The life of the philosopher, or the statesman, does not usually appeal to the public, for the great mass of the people seem to be much more interested in accounts of the triumph of matter rather than in those of mind. But the life of Bacon is rendered immune from such a danger; not only by reason of the exceeding genius of the man, but also by the pathetic story of his downfall.

Bacon the Statesman and Philosopher

Bacon was not a many-sided man like Sir Walter Raleigh, or like that other remarkable example of versatility, the admirable Crichton. He was a lawyer, a statesman, a philosopher and in these branches of human endeavour he has achieved a fame as immortal as that which enshrines the memory of that wonderful "nest of singing birds" who have rendered the reign of Elizabeth illustrious in the world's history.

Great Son of a Great Father

Sir Francis Bacon was born in the Strand, in London, on January 22nd, 1561. His father was Sir Nicholas Bacon, Lord Keeper of the Great Seal of England. His mother, who was a daughter of Sir Anthony Cooke, a former tutor of Edward VI., was Sir Nicholas' second wife.

At a very early age Francis Bacon was remarkable for his gravity of demeanour and quickness of intellect, so much so, indeed, that the Queen in her frequent visits to his father's house, delighted in calling him her "Little Lord Keeper." At the early age of thirteen he went to Cambridge, where he remained three years. At the end of this time he was attached to the suite of Sir Amyas Paulet, and attended him on an embassy to Paris, but his father having died suddenly in 1579, Bacon was obliged to return to England, and settle down to the study of law. This was rendered necessary by the fact that Sir Nicholas, who had set aside a certain sum of money for Francis, his youngest son, had omitted to make a will and thus Bacon received only one-fifth of what it had been intended should have been his portion. In 1582 he was called to the Bar, and in 1585 he obtained a seat in Parliament.

Disappointments in Life

Throughout the early part of his career this great man was destined to meet with the keenest disappointments in regard to advancement in public life. His mother's sister was the wife of the great Lord Burghley, but his connection with that statesman was rather a hindrance than a help, for his uncle seems to have looked coldly on Bacon and to have rated him soundly for his lofty aspirations when he appealed to him for advancement. Had it not been for the friendship of Essex, to whom Bacon had acted as legal adviser on several occasions, his lot would have been a hard one indeed. He early acquired the bad habit of living far beyond his means, and the consequence of this was that he was constantly in the hands of the Jews. Bacon had applied to his uncle for the Solicitor-Generalship, and on his suit proving unsuccessful, Essex generously presented him with a property near Twickenham, worth at that time about £2,000. But even the generosity of Essex, combined with his own growing law practice was not enough to keep Bacon in easy circumstances.

Great talents like Bacon's were not to be kept under for ever. From the moment of his first speech in Parliament, at the age of twenty-four, it was felt that he was a man of uncommon powers. Despite the coldness of his kinfolk, the Cecils, Bacon climbed the ladder that led to recognition, and in course of time became a Queen's Counsel. In the pursuit of his duties as a public officer he was called upon to assist in the prosecution of Essex. Therein is contained one of the greatest blots on his character. Apologists have asserted that Bacon did all he could to plead the cause of Essex with the Queen. Probably he did. But he might have shown a greater magnanimity by refusing to appear at all at the prosecution of one who had been his friend and benefactor. He did not do this but used all his powers to procure a conviction and went even further, for after the execution of the Earl, he published a treatise on the subject, entitled a "Declaration of the Treason of Robert, Earl of Essex."

Offer of Marriage to Lady Hatton

In order to ease the stringency of his finances, which did not improve as time passed on, he made suit to a rich widow, Lady Hatton, but had the mortification of seeing her carried off as a prize by his rival in the courts, Sir Edward Coke. The lady's refusal was the greatest blessing that she could have conferred upon Bacon, for she proved a perfect terror in Coke's household, and rendered his life as miserable as it was possible to make it. Any who would like to read the story of Sir Edward Coke's matrimonial troubles will find a fairly luminous account of them in Isaac Disraeli's Curiosities of Literature.

This was not the deed of a magnanimous or a grateful nature, but was quite in keeping with the grasping manner he assumed in later years towards King James and Villiers and objectness of his behavior at the time of his impeachment for corruption.

In 1606 Bacon, cured of his first love, had married Alice Barnham, daughter of a Cheapside merchant, and we find him, till 1613 engaged in the pursuit of his growing and lucrative law practice. In the latter year he was appointed Attorney-General; and four years later, in 1617, he received the Great Seal. In 1618 he reached the summit of his ambition in being made Lord High Chancellor with the title of Lord Verulam. Very shortly after this latter honour had been attained, he received a further mark of royal favour by being created Viscount St. Albans.

But Bacon, great as he was as a lawyer and a statesman, was greater still as a philosopher. In 1620 he published his great work, the Novum Organum, which he copied and corrected no less than twelve times before having it published. The prose style is magnificent and the system of inductive reasoning which he therein endeavoured to enunciate won him a world-wide fame. Critics, however, have not been wanting to disparage the work—Green confesses to being disappointed in it — Dugald Stewart, the Scottish mathematician and philosopher, stated that it is doubtful if Bacon produced one hint that is not to be found in the labours of his predecessors. Harvey, the discoverer of the circulation of the blood, said caustically that "the lord chancellor wrote on science — like a lord chancellor." Bacon, however, notwithstanding the shortcomings that critics may find in his works, can claim the gratitude of mankind for being the first to call attention to the vast importance of physical research.

Bacon's Downfall

The year following the publication of the Novum Organum witnessed Bacon's downfall. It is a sad story. Accused on twenty-two distinct charges of bribery and corruption, Bacon humbly confessed his guilt. He was fined £40,000 and sentenced to the Tower. James, however, was generous enough to remit the fine and set him free in two days. Broken in health, he retired to his estate in Gorhambury and in 1626 he died at the seat of the Earl of Arundel from the effects of a chill brought on by stuffing a hen with snow in order to discover the value of cold as a preservative.

To make a correct estimate of Bacon's character is not a hard one. It is sufficient to state that as a philosopher he stands easily in the front rank. With regard to his character, no better summing up in parvo can be given than that of Pope where in the famous couplet in his Essay on Man, he says—

The wisest, brightest, meanest of mankind."

Miss M. R. Morin, 225 Ontario St., Montreal, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was in very poor health and doctored for months, receiving very little benefit. I had lost all ambition, was nervous, and subject to dizzy spells and painful periods each month.

"A friend suggested Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as the proper medicine for me. I procured a bottle of this remedy and began taking, and before it was finished, I felt so much better that I continued its use and gave it a thorough test, with the result I am to-day well and a much healthier girl than I was three years ago. I have no more painful periods, dizziness or nervous troubles."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Continued from last Saturday

At first sight the king's commands were totally at variance with the interests of the Ellenburg coterie and with the progress of their great plan. They did not want the house of Stefanovitch strengthened and glorified in the person of its present heir apparent. But the matter was more complicated than a first glance showed. There were the guns to be considered as well and the gunners training at Volseni. These would be sources of strength and prestige to the prince, not less valuable, more tangible, than even a great match. And now the prince was on the spot. Send him on his travels! The time was short. When the short time ended he might be far away. Finally he might go and yet take nothing by his journey. The exalted princess would be hard to win. The king's family pride might defeat itself by making him pitch his hopes and his claims too high.

On the whole, the matter was difficult. The three chief conspirators showed their conviction of this in their characteristic ways. Countess Ellenburg became more pious than ever; General Stenovics more silent, at least more prone to restrict his conversation to grunts; Colonel Stafnitz more gay and interested in life. He, too, was fishing and in his favorite waters, and he had hopes of a big rise.

There was one contingency impossible to overlook. In spite of his father's orders the prince might refuse to go. A knowledge of the state of the king's health would afford him a very strong excuse, a suspicion of the plans of the coterie an overpowering motive. The king himself had foreseen the former danger and feared its effect on his dominant hopes. By his express command the prince was kept in ignorance. He had been amply reassured by Dr. Natcheff. On the latter point the coterie had, they flattered themselves, nothing to fear. On what ground, then, could the prince justify a refusal? His gunners? That would be unwarrantable. The king would not accept the plea. Did Rastatz's report suggest any other ground for refusal? If it did it was one which to the king's mind would seem more unwarrantable still.

There is no big game without its risk; but, after full consideration, Stenovics and Stafnitz decided that the king's wishes were in their interest and should be communicated to the prince without delay. They had more chances for them than against them. If their game had its dangers—well, the time might be very short.

In these days Countess Ellenburg made a practice of shutting herself up in her private rooms for as much as two additional hours every day. She told the king that she sought a quiet time for meditation and prayer. King Alexis shrugged his shoulders. Meditation wouldn't help matters, and, in face of Dr. Natcheff's diagnosis of the condition of his heart, he must confess to a serious doubt even about prayer. He had outlived his love for the countess, but to the end he found in her a source of whimsical amusement, divining if not her ambitions at least her regrets, understanding how these regrets, when they became very acute, had to be met by an access of piety. Naturally they would be acute now in view of Natcheff's diagnosis. He thanked her for her concern and bade her by all means go and pray.

What was the stuff of her prayers—the stuff behind the words? No doubt she prayed for her husband's life. No doubt she prayed for her son's well being. Very likely she even prayed that she might not be led into temptation or to do anthing wrong by her love for her son, for it was her theory that the prince himself would ruin his own chances and throw the crown away. It is not easy always to be sure of conscious insincerity.

Yet the devil's advocate would have had small difficulty in placing a fresh price on her prayers, in exhibiting what lay below the words, in suggesting how it was that she came forth from her secret devotions not happy and tranquilized, but with weary eyes and her narrow lips close set in stern self control. Her prayer that she might do nothing wrong was a prayer that the prince might do nothing right. If that prayer were granted sin on her part would become superfluous. She prayed not to be led into temptation—that sounded quite orthodox. Was she to presume to suggest to Heaven the means by which temptation should be avoided?

Stenovics skillfully humored this shade of hypocrisy. When he spoke to her there were in his mouth no such words as plans or schemes or hopes or ambitions—no, nor claims nor rights. It was always "the possibilities we are compelled to contemplate," "the steps we may be forced into taking," "the necessities of mere self defense," "the interests of the kingdom," "the supreme evil of civil strife," which last most respectable phrase meant that it was much better to jockey the prince out of his throne than to fight him for it. Colonel Stafnitz bit his lip and gnawed his mustache during these interviews. The countess saw—and hated him. She turned back to Stenovics' churchgoing phrases and impassive face. Throughout the whole affair the general probably never once mentioned to her in plain language the one and only object of all their hopes and efforts. In the result business took rather longer to transact, the churchgoing phrases ran to may syllables, but concessions must be made to piety. Nor was the countess so singular. We should often forego what we like best if we were obliged to define it accurately and aloud.

After one of these conferences the countess always prayed. It may be presumed that she prayed against the misfortune of a cast iron terminology. Probably she also urged her views, for prayer is in many books and mouths more of an argument than a petition, that all marriages were on one and the same footing and that Heaven knew naught of a particular variety named in some countries morganatic. Of the keeping of contracts made contrary to the presumed views of Heaven we are all aware that churches, and sometimes states, too, are apt to know or count nothing.

Such were the woman and her mind. Some pity may go out to her. In the end, behind all her prayers and inspiring them, nay, driving her to her knees in fear, was the conviction that she risked her soul. When she felt that, she pleaded that it was for her son's sake. Yet there lay years between her son and man's estate. The power was for some one during those years.

"If I had the countess' views and temperament I should grow potatoes and if possible grow them worse than my neighbors," said Colonel Stafnitz. "If I lived dully I should at least die in peace!"

The king held a very confidential conference. It was to sign his will. The countess was there. The little boy, who moved in happy unconsciousness of all the schemes which centered around him, was sent into the next room to play with Lepage. Stenovics and Stafnitz were present as witnesses and Markart as secretary. The king touched lightly on his state of health and went on to express his conviction of the Prince of Slavna's distinguished consideration for Countess Ellenburg and fraternal affection for little Alexis. "I go the happier for being sure of this, gentlemen," he said to his two counselors, "but in any case the countess and my son are well secured. There will be enough for you, Charlotte, to live in suitable style here or abroad, as you please. My son I wish to stay here and enter my army. I've settled on him the estate of Dobrava, and he will have means equal to his station. It's well to have this arranged. From day to day I am in the hands of God."

The general and Stafnitz witnessed the king's will.

As with another king, nothing in life became him like the leaving of it. There was little more work to do. He had but to wait, with courage and with dignity. The demand now was on what he had in abundance, not on a faculty which he had always lacked. He signed the document and bade the general and Stafnitz witness it. In silence they obeyed him, meaning to make waste paper of the thing to which they set their names.

That business done, and the king alone seemed happy in the doing of it—even Stafnitz had frowned—the king turned suddenly to Stenovics.

"I should like to see Baroness Dobrava. Pray let her be sent for this afternoon."

The shock was sudden, but Stenovics' answer came steady if slow.

"Your majesty desires her presence?"

"I want to thank her once again, Stenovics. She's done much for us."

"The baroness is not in Slavna, sir, but I can send for her."

"Not in Slavna? Where is she, then?" He asked what the whole kingdom knew. Save himself nobody was ignorant of Sophy's whereabouts.

"She is on a visit to his royal highness at Praslok, sir." Stenovics' voice was a triumph of neutrality.

"On a visit to the prince?" Surprise sounded in his voice.

"Mme. Zerkovitch is there, too, sir," Stenovics added. "The ladies have been there during the whole of the Prince of Slavna's stay."

The king shot a glance at Countess Ellenburg. She was looking prim and grim. He looked also at Stafnitz, who bit his mustache without quite hiding an intentional, but apparently irrepressible, smile. The king did not look too grave, and most of his gravity was for Countess Ellenburg.

"Is that—hum—at this moment quite desirable?" he asked.

His question met with silence. The air of all three intimated that the matter was purely one for his majesty. The king sat a moment with a frown on his brow.

Across this silence came a loud voice from the next room—Lepage's voice: "Take care! Take care! You'll upset the flowers, prince!"

The king started. He looked around at his companions. Then he struck a hand bell on the table before him. Lepage appeared.

"Lepage, whom did you address as 'prince' just now?"

"Count Alexis, sir."

"Why?"

"The count insisted."

"Don't do it again! It's absurd! Go away!"

"Lepage, whom did you address as 'prince' just now?"

A dull red patched Countess Ellenburg's cheeks. Lids brooded low over the eyes of Stafnitz and of Stenovics. It was a very awkward little scene. The king's irritation had got the better of him for the moment. What would the kindred of the exalted princess have said? The king turned to Countess Ellenburg and forced a smile.

"The question of reproof is one for you, countess," he said frigidly. "And now about the baroness— No, I mean I wanted to ask if my wishes have been communicated to the Prince of Slavna."

"The prince has received them, sir. He read them in the presence of my messenger and requested leave to send his answer in writing, unless he might wait on your majesty."

"There are reasons why I had better not see him just now. Ask him to write, but very soon. The matter isn't one for delay." The king rose from his seat.

"Your majesty still wishes me to send for Baroness Dobrava?"

His brief word broke up the conference. It had already lasted longer than suave and reassuring Dr. Natcheff would have advised. The men went away with a smile, all of them, the king, Stenovics, Stafnitz, round faced Markart, each smiling according to the quality of each, their smiles answering to Max von Hollbrandt's shrug of the shoulders. There are things which bring men to what painful youth was taught to call the least common denominator. A horse race does it, a prize fight, a cricket match, a battle, too, in some sort. Equally efficacious very often, though it is to be recorded with reluctance, is a strong flirtation with no proper issue obvious.

The matter was grave, yet all the men laughed. The matter was grave, and Countess Ellenburg did not laugh. Was that what Stafnitz called her views and her temperament? In part, no doubt. Besides, men will laugh at the side issues of the gravest affairs. It is not generally the case with woman. Added again to this, perhaps Countess Ellenburg knew more or divined more. Among glaring diversity there was perhaps something, an atom, of similarity between her and Sophy—not the something which refuses, but the something which couples high conditions with assent. The thousandth chance is to most men negligible. To most women it is no worse than the tenth. Their sense of mathematical odds is sorely and sometimes magnificently imperfect.

It had flashed across Countess Ellenburg's mind that maybe Sophy, too, played for a big stake, or, rather, lived for it and so would die. The men had not thought of that. To them the violent flirtation had its obvious end and its passing inconvenience. It might delay the prince's departure for awhile. It might make his marriage more entirely an affair of duty and of state. With this idea they smiled and shrugged. The whole business came under the head which in their thoughts and their confidential conversations they would style nonsense.

It was not so with the countess. Disconcerted by that episode of Lepage and young Alexis, more moved by the sudden appearance of Baroness Dobrava as a factor in the game, she returned to prayer.

What now was the form and matter of her prayer? The form must go unformulated and the words unconjectured. Yet she prayed so long that she must have succeeded in putting a good face on her petitions.

It is probable that she prayed for others as she prayed for herself. She prayed that the Prince of Slavna and the Baroness Dobrava might escape temptation.

Or that if they fell— Again it was not for her to dictate to Heaven. Heaven had its ways of dealing with such sinners.

Yet through all her prayers must have echoed the words, "It's absurd!" She prayed again most likely against being suspected of wishing that the man who uttered them, her husband, might soon be dead.

The king dead and the prince a slave to love—to the idle hours of an unprofitable love! It was a fine vision and needed a vast deal of covering with the veil of prayer.

Chapter Nineteen

THE Prince of Slavna's answer to the intimation of his father's wishes was dutiful, courteous and discreetly diplomatic. The prince was much occupied with his drills and other occupations. He availed himself of Max von Hollbrandt's practiced pen. The guest was glad to do his royal host this favor.

They talked over the sense of the reply. Max then drafted it. The prince did no more than amend certain expressions which the young diplomatist had used. Max wrote that the prince cordially sympathized with the king's wishes; the prince amended to the effect that he thoroughly understood them. Max wrote that the prince was prepared cordially and energetically to co-operate in their realization; the prince preferred to be prepared to consider them in a benevolent spirit. Max suggested that two or three months' postponement of the suggested journey would not in itself be fatal; the prince insisted that such a delay was essential in order that negotiations might be set on foot to insure his being welcomed with due empressement. Max added that the later date would have an incidental advantage since it would obviate the necessity of the prince's interrupting the important labors on which he was engaged; the prince said instead that, in his judgment, it was essential in the interests of the kingdom that the task of training the artillery should not be interfered with by any other object, however well worthy of consideration that object might be.

In the result the draft as amended, though not less courteous or dutiful than Max's original, was noticeably more stiff. Translate them both into the terse and abrupt speech of everyday life and one said, "I'd rather not, please," while the other came at least very near to a blank "I won't!" Max's was acquiescence coupled with a prayer for postponement. The prince's was postponement, with an accompanying assurance of respectful consideration.

Max was not hurt, but he felt a professional disapproval. The prince had said more and shown more of his mind than was needful. It was throwing more cards on the table than the rules of the game demanded.

"Mine would have done just as well," he complained to Marie Zerkovitch. "If mine had been refected his could have followed. As it is, he's wasted one or other of them. Very foolish since just now time's his main object!" He did not mean saving time, but protracting it.

"Don't you think mine would have been much wiser to begin with?"

"I don't see much difference. There's little enough truth in either of them!" she snapped.

Max looked at her with an amused and tolerant smile. He knew quite well what she meant. He shook his head at her with a humorous twinkle. "Oh, come, come, don't be exacting, madame! There's a very fair allowance of truth. Quite half the truth, I should think. He is really very anxious about the gunners!"

"And about what else?"

Max spread out his hands, with a shrug, but passed the question by. "So much truth, in fact, that it would have served amply for at least two letters," he remarked, returning to his own special point of complaint.

THE DOCTORS SAID "THERE MUST BE AN OPERATION"

"Fruit-a-tives" Saved Mrs. McCready Untold Suffering and Almost Certain Death.

"Publish this for humanity's sake," writes Mr. C. McCready, of Putnam, Ont., in his letter to the owners of "Fruit-a-tives." Physicians said that only an operation could save his wife's life. But again "Fruit-a-tives" proved its wonderful powers. The doctors were wrong—Mrs. McCready is to-day well and strong—and "Fruit-a-tives" have made friends of every one for miles around Putnam.

"Dear Sirs,—My wife suffered for over a year from Indigestion and Bowel trouble. Several doctors treated her for this trouble and advised her that only an operation would save her life, as they stated it was a tumor that was causing the trouble. The operation was to cost $200.00 and, while she was debating in her own mind about being operated on, she was advised to try "Fruit-a-tives," which I procured for her from our local merchant. From the first box she improved, and after having taken four boxes she is completely cured and is now as well as ever.

I decided then that "Fruit-a-tives" was the most wonderful remedy in the world and it certainly saved my wife's life. She still takes one tablet every night, we also give them to the children with excellent results, and they have to thank "Fruit-a-tives" for the fact that their mother is now with them, they fully expected she would be in her grave. Publish this for humanity's sake."

PAINTERS' BLUNDERS

Reckless Pranks Played With Heavenly Bodies.

IMPOSSIBILITIES IN NATURE.

A Rainbow Depicted Wrong Side Out and Moons In Positions and Forms That Could Not Occur — Amusing Anachronisms by Old Time Artists.

That artists, like authors, should commit many errors of fact is hardly a cause for wonder. Rather, it is astonishing that they are not found oftener at fault in view of the great variety of knowledge required in their work. Despite this, however, there is no manner of excuse for certain absurdities.

For example, there is the case of an English painter who depicted an elaborate rainbow. Unfortunately he painted it wrong side out. But we forget amazement at such stupidity in admiration for the artist's magnificent audacity when we learn that he charged £20 additional for repainting the rainbow colored in accordance with nature's arrangement.

Painters are very prone to distress the astronomers by their reckless pranks with the heavenly bodies, particularly with the moon. One artist presented a scene in which was a crescent moon low in the eastern sky directly opposite a setting sun. Moreover, this genius disdained the criticisms of the learned. He insisted that this arrangement was necessary for the composition, inasmuch as the rest of the picture would be destroyed by a full moon—the only one possible in such a situation.

Other artists have trifled with the moon by turning its convexity away from the sun, which is, of course, impossible in nature. In one picture the moon was placed near the constellation of the Great Bear, though as a matter of fact the satellite never ventures into this part of the heavens. There are, too, oft recurring errors made in the bulk of the orb. An American astronomer amused himself by measuring the moons in a number of paintings. He established the fact that by reckoning from the satellite's size the average height of the hills in these landscapes was forty-three miles. One of the mountains, indeed, had the stupendous altitude of a hundred miles.

Artists of old time were often outrageously wrong, sometimes necessarily by reason of the limitations imposed by the ignorance of the period. A Dutch artist painted the garden of Eden with well clipped borders and yew trees trimmed into fantastic shapes. He wrought in all innocence, for of such sort were the only gardens of his experience. But the excuse does not apply to a Dutch painting of 1704. This showed Abraham about to slaughter Isaac by means of a blunderbuss—the product of an age 3,000 years after the time of the patriarchs!

Yet this mistake occurs again and again. There have been elaborate paintings of the children of Israel crossing the Red sea with muskets on their shoulders. A beautiful ivory tankard, an Augsburg carving of the early seventeenth century, was sold for a high price in London not long ago. The design, which is exquisite in workmanship, shows the good Samaritan, with his attendants, in the Jericho road. One of the servants carries a gun!

Many a child as well as some older persons has puzzled over that "beam" in the eye of which the New Testament speaks. It is not always understood that this means a beam of light. But it was left to Solomon Bernard, in his woodcuts illustrating the Bible, published at Lyons in 1553, to picture this beam as one of wood, rectangular in section and several feet in length!

The matter of costumes offers vast opportunity for flaws, which the painters have not failed to seize. In the national gallery at Edinburgh Pharaoh's daughter and her accompanying women are exhibited garbed in the long waisted bodices and hooped skirts of Europe in the sixteenth century. The national collection in London has a picture of Joseph and his kindred in Egypt, where the buildings shown are not at all Egyptian in their style of architecture, but distinctly Italian. In the same gallery Paolo Veronese's "The Family of Darius at the Feet of Alexander, After the Battle of Issus" displays the women of the group in the pointed waists and inflated skirts that made the familiar dress of Venetian women in the painter's time.

Errors that have to do with armor may be more readily pardoned, though the artists fail lamentably in knowledge as to the earlier forms of metal protection. Thus in some paintings showing the time of Christ the warriors are seen clad in beautifully damascened mail, yet this form of armor did not come into actual use until half a thousand years later.

Similarly, in other pictures of Christ's time, monks are portrayed in their robes, with tonsures. In fact, however, they did not exist in the church prior to the fourth century A. D.

A curious illustration of the limitations set on genius by circumstance is exhibited in one of the world's most famous paintings, "The Last Supper." Leonardo da Vinci simply did not know that the table, the cloth, the plates, the knives and forks and salt cellars were impossibilities in the scene he designed to portray. The eastern people of that age who were his subjects used no table, no chairs, no forks, but squatted about a common dish and ate from it with their fingers. —Pittsburg Post.

Breaking His Own Law.

When King Ferdinand of Bulgaria proclaimed himself czar at Tirnovo recently the members of his entourage agreed that any one omitting the title of "majesty" in addressing or referring to him should be fined 10 francs. The ministers heard of this and agreed to the same system of fines, which, coming to the notice of the prince, was heartily approved by him. On the railway journey from Tirnovo, after the proclamation, the ministers were continually handing out ten franc pieces. But Ferdinand himself provided the climax of the comedy, for just after rebuking the minister of finance and fining him "his majesty" referred unthinkingly to the "princess" instead of the "czarina," whereupon he was promptly called upon to deliver up 10 francs himself in forfeit.

Sevres Blue.

The famous blue color given to the porcelain manufactured at Sevres has long been believed to be the result of a secret process, and many legends exist about it. Louis Franchet shows in the Revue Scientifique that it is an error to suppose that Sevres blue cannot be produced elsewhere. As a matter of fact, it is produced in many French potteries where sufficient care is taken and where pure oxide of cobalt is employed. Formerly it was difficult to procure this article without impurities, which injured the color, but chemical science has overcome all the difficulties. The same is true of the Chinese green known as celadon. It was invented in China, but it can be perfectly reproduced elsewhere.

London's Barges.

The picturesque and useful London barge, formerly so plentiful on the river reaches, is slowly vanishing. The coasting trade in and out of the Thames has been so bad lately that barges have had to look elsewhere for a living. The London barge is the most economic of all coasting vessels. Her rig is so simple that two men and a boy can work a barge carrying 200 tons dead weight. Her shallow draft and ponderous leeboards enable her to navigate channels across which a man could wade and to answer her helm like a racing yacht.—London Express.

Cost of Battleships.

As figured out by London Answers, the annual cost of "running" a battleship of the Dreadnought class is $500,000 a year, of which $200,000 goes for salaries and wages. Ammunition in time of peace costs $80,000 a year, the expense of necessary target practice being very heavy. Victualizing, fuel, etc., make up the balance. Estimating the original cost of these ships at $7,500,000 and allowing a life of twenty years, the cost from the first draft plans to the sale of the vessel as junk reaches a total of $17,500,000.

According to a decision of the inspector general of the army, neither officers nor enlisted men will wear gloves hereafter when equipped for field service. Enlisted men will also dispense with the use of white collars when doing field duty. Officers will be allowed to wear a white collar with the service uniform when in garrison. The decision also forbids the use of white gloves, which were once looked upon as indispensable on some occasions by officers as well as enlisted men in the field.

The Latest London Fad.

Men's "engagement bracelets" have arrived in London. The bracelet is a plain flat band of pure gold, which is fastened tightly on to the wearer's arm above the elbow. It is snapped on to the arm with a buckle or joined with an invisible spring. When once it is on it cannot be removed except by a small needle specially manufactured to touch the spring in a tiny hole which is left for its insertion.

Queer Economy.

"I can't give you a transfer now," said the conductor on the Euclid car. "You ought've asked when you first got on."

"Oh, well, be a good fellow and let me have a transfer," coaxed the passenger, at the same time handing the conductor a ten cent cigar.

Just how the man had saved any money by exchanging the cigar for a transfer worth only 3 cents at the most none of the other passengers could figure out. — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Queen Wilhelmina's Daily Life.

Queen Wilhelmina rises at 7 a.m. on Sundays and weekdays, takes her eau-de-Cologne bath, and makes a hasty toilet. She then goes into her writing-room, looks over her letters, and takes up the chief newspapers of her own country and of the capitals of Europe, the main features of which have been previously marked by a secretary. At 12.30 o'clock she takes breakfast with her husband and the chief members of her household. From two o'clock on she is at home for the Ministers of State, with whom she does not hesitate to engage in lively arguments if a proposal does not please her. Dinner takes place at seven sharp, and is an elaborate affair. Like a true Hollander, her majesty goes to bed at 10.30 every night.

"Thorough."

That has been the motto which Sir Donald Currie, who has just added another to his good works by restoring Dunkeld Cathedral, England, has stuck to all his life, and serves to explain his success in business. "I did everything I was bid as well as I could," he said one day when talking of his early days. Sir Donald was always fond of ships, and at school was the proud possessor of a larger collection of toy boats than any other boy. When he left school at the age of fourteen he at once went into the shipping business, and after four years with the Cunard Co., started his own Castle sailing-ship service between Liverpool, London and the East Indies.

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

A WONDERFUL MAN WHO LOST HIS LUCK

By A. L. DRUMMOND, FORMERLY CHIEF OF THE U. S. SECRET SERVICE.

ALL criminals are firm believers in the great power of "luck." If a safe be blown and the blowers get away with a bulging sack of plunder no small part of the resultant success is attributed to good fortune. If plans equally well laid suddenly go to pieces when a policeman appears that is bad luck. At the crucial moment fortune's smile changed to a frown. It was only a chance that the officer was not elsewhere. Luck was "bad." Such is the belief of criminals.

Circumstances like the ones I am about to relate accentuate this belief. One of the brainiest criminals who ever operated in this country had conceived a plan by which he hoped to get several hundred thousand dollars. Before he made a move he had worked out his scheme in his mind to the last detail. He intended there should be no hitch. He had successfully engineered other great ventures of the kind and he felt that he knew what to do.

At a certain stage of his operations it became necessary for him to take a small piece of work to a job printer. I do not know how many job printers there are in New York—probably a great many thousand—and no doubt he did not know. All he wanted was to have an impression made from a certain plate he had brought with him.

So far as he knew there was no reason why he should seek out one printer in preference to any of the others. He therefore did what any one in the same circumstances would have done, took his job to the first printer he found.

Of the thousands of job printers in New York I am quite sure I do not know more than six. It so happened, however, that one of the six was the man to whom the criminal took the engraved plate from which he wanted a proof.

Within two hours the printer came to my office. I was chief of the New York division of the Secret Service at the time.

"Something strange occurred at my place this morning," he said. "A man brought a steel die with '1,000' and a piece of scroll work engraved upon it. Said he wanted a proof. I didn't like his looks and told him to come back to-morrow afternoon."

"What kind of a looking man was he?" I asked.

"What makes you think there is something wrong about his request for a proof of the die?"

"I don't know as I can tell exactly. He simply made a bad impression on me, but he may be all right at that. I thought, though, that I ought to come down here and tell you about him."

I accompanied the printer to his place of business, where he showed me the die he had described, and gave me a proof of it.

When I saw the proof I was as suspicious about the matter as the printer had been—and as much puzzled. I had no doubt that the die was made for the purpose of aiding in the production of some sort of counterfeit, but whether government bonds or something else I did not know.

"This man is coming to get his proofs to-morrow afternoon?" I asked the printer.

"Yes, he said he would."

"Well, I'll have a man up here watching the place all day. He'll watch everybody who goes in and comes out. When the man who brought this die goes out you follow him to the door and signal to the man whom I shall send up here in the morning. He'll be walking on the other side of the street."

The next morning Clarence R. Eves took up his position in front of the printing office, prepared to stay, if necessary, all day or many days. He had not been waiting long, however, before he saw something that opened his eyes wide. A tall, gray whiskered man jumped from a car in the middle of a block, stopped a moment, looked carefully in every direction, then entered the printer's place of business. Eves was not close enough to be absolutely certain, but if this man was the one he believed him to be he was a criminal who never started a swindle that he did not intend to run into six figures. He would wait until the man came out and see if the printer gave the signal.

For five minutes Eves waited. Then the stranger appeared in the doorway, and Eves, who had drawn nearer, got a good look at him. There was no longer any doubt about his identity. This man was William E. Brockway, the most expert counterfeiter in the country—the man who sold Jay Cooke $90,000 worth of counterfeit government bonds that the Treasury Department redeemed, believing them to be genuine. And, as Brockway descended the steps, the printer appeared at the door and gave the signal.

When Eves came back to the office and reported what he had learned I felt that I had again been thrust into a race with the elusive Brockway. I had caught the man a few years before, in a big counterfeiting deal, and months were required to run him down, so I was prepared for a long chase. And the first thing to do seemed to be to write to Washington and find out what particular bond the old man was evidently preparing to counterfeit.

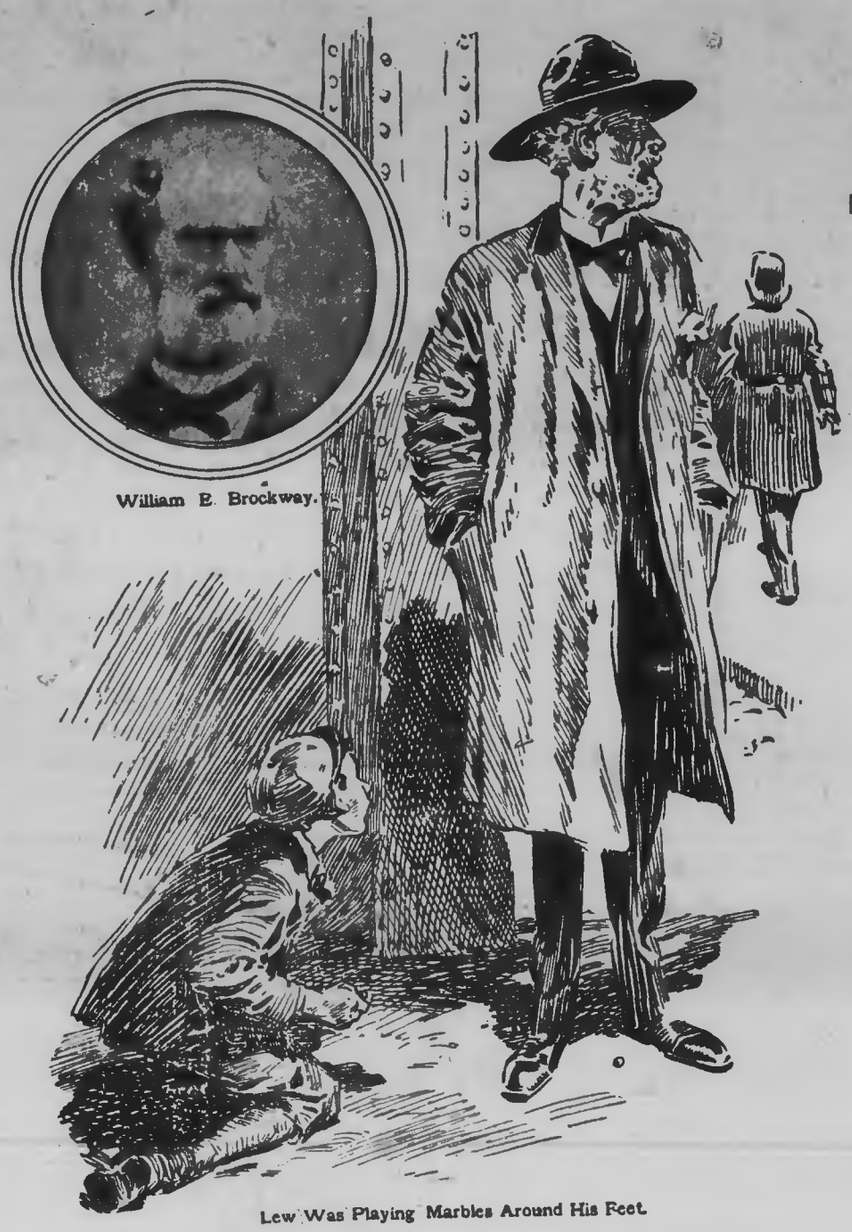
I sent a proof of the die to Chief Brookes and in a day or two was informed that it was a facsimile of no part of any government bond. Evidently my chase after Brockway was to end before it had fairly begun, as government funds could not be used to catch other than counterfeiters of national securities. I therefore turned over all the facts to the New York Police Department.

This was in March, 1883. I paid no more attention to Brockway until August of the same year, when Chief Brookes informed me of a rumor that the aged man was about to spring some sort of a counterfeit bank note and ordered me to look him up and keep him under observation.

I put two men on his track and in a little while found him living in Greenwich street under his alias of "Colonel E. W. Spencer." But in his old experience and caution had made him a hard man to follow. He never took a direct route to any place. He doubled and turned and twisted, jumping off from and on to cars in the middle of the block, turning sharply around corners and resorting to many other tricks to elude possible pursuers. Time after time the old man took the Sixth avenue elevated and alighted at Twenty-eighth street, but never were the men able to follow him to his destination. He would stand at the corner of Twenty-eighth street for a while, go down Sixth avenue a block or two, dart over toward Broadway and disappear. No one could follow him because no one dared get close enough to him to turn as sharply as he did. He was looking for "shadows" and would have quickly spotted any detective who came near to him.

I was nevertheless determined that Brockway should be followed and after turning the matter over in my mind for a little while I decided to press into the service my small boy, Lewis E. Drummond, a lad ten years old. I brought Lew to the office, showed him Brockway's picture and then told him what I wanted him to do.

"Go up to Sixth avenue and Twenty-eighth street with these men," I said, "and play around the station until you see the man whose photograph I have shown you come down the stairs from the station. Take some marbles along, play on the sidewalk around Brockway wherever he goes and see what place he enters. The men whom I am sending with you will never be more than a block or two away, and after you get through they will bring you back to the office." The boy was taken to the designated corner and left to stand guard at the station while Blackwood and Glaudel, who accompanied him, drew away to a safer distance. Early in the afternoon Brockway came downstairs from the elevated station and the boy saw him.



William E. Brockway.

Lew Was Playing Marbles Around His Feet.

Brockway, as usual, stood around the corner for a few minutes for the purpose of seeing if any suspicious persons might be lingering near. While he was getting the lay of the land Lew was playing marbles around his feet and once shot a marble between his

The old man noticed the youngster, patted him on the head and started down Sixth avenue.

Lew as quickly moved his marble game and went dancing down the street, sometimes ahead of Brockway, shooting marbles back toward him, and sometimes behind him, firing them in front of him. Apparently he was very much engrossed in his play, but in fact not so much so that he did not see Brockway turn into Twenty-sixth street toward Broadway. And over this critical block, where my men had always lost Brockway, because they dared not get near him, the boy trudged along until he saw the man go into the St. James Hotel, which at that time stood at the corner of Twenty-sixth street and Broadway, where the St. James Building stands now.

We had at last really got on Brockway's trail, and in a few days we found him going to a house in Lexington avenue. The following day he went again, remaining nearly five hours, and on the evening of the third day he was seen eating supper in the basement. Visits of such length and frequency convinced me that he went there for no lawful purpose, and I put men to work watching the house. Brockway every day continued to come and go, and toward evening of each day a small middle aged man, who looked like a country merchant, was seen to go out for a stroll, as if, having been sitting all day, he sought to limber his muscles. Finally the small man and Brockway were seen to come out together, and then I sent a description of the small man to the chief of the service at Washington.

"Your description," he wrote, "seems to fit the man whose picture I enclose with this letter. If so, the man you have seen is Nathan B. Foster, an old time counterfeiter, of Bradford, Ill."

I showed the photograph to the men who were watching the Lexington avenue house.

Meanwhile things were happening at the St. James Hotel. Brockway had been a frequent visitor at the place, going upstairs and oftentimes remaining four or five hours. These facts we did not learn in a minute, as we dared ask no questions even of the clerk in the hotel. Nor did we learn quickly who was the tall, fine looking man with iron gray hair and whiskers with whom Brockway was once seen in the hotel. Brockway did not intend that even the fact of his acquaintance with the man should be known. Often they would pass each other in the hotel without speaking.

I was convinced that this second old man had something to do with the work of old man Brockway. I therefore sent another of my men, Francis R. Kelly, to take a room at the hotel for the purpose of learning the name and the business of Brockway's friend, together with the number of the room that Brockway visited. Kelly quickly learned that the stranger had room No. 86 on the third floor and that this apartment was the one Brockway visited. From the hotel register Kelly tried to learn the name of the occupant of room No. 86, but failed, the man having been a guest of the house so long that another register was in use at the time of his arrival.

While Kelly was wondering what he would do next it chanced that the unknown old man one day came down to the writing room in which Kelly was sitting, took a letter from his pocket, read it, tore it up, wrote a letter, directed an envelope, tore up the envelope, directed another and mailed the letter he had written. When Kelly had an opportunity he gathered up the scraps from a waste basket and brought them to me.

They were very interesting scraps. I was busy a long time at putting these bits of paper together, but when I had finished I was pretty sure who the stranger was. This is how I figured it out:—

The letter that the man drew from his pocket, read and tore up was addressed to "Friend Lew," but bore no signature. The envelope that the stranger directed and then destroyed was directed to W. R. Armstrong, of Chicago. Neither then nor later did Armstrong figure in the case, but the moment I looked at his name I thought I recognized the same writing that was on a letter destroyed three years earlier by James B. Doyle, a friend of Brockway, when he was arrested. I knew the letter destroyed by Doyle was written by Lewis R. Martin, a noted counterfeiter, and fortunately I had preserved the bits of paper that Doyle had thrown away.

I brought out the old Doyle letter, the pieces of which had been carefully pasted on cardboard, and compared it with the envelope that the stranger in the St. James Hotel had directed. The similarity was striking. I was convinced that the man at the St. James was Lewis R. Martin. And, as I knew Martin by sight, while he did not know me, I went up to the St. James to have one of my men point out to me the occupant of room 86.

This discovery cleared up the case perceptibly. A remarkable trio had been brought to light; Brockway, the most expert of engravers and printers; Martin, also proficient in the same lines, and Foster, an old time manufacturer of gold coin and distributer of all kinds of counterfeits.

Furthermore, the activity of the three men indicated that whatever they were making was well on its way toward completion. Brockway visited two or more steel plate engravers, and, in the company of Foster, was seen in another place examining what proved to be an embossed seal. Yet, the more active Brockway and his friends became the more thoroughly was I convinced that after all they were not counterfeiting any kind of government security.

I expressed this opinion to Chief Brookes.

"What makes you think so?" asked the chief.

"Because they are not going about it as they would if they were counterfeiting Treasury notes or government bonds," I replied. "Furthermore, there are circumstances that indicate that they are making railroad bonds—perhaps of the Union Pacific or Northern Pacific Railroad Company."

"Then you feel absolutely certain in your own mind that the operations of Brockway and his band, whatever they may be, have nothing to do with any securities issued by the government?"

"I do."

"Well, then, there is nothing for us to do but to turn the case over to the New York Police Department again."

I disliked to drop the chase just as I was about to overhaul Brockway and his friends, and as it happened I did not have to. When I laid the facts before Inspector Byrnes he asked me if I would not take charge of the men whom he purposed to assign to the case. He said I was familiar with all the facts, while he was not. I consented to do so, and he at once directed his men to report to me for orders and also to make to me in writing their daily reports.

About the time the case was being shifted from the government to the city of New York Brockway moved from his house in Greenwich street to West Eleventh street. I at once placed Detectives Field, McCloskey, Mangan and Slevin in a room across the street, with instructions to take turns in watching him, and they reported that Brockway continued to make daily visits to the Lexington avenue house in which Foster lived. Sometimes Martin and Foster went to Brockway's house, but never together. Each of the trio sometimes carried packages, and Brockway was seen to carry packages to a place in Division street where he was supposed to have a room. Altogether the circumstances seemed to indicate that they were putting the finishing touches on whatever they were making.

I therefore planned to make an immediate raid on Brockway's house and the place in Lexington avenue at which Foster stayed. I had no evidence of crime, therefore I had to get search warrants. I could not get search warrants without making a long affidavit before Recorder Smyth and having Detective Cosgrove, of the New York Police Department, make a similar one. The affidavits made, the warrants were issued and the detectives, including some Secret Service men, were divided into two squads, whose duty it was to break into the two places at the same moment when the word should be given to do so.

Brockway, however, by reason of his customary uneasiness, changed the programme a little, though he did not alter the general result. Detective Cosgrove at one o'clock in the afternoon left his room across the street from Foster's place, in Lexington avenue, long enough to report that all three were in Foster's room. But before he could get back Brockway had gone. Detective Heard gave chase, however, caught Brockway on a Sixth avenue elevated train and took him to the station house.

The raid on the Lexington avenue house was facilitated by the possession of a little knowledge gained during the long days of waiting. The men on watch had observed that when anybody came to the door and rang the doorbell once he was never let in, while each of the trio always rang twice and was immediately admitted. So when the raid was made the bell was rung twice, the door was speedily opened and the detectives rushed in. Foster and Martin were at once placed under arrest and then Foster's room was searched.

The search amply justified the arrests. Strewn about on tables and tucked away in boxes were plates, stamps, dies and packages of bond paper. Even the type used to print the certificates on the backs of the bonds was found standing. And the bonds were not those of the United States, but of the Central Pacific Railway Company and the Morris and Essex Railroad Company.

Brockway's house, in West Eleventh street, contained nothing to indicate the criminal nature of its occupant's business, but Martin's room in the St. James Hotel was literally a storehouse of counterfeit. Besides dies, seals, tracing paper and things of that sort there were fifty-four counterfeit $1,000 bonds of the Morris and Essex Railroad Company. Twenty-one of these bonds lacked only the signatures to make them ready to put on the market, and the spurious bonds so closely resembled the genuine ones that P. R. Pyne, one of the officers of the company, said he would have instantly redeemed any of the bonds if they had been presented to him when due for payment. And the other thirty-three bonds required only numbers and signatures.

When the prisoners were brought into court for arraignment Brockway for the first time in this case saw me. He beckoned to me to come over to where he sat, and I did so.

"Did you put up this case?" he asked.

I nodded my head.

"Then I'll plead guilty," he replied.

Brockway whispered to his counsel.

"My client," said the attorney, addressing the Court, "does not wish to contest the indictment against him."

"I suppose you know," said the Judge to the lawyer, "that in New York such a plea means guilty. If your client so pleads I shall sentence him at once."

Again Brockway whispered with his counsel, then arose and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. Martin got a ten years' sentence and Foster was never tried.

That's what Brockway and his kind call hard luck. They had planned carefully. They had even provided a bunch of quills with which to sign the Morris and Essex bonds, merely because Samuel Small, president of the company, always wrote with a quill; and these sharpened feathers were found beside the bonds when the raid was made. But Brockway in the spring of 1883 had bad luck in selecting a printer, and it was this unfortunate circumstance before the end of the year that helped to put him in prison.

LATEST IN POPULAR SCIENCE.

Minerals That We Eat.

MOST people know that the human body contains mineral constituents in the form of salts of magnesium, lime, potash, soda and iron; but, with the exception of the phosphate of lime, of which our bones are largely composed, these are generally thought of as impurities, or at any rate as accidental constituents. Persons who object to common salt as an article of food may sometimes be heard to justify their opinions by the statement that salt is a mineral and that mineral matter of any kind is an improper adjunct to food. These persons would be surprised to know that not only common salt but the chlorides, sulphates and phosphates of various metals are classed as foods in all treatises on the subject of nutrition. A recent writer, Dr. Henry R. Hopkins, president of the New York State Medical Society, asserts that the rôle of these mineral foods in nutrition is much more important than has been imagined. If the relative importance of foods depends on their intimate relations to life and its manifestations, such as sensation, growth and repair, mineral substances, says Dr. Hopkins, certainly should stand at the head of all our lists. First among foods he would place air and water, although the former does not enter the system by way of the digestive tract. These are both mineral in nature. Immediately after them he places the salts, which, though they are not important in building up the bodily structure, except for the bones and the teeth, and although they do not furnish energy by their oxidation, yet play an indispensable part in the control and organization of all the phenomena essential to life.

Engines That Fly.

THE number of motors constructed for use on aeroplanes is very large. Those, however, that have been actually used in flight are very few, and fewer still of the remainder are capable of being used, as we are assured by a recent writer. In this country authentic flights have been made only by the Wright brothers' machines and by three belonging to the Aerial Experiment Association at Hammondsport, N. Y., called, respectively, the Red Wing, the White Wing and the June Bug. These last use the Curtiss air cooled gasolene motor. Wilbur Wright, in his French flights used a motor much more closely resembling that of an automobile than any others in existence, thus proving that successful flight does not depend on any special form of engine. Aeronautical engineers in Europe had been trying to build an engine combining unusual lightness with great power, and Wright's achievements went contrary to all their theories. When he began his tests flights of a few yards at a time were regarded as great feats. One of the distinctive features of the Wright engine is that the fuel is supplied by direct injection. The most successful fliers after Wright, Farman and Delagrange, both use the Antoinette motor, built by Voisin Brothers and designed by Levasseur, a pioneer in lightweight engines. These have large numbers of cylinders, none less than eight and the more powerful sixteen to twenty-four. Farman and Delagrange use the type having eight cylinders and developing fifty horse power. These, like Wright's engine, are water cooled and take their charge by direct injection. The lightest and most original of aeroplane motors is probably that designed and built by Robert Esnault-Petrié, who has used it on an aeroplane of his own. The parts are ingeniously built and combined so as to save all possible weight. His seven cylinder thirty-five horse power motor weighs only 114 pounds.

Is Concrete Good for Everything?

ABOUT everything except wearing apparel and table utensils is now made of reinforced concrete. The use of this material has taken on the qualities and dimensions of a fad—one of those accesses of temporary insanity to which the great American public is subject. Sometimes it is roller skating, sometimes bicycling. Just now it appears to be concrete. Without prejudice to the undoubted advantages of this compound as a building material it may be foretold that some few objects made of other substances will remain to us. In the last few years the enthusiasts have begun to build highway bridges of reinforced concrete floor slabs on account of their permanence, rigidity and steadiness. Apparently some of the designers forgot that with these advantages goes increased weight, and the road builders, coming after them, have made the matter worse by loading these structures with macadam. Result—collapse. Within three months two new bridges have given way from this cause, one of which was not quite completed. In one case the contractor, wishing to give good measure, made his floor eight inches thick instead of six, so that when the bridge was turned over to the authorities it was already overloaded by twenty-five pounds to the square foot. Then the road gang, who appear to have been equally lavish and generous, built up the macadam twelve inches thick at the crown, whereas the plan called for a uniform three-inch layer. This added forty pounds overweight a square foot, a total of sixty-five. As the total provision for "live load" was only one hundred pounds to the square foot it is not to be wondered at that the first heavy load brought the bridge down. English engineers charge that the Americans do not know how to build large bridges safely.

Why Is the Sea Salt?

LEARNED treatises have been written on this subject, but they may all be boiled down to this—the sea is salt because there is salt in it. There is just as much salt on the globe as there was when it had first cooled to its present temperature, and as this substance is soluble in water it is not to be wondered at that a large part of it has gradually accumulated, in a state of solution, in the ocean. Geologists now generally hold that all the salt in the sea was brought down to it by rivers. All running water is very slightly salt, and constant evaporation in a basin without outlet concentrates this salt until the solution is saturated. Witness the Salt Lake of Utah and the Dead Sea, both lakes with no outlets and both saltier than the ocean. According to this view the sea is simply a great lake, with no outlet, and is therefore salt for precisely the same reason that Great Salt Lake is.

This view, however, hardly takes into account the enormous quantity of salt in the sea. Sea water holds in solution about 3.5 per cent of various salts, so that if we should be able to evaporate the whole mass there would be left enough solid matter to cover the whole globe to a height of about 125 feet. This mass is equal to all of the two Americas above water, Andes, Rocky Mountains and all. If one-quarter of the earth's mass above sea level had been solid salt and all this had been dissolved in the sea that body would have been no saltier than it is. Suess, a German geologist, believes that the salt originally came from the depths of the earth through volcanic vents. Modern eruptions discharge much salt and much acid capable of forming salts by union with various metals. One South American volcano when in eruption discharges daily about thirty-three tons of hydrochloric acid. In early geologic ages, when volcanic action was great and widespread, much salt must have been added to that already on the earth's surface, and this, according to Suess, now exists in solution in sea water.

An Advertising Balloon.

AMERICANS are said to lead the world in advertising enterprise, but apparently the French are the first to use the dirigible balloon for this purpose. A portable balloon, of the type used by Count Henri de La Vaulx, is to be used for spreading abroad the name and virtues of Le Petit Journal of Paris. It is filled with coal gas, has a detachable sixteen horse power Clerget motor and will carry a crew of two, besides two passengers. The name of its proprietor is emblazoned in huge letters on its sides. A balloon of this type recently made a three and a half hour run in the environs of Paris and was at the starting point in two hours more, being packed into a wagon at the close of the trip.

More bread and Better bread
—And the Reason for it

A STRONG FLOUR can only be made from strong wheat. Manitoba hard wheat is acknowledged the strongest in the world—and that is the kind used for Purity Flour.

But that's not all. Every grain of this wheat contains both high-grade and low-grade properties. In separating the high-grade parts from the low-grade the Western Canada Flour Mills put the hard wheat through a process so exacting that not a single low-grade part has the remotest chance of getting in with the high-grade.

Of course this special process is more expensive to operate but it means a lot to Purity flour users—that's why we use it.

It means that Purity Flour is made entirely of the highest-grade flour parts of the strongest wheat in the world.

It means a high-class, strong flour and therefore yields "more bread and better bread."

Purity may cost a little more than some flours, but results prove it the cheapest and most economical after all.

ONE TRIP AND—ANOTHER.

By MARIE ALICE PHILLIPS.

The importunate cabbies and bustling porters failed to attract the attention of Frank Ryals except so far as a nervous person would notice mosquitoes or flies. He brushed them away without so much as a look as he passed down the long pier. With bent head and quickening footsteps he walked, unheeding and unnoticed, through the sweat and turmoil of the city to his home. As he rang the bell his hand shook and the muscles of his throat tightened.

The faithful butler, who had been valet to Frank Ryals before his marriage, held the door open and inquired solicitously if "Mis' Ryals" got off safe and sound.

The reply came after a pause, "Yes, Brown, thank you," but the white, drawn look of his beloved master's face repelled further inquiry, and the butler retired to the kitchen, there to unbosom himself to Cynthia.

"It's my opinion Marse Frank is mighty cut up 'bout Mis' Bess goin' off to Europe 'ithout no warnin' hardly at all."

Cynthia sniffed.

"And her a bride of jes' three months," continued the indignant Brown. "It's my opinion she don't care much about 'im, and 'im the best and jolliest man that ever lived." Brown was growing more aggrieved every minute.

"Gus Brown, would you have a 'oman tied to a man's coattails always jes' 'cause she happens to be married to 'im?" And Cynthia set the pan down sharply on the table.

"I don't expect much of women folks at no time," replied Brown stoutly, injecting as much scorn into his tones as he thought safe, "but I didn't much expect a young bride to go off so cheerful-like and leave her husband for six months on a stretch."

Cynthia turned sharply and looked into the face of the worthy butler. "Did you say six months, Gus Brown—six months?"

The faithful Brown could only bow his head in assent, and Cynthia, detecting traces of real grief in his usual woodeny countenance, was too shocked to take much account of the blister made on her hand by the overturned gravy.

Presently Brown put his head in the doorway of the drawing room to announce dinner, but, seeing his master with bowed head and bent shoulders, retired quietly to the kitchen.

"I don't care for dinner, Brown, thank you."

"'Thout so much as movin'," Brown confessed to Cynthia as they prepared to do justice to the dinner now almost cold.

Letters came across the ocean to Frank Ryals, full of life and vivacity, now brimming over with the joy of some bright experience, now breathing awe and wonder of the grandeur of some old cathedral or mystery of nature, but never once did she say "I miss you, dear," or "I wish I were back at home with you," or "I wonder what you are doing." Frank Ryals searched her letters feverishly for some such expression, but it never came.

Old friends welcomed him back to the club, and occasionally he went to the opera. Dinners at home were scarce and finally ceased altogether. Six months had extended into eight because Mrs. Raine wanted to take her party into Egypt, but now they were coming home.

The man who stood on the pier waiting for the North German Lloyd steamer to cast anchor on a bright April day looked very much like the same Frank Ryals who had stood there eight months before except for a certain air of composure and two little patches of gray hair on his temples that contrasted oddly with his fresh face. He received Bess and her friends cordially and told the latter he had made all arrangements to have them at his home during their short stay in New York.

Everybody talked at once at dinner, there was so much to say and the joy of being once more on American soil was so keen. The company rose, protesting vigorously when their host bade them good evening as he prepared to leave the house.

"We refuse to stay and turn you out of house and home this way. It is a'rocious," they said.

"It is my pleasure," was the grave answer, "and you must stay."

Bess for the first time in her life was thoughtful and said little. On the fourth evening after her arrival, when the guests had all departed and the clock was on the stroke of 11, Frank Ryals rose and, taking hat and cane, said good night.

Bess rose also.

"Where are you going, Frank?"

"To the club," he calmly answered.

For a moment she gasped with astonishment. Then pain, anger and wounded vanity chased in quick succession over her mobile face.

"Our first evening together," she managed to say, and as he still held his hat and looked steadily at her, "Has the club grown so dear to you—that you can't give it up—one evening?"

"One has time to become attached to anything attractive in eight months," he said, "especially if it represents one's boyhood friends and companionship. The boys at the club have been very good to me, and I have come to depend on them. I would choose them in preference to scenery any time, I think," he commented, with a strained smile.

All color and brightness had fled from her face, and as she stood in the firelight, her white evening gown clinging about her, she looked almost pathetic.

"I—would like to know—the worst, Frank. Is it—any other woman?"

"No," he said; "I have never loved but one woman, and when I found it was all a mistake I suffered a great deal, more than you will ever know. But it is all over now. She didn't love me, and I have learned to do without her."

A pause. "We are on an equal footing now, Bess." And he stroked the gray hair on his temples without looking at her. "It is not as much happiness as—as the other way, but there is not so much pain."

Bess had lost all power of speech and was staring at him with eyes almost set in their horror. But he mistook the cause.

"Don't bother your head, Bess, about what the world will say. It need never know. You bear my name, you are the mistress of my home, and you will be free to enjoy your pleasures just as you see fit. You are welcome to all I have."

"Except your love."

"You had that, too, once. How long ago has it been, Bess? It seems years. Good night," he said as she made no answer. "The old servants are here, and you will be perfectly safe."

Still she said nothing, and he went out, closing the vestibule door quietly after him. Bess recovered sufficiently to reach the window in time to see him move down the lighted street toward the club.

"Oh, my God!" she moaned. "What have I done? Have I been dreaming all these months?"

She was awake now, with ten thousand accusing demons contending for the mastery of her soul.

Two months later Mrs. Raine was ushered unceremoniously into Mrs. Ryals' boudoir and found a grave faced young woman bending over the smoldering fire.

"Oh, my dear, I am so fortunate to find you at home!" was her cheery greeting. "I am in the greatest hurry, but I do so want you to join my party to the Yellowstone park tomorrow. It'll be such a glorious trip. I telephoned Mr. Ryals, and the dear, sweet man said he left it entirely with you. Really, my dear, you are to be congratulated—why, Bess"—

Her hostess had risen and now stood facing her, a grayish pallor spreading over her face.

"Don't speak to me of traveling! I hate the word—the thought of boats and cars and hotels! I want to be left alone—alone!"

* * * * * * * *

Frank Ryals was mounting the steps of his club when an imperious feminine voice stayed his steps. It was Mrs. Raine, and her ordinary gushing manner had entirely disappeared.

"My dear boy, you don't want to stay at the club this afternoon. You really ought to run right up to the house. There's certainly something wrong with Bess. She's been treating me to a genuine case of hysterics. Imagine Bess in hysterics! And she won't go to California with us. Oh, she's altogether unreasonable! I left her in tears. You must have the doctor."

"Yes, I'll phone for him at once." Mr. Ryals' voice and manner were calm, perfunctory. He raised his hat and mounted two more steps. Then he paused irresolutely. Mrs. Raine was halfway up the block. A man addressed him lightly and entered the door, and still Ryals stood undecided, a strange light playing in his moody eyes.

"She won't go to California. I left her in tears."

Tears for what? For him, after all!

Suddenly he turned on his heel and plunged down the steps. A hansom was drawn up at the curb. The driver knew him well and touched his hat interrogatively.

"Home!" exclaimed Ryals, and then as the hansom rumbled over the asphalt he murmured in softer tones, "Home!"

Had Given up all Hope of Living. Heart Trouble was Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. Andrew Savoy, Grattan's, N.B., writes:—"In the year 1905 I was taken sick and did not think I could live any length of time. My trouble was with my heart and people told me that nothing could be done for a case like mine. I consulted the very best doctors but they could do me no good. For seven weeks I could hardly cross the floor. I had no pain, but was so weak nobody in the world can believe how I felt. I had given up all hopes of living and had given my little girl to my sister-in-law.

"One day a friend came to see me, and calling me by name, said, 'Lizzie, if I were you I would try a dose of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as they are good for heart trouble.' My husband got me a box, but for two days I was not feeling any better, but on the fourth day my husband said, 'I believe those pills are doing you good.' I was able to say, 'Yes, I feel a good deal better this morning.' He said, 'Well, I will get you another box right away.' I took two boxes and three doses out of the third one, and I was perfectly well and have not been sick since then.

"I will never be without them in my home for God knows if it had not been for Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I would not have been alive now."

The Story of a Song.

The story of "Ninety and Nine," the [illegible] for which Ira D. Sankey improvised in a burst of deep feeling, was told by the Rev. Dr. C. E. Locke at the funeral of Mr. Sankey. The evangelist had found a little poem, "The Lost Sheep," in a Scotch newspaper, so runs Dr. Locke's account in the Brooklyn Eagle, and had clipped it. One night in Edinburgh Mr. Moody asked him to sing. Mr. Moody has just finished his sermon, "The Good Shepherd." Mr. Sankey had no thought of composing a new song, but as he used to tell the story:

"As I sat at the organ my fingers fell on A flat and my eyes fell on that little poem. I began to sing, and I sang the words of that poem."

When he had finished Mr. Moody rushed down from the platform and asked him where he had found that song. He said it was the most wonderful song he had ever heard. Mr. Moody was weeping, Mr. Sankey was weeping, and the audience was in tears, so great was the impression produced by the song.

"I sang it as God gave it to me," Mr. Sankey replied. He never changed a note of the song from the time it fell from his lips.

As to Kissing.

"Did a man ever kiss you against your will?"

"No, but some have thought they did."—Harper's Weekly.

As Modified.

"I never lied to my wife in my life"—began one of the bunch, when he was interrupted by a unanimous laugh that was loud and long.

—"that I didn't get caught at it," ended the speaker after the laugh had subsided.

Whereupon silence reigned supreme for nearly twenty-three seconds.—Chicago News.

No Romance About That.

"And what did you do with the money you earned by the sale of your first romance?" they asked the eminently successful author.

"I spent it," he answered.

"For some souvenir, no doubt, that would long remind you of the important epoch in your professional life," they suggested.

"No," he curtly answered. "I spent it for food."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"Yes," said the musical young woman, "we spent the whole evening trying to play a new sort of polka."

"You don't say!" replied Jack Potts. "What was the limit?"—Philadelphia Press.

PRACTICAL MODELS for the SCHOOL GIRL'S OUTFIT

A Page for Misses

AT this time of year every wardrobe calls for a replenishing, and for the schoolgirl who wears her cloth skirt and flannel bodice day in, day out, some few midwinter additions to the outfit are quite as necessar, as are is extra ball gowns for the débutante. From now on for the next eight weeks there is every reason to expect an extended period of cold, raw weather—days when a cloth jacket is but little protection against the chill blasts and other days when sleet and rain make imperative the wearing of a long overcoat or n kintosh. But these otherwise unpleasant days bring with them one comfort—they afford a temporary relief to the cloth street costumes, which, by being frequently laid aside for a fur coat and plain gown of serge or cheviot, are thus kept fresher for those days of early spring before the weather is yet sufficiently mild for the donning of a new light weight gown.

A gown, therefore, that if purchased at this time of year will prove a real economy apart from every other consideration is the princess, or two piece dress of serge, cheviot, light weight cloth, or perhaps cashmere or Henrietta cloth, which textures are now so much in vogue. Fashioned with the utmost simplicity, with only a touch of white at the throat and stiff cuffs, or else a simple piece of ruching to relieve the long, plain dark sleeves, such a frock is invaluable for the schoolgirl. If the fur coat is brown dyed squirrel or pony skin, then a gown of as nearly as possible the same shade is extremely smart, but, of course, any shade may be combined with fur.

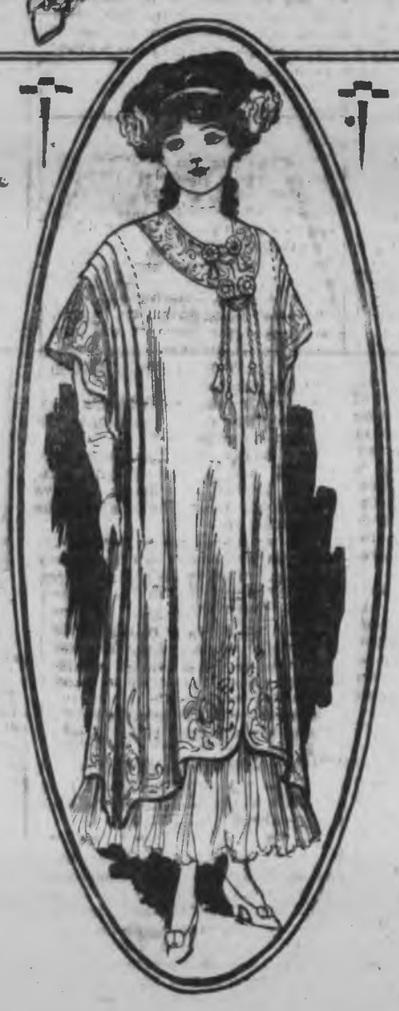
If cloth is selected for a school dress it must be of the lightest grade procurable, for too warm a house gown is both unpicturesque and unhygienic. In the new serges there are many qualities to be found that are but little warmer than silk or satin and in their effective ribbed finish are unusually attractive and excellent for the purpose. Cashmere, on the other hand, is a delightful weight for the house and makes an excellent school dress, provided the fur coat is sufficiently long to give the necessary protection out of doors. For the girl whose purse is so slender that she must look well ahead in ordering a new gown and must needs consult not only the present week, but weeks far in the future as well, a school dress of cashmere will make a better purchase just now than would the warmer cloth, for a cashmere gown can be worn without a jacket long after a cloth frock is laid away for another year.

A gown made up by a seamstress in the house or an inexpensive dressmaker whose charge does not include the cost of the material should be done at considerably lower price this year than is generally possible, for the absolute simplicity of the models at present calls for an unwontedly small amount of material—nor does this in any way imply the sheath skirt. A bodice absolutely simple save for a narrow band of silk or velvet outlining, a tiny transparent yoke of tucked net, long, plain sleeves, adorned perhaps with a row of buttons or band of silk or velvet running down the centre, finished off with a bit of white ruching at the cuff; a high waist line outlined by a band of silk and a plain, not tight, but narrow skirt falling straight from the waist and unadorned with fold, tuck, flounce or plait—and one has an extremely pretty model that can be worked out equally well in either serge or cashmere, velveteen or silk.

For the girl at boarding school cashmere in its more delicate shades and in some of its new stripe, check and figured effects will be found excellent for the style of simple evening dress that a smart boarding school demands. Until hand embroidery and real lace can be used to trim the evening gowns it is color far more than design that is important, and this year there is a great wealth of delicate and brilliant hues from which to select. All the pinks are in favor, and all the queer as well as the long familiar tones of pale robin's egg blue, while the deep cream, soft yellows and pale greens are all becoming to the average girl.

Almost as important as her morning and evening frocks to the girl at boarding school are her pretty and becoming wrappers and négligées, and it is of real consequence that this part of her outfit should be satisfactory to the girl herself. Albatross and French flannel are both good for the bedroom négligée, and a gown of heavy flannel or wadded silk should be provided for this time of year. In all these textures the old kimono style is still to be had at every store, but there can now be found somewhat newer wrappers that are more fitted at the throat and waist line and have longer, more close fitting sleeves than is possible in a kimono pattern. Albatross, accordion plaited, with a foundation of China silk and trimmed with a deep collar and long tie ends of finest embroidered batiste, makes a charming négligée. Most attractive of all, however, are the négligée wrappers of soft satin finished silk, made warm and comfortable by a lining of fine flannel or albatross.

It is wisest to have a wrapper made of some material which can be easily laundered, but still outside this realm there are so many fascinating models bordering closely on the tea gown that cannot be worn until later that no girl whose expenditures need not be strictly limited to the necessaries can resist providing herself with at least one such garment. In the newest models this winter there are included a number of loose wrappers, made of lightest weight satin finished Directoire cloth, so soft and fine as to seem almost like satin, and these are faced with China silk of attractive tint, that the cloth may not feel uncomfortable against the skin. Made on some loose Empire design and of a pale shade of pink or blue, these cloth bedroom gowns are irresistibly pretty.



Of almost foremost importance at this time of year is an evening cloak, for while a school girl does not supposedly go out to any extent in the evenings, still the year or two before she comes out there are occasional Friday and Saturday night festivities, and there is still time for college "proms" between now and the Lenten season. That she should be warmly wrapped up when she does go out in the evening cannot be too strongly emphasized, and no matter how simple the wrap it must be heavily interlined. If nothing else is possible long fur lined cloaks can be had at astonishingly small cost just now, and in the soft shades of gray or warm tones of scarlet these cloaks are all most effective.

The newest evening wraps are, of course, the long, sleeveless capes, sometimes made with a large armhole practically hidden within voluminous folds of material; again fashioned without even this pretence to a sleeve. It is curious to note that this year, when all evening gowns are so soft and clinging, opera cloaks are unusually full and all-enveloping. As the fashions give a hint of spring ideas, however, it will be noticed that the evening wraps become more scant, although in length they still reach to the hem of the gown, even when the gown be made with a long train at the back.

For a school girl the smartest evening wrap is of white cloth, made much like a military cape, with high standing collar of white fur. The cape may be lined with either squirrel skin or satin wadding, white, or of a pale shade of pink or blue, or perhaps of cerise. The white wrap is, however, no longer so much in vogue as formerly, all shades being now fashionable for an evening wrap, from palest cream to brilliant rose pink.

Instead of finishing the cape with an attached fur collar it may be trimmed at the throat with lace or chiffon and a white fur or feather boa worn with it. In this way the cloak can do service for the Easter dances, when, although the weather may still be cold, fur looks inappropriate. The cape should fall to within an inch or two of the hem of the dress, and if the gown is still short, may completely cover it.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

IN our day and generation there is more laxity in manners than would have been tolerated a decade ago, yet there are certain conventions which never change, and the rules which govern the conduct of the polite world in public places are as fixed as the laws of the Medes and Persians.

There are some girls whose behavior in public is, in most instances, above reproach, yet who never seem able to conduct themselves properly in church. They attend church regularly and come in a reverent spirit, without doubt, yet in the edifice they act very much as if it were a concert hall, whispering, fidgeting, bowing to friends and otherwise exhibiting a restlessness of demeanor distressing to see.

Every girl knows that fine old adage, "Punctuality is the courtesy of kings," and nowhere should this courtesy be more in evidence than in attending church. To the congregation already assembled when the service begins the late comer is a most disturbing interruption, and as one can easily be prompt by taking a little pains, except, of course, in the case of some unexpected delay, girls should exert themselves to conform to this important rule of church etiquette.

It is not good form to chatter in church, even in the lowest of whispering tones, either before the service begins or during its progress. You should preserve absolute silence, broken only as you take part in the service, and your only excuse for speaking otherwise would be the need of asking some simple question pertaining to information in regard to the service, or your part in it, should such a necessity arise. You should, of course, always painstakingly follow the service, and if it happens to be one with which you are not familiar do not sit dumb, but be clever enough to follow it along and make yourself one with those about you. Adaptability is a fine thing and quite as important in church as elsewhere.

If you can sing at all it is very proper for you to participate in the musical part of the service, but do not feel obliged to make your voice rival that of the soprano of the choir. Moderate your singing, keep it sweet and low in tone, and you will thus voice your praise without conflicting with the singing of those about you or of attracting attention to yourself, which loud voiced girls always do, whether singing or talking.

Bowing in church is not permissible either before, during or after the service. If you catch the eye of a friend you may give a little smile of recognition, but that is all. To strangers who may be placed in your pew you should show cordiality of manner, and a young girl is never sweeter than when offering little attentions to strangers, like handing them books with the places found for them, or sharing her own books with them, or even giving up her own books altogether to them, as a very thoughtful, unselfish girl is sometimes seen to do. When you are the stranger it is your place to quietly accept whatever courtesies offered you, smiling your thanks, instead of voicing them.

After the service before leaving the pew make a point of thanking in words, but do so and not effusively, speaking in your quiet tones, for the reverent spirit of the service is still in the atmosphere, and the gently bred observe it by force of habit.

EASILY MADE LINGERIE CAPS FOR MORNING WEAR

SCRAPS of all-over, bands and edgings of lace or of muslin embroidery may be worked up into the matinee caps which girls who sew daintily are making for grandmothers, mothers and aunts to wear during the morning hours before the elaborate coiffure has been arranged. Turban caps are best for covering the head, as they reveal only a few stray locks about the temples and behind the ears. They have broad, puffy crowns of sheer batiste, handkerchief linen or muslin embroidery finely plaited on to a "stay" band fitted about the head, and to this band is attached a lace edged ruffle of the lingerie material or one wholly of lace or embroidery insertion. The joining of the crown and the ruffle is concealed by a twist of delicately tinted ribbon, bow knotted above the brow.

To make an infant's cap, turn back two inches of one side of a hand embroidered handkerchief to form a band about the face and at a similar distance from the opposite hem run a succession of fine shirrings, which should be tacked to a short "stay" band, so that the cap may fit snugly over the crown of the head. These shirrings will cause a little ruffle at the nape of the neck, but the sides of the cap will be straight and at their front corners may be tucked soft muslin eyelet embroidery makes a charming Irish cap, as the border of the material is just about wide enough to form the broad frill around the face made by shirring the yard long side of a triangularly shaped piece of muslin upon a band which terminates back of the ears. The two remaining sides are deeply plaited into another band at the nape of the neck. Lingerie or ribbon strings are tied beneath the chin.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER.

"IF only Bessie Slowe would thoroughly wash her face," sighed the April Grandmother, "she would look ten years younger. Oh, I am perfectly aware that it is not a nice remark to make anent the wife of a multi-millionaire banker, but I have known all about her habits since we were school girls. She was always the most scandalously trifling white girl in our set, and I am almost positive that she never does any more for her complexion than to dab at it twice a day with a damp cloth. Mark the result—a discolored, green-yellow cuticle, generously sprinkled with blackheads.

"More than a moistened rag is necessary to preserve the complexion," continued the April Grandmother in serious tones. "In order to get beneath the upper layer of skin the face must be rubbed with a stiff brush, and the more severe treatment its flesh receives the better for it, as the soap and water will be the more certain to penetrate to the underlying tissues and the exercise by aiding circulation will help to bring the blood to the surface. If Bessie Slowe's face were to be subjected to that treatment it would peel off any quantity of loose, dead skin; but even then her complexion would continue to look rough and dry, because she probably persists in her schoolgirl practice of using hard water without taking the trouble to soften it with a pinch of borax or bicarbonate of soda.

"Poor, dear, indolent old Bessie occasionally tries to account for her wilted appearance by saying that when she was growing up during the civil war—she was a Hopscotch of Virginia, and there is no bluer blood in the Old Dominion—her people were so reduced that not a penny remained for toilet fads and fancies. The rest of us were in the same financial boat, yet by dint of home remedies we contrived to keep our faces white and soft. For daily use there were tiny bags of coarse meshed cotton filled with a mixture of oatmeal, almond meal and powdered toilet soap, perfumed with orris or some sweet herb. When we could not get almond meal we pounded a little barley water into a basin of plain tepid water, and when we had not any barley at hand we used skim milk. Our last cow died at about the time the toilet soap supply gave out," continued the April Grandmother, lapsing into a reminiscent mood, "and in desperation one of your great-aunts split an ancient Irish potato in half and put one piece in her wash basin. It made a starchy looking white liquid, but when the face was rinsed with lukewarm water its cuticle was delightfully soft and fine. In those days we were always overjoyed to get a lemon, as by cutting it into thin slices and soaking them for a half hour in a basin of water they will make the skin satin smooth in addition to invigorating it.

"Occasionally to steam the face by holding it over a pitcher of boiling water scented with an aromatic herb will do it a world of good, provided the pores are closed before one goes into the dust laden city streets. An application of water into which a little benzoin has been poured will bring the pores together and by using this precaution the process of cleansing and keeping the complexion white will be more enduring.

"If during a motoring trip the face becomes quite grimy a few drops of good cologne put into the water will cut out the accumulated dust; but this should not be done too frequently, as the alcohol contained in the toilet water has a tendency to dry the cuticle, and when the natural oil is removed wrinkles naturally ensue. Motoring maidens of sweet sixteen usually possess vividly pink cheeks, for the wind brings the color into the face, but in quite cold weather this rose shade is apt to darken into purple and the skin is likely to coarsen unless frequently treated with the right sort of cold cream—meaning one devoid of ingredients calculated to cause hair to grow luxuriantly upon the cheeks and the chin. This was the recent experience of a school girl who in an effort to soften her skin and clear it of blackheads used a lotion which threatened to transform her into a genuine bearded lady."

THE SUMMER GIRL IN WINTER

My heart it starts a-sinking when in winter I sit thinking
Of beaus I had last summer by the sea,
And it really does appall me when I foolishly recall the False promises and threats they made to me.

Tom, with both his arms about me, said that he would die without me.
(The papers have not stated that he's dead.)

George would prate, "I'll ne'er forsake thee, and where I go I'll take thee."
(I guess he's lost the number of my flat.)

Said Sinclair, "If you would leave me, I'd sure get sick, believe me."
(He's had no doctor; I am sure of that.)

So my little list I go through—same old story with each beau who Made ruthless threats and promises to me,
All the while I sit home lonely, and my one wish is if only
All year could be a summer by the sea.
—New York Herald.

The Horrid Comedian.

"The fortune teller said she could tell by the lines in my hand that I would not be married for some time," sighed the leading lady.

A ragman who was gathering up wornout clothing in the country purchased a pair of discarded trousers at a farmhouse and remarked to the man of the house as he paid for the stuff he had bought:

"I see, sir, that you are about to lose your land on a mortgage."

"Guess you are right," said the discouraged looking farmer, "but will you tell me how the Sam Hill you found that out?"

"Easy enough," said the cheerful ragman as he settled back on the seat of his peddling wagon. "I notice that these old pants are completely played out, so far as the part of 'em you sat down on is concerned, but they show mighty little wear anywhere else."—Exchange.

A NIGHT OF TORTURE

It Brought a Fortune to Its Half Strangled Victim.

AN INNOCENT MAN'S ORDEAL.

Twice Strung Up by Lynchers, He Confessed to Murder and Was Afterward Vindicated and Recovered $25,000 From His Assailants.

Late in the fifties of the last century George W. King was the proprietor of a hotel in Oxford, twenty-six miles from Lafayette, Ind. In 1859 a stranger arrived at the hotel and gave his name as Dr. Rowe. He told King that he had no money and asked to be trusted for his board till he could get practice in the place, promising to pay him as promptly as possible. King consented to the arrangement, and Rowe soon became a favorite with the people on account of his companionable disposition and superior intelligence. The doctor, however, fell deeper and deeper in debt. He had been at the hotel for nearly a year when King reminded him one morning that he had not paid anything on his board bill for three months. The conversation, it afterward appeared, was overheard by some one in the hotel, though nothing was thought of it at the time.

A week after the conversation Rowe was called out late at night to see a patient and failed to return. Days passed without any word from him, and his disappearance soon was connected with the conversation that had passed between him and the landlord about the unpaid board. One night three months later a party of disguised men entered the hotel and, overpowering King, took him to a woodland adjoining the town.

He recognized the voices of several of his captors and especially of the leader, who told him that he was suspected of murdering Rowe and demanded that he confess. King stoutly maintained his innocence, and the leader of the mob ordered his companions "to string him up." A rope was placed around his neck, a dozen men pulled down a stout limb, over which the other end of the rope was thrown, and when the limb was released it carried King off his feet and left him hanging by the neck. He was nearly unconscious when let down and again ordered to confess.

After much delay he was restored sufficiently to understand what was said to him, and he again refused, declaring his innocence and saying he did not know what had become of Rowe. A second time he was strung up and a second time let down, but life was nearly extinct, and he was much longer in being restored than before.

The luckless landlord knew he could not pass through another such ordeal and live, so he consented to confess. He purposely lengthened the confession in order to gain time and said that he and two men, named Rogers and Haggard, had poisoned some whisky and induced Rowe to drink it, and after his death they had buried him in a hollow some distance away. It was nearly daylight when the confession was made, and the lynchers determined to take King to jail in Lafayette and then arrest Rogers and Haggard.

Before the jail was reached day had dawned, and King recognized his captors as members of the Horse Thief Detective company of Benton, Warren and Tippecanoe counties, nearly all of whom were known to him. Confident of his guilt, the men made no attempt to conceal their identity. So great was the excitement and so intense the feeling against King that he waived examination and went to jail, hoping that something would turn up to establish his innocence.

From the jail at Lafayette King addressed letters to editors of papers in Cincinnati, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and other cities, setting out the circumstances of his confinement and asking them to keep his letter in the papers in hopes that it might fall under Rowe's notice. The appeal was a pathetic one and was copied into many papers throughout the northwest.

Two weeks after its first appearance Dr. Rowe rode into Oxford and, attended by a number of citizens, proceeded to Lafayette, where his appearance caused the immediate release of the accused landlord. In explanation of his disappearance Rowe said he had left his home in the east on account of domestic troubles, that he had learned that his wife was on her way to Oxford, and he had determined to leave the place secretly in order to prevent her from learning where he had gone. He had gone to a little town in southern Illinois, and it was there that he learned that the man who had befriended him was suspected of his murder and was in jail in Lafayette.

As soon as King was released he brought suit against thirty-two members of the Horse Thief Detective company for $5,000 each and also against the company as a corporation. Thomas A. Hendricks, afterward vice president, was his counsel, but the case was not allowed to come to trial, the lynchers compromising by paying King $25,000. With this money he purchased a farm and other property near Lafayette, where he lived till his death at the age of seventy-eight years.

The Invisible Point.

It was an awfully old joke, but the American thought it might cause his English friend to generate a smile.

"Just before I sailed for Liverpool," said the American, "I dreamed that I was dead, and the heat woke me up."

"So?" rejoined the Englishman seriously. "The weather must be beastly hot in America."—Chicago News.

HAD GIVEN UP HOPE

But Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Restored Vigorous Health.

Medicines of the old fashioned kind will sometimes relieve the symptoms of disease, though they never touch the disease itself—they never cure. Ordinary medicines leave behind them indigestion, constipation and headaches. Purgatives leave those taking them feverish and weakened. On the other hand Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do direct good to the body, the blood and the nerves. They fill the veins with new rich blood; they tone and strengthen the nerves; they cure disease by rooting it out of the blood. They always do good — they cannot possibly do harm.

Mrs. George R Milson, Moncton, N.B., says:—"A few years ago after confinement I contracted a severe cold and although I took considerable medicine, I got no better. In fact my condition was gradually getting worse. I was all run down, had no appetite and grew so weak that I could not do my housework. At last the doctor who was attending me told my husband that I was going into a decline, and I feared so myself, for a sister had died of consumption. When almost in despair a friend suggested my taking Dr. Williams Pink Pills, and I got half a dozen boxes. Before I had taken them all I began to get better. Then I got another half dozen boxes, and before I had used them all I was able to do my housework again and was in better health than I had enjoyed for years. I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved me from going into consumption and I warmly recommend them to every weak person."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Phonetic Purchase.

The late Henry Miller, who was guide, philosopher and friend to many book lovers within a thousand miles of New York, was a most successful salesman. One day he called on Collis P. Huntington and showed him a rare copy of a book.

"There are two volumes of this," said Mr. Miller. "The other volume is in perfect order, as you see this one is. You cannot possibly let them escape you, for you know you have nothing like this in your library."

"What is the price?" asked the railroad king.

"Seven hundred dollars," said the bookman.

"Those are too valuable volumes for my library," Mr. Huntington exclaimed.

Mr. Miller went back to his place and sent the books to Mr. Huntington's house with a bill for $700. Next day the railroad king sent for him.

"Why did you send me those books?" he demanded sharply.

"Because you bought them," was the bookman's calm reply.

"I certainly did not!" cried the millionaire.

"Oh, yes, you did!" answered Mr. Miller. "You'll remember perfectly well when I tell you what you said. You told me distinctly, 'Those are two valuable volumes for my library.'"—Harper's Weekly.

A Close Distinction.

"You ain't going to kill me, is you, boss?" asked the negro of the man holding the bloodhounds.

Freaks of Pheasants.

As a Mr. Bacon of Much Hadham, Essex, England, was driving in his motor recently along the main Newmarket road three pheasants settled on the car, and were driven away only with difficulty. Another pheasant flew through a plate-glass window into the hall of the house of Rev. J. Forster, of Manuden, Essex.

Stolen Jewels in a Cathedral.

A Roman Catholic priest of Plymouth, England, has handed to the chief constable a box which he found in the cathedral near the confessional. It contained a quantity of jewelry, forming part of the proceeds of a robbery which occurred some time before at Westbury terrace, Plymouth.

AN OPEN LETTER

Results so Surprising That They Seem Marvelous Are Common to Mi-o-na the One Dependable Stomach Remedy.

Mrs. J. A. Pillow, of North street, Gananoque, Ont., says: "Mi-o-na is worth its weight in gold for quickly and permanently curing dyspepsia. I became so weak that I could not leave my bed. There was a constant burning in my stomach, I would belch up gas every few minutes and could eat but very little, as the food would quickly ferment and make gas that caused a serious depression of the heart. Perspiration would break out all over my body, I would become so weak that I could not stir and would often fall on the floor in a helpless state. The pains in my stomach were terrible. I could find no position in which to sit or lie without suffering, and I was so nervous that the least noise affected me. Headaches were constant. I would become dizzy and spots would appear before my eyes. I had no ambition to get around and everything seemed to tire me. The first box of Mi-o-na gave me more relief than anything I had previously tried. The second box of Mi-o-na cured me. I am well and strong and I have not had an hour's suffering since. I will always feel grateful to Mi-o-na for the cure given me and glad to recommend."

In the face of such evidence it is easy to understand why Wm. Madill feels assured in saying to you, money back if Mi-o-na fails to relieve either trivial or serious stomach trouble.

THE NEW NECKWEAR.

Collars and Stocks That Clever Women May Make.

The new neck ruches give a somewhat choked appearance, but they are meeting with popular approval nevertheless. It cannot be denied that of the two the high, choking affairs give much more style than the low, rounding ones which were formerly worn. The new separate stocks are made with wide ruchings at the top. Some smart models of this kind are shown here. The ruff with bow and long streamers is made of satin in any desired shade. The folds of satin for the stock itself are mounted on a shaped crinoline band, which is a little larger in the back than in the front. A double plaited frill is the same width both above and below the stock, and the bow is made with eight loops and very long ends.

SMART STOCKS AND COLLARS.

A pretty and stylish stock is made of folded net with a strip of Irish crochet at the top of the stock just below the very wide plaiting of the net. A lace edged jabot with a stiff little bow of ribbon is placed a little to the left, a new French notion. The Irish crochet may be real or imitation, as much of the imitation is very effective for this purpose.

Another pretty stock is made of silk or net folded toward the middle, making the folds meet down the middle of the stock in V shape. The plaited jabot is held by two little ties of silk.

THE BEST IN LIFE.

If you want to get the worth of the bargain in life cultivate gladness. The one who mopes doesn't enjoy herself, and surely no one enjoys her.

Any one can be glad when things go her way. To be glad when the maid breaks your best dinner set and the frock on which you've broken yourself turns out a fright shows a disposition that can be counted on to oil life's wheels.

There's a lot of gladness going, but many of us are blind to it. What we want is to take life like a healthy child and find enjoyment in simple things. We can cultivate our critical side until it takes the zest from everything.

What if we haven't an overflowing pocketbook? Need we hang down the corners of our mouths when there are health and the outdoors and love to make for gladness? Does it come easier to look on the black side? Has the pose of misfortune become your natural state? Forget it and take to grinning.

At first that grin may be strained but most of your friends will think it more lovely than your usual hangdog expression. The brand improves with practice.

Forced cheerfulness is not pleasing, but it is better than chronic depression. Keep pumping out that oil of gladness, and by and by the dumps will be lubricated.

Gladness isn't an effort to be glad; it is just being glad. You cannot worry yourself into it; neither does it come by simulation; it does come from taking life easy and enjoying things, whether they were meant to be enjoyed or not.

You sad one, try for a day to hunt causes for gladness. Instead of summing up your woes and mourning over the total, get in a receptive mood for joys. You'll be surprised at the end of the day to find how many have been the occasions for smiling.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

Tight sleeves and tight finger rings are a frequent source of red hands, and the only remedy for this is to remove the irritating cause.

The secret of standing and walking erect consists in keeping the chin away from the breast. This throws the head upward and backward, and the shoulders will naturally settle backward in their true position.

Sleeplessness is often caused by the head being exposed to the cold while the rest of the body is warm. In nine cases out of ten if the head is covered with a silk handkerchief it will induce the much desired sleep.

The skin taken out of an eggshell is a simple but good remedy for sore eyes. Just put on top of lid and bandage over it, and you will be surprised how soon the swelling will go down and the pain will leave the eye.

Feminine Logic.

"George, you seem to be losing all control over Jimmie."

"What makes you think so?"

"Why, he won't do a thing I tell him to do."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

HER GIANT FOLDING BED.

By O. W. LOOMIS.

It was against Mr. Bentley's advice that Cora bought the giant folding bed. They lived on the sixth floor in a small five-rooms-and-a-bath-steam-heated-all-improvements flat, and he said that such a huge folding bed was out of all proportion to the size of the bedroom. But Mrs. Bentley had set her heart on it, and Mr. Bentley has not been husband so long as to feel like thwarting any legitimate wish.

When she went down to the store she found she was just in time to get one at half price. What luck! She had expected to pay $35 for the bed, and she got it at $25, although by what process of arithmetic twenty-five becomes the half of thirty-five she did not stop to inquire.

But with the reduced price of the bed her good luck ended, and she entered upon a chapter of annoyances that would have made the bed dear as a gratuity.

The bed people were just moving out and were too busy to send the bed home. Five separate expressmen refused to stir their wagons when they learned that it was a giant. She began to wish that it was a trundle bed. But at last an expressman who was just starting in business and who was therefore inexperienced contracted for $2 to deliver it.

So she went and waited for the bed with all the ardor of a child. Every time the dumb waiter whistle blew she ran out to see if they were trying to send it up that way, but when it finally arrived after a wait of four hours it came in at the front door.

After ten minutes or so Mrs. Bentley heard mastodonic footsteps on the stairs, the swish of tearing wall paper, the crash of falling globes, and she knew that they were bringing the bed upstairs. So did all the other flat dwellers. When she looked over the staircase there were from three to four heads beneath her, all looking down.

The arrival at different landings was punctuated by the crash of glass and the fall of plaster. And on the third floor the bed fell on one of the men. Luckily he was a fat German, and he escaped with a barked shin and a mislaid temper.

Long before that there was a string of home returning heads of families separated from their little ones by the Chinese wall of a bed. Those who were athletic enough climbed over and escaped to their apartments, but the rest had to content themselves with throwing kisses to their beloved ones and telling them not to despair.

Mrs. Bentley had not hitherto known there were so many people living in the house. The stairs were black with them, and the bed moved with the deliberation of a glacier.

When the men reached the fourth floor they clamored for beer, and Mrs. Bentley, being inexperienced, sent for two bottles, which were brought in by the janitor's son.

The two men sat down, or, rather, up, way up, on the bed and opened a bottle apiece amid groans from the belated flat dwellers who lived above the third. It is probable that they had already solaced themselves with beer, for they became very merry and loquacious after the bottles had been emptied, and many of their jokes would not have been allowed at a variety theater.

There is a saying that there is always room at the top. This did not prove to be the case in regard to the giant bed. The hallway at the top flat was a joint affair, two suits opening on it, and it was the narrowest in the building. When the men finally arrived with their tremendous load they found that it was going to be a Chinese puzzle to get into Mrs. Bentley's. They shattered the last globe and then sat down on the stairs to ponder.

They finally came to the conclusion that they could not get it in unless the door of the opposite apartment were opened to admit of its being slewed around.

Mrs. Cochran was the opposite neighbor. She and Mrs. Bentley had been as distant as such contiguous flat dwellers could be. Their bows in the hall were as icy as the hall itself. Mrs. Cochran thought Mrs. Bentley a foolish little new wife, and Mrs. Bentley thought Mrs. Cochran common.

Still, there was nothing for it but to ask Mrs. Cochran to open her front door and let the man swing the bed into the doorway for just one moment.

The fat man rang her bell. She opened the door, with fire in her eyes. She had been trying to get the youngest to sleep, and the constant thumping and crashing and the objurgations and beery laughter of the expressmen had rolled the not too placid waters of her disposition to a foaming point.

Mrs. Cochran glowered.

"Oh!" said Mrs. Bentley, with a hastily made veneer of sweetness. "May the men just swing the bed into your hallway so that they can get it into my doorway? I didn't suppose it was so big. I don't think it was so big in the store."

Mrs. Cochran sniffed at the inanity of the remark, but she said:

"Oh, I suppose I cannot refuse. I hope you'll quit your thumping after you get it in. I can't get my child to sleep while it's going on."

"I'm sure it will only be a minute. You see, the worst is over."

"I should hope so." said Mrs. Cochran, looking at the dents in the wall and the broken globes. And then the two expressmen put their shoulders to the bed and swung it into the doorway with such vehemence that it stuck like a fat cork in a small bottle and refused to budge.

"Well, this is a pretty state of things," said Mrs. Cochran from behind the bed. "How do you suppose we're going to close our front door with that great bed in the way?"

"You won't need to close it. No one vill come in vhile der bet is dere. It is besser as a door." And the German laughed uproariously and fatly.

"Oh, but this is too awful!" said Mrs. Bentley, wringing her hands helplessly.

"I should think it was," came the voice of Mrs. Cochran from the other side of the bed.

"Is your husband in there? Can't he help push?" suggested Mrs. Bentley.

"No," snapped Mrs. Cochran. "He hasn't come home yet, and, what's more, he can't until this barricade is removed. How anybody but a fool could have bought such a monstrous thing I don't see!"

At this juncture Mr. Cochran came upstairs, with Mr. Bentley just behind him. Mr. Cochran looked puzzled. Mr. Bentley groaned. He had come home too soon.

"What are you doing to the bed?" asked Mr. Cochran.

"Ve ain't doin' a t'ing to it," said the fat German joyously.

Bentley and Cochran laughed, but Mrs. Bentley saw no humor in the remark, and certainly Mrs. Cochran saw no funny side to the bed. Both sides seemed tragic to her.

"Is that you, George?" she called out.

"Yes, it's me. Shall I come in?"

"What are you doing with it in the wrong door?" asked Mr. Bentley of the expressmen.

"Sure, 'twould have shtook as fasht in anny dure," said the Irish expressman, and the German roared sympathetically.

Mr. Cochran is a man of action. "Here; we four men ought to be able to move a little bed—a bed. Now, altogether; pull!"

Mr. Cochran is a successful politician, but he had the wrong kind of pull with him, and the only result of the effort was that Mr. Bentley pulled off some of the molding and fell on his back.

Nothing daunted, Mr. Cochran said, "Let's go around by way of the fire escape and push."

The two expressmen and Mr. Cochran made nothing of passing from Mrs. Bentley's parlor to Mrs. Cochran's parlor by the fire escape, but Mr. Bentley is light headed and had to be helped across—by his wife. Then the two entered the Cochran apartments for the first time like thieves in the night.

Now all six combined their strength and pushed, but the bed only laughed at them.

"Well, nothing more can be done now," said Cochran. "The bed is here, and it's got to stay here for the present. Now, you men might as well go about your business. You've done what you set out to do—the bed is up here fast enough."

"How much do I owe you?" asked Bentley of the German.

"Two dollars. I'll sent around a carpenter if you vand."

"Oh, no!" said Mrs. Bentley. "He'll be able to move it."

Back across the fire escape was Mr. Bentley helped by his faithful wife, and then they bade the Cochrans good night. It was such an impossible thing that had happened that everybody felt good natured once more, just as in a blizzard or a period of excessive heat people make light of their misfortunes and passersby joke one another.

Next morning immediately after breakfast Mrs. Bentley went down to the bed company to see whether they could suggest a way of getting the bed out of Mrs. Cochran's doorway.

They had moved, and a big sign in the window bore the legend, "To Be Opened In a Few Days as a Ladies' Lunch Room."

For the space of two days that bed stood in the doorway while carpenter after carpenter came and looked at it and shook his head and went away.

Then came one who said: "I've seen those beds before. They ain't worth bothering with. The company's failed that made them. Now, next door to my shop is a vacant lot, and if I cut the bed to pieces I guess you can dump it there and the owner of the lot won't mind."

Mrs. Bentley hailed the scheme as a heaven sent proposition. Mr. Bentley was downtown, and Mrs. Cochran, who was on the other side chatting with her—for in spite of what had come between them they were now quite friendly—seconded the plan.

The carpenter borrowed an ax of the janitor, and in a half hour's time, with the exception of the mirror, which was preserved intact, there was not a square foot of the bed unbroken. The carpenter sent the pieces down on the dumb waiter and then took them away and presumably dumped them. Mrs. Cochran spent five minutes shutting and opening the door. It was so pleasant to be able to do it again.

Then Mrs. Bentley invited her neighbor into her flat and apologised for making so much trouble.

"It was no trouble at all, my dear. It has made something to talk about."

Now, Mr. Bentley seemed to think that $25 for the bed, $2 for delivery and $10 for damage to the hallways, together with the charge of the carpenter for the time it took him to destroy the bed, was rather a large amount to pay for a subject of conversation. So he isn't saying a word about it.

Reportorial Persistence.

Once a reporter went to a certain residence in New York to get details about the master of the house, who had just died, in order that an obituary notice might appear in the newspaper which he represented. Such details, as a rule, are easy to get. The reporter, therefore, was intensely surprised when the widow of the deceased, with scarcely a word, slammed the door in his face.

She retired into the house. Presently the doorbell rang furiously. She refused to stir. Again the doorbell rang, more furiously than before. Still the lady of the house would not stir.

"I have told him that I don't want to say anything about my husband," she thought to herself, "and he has no right to be so persistent."

So she sat still while the doorbell rang again and again and again.

At last she could stand it no longer, so, opening a window over the front door, she poked her head out and remarked severely:

"Young man, I do not desire to say anything to you. Kindly do not disturb me any more. Go away, young man."

"I can't!" roared the reporter, beside himself with exasperation. "You have shut my coattails in the door!"

Putting White Clothes Away.

A housewife should be careful to have all the starch washed out of clothes before they are put away for the winter. They should be rough dry and if possible protected by sheets of dark blue paper.

A firm in Paris is issuing cards to be worn in the buttonhole bearing the inscription: "I am very well, thank you. I am fully aware of the state of the weather and have heard all the latest news."

A Marvelous Improvement.

It has remained for Canada to give to the musical world one of the most important inventions of the century. This is the Harmonic Tone-Prolonging Bridge, which is so marked a feature of the New Scale Williams Piano. This bridge isolates the tone from the plate, and makes each note clear and distinct. Those who have listened to the full, rich, mellow, singing tone of the New Scale Williams Piano can testify to its clarity volume and carrying power.

New Scale Williams Piano is perfectly balanced—treble, middle and bass being beautifully proportioned. This is a noticeable feature in concert work, and is highly praised by artists. Mr. E. T. Murray, leader of the famous "Black Watch" Band says, "The tone is more like a fine Baby Grand than an Upright." And the Harmonic Tone-Prolonging Bridge is but one of many exclusive features in these—Canada's finest pianos. 4

What She Was Thinking Of.

The young poet had just finished what he considered to be a work of real inspiration, and, rising from his table, he hastened upstairs to where his little wife, a bride of six weeks, was sitting darning his socks.

And he began to read. He put his whole soul into the reading. His gestures were graceful; his intonation perfect. The whole spirit of his beautiful poem breathed forth as he threaded his way form the beginning to the end of his theme, and when he had finished he looked at her, awaiting her verdict.

For a time she was silent.

"Well, dear heart," he said, "tell me what you are thinking."

"What?"

"Whether the butcher was not awfully late with that liver," she replied.—Judge.

Doctored Blood Oranges.

In St. Petersburg a young girl eating a blood orange raised a cry and began to spit blood. She had swallowed the broken point of the needle of an injection syringe. It was removed and was found still to contain a certain quantity of red aniline dye. When the remainder of the packet of oranges was examined it was discovered that they had all been injected with a solution of saccharin and red aniline coloring. This process has long been known to give ordinary oranges the appearance of blood oranges.—Paris Edition New York Herald.

FAMILY HAD TO MAKE THEIR ESCAPE FROM BURNING BUILDING IN THEIR NIGHT CLOTHES WERE AWAKENED BY THE SMOKE IN TIME

Mr. Geo. Downer's Family Had a Narrow Escape in Early Morning Blaze To-day---Several Stores Were Gutted.

FROM DEFECTIVE WIRE

The family of Mr. George Downer corner of Sherbrooke and George sts. had a narrow escape from being burned to death in a blaze which broke out at 4.30 o'clock this morning. They were awakened by the smoke and had only time to escape into the street clad in their night robes while their home was gutted and they were left with nothing. It is thought that the blaze originated from a defective wire but nothing definite is known as to the origin. The blaze had gained considerable headway before it was discovered and Mr. Downer who occupied the top storey of the building with his wife and six small children were aroused just before it was too late. Mr. Downer managed to throw on a few articles of clothing and the children were picked up and carried into a neighbour's house where they were given shelter.

The rooms were filled with smoke and flames at this time but Mr. Downer remembering that his dog was still inside the building, pluckily dashed back through the blaze and rescued the animal.

Ald. Geo. H. Duncan who lives next door was awakened by the blaze and sent in an alarm which was responded to quickly by the brigade who did splendid work in saving the adjoining buildings. There was a high wind blowing and the property near by was in danger for a while but the firemen managed to hold the blaze to the building in which it originated.

The stores downstairs were occupied by Frank J. Goselin, butcher and Albert Barnardo, shoe maker, both of whom are heavy losers as their places of business were gutted by the flames and flooded with water. Mr. Downer lost all his property with no insurance to help them out.

Considerable damage was done to the residence of Ald. Duncan, who lives immediately north of the burned building. All the windows on the side nearest to the fire were broken while the woodwork was scorched and the water flooded the cellar.

Lost Everything

Mrs. Downer was found by an Examiner reporter this morning at the home of Mrs. Harvey Miller, on George street near Sherbrooke street, her six little children the oldest about nine and the youngest a babe in arms were dressed in clothes which Mrs Miller kindly gave her and even Mrs. Downer herself was obliged to accept the generously proffered clothing from Mrs. Miller, as not a thing was saved from the blaze.

"I got out the children out in their night clothes and it was a narrow escape for Willie and Johnnie I had the rest of the children safely outside but these boys slept in another room on the ground floor. I broke the window from the outside and shouted at them. In a few seconds Willie stumbled through the back door exhausted from the smoke he had been breathing in his sleep."

Mrs. Downer displayed cuts on her wrists and arms which had been inflicted by the jagged edges of glass when she broke the window.

The children's names are Willie, Johnnie, Violet, Asa, Lillie and Julia. Mrs. Downer was very thankful to Mrs. Miller who generously offered assistance in her dire distress. "Not a solitary thing was saved" she remarked, "but all the children are safe and that is a lot to be thankful for."

The children vividly remembered the events they had witnessed and taken part in and Willie told of his being nearly blinded by the smoke and ran from his room with his brother only in their night shirts. Mrs. Downer thought the fire had been burning for a considerable time before it was noticed by her family.

GRAFTED ON A DEAD MAN'S LEG

Remarkable Operation Performed by Doctors Which Promises Success.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Doctors at the Georgetown Hospital witnessed a remarkable operation performed there several days ago by Dr George Tully Vaughan, of this city, on George A. Kelly, aged 29. The bones of Kelly's knees were so badly diseased that Dr. Vaughan decided on amputation

In the hospital was a man about to die. Dr. Vaughan obtained permission from the dying patient's family to remove the left leg in the event of death, and it was decided that the knee of the dead man should be grafted to the leg of the living sufferer.

The transfer was duly made. The bones were riveted together by slender strong wire, and the most delicate phase of the operation, that of joining the ligaments, caused the surgeons to work as they probably never labored before. Every tissue, tendon and muscle was joined, and the bones fastened together. Kelly is said to be improving rapidly.

Erection Of Mat Factory Will Be Pushed To Early Completion

The work on Mr. William Weatherstone's new mat factory is being pushed forward as rapidly as the weather will permit, and already the foundation has been completed. The business is now being carried on in the building at the corner of Simcoe and Water streets, but has proven too small and does not provide the desired convenience for manufacture.

The building is located on the Northwest corner of the Hilliard farm and will be 100 feet by 30 feet. The walls will be of brick veneer, and when finished the factory will be able to handle the increased business that has resulted from careful attention and the turning out of a good article. A new power loom will be installed and the number of the working staff will be increased. The success that has attended Mr. Weatherstone's efforts is amply manifested by the fact that larger premises were necessary, together with increased help.

The foundaton work was done by Mr. John Moss, Aylmer street, and the rest of the building will be completed as soon as possible.

Fifteen Cases Of Scarlet Fever Since New Year's Day

Yesterday afternoon another scarlet fever card was taken out from the Police Station and placed on a house on Simcoe street. This makes the fifteenth case that has been recorded since the new year. Of contagious diseases the only other recorded by the Police Department is one case of diphtheria. There has been more or less of a feeling around the city that an epidemic of scarlet fever existed, but these figures hardly uphold the belief.

Head Of The Colonization Bureau Sends In Resignation

It is understood he will accept a position with a Montreal firm, which has been offered to him. Trolley Wire Broken By Tree Being Blown Down By The Wind

The Jackson Park line of the Street Railway was put out of commission this morning by a tree falling across the street in front of Mrs. A. Elliott's residence, Park street. It fell in front of car No. 12, and had barely struck the ground when the car coming south ran into it before Motorman Jarvis had time to stop it. A second earlier and the tree would have fallen on the car. As it was No. 12 pushed the tree a short distance and the weight of the limbs broke the guide wires and snapped the trolley wire. The other car ran between Central Park and Smith street while the wire was being repaired.

BIG CONFERENCE ON CHARITABLE WORKERS HELD IN WASHINGTON

During the past week a notable conference of leaders in charitable work was held in Washington at the call of President Roosevelt. Canada was represented at this meeting by Mr. J. J. Kelso, who was specially invited by the President to attend. The following were the conclusions arrived at, and the President urged that all who were interested in the care of the nation's children should do all in their power to have them put into effect:—

1. Children of worthy parents or deserving mothers, should, as a rule, be kept with their parents at home.

2. Society should endeavour to eradicate causes of dependency like disease and to substitute compensation and insurance for relief.

3. Homeless and neglected children, if normal, should be cared for in families, when practicable.

4. Institutions should be on the cottage plan with small units, as far as possible.

5. Agencies caring for dependent children should be incorporated on approval of a suitable State Board.

6. The State should inspect the work of all agencies which care for dependent children.

7. Educational work of institutions and agencies caring for dependent children should be supervised by the State educational authorities.

8. Complete histories of dependent children and their parents should be recorded for guidance of child-caring agencies.

9. Every needy child should receive the best medical and surgical attention and be instructed in health and hygiene.

10. Local child caring agencies should co-operate and establish joint bureaus of information.

11. Prohibitive legislation against transfer of dependent children between States should be repealed.

12. A permanent organization for work along the lines of these resolutions is desirable.

13. Establishment of a Federal Children's Bureau is desirable, and enactment of pending bill is earnestly recommended.

14. Suggest special message to Congress favouring Federal Children's Bureau and other legislation applying above principles to District of Columbia and other Federal territory.

LARGE PIECE OF ICE FELL FROM POST OFFICE ROOF

A solid piece of ice about the size of a bucket fell from the roof of the Post Office yesterday afternoon, narrowly escaped striking a group of men who were standing on the sidewalk. A number of men who witnessed the affair were not reticent in their statements that the men had a narrow escape. One man was sure that the mass of ice would have killed a horse had it struck one

FROLIC OF THE WINDS

The winds from the cold regions of the north and west rapidly changed the atmospheric conditions existing during the past twenty four hours The city sank into slumber lulled by the listless falling of rain. This morning a stiff breeze had cleared the air and as the morning wore on its velocity increased and its direction changed from west to north. The wind was the friend of some and the enemy of others, it depended whether you were walking against it or with it. It tugged at overcoat buttons and blew girls' hats like streamers on an April breeze. It delighted in tossing my lady's pretty curls into the most charming confusion with an effect that no amount of dressing could create.

It picked a young woman off her feet at the corner of Hunter and Water streets carrying her into the middle of the street, leaving her stunned and lying in middle of the road It blew down a tree on Park street near the corner of Gilmour street, striking the trolley wire, breaking it causing a cessation of business for several hours. It blew down a gable end of a wall at the Peterborough Cereal Co's mill; it whisked the top of a C. P. R. box car standing in the yards near the shovel works. On the whole it had a noisy time, and its whistling through the telegraph wires resembled the excited shriek of a gale-swept Aeolian harp.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY TO HOLD MEETING

There will be a meeting of the Historical Society on Thursday, Feb. 11th, at 8 p.m. in the Collegiate Institute.

The address will be given by F Barlow Cumberland, Esq., of Port Hope, his subject being "The Attack on Fort York, 1813." The public are cordially invited to be present to listen to Mr. Cumberland's address.

WALL OF PETERBOROUGH CEREAL COMPANY'S BUILDING DOWN

Terrific Gale Blowing This Morning Toppled the Gable Over Into Roof of Storehouse, Carrying the Latter Down.

THE DAMAGE CAUSED WILL NOT BE SERIOUS.

With a crash that could be heard for a considerable distance, the south gable wall of the Peterborough Cereal Company's main building on Simcoe street, was blown down by the terrific gale at 10.30 o'clock this morning, and in its fall carried away the top storey of the small storehouse at the rear, the debris of both buildings spreading over the yard behind. McIntyre Bros., contractors, are at work upon the building, the roof of which is being raised so that it was clear from the south wall. This morning the heavy gale proved too much for the unsupported gable and it gave way without the slightest warning, crashing down upon the roof of the building beneath. This structure was formerly used as a chop mill, but recently has been converted into a storehouse. The wall came down with such force that the roof and walls of the second storey of the smaller building were literally carried off from the lower storey.

Fortunately no one was hurt in the accident, but several men had narrow escapes. Two employees of the company were just about to enter the storehouse when the crash came, and had they been inside when the wall fell, might have been seriously injured. A team of horses had been standing just outside and were driven away a few moments before the accident. Had they been there at the time they would have been buried beneath a pile of debris.

The damage is not as serious as one would fancy from looking at the ruins, and will not interfere with the operations of the mill.

The United States Consular Agency Here Has Been Closed

A lessened revenue makes even the great United States Government economical. To-day the United States consular agency here, in charge of Mr. Frank Bell, closes its doors. This is in one sense a misfortune, as hereafter all the consular business done by local establishments, will have to be done through the Toronto agency. There does not seem any good reason except considerations of economy. The business is seven-fold greater than it was a few years ago, and Mr. Bell has given every satisfaction, both to his employers and the public. The closing of the agency will represent a serious inconvenience to the American Cereal Works and others shipping largely to the United States.

Warden Scott Had To Borrow A Buggy To Drive Home To-day

Warden Scott had a rather strange experience yesterday and to-day. In company with Mr. J. H. Fife, Reeve of Otonabee, he visited several bridges between Keene and Otonabee and inspected them. Yesterday they were driving in a cutter with the sleighing all gone, and for long distance the cutter scraped over the bare roadway. Arriving at Keene the Warden obtained a buggy and drove to Peterborough. He remarked that he thought he was going to be blown off the hills by the fierce wind. He started out with good sleighing but the transformation to wheeling was rapid and complete.

CHIMNEY BLAZE ON GEORGE STREET

Fire also broke out in the chimney this morning of the Peter Hamilton foundry, to which the brigade was called. This was the second run this morning for them. The blaze was soon extinguished with eight gallons of chemicals before any damage was done.

WORKMEN MADE ILL

HAD TO DISCONTINUE WORK

Five plasterers employed by Wm Saxby were affected by coal gas fro a "salamander" in a new house whic is being built by Mr. Jas. As a result of the gathering in the cellar three of th men became ill and had to quit wor and the next day in one of the upstai rooms two others were overcome i the same way.

RESIST BEGINNINGS.

We have one of the best and best equipped Collegiate Institute buildings in the province, and one of the best—it not the best—faculties. The only capital defect in the building is that it does not seem large enough to meet the demands of the favour its excellencies in the matter of equipment and staff gain with outside pupils. With such conditions existing, with everything of a high class, we should have an Institute journal to correspond. But speakin in all kindness, we have not. "Collegiate Echoes" is in many respects an admirable periodical, creditable to the publishers, the Philomathean Society. Its contents indicate a good deal of literary ability on the part of the contributors. But there are serious defects, easily remedied, which should be mended in future issues. A journal like the "Echoes" should reflect the character and quality of teaching imparted at the Institute, but it does not do so. It cannot be that the Institute authorities teach the corrupted form of spelling which is contrary to the highest standard of English orthography—the British—omitting the "u" in such words as "honour," "favour," 'colour', etc. Neither can it be that the vicious colloquialisms, represented by the slang of the streets and slums is taught and absorbed in the classic shades of the Institute. In the last issue, that for January, there appears an excellent article—well written as to literary form and in a racy and interesting style. But it is disfigured by the use of slang—in one place—but that is enough to rob it of the distinction which it otherwise has of being a good specimen of good, readable, well-expressed English. A grammatical slip is a venial offence in comparison to a slang expression. One argues a momentary forgetfulness, or carelessness; the other is a moral delinquency—indicating moral disregard of what is pure and refined and—right. The correct and refined employment of language is a mark of education and culture. Resist beginnings is sound Horatian advice. Yielding to the corrupting influences of environment, becomes the easier the more it is practised. Practising the use of "slang" speedily develops into a habit. And it isn't to train boys and girls in the use of the language of the gutter that parents spend large sums to give them a Collegiate Institute training.

BLUNDER.

Our guileless evening contemporary has the following:

"The blow to rural battalions through the action of the Laurier Government in leaving them without provision for the annual drill, will likely prove a fatal one. It is a wonderful Government."

This is an awful state of things. The most "wonderful" thing about the Laurier Government is the fact that, if the rural battalions should not have annual drill it is following Conservative precedent in this regard, for it did precisely the same thing on more than one occasion. It did not prove "a fatal blow" either, for the Militia managed to hang together, in spite of the petty, stingy, way the Conservative Government dealt with our volunteers. The expenditure on militia and defence under the Conservative Government was in 1896, the sum of $1,136,713; in 1908 under Liberal administration the expenditure was $5,498,183, and even this year with the "fatal blow" reduction, the figure for militia and defence stands at $4,813,150, more than four times the expenditure provided by the Conservative Government in 1896. Even this year the Government appropriates more for the pay of the permanent force than the Conservative Government spent in 1896 on the whole militia. Besides the militia has been, under Liberal Administration, brought up to a high state of efficiency, and the morale of the force greatly improved. The Review will hardly make another such critical blunder.

THE LESSENED ESTIMATES.

The temporary wave of financial depression has resulted in a diminution of Dominion revenue, and in conformity therewith, the estimates of expenditure have been correspondingly reduced. This is a proper and business view to take of the situation. For the past three or four years we have had a buoyant revenue and liberal expenditures were possible and justifiable. In a new country like Canada there are infinite public conveniences to be provided by the Government, and, properly, those of the largest importance should be preferred in the making of public expenditures. We must have the best transportation facilities within our financial capacity, to get our soil products to the transoceanic market; so that expenditures in this direction must be continued. There are other minor needs, but of local and therefore lesser importance, that are expected to await their turn. The estimates provide for lessened expenditures upon public buildings and local improvements, which represent conveniences it is true, but not absolutely indispensable in the scheme of equipment for national purposes. Many localities may be disappointed at not being considered in the distribution of minor public works, etc., but it is the part of patriotism to acquiesce in the subordination of sectional requirements to the interests of national well-being, and enterprises of national import. With a lessened revenue—temporary it is to be hoped, for there are signs of improvement—it cannot reasonably be expected that the provision of public conveniences should be on the same liberal scale as has obtained upon an overflowing income.

It is a wise man, who guages his expenditures to the fluctuations of his income, and the same applies to a Government.

THE VALUE OF FOREST.

Mr L. O. L. Armstrong, Canadian Pacific Colonization Agent, states as below:

To-day the American lumbermen and pulp mill owners look to Canada, as the dying Moslem looks to Mecca, for salvation. Let us see to it that they do not look in vain. The cutting down of a forest without leaving seed trees in abundance may mean the cutting off of future supplies of timber and the complete disappearance of all the fish and game. The actual money value of each year's production and consumption of fish and game in Canada is somewhere in the neighbourhood of $75,000,000. Are we going to endanger this source of revenue by the disappearance of the forest cover?

There is matter for much thought in these words. Retention and restoration of our forest growth has a large economic importance. It represents to a very substantial extent Ontario's raw industrial material. Forest is the natural water conservation system. The experience of this winter with low water, consequent interruption of power supply, consequent industrial interruption, consequent shortened pay cheques of employees and consequent diminished receipts by merchants, illustrates the importance of control of our water supply at its source. While artificial reservoirs should be provided there should be equal attention given to the preservation of the reservoirs nature has provided, forest areas. This at the same time will preserve our timber supply. In view of the growing scarcity of timber, it is time that more care in cutting should be exercised. If only mature trees are cut, and growing trees reserved to increase in girth and cubic contents, cutting would be done under true economic conditions. If government supplemented the good effects of such a system by providing in some scheme of reforestry that for each tree cut another should be planted, something like a permanent supply would be secured. Peterborough avoided a water famine this winter by conservation of the waters of spring by retaining dams, instead of permitting the water of spring to rush to waste. If we waste our forest resources in a similar manner by reckless cutting, and fail to preserve growing timber or practice systematic reforestry, we must expect undesirable results.

The forest reserves of the Province of Ontario contain one hundred and two million acres, and it is estimated that there are seven billion feet of pine on these reserves, and they are at the same time game preserves and water reservoirs.

WHAT CANADA WANTS.

The Financial News of London, England advocates the absorption of more immigrants by Canada. What Canada needs principally is capital and population, both necessary elements in the work of development. We can use all the capital we can get, to advantage but as to immigration it must be as genuine as the money. That is it must be of the right quality—the working quality; and more than that, its working quality must be chiefly expended upon the soil. Our capacity for mere labour is limited, but our capacity for immigration that will go upon the land and create demand for other forms of labour is practically infinite. We have land for nations. Every tiller of the soil is assured a competence, and in turn opens up new avenues of employment for industrial and labouring forces. Give us the right kind of immigrants and we shall give them the land. The undesirable immigrant is not necessarily the vicious and the immoral. The man who will not work at whatever turns up, that will not go upon the land, is an undesirable. We want no immigrants who will not work either with his hands or through capital whose employment creates labour demands.

CANADA'S NOMINEES.

The Montreal Herald has the following instructive comment:

Hon. Mr. Fisher, Hon. Mr. Sifton, and Dr. Beland, M.P., have been named as the representatives of Canada at the convention called by President Roosevelt to discuss the conservation of the natural resources of the continent. The delegation can be depended upon to do Canada credit. Hon. Mr. Fisher has made himself an authority upon all matters relating to the economic opportunities available in Canada, agricultural and other, and of necessity his position at the head of the Bureau of Census and Statistics has made him familiar with many phases of the subject. With Hon. Mr. Sifton the subject has long been something more than an intellectual recreation. When he was Minister of the Interior he entered vigorously upon the work of conservation as an accompaniment to the work of organizing settlement. If there is irrigation in the farther West it is largely due to his initiative. And those who remember the last big speech he made in the House will recall that he then pointed the way to precisely such a policy for Canada as has since commanded, in its American and continental aspects, the interest and approval of Mr. Roosevelt. Dr Beland is less widely known than his associates, but he is a man of ability, and who is well equipped for participation in the congress.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Calgary is heading an agitation to procure thes hipment of grain by Pacific ports instead of by the eastern route. This does not seem to be objectionable. Our trade in the far East is growing, and Western Canada is far enough West to be almost relatively East. If the development of the West continues as it has done of late, the avenues of transport, even including those additional ones under construction, will speedily be glutted. In view of this the shipment of grain by the West will, before long, be compulsory if we get the products of our teeming wheat fields out of the country and to a market.

THE WEATHER

THERE is a decided contrast between the very mild weather prevailing at the present time and that which we had at the same date last winter. One of the most severe cold spells of the winter was with us during the first week in February. On February 4th the thermometer was down to 29 deg. below zero, on the 5th, 28 deg. below, and on the 6th (a year ago to-day) 16 deg. below zero. This morning it was 46 deg. above zero, and the recent warm rain has caused the snow to almost completely disappear. A year ago, there were about 24 inches of snow on the ground. A storm prevailed, and all trains were blocked.

MOST SATISFACTORY POULTRY HOUSE

From Farm and Dairy.

Before building my poultry house I had visited the Government Poultry plants at Ottawa and Guelph, and corresponded with many poultrymen in order to find out what would be a practical and yet not an over expensive poultry house. After gathering all the information possible, I built my poultry house and I think I have got a good one. It has worked out to my complete satisfaction. The house is after all only a common shed with properly placed windows and doors in front, and the little loft above. Any farmer of fair means could have one similar to mine and his women folks would then attend their poultry in comfort.

My poultry house as shown in the illustration on this page, is 50 x 16 ft. It faces the south. It contains four pens 12 x 13 and a three-ft. continuous passage along the north side. A small feed lean-to is located at the east end. The building is single sheeted with plain undressed lumber with two-inch battens. The roof is shingled. The floor is raised one and one-half feet above the surrounding level by means of broken stone and gravel on which is a layer of earth and on top of all three inches of sand. This latter is taken off and renewed each summer.

There is one solid partition in the centre of the building which prevents any through draughts. The other divisions are made with two-foot bottom boards, the balance of the space to the ceiling being wire. The ceilings of the pens are boards set loose with six or seven-inch spaces between. The gable is filled with straw through the top door at the end. This gives ventilation and absorbs all moisture. The straw is pulled down through the ceiling as it is required.

The doors of the pens are made in half to be used according to the state of the weather. They have half wire fronts on which cotton is tacked in winter. The cotton being fastened on with buttons is removable for cleaning out purposes, etc.

The roosts are enclosed in a box on the innermost side of the pen. They are boarded in on five sides and have a canvas front to let down at night. The floor of this roosting compartment is two feet above the floor of the pen, thus giving the whole interior to the chickens for scratching space.

The building is a "cold" house; it contains no system of heating. We have never had a comb touched with frost. The birds have had no colds, no lice, and the hens lay from November on, depending upon the time that they were hatched in spring. The cost of the building was $210.00. It carries 100 hens, is simple in construction and gives the largest amount of floor space, which latter count be increased if the passage were done away with and doors fixed to open through from one pen to another. Such an arrangement, however, would not be so handy for the womenkind, as the chickens are fed, the roosts cleaned and the eggs collected all from the passage way.

HOW TO OBTAIN EARLY CHICKENS

From Farm and Dairy.

The early chicken is one of the things desired by the poultryman. The problem of getting them hatched and to keep them growing till warm spring weather comes is a source of endless study. The plan that I followed with by last pen ot pure-bred fowls proved a most gratifying success. It was not the result of any special line of study. I was on the other hand forced to adopt it or lose a season's benefit from an expensive pen of imported birds. I herewith give it for the benefit of readers of Farm and Dairy.

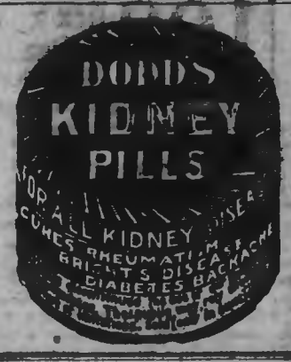
My fowl house was in a corner of a barn with a big door opening to the south. The roosting pen was airy but not draughty, the door being closed at night. First thing every morning, storm or shine, all doors were thrown open. Under these conditions, with the run of a dry barn floor and a snow covered yard outside, sheltered by the house and high board fences from all winds, and fed on a well balanced ration including plenty of cut bone, the pullets began laying shortly after their arrival from the States. They kept it up at a record making gait till I became alarmed at the thought that they would all be broody when I wanted eggs in March.

With this in mind the neighborhood was scoured for "cluckers." Three or four were secured that stood the move, and settled down to incubate from nine to 11 eggs each. I set them in a stall that had been partitioned off for their exclusive use. While the hatching was going on, preparations were made to care for the chicks that were expected. These duly arrived. In the meantime I ordered a 120 chick brooder for out-doors. Next I got a piano box, laid it on its back and removed the slanting part of the cover and replaced it with a glass sash.

Two hens being set at the same time, the chicks were taken from one and given to the other, the one hen being reset, and the other put in the piano case with all the chicks. The hen brooded the flock closely for several days. They were then strong and lively and were put in the brooder out doors. As fast as a batch arrived, they were handled in this way, and the way they thrived was a surprise and delight to me. The hatching was all got over in a short time and as soon as the number of chicks were out that were wanted, no more eggs were set. In this way the entire flock of nearly 100 chicks were hatched inside a period of six weeks, and were thus of a very uniform age, a fact that meant a great deal when they were half grown. The big ravenous crowd would have left a small hance for little fellows to get . living amongst them.

The chicks had food and water constantly before them from the day they were hatched till they were full grown. The hopper and fountain methods of feeding were followed. Meat meal, (dry), granulated charcoal, and grit, were also kept within reach, and were made good use of by the birds.

This was my first experience in hatching with hens, and raising the brood with a brooder. To me it was the most successful season I had ever had, except when engaged in the business on a larger scale. The birds were as early as could be desired, and my yard in May and June, with a uniform flock of pure bred Columbian Wyandottes was a sight that arrested the attention of passers by whether interested in poultry or not.



THE BROODERS SHOULD BE CLEAN

From Farm and Dairy.

Brooders should be gotten out early and thoroughly cleaned and aired. A good coat of whitewash to which has been added considerable coal oil should be then applied. When dry set your brooder where it will get all the nice warm spring sunshine possible. Get your lamp cleaned, see that it does not leak. The brooder should be heated and running well three or four hours before the chicks are put into it, so as to get it properly heated. A good coating of coarse sand (not gravel or sawdust) should be placed on the floor.

When placing the chicks in the brooder if you have 60 chickens and also have two brooders put 30 chicks into each brooder instead of crowding all into one. You say my brooder is a 100-chick size. All well and good, just put 30 in anyway and see them come along. The 30 will beat the 100 in a 100-chick brooder—try it the first opportunity you get. The 30 chicks don't crowd one another to death and besides they have room to grow.

Your chicks are old enough to feed when from 36 to 48 hours old. Give them a little fine chick grit to pick—something to grind the food that follows. A little pin head oatmeal or millet is best at first. Don't give sloppy food to chicks. At the end of a week or more one might feed a little bread and milk squeezed quite dry. One of the best forcing feeds for young chicks is a boiled liver (beef is preferable) cooked till it crumbles. Just add a little salt to the liver in cooking. The young chicks will scramble over one another when the liver is thrown in.

There are a few points to remember in running a brooder. 1st. Always keep the brooder clean and well ventilated. 2nd. On a bright sunny day the temperature climbs up very fast, regulate it accordingly or dead chicks will certainly follow. 3rd. Never forget to see that the lamp has enough oil and is clean. 4th. It is a good plan to have a thermometer set in the top of the hover in a manner to register the degree of heat on the inside of hover. 5th. After the first week, except in extremely cold weather, the heat may be gradually reduced. 6th. Sometimes after one has cut off the heat altogether it is a good plan, on a very cold night, to start the lamp again. 7th. Lots of clean water and clean litter which is positively dry; sometimes the water gets slopped over the sand; mucky chicks will not thrive. They must be kept dry and clean. An old fashioned coffee mill makes a splendid thing to crack wheat for brooder chicks.

While your chickens are coming on you must remember they can't stay in the brooder all summer, besides there may be another hatch coming off in a few weeks. It would be a good time to make a house. A large matched lumber packing box—one that is sound and free from air holes answers well. Build a sound tight roof on it. Put in a door with a light of glass. When such a house is set up off the ground, say six inches, it makes a fine place for chicks to run under. It is, however, a nuisance at night, as they will run under and try to stay there. The attendant will have to round them up every night till they have been properly educated to go up the runway.

THE FISHY FLAVOUR FOUND IN BUTTER

From Farm and Dairy.

An American authority claims that the "fishy" flavor in butter originates in the churn. He claims also that this flavor is never found in dairy butter, and gives instances where such butter has been kept in cold storage for two years but no "fishy" has developed. He claims that the birth-place of fishy taste germs is in the creamery churn. A new churn has been known to cure the "fishy" trouble for a season. One of the causes is the churn getting water-logged by keeping water in it over night. This is done to save time. This authority claims that he has known "fishy" flavor to develop in ten days in the finest-textured butter from this cause. The yellow scum in the out-of-the-way corners of the churn develops the "fishy" flavor, the germs of which will resist a temperature of 220 F.

If this authority is correct in his assertions, then butter-makers should look to their churns and have them thoroughly cleaned and dried after churning.

HINTS REGARDING DISEASE IN FOOL

From Farm and Dairy.

The following hints will, perhaps, help in the prompt detection of the difficulty or disease which may be troubling a fowl:

Administering Medicine.—Too often is a profitless expense. Avoid the necessity for it by maintaining the healthiness of the flock.

Atrophy of Liver.—Stupor and possibly convulsions, may indicate wasting of the liver, induced by lack of exercise, over-feeding, and unbalanced rations.

Breakdown.—Abdomen hangs down at rear from excess of fat, fatty degeneration, or disorder of the oviduct.

Bronchitis.—Cold or catarrh may lead to inflammation of the throat, whistling or rattling breath due to exposure to cold, foul air, draughts, irritating dust.

Bumble-foot.—Cushion of the foot has a corn with abscess. Joints of leg may also be affected. Usual cause, narrow perches, alighting on hard floor from high perches, embedding of pebble in sole of foot.

Canker.—Painful attempts at swallowing, white, grey, or yellow patches develop on the membrane lining the mouth or throat. Due to colds, catarrh, roup, exposure to cold dampness, draughts, foulness.

Catarrh.—A common cold may continue until breathing is hindered by inflammation and mucous secretion collected in nostrils and mouth. There is drowsiness, loss of appetite, ruffled feathers, wheezing.

Chicken Pox.—Yellowish pimples on the head and underside of wings, loss of sight, weakness, paleness.

Colds.—Inflammation of the nostrils and throat from catching cold is shown by sneezing and running at the nostrils, due to exposure to chilling temperature, dampness, draughts.

Congestion of the Liver.—Over-fatness and sluggishness sometimes accompany congestion of the liver, due to over-feeding, starchy rations, lack of exercise, and digestive disorders.

Congestion of the Lungs.—Overcharging the blood vessels of the lungs, following a sudden or severe chilling, may occur in young chicks or moulting fowls. There is rapid, labored respiration, stupor, and purple color of comb and wattles.

Constipation.—Stoppage of the bowels or clogging of the vent may result from digestive disorders, due oftentimes to lack of green food and failure to exercise.

Consumption.—Wasting and weakening of the body may be accompanied by foetid diarrhœa. The breathing may be somewhat rasping, and there is paleness of the comb and wattles.

Corns.—Hardened and thickened cuticle of the sole of the foot, due to narrow perches, alighting from high perches on hard floor, pressure of embedded pebble.

Depraved Appetite.—Gorging with food, or swallowing substance unsuitable to the digestive tract, causing indigestion or stoppage. May result from lack of grit.

Diphtheria.—See roup.

Dysentery.—Excessive and persistent diarrhœa, due usually to filthy food or drink or foul conditions.

Eczema.—White pimples show on wattles, increase in size, run together, discharge, and become crusted.

Enteritis.—Inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the stomach and intestines, resulting from acute diarrhœa, and caused by poison, internal parasites, over-eating, fermented food, condiments, filthy drinking water, especially liable to attack growing chickens and moulting fowls.

Eversion.—Protrusion of the inflamed oviduct from the vent may result from straining in laying an egg which is malformed, extra large, or broken within the oviduct or cloaca.—F. C. E.

THEY SHOULD PAY BY THE TEST

From Farm and Dairy.

Pay by the Test.—Dairy Instructor R. W. Ward has been urging the patrons of the cheese factories throughout the Peterborough district to pay for their milk by the test instead of by weight. He claims that every cheese factory should pay for milk by the test. Those factories in his section which adopted the principle of paying by test some years ago, are continuing it as they have found that it is the only right and fair way.

PROMINENT HOSPITALS SAY

PE-RU-NA IS EFFICIENT

IN RELIEVING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.

SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, MONTREAL.

HOSPITALS ALL OVER THE CONTINENT FIND PE-RU-NA VALUABLE IN TREATING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES

Therefore, when Peruna was discovered by Canadian people to be a reliable remedy for these catarrhal diseases, it at once became a popular medicine, not only among individuals and in families, but in the great hospitals, where it was used as a preventive and relief in hundreds of cases.

These institutions do not hesitate to give their endorsement of the remedy which has been so helpful in the treatment of their poor and sick.

Among these institutions is that of the Sisters of Good Shepherd, who gave the following endorsement:

The Peruna Company,
Columbus, Ohio,

Having used Peruna for the past few months, for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd,
August 20, 1903.
Montreal.

After a continued use of the remedy, this institution has found no reason to change its good opinion of the remedy and expresses its satisfaction in the following terms:

Montreal, Nov. 7, 1903.

We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful.

Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

When catarrh once fastens itself upon the system it becomes an obstinate disease to eradicate.

A systemic remedy—one that reaches every internal organ of the body—is an absolute necessity.

Peruna is just such a remedy. It searches out the cause of the disease, healing and strengthening the mucous membranes, and thus giving Nature an opportunity to perform her part of the restorative process.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital St. John, who write as follows:

"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old Renoni Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

"A young girl, 15 years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

"Before the treatment I could not walk for a quarter of an hour without experiencing much fatigue. Now I can walk a mile easily.

"Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy."

Hospital St. John, of St. Johns, Province of Quebec.

"Three weeks ago I wrote to tell you how satisfactory we found Peruna. We recommend it highly for colds, coughs, catarrh and neuralgia.

"I have used it myself as a tonic with the best results, taken as directed, half a teaspoonful every half hour."

Mrs. Etta Booker, Dundurn, Sask., N. W. T., Canada, writes:

"I suffered with internal catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised, I can say I am now cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I think Peruna the best medicine for catarrh. I never felt better in my life than I do at present."

Peruna not only promptly relieves coughs and colds in their first stages, but is equally prompt and efficient for catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage.

Of course, it is only reasonable to suppose that a great deal less medicine will be necessary to cure a slight attack of catarrh than would be required to relieve the ailment after it had been allowed to become chronic.

PRESENT BOOKS TO THE INSTITUTE

Board of Education Decides to Receive Any Donations to the Collegiate Institute Library.

The Board of Education are anxious to establish a reading room in the Collegiate Institute for the use of the pupils, and have voted $100 for that purpose. But this sum will be sufficient to make a mere beginning, as it will buy but a very small number of books of a good class, well printed on good paper, and in pleasing, even attractive binding. Such books are necessary in order to develop a respectful handling of good books, and to attract young readers. The Board have, therefore, decided that as their finances will not permit them to make a large grant for this purpose, they would appeal to the people of Peterborough to donate to the Collegiate Institute books of the class indicated either in sets or in single volumes.

This reading library will make it possible for the teachers to guide the reading of the pupils to a very great extent, and will be a very great influence in encouraging a taste for good books, as distinct from trashy literature. That the development of such a taste is needed in Peterborough, is evidenced by the fact reported in the Examiner recently, that only 6,400 books had been taken from our Public Library last year. In a neighbouring town less than one-third the size of this city, over 20,000 volumes had been taken out of the library in the same period.

The Board earnestly appeals for contributions of sets of standard authors, for good, complete editions of the poets, for books of travel, and one volume biographies of great men of all nations and times. The authors especially desired in sets are Dickens, Thackeray, Scott, R. L. Stephenson, Kipling, Jane Austen, George Eliot, Hawthorne. The Macmillan Company publish in their Globe edition the best one volume editions of the poets at $1.75 each. They also publish biographies in large numbers—Drake, Gordon, Havelock, Cromwell, Elizabeth, Charlemagne, Raleigh, etc. All other good authors should be represented by one or more selected books in this school library.

Any one who wishes to contribute should first communicate with Mr. John Crane, chairman of the Supervision Committee, who has charge of the matter, so that duplication of books may be avoided. The Board confidently look for a hearty response to this request.

BEAUTIFUL AND ELABORATE EXHIBIT OF GREAT ART WORKS

A splendid art exhibit—of foreign oils, water colours and designs—under the auspices of the local branch of the Women's Art Association of Canada—is to be opened to the public on Monday afternoon next, February 8th, in the old Bank of Montreal building, Simcoe and Water streets, entrance on Simcoe street.

The works of art assembled for this exhibition, and the finest ever brought to Canada under similar circumstances, were secured through the influence of Mrs. Dignam, of Toronto, president of the Women's Art Association of Canada, who is well known in transatlantic artistic circles.

In this brief reference it is impracticable to give individual or detailed notice to the several beautiful chefs-d'oeuvre of the several artists represented; it will be sufficient to say the the collection, which is the same as that recently exhibited in Toronto and Ottawa, consists of oils, water colours, art designs and statuary, by eminent British, European artists and one Canadian artist. The oils, by the younger artists of the Scotch school, comprise a splendid collection of canvases, embracing landscapes, interiors, portraits and studies, Every one of them is a splendid work of art. The walls devoted to the water colours by Dutch masters representing the art of the Netherlands, hold a brilliant display of aquarelles, In this are included street scenes, church and other interiors, landscapes, seaside and fishing subjects, tree groups, farm scenes with cattle and figures, portraits, canal scenes, figures, flowers, still-life, etc.

The exhibits of the works of Walter Crane, the veteran English designer and illustrator of books, is in a class by itself. All the designs, which are infinite in their variety and beauty, represent multiform features of applied art. They include magnificent costume designs, designs for illustrating fairy tales and well known books, original designs for printed hangings, designs for wall papers, textile designs, designs for mosaic work and stained glass. This is the first time Crane's designs have been exhibited in Canada.

One especially interesting feature will be Miss Wallis' contribution of statuary the beautiful bronze, "The Cabbage Baby," which has attracted great attention and elicited the admiration of art connoisseurs. It has been purchased by a Montreal gentleman, and it is by special favour that it is exhibited in Peterborough, through the owner, Mr. E. F. Walter, having relatives here and therefore taking a special interest in Peterborough.

The collection is altogether a most elaborate and interesting one from the point of view of the artistic excellence of every individual art work in the exhibit. A tribute to the high character of the work also consists in the fact that for a picture of one of the Dutch artists, "The House With the Doves," by Josef Israels, the Hague, a Toronto purchaser paid $3,750, and the Dominion Government has paid $500 for some of Walter Crane's designs to be placed in the National Art Gallery, Ottawa.

Peterborough may consider itself highly favoured as being one of only three cities in Canada where these great works, which are of a class seldom seen outside homes of wealth and taste, and the great art galleries of great cities—have been shown.

To-day is private view day and on Monday afternoon the view will be open to the public from two p. m. to six p. m.

IRELAND

The clerk of the Limerick Board of Guardians was notified recently of the death of Mrs. Johanna Leonard, who had attained the extraordinary age of 118 years. Almost to the last she retained possession of her faculties, and was able to recount some remarkable reminiscences and experiences of her long life. She could recall impressions of the Irish rebellion of 1798 and the attempted insurrection of 1820, as well as the risings of 1848 and 1867. She remembered the horrors of the famine of 1847 and related her own personal experiences during that terrible visitation. Mrs. Leonard had one son aged ninety-six and another aged eighty. She lived near Cappamore, in County Limerick.

The three-masted schooner Helda arrived in Belfast recently after a trying passage from Sundsvaal, in the Baltic. Four unsuccessful attempts were made to get round the north of Scotland, but owing to the extreme violence of the wind this could not be accomplished, and after endeavouring for a month to reach Belfast by the Northern route, the captain was obliged to come round by the South of England. During the height of the storm a considerable portion of the deck cargo was carried away, the sails torn to ribbons, and had to be cut away, and the provisions were almost exhausted when the vessel finally reached port.

Three labourers named Rorke, Dowley, and Pate, on their way home from work, entered the heating chamber of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church at Athlone, County Roscommon. Apparently they tampered with the apparatus and allowed the gas to escape, for the next morning the caretaker on visiting the building found all three of them lying dead on the floor. A verdict of death from suffocation was returned at the inquest.

I recommend them to everybody as a sure cure for Diabetes Backache and all other Kidney Diseases."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured Mrs. Richard's Diabetes because Diabetes is a Kidney Disease, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney Diseases. AN OLD IDEA

Shown to be Absolutely False by Modern Science.

People used to think that baldness was one of those things which are handed down from generation to generation, from father to son—just like a family heirloom.

Science has shown the falseness of this belief by proving that baldness itself is not a constitutional disease but the result of a germ invasion of which only Herpicide can effectually rid the scalp.

Washing only cleans the scalp of Dandruff, it doesn't kill the germs. "Destroy the cause you remove the effect."

Newton's Herpicide will do this in every case. It is also a delightful dressing.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Two Sizes 50c and $1. McDermid & Jury, and Payne's Drug Store, Special Agents.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

Feb. 7th, 1909.

True and False Brotherhood.— Acts iv: 32 to v. 11.

Golden Text—Lying lips are an abomination unto the Lord, but they that deal truly are his delight. Prov. xii: 22.

Verse 32 — Are all who are one with God, always one with each other, that is "of one heart and one soul?"

Should a Christian consider that what he possesses is his own?

Would it be either wise or desirable that Christians should in this day have all things in common?

Was it God's plan for them to have all things in common, in that day, or did they allow their love to run away with their judgment?

Verse 33 — What is the secret for witnessing for Christ with "great power?"

Verses 34-35 — Speaking from experience and observation, how many honest, industrious, God-fearing men are there that "lack" any necessary thing in this life?

Is a church under obligation to provide for the necessities of the poor in its jurisdiction?

Whatever may have been the case in that day, would it be wisdom, or folly, in this day, for the members of the church to sell their possessions and hand over the money to the church?

Can a person be a Christian, who does not hold his property subject to the orders of God for its disposal?

Will a Christian be as glad to give his money at the command of God, as to receive money from God?

From this account, do you think that they sold literally all their possessions or only their real estate?

Verses 36-37 — If Barnabas had sold one half of his real estate and brought the proceeds of it, or had sold it all, and brought one-half the proceeds, if the community did not need any more, and if he told the facts, would he have been just as well pleasing to God?

Verses 1-2 — What prompted Ananias and Sapphira to sell their property?

In what class do you put the sin of pretending to be better than we are?

Why did they pretend that they had given all the proceeds of their property to the apostles?

Why is it that pride is such a terrible sin?

Verses 3-4 — Why was the lie of Ananias a lie to the Holy Spirit?

From Peter's remarks, do you conclude that the selling of their property and the disposition of the proceeds was wholly a voluntary matter?

Verses 5-6 — Was the death of Ananias, judged by the standards of that day, a just penalty for the sin?

What good did the punishment of Ananias and Sapphira produce then and since?

Verses 7-11 — Is there any reason to think that the woman, wanting to appear big in the community, was the instigator of this lie and led her husband into it?

What is the difference between the sin of Ananias and Sapphira and a man who gives a sum to God's cause, saying it is all he can afford, when he can afford more?

Suppose a man gives less than he ought to GIVE TO THE CAUSE OF GOD, does he commit, practically, the sin of Ananias and Sapphira? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the Club.)

What should be our attitude in the distribution of our earnings to God's cause?

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 14th, 1909 — The Apostles Imprisoned. Acts v: 17-42.

UNWRITTEN LAW'S ABUSE

The vogue of appeal to the "unwritten law," is one of the abuses of modern times, says, in effect, Prof. Garofalo, a well-known Italian jurist and publicist. Nowadays, he suggests, any man who can claim to be of a highly sensitive temperament, can appeal to this legal phantom with many chances in favour of his issuing successfully from any crime he may have committed. If he is an artist, he has special chances of escaping conviction, since he can plead, as most artists do, that he comes within the category of super-men, and that ordinary laws are not applicable to him. Give the person claiming to be an artistic being, or the possessor of the "artistic temperament," but a medium through which to bare his soul, and expose his emotions to mankind, and the odds are in favour of his winning the sympathies of the unthinking multitude, who are disposed to accept him as an artistically irresponsible being and solely the victim of his emotions or emotionalism.

The old method of trying certain men and women for murders has practically departed. The actual circumstances of a given murder are not inquired into half so deeply as the "state of soul" of the murderer, says Prof. Garofalo, and however "inartistic" they be as regards temperament, few are so stupid as not to fall back on excuses which have saved many from well-deserved retribution. Explanation of the psychic temperament which characterizes any particular delinquent, amounts almost to justification of the deed committed, provided only that your criminal be interesting enough in the possession of great wealth or unusual intellect, for example. Should his personality be dull, or his social standing be poor, interest in him fails altogether to come into play, and then only does the rigour of the law assert itself mercilessly.

All this Prof. Garofalo means to be taken to heart by his countrymen in Italy, although his animadversions upon the unwritten law would seem nowadays to apply to the rest of the world.—New York World.

CONTROLLER HOCKEN GAVE AN ADDRESS

Most Enjoyable Entertainment Under the Auspices of the Ladies' Orange Lodge.

An entertainment was held on Friday night in the S.O.E. Hall, under the auspices of the Sentinel Lodge, No. 66, Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association. A small programme was rendered by members of the Association, and also by some of the members of Orange Lodges in the city, which was listened to with great enjoyment. This was an introduction to an address by Comptroller Hocken, editor of the Orange paper, the Sentinel, in which he went into details of the rise and progress of the Orange Association. Colonel Miller took the chair, and started the evening by calling on Miss Wiley for an instrumental solo, which delighted the audience. Col. Miller was on the list for an address, but he said that he would put that at the end; addresses were also given by Mr. Burnham and County Master W. G. Armstrong, both showing the good of the Orange Lodges as upholders of moral character. During the programme a letter was received by the chairman from Rev. Mr. Potter, in which he regretted being unable to attend the meeting, as he had been called out into the country.

The following was the programme rendered:—

Instrumental, Miss Wiley.
Chairman's Address, Col. Miller.
Recitation, Miss E. Calder.
Piano Duet, Mrs. Spicer.
Scotch Song, Mr. Weatherston.
Reading, Mr. Jackson.
Mouth Organ Selection, Mr. Frost.
Address: "The Rise and Progress of the Orange Association," Comptroller Hocken.
God Save the King.

FAT AND THE DIRECTOIRE.

The coming season will be a hard one for fat ladies. The directoire mode endorsers already lift scornful eyebrows at such a plebeianism as bulgy hips. Fat, in short, wheresoever it may be deposited, has merited great condemnation and is anathema. In Chicagoese, it's got to go.

So many minds—many methods. 1. Exercise. 2. Dieting. 3. Worrying. 4. Tight lacing. 5. Marmola. All these are suggested, but not all should be adopted. For instance, 1 and 2 are not easy, while 3 and 4 are not hygienic. Thus we set them on one side and consider Marmola.

What is it? A harmless powder obtainable of any good druggist, which, when mixed with 3-4 ounce Fluid Extract Cascara Aromatic and 1 3-4 ounces Peppermint Water and taken after meals and at bedtime will, without causing any inner disturbances or outward flesh wrinklings, reduce the excess flesh, proportionately and uniformly, 12 to 16 ounces a day.

Mr. Borden Says Lord Crewe Is Wrong Regarding Treaty.

HE CITES HIS AUTHORITIES

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—It is some time since a communication from the Imperial Government was the subject of criticism in the House of Commons, and it was, therefore, with no ordinary degree of interest that the members heard a discussion yesterday afternoon based on the terms of Earl Crewe's despatch, submitted to the House on Thursday. In calling attention to the communication from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Borden appeared to be anxious rather to make his position clear in regard to the question of treaty powers than to criticize the views of Earl Crewe. But, while he handled what was undoubtedly a delicate task very tactfully, and disclaimed any hostility towards either his lordship or the Imperial Government in the matter, his observations made it clear that he was not disposed to accept the doctrine laid down by the Colonial Secretary, that it was the universal practice to withhold treaties from Parliament until after they had been ratified by the King.

In controversion of that view he quoted from Todd, Anson and other constitutional authorities to show that, while in theory Earl Crewe was correct, in practice there had been several cases in which treaties had been presented to the Imperial Parliament before they had been ratified by His Majesty.

Mr. Borden held the Government of Canada wholly responsible to Parliament, not only for the negotiation of the treaty, but in the matter of upholding the rights of this country in relation to any communications with the Government of Great Britain.

"For my part," said Sir Wilfrid Laurier, "I agree altogether with my hon. friend. I see no reason whatever why the moment the treaty has been signed by the plenipotentiaries, and even before it has been signed by the sovereign, it should not be communicated to Parliament.

"I shall look up the authorities to which Mr Borden has called my attention and then communicate with the Colonial Office in reference to the matter."

In the afternoon W. F. Maclean (South York) called attention to what he called the delinquencies of the Canadian railways in connection with their capitalization, pointing out that in giving wide powers to the C.P.R. the service accorded the people ought to be considered.

He demonstrated that the C.P.R. was not giving the public the service it ought to give in consideration of the great franchises granted the company, and the enormous resources at its command.

Mr. Maclean charged:

That the Canadian railways gave a preference to traffic originating in a foreign country.

That in carrying out its system of expansion in the west the C.P.R. neglected its Ontario business.

That the railway corporation disregarded the lives of their servants and of the people at large because they could not "afford" to provide adequate life-saving devices.

"It would surprise anyone who looked at the railway service now given to this country," said Mr. Maclean, "to see the preference given by Canadian railways that we subsidize with land and money, roads to which we give splendid franchises, to the traffic of a foreign country.

There was another disastrous feature of railway operation in Canada to-day, Mr. Maclean proceeded, and that was the wanton disregard by these great corporations of the lives of the people and the lives of their servants. The sacrifice of human life on the railways was increasing from year to year.

"It was all wrong that the C.P.R. should be allowed to do what is commonly called 'cut a melon' and distribute it in the shape of from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 among its shareholders, and which it could only do if it was allowed to continue charging exorbitant rates. On that surplus they could well afford to reduce their rates, to give the farmers of the west lower transportation for their products and to provide devices to safeguard the lives of the people."

Hon. Mr. Graham replied to the member for South York in a few sentence. He pointed out that the question of rates had been referred to the Railway Commission, and that, having adopted that policy, Parliament should leave the commission to work it out.

In committee of supply yesterday afternoon, there was a lively discussion on the Lemieux Compulsory Investigation Act.

F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier) referred to some complaints by labor bodies, and asked if it was the intention of the Government to make any amendments to the act this year.

Mr. Lemieux said the C.P.R. employes had made application to have the act amended, but it was not the intention to make any change. He thought the act was quite satisfactory and in time that labor men would approve of it. What the C.P.R. men wanted was that if the company desired to force a reduction of wages, it would have to call for an arbitration board.

W. F. Maclean (South York) put the view as he had learned it from communication with men in his own constituency, where there are a large number of C.P.R. employes. These men had said that if they are dissatisfied with their conditions before they could strike they must ask for a board and then, if they refused to accept the division of the board, they were charged with bad faith.

The House adjourned at six o'clock to give the members the opportunity to attend a ball at Rideau Hall. Estimates of the Agricultural Department aggregating $400,000 were passed during the afternoon.

LEGISLATORS RIOT.

Czech and German Members In Fierce Set-to In Vienna.

Vienna, Feb. 6.—The present session of the Austrian Parliament came to an end yesterday after a scene of turbulence extraordinary even for an assembly where violent outbreaks are comparatively common.

The trouble, which arose from the old racial feeling between the Germans and the Czechs, broke out during the debate on a Government bill, the object of which was to reconcile these differences. The radical Czechs, obstructionists, who have been hindering the debate on this measure for several days past, with a continuous din from drums and tin whistles, so exasperated the Germans yesterday that the opposing deputies came to close quarters and a fierce scrimmage ensued.

One of the Radical Czechs deputies, who has been most violent in his obstruction, was captured and whipped until he howled for mercy. Another Czech was bitten on the cheek by a German and sustained an ugly wound, and black eyes and sore heads were numerous.

OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Gazette Bulletins Contain Notice of New C.P.R. Line In Alberta.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Canadian Pacific Railway is applying for power to construct a line eighty-five miles long, from a point on the Crow's Nest Pass line to Aldersyde, on the Macleod branch. The company is also asking for an extension of time to construct several other branches authorized.

The London & Northwestern Railway Co. will seek incorporation, with power to build a line of railway from London to Sarnia, and from London to a point on Lake Huron, in Huron County.

Orders-in-council of Nov. 28, relating to foot and mouth diseases, have been rescinded. It is also ordered that ships leaving Atlantic ports carrying live stock must not stop at Canadian ports.

The Government has entered into an arrangement with F. P. Aylwyn, civil engineer of Ottawa, to irrigate 69,275 acres of land east of Calgary at an expenditure of half a million dollars.

G. G. McNab of Grawenhurst has been appointed school inspector of North Renfrew.

Survives 100 Foot Fall.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—Falling over 100 feet in the hoist shaft of the nine-storey Darling Building on Adelaide street and Spadina avenue yesterday afternoon, Harry Moss of Lambton Mills still lives in St. Michael's Hospital.

He has a broken jaw, a broken arm, and internal injuries, and is expected to die, but his escape from instant death is nothing short of miraculous.

A wire grillwork near the bottom of the shaft through which he crashed broke the full effect of his fall.

Moss was crossing on a concrete beam which supports the floor at the nineth storey, when he lost his balance and fell. He struck a window on the first floor, and a glancing blow then demolished a wire work at the basement.

Can Inspect Schools.

Winnipeg, Feb. 6.—The report of the Department of Education was tabled in the Legislature yesterday afternoon. It contains the opinion of Donald Macmaster K.C., and a member of the British Commons.

Macmaster says the Government of Manitoba has the power to enact compulsory education, and also to inspect the denominational schools.

But should they put such measures in force there is no doubt that the minority would have reasonable ground on which to appeal to the Governor-in-council, claiming that their rights and privileges as subjects of the King were affected, and they were fairly entitled to be exempted from contributing to the support of public schools.

Manslaughter Is Charged.

Guelph, Feb. 6.—Conrad Kennedy, engineer, and Matthew Fleming, conductor of the freight train, which took the wrong track from Harriston and killed two men in a collision, which resulted, appeared in court yesterday charged with manslaughter. They were sent to trial at the next Assizes, bail being refused until permission from the Attorney-General's department was secured.

Complete Works of Tolstoi.

Moscow, Feb. 6.—A local publishing house is planning to bring out the long-awaited complete edition of the works of Count Leo Tolstoi. Royalties to the amount of $250,000 will be paid in annual instalments of $25,000. It is declared that with the approval of Premier Stolypin the censored works of the count will be included in this edition, which will number about twenty-five volumes.

Aunt Leaves Her $500,000.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 6.—Mrs Mayme McKenna has, through the death of an aunt at Oswego, N.Y., fallen heir to $500,000.

Mrs. McKenna also is one of several heirs to an estate which has pending a suit against the City of New York for possession of property valued at $200,000,000.

Whole Town to Move.

Winnipeg, Feb. 6.—Cowley, in Southern Alberta, a small town on the Canadian Pacific Railroad, will be moved bodily next week to a new site two miles south of its present location. Regrading on the line made the moving of the town necessary. The railroad will pay the entire expense.

Prohibition Strong In Texas.

Austin, Texas, Feb 6.—The House yesterday, by a vote of 85 to 44, defeated the resolution to submit state prohibition to a popular vote.

The prohibitionists only lacked two votes of the necessary two-thirds majority.

An Irish Admiral.

Victoria, B.C., Feb. 6.—The British steamer Katanga, from Guayaquil, on her way to Comox for coal, was mulcted $7,500 by an Irish admiral of the Ecuador Government when at the southern port.

The admiral, said to be a deserter from the British navy, who was raised to his position after saving the life of the President during one of the periodical revolutions, had a small tugboat mounted with guns and came to the Katanga demanding $5,000.

"What for?" asked Capt. McBride.

"For a lighthouse we are going to build," said the admiral.

Under protest Capt. McBride paid, and was then ordered to pay another $2,500 for wharfage, and he had also to pay this sum.

German Officials Sentenced.

Kiel, Feb 6.—Three officials of the imperial navy yard were sentenced yesterday to terms of three years, twenty months and six weeks' imprisonment respectively, having been convicted of the embezzlement of several hundred thousand dollars.

Their speculations extended over many years. Three other officials were acquitted of a similar charge on insufficient evidence.

Fire at Goderich.

Goderich, Feb. 6.—Five minutes after the Cameron & Moore departmental store was closed at 6 o'clock, it was discovered to be on fire, in the cellar, near the furnace. The fire was not extinguished until the store was flooded with water, practically destroying the entire stock.

MANY BAD FLOODS IN GERMANY

Twenty Persons Are Reported to Have Been Drowned.

RAILROADS SWEPT AWAY

Crossings Over Confluents of Rhine Are Destroyed — Frankfurt-on-the-Main Reports Highest Water in Fifty Years—Seven Miners Perish in Flood—Bridges Washed Away All Over Country.

Berlin, Feb. 6.—The floods in Germany arising from several days of heavy rains and a spell of warm weather are to-day taking on a most serious aspect in many parts of the country.

The first fatalities are reported from Nordhausen, where many bridges have been swept away and ten people drowned. Along a number of the small streams, however, the freshets are subsiding.

At Nuremberg the Pegnitz rose 12 feet Thursday night, yesterday morning it was raging through the lower streets of the city. The water is higher than it has been for 33 years. The newspapers of Nuremberg have suspended publication, and enormous damage has been caused.

A special signal service has been put in operation along the Rhine, where it is expected that the danger point will be reached in a day or two.

Seven miners returning home from the Potash mines, near Brockhausen, Brunswick, were drowned in the flood, and three other victims have been reported from Gera. This makes a total of twenty casualties.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

The temperance people of Port Arthur and Fort William are organizing for a local option campaign with the vote to be taken at the next municipal elections.

It is announced in militia orders that His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales has been pleased to accept the honorary colonelcy of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

On returning home after an absence of an hour, the parents of Wilmot Longfield, of Queensville, aged 13 years, found he had hanged himself in the garret of his home.

The Port Arthur Board of Trade has passed a resolution opposing the Ontario and Michigan Power Co.'s bill at Ottawa, on the ground that it would blanket all water-powers in the district.

The Brooklyn jury before which William Gow, formerly president of the International Trust and director of the Borough Bank of Brooklyn, was tried on a charge of larceny of $145,000, disagreed.

A bill proposing to give the women of British Colombia the right to vote in the next provincial elections has been introduced in the Legislature by the Socialist leader, Hawthorne Thwaite of Nanaimo.

Fatal Strike In New York.

New York, Feb. 6.—One man was killed and three others injured in a riot incited, the police declare, by walking delegates of a garment workers' union, who descended upon the tailoring establishment of Jacob Greenfield in East Second street late yesterday and attempted to coerce the employes of the place into quitting work.

Greenfield and his brother, Wolfe, employed as foreman, attempted to prevent wholesale destruction of the shop by the invaders, and a melee ensued, in which clubs, shears and pressing irons were freely used.

Police reserves dispersed the rioters.

Laymen's Congress.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—Secretary Caskey of the Laymen's Missionary Movement received a letter from Robert Speer, New York, stating he would be pleased to address a mass meeting of ladies during the missionary congress on Thursday, April 1.

Rev. A. E. Armstrong of this city and James Roger, Montreal, met to make a tour of the Maritime Provinces for the next two weeks on behalf of the congress.

Land Grants For '66 Veterans.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier in replying to a deputation of 200 veterans of 1866-70 asking for land grants, expressed surprise that some fitting recognition had not been made many years ago of the services which these men had rendered. It would be his pleasure to report to His Excellency the Governor-General what seemed to be the unanimous wish of those interested in this matter, and of the representatives of both parties in Parliament.

Fisher Boy Heir to $800,000.

San Sebastian, Spain, Feb. 6.—A poor fisher-boy of San Sebastian named Lojabeits, upon returning from a cruise, was met on the wharf here by two strangers, who asked him if he knew who his parents were. The boy replied no. The strangers then informed him that they were the executors of the will of his mother, an American woman, who died, leaving him $800,000.

Costly Floods In California.

Marysville, Cal., Feb. 6.—Five hundred cattle were drowned by the flood waters on the Stanford ranch, near Tehama, and 1,500 sheep perished near Colusa. The damage from the flood in Colusa County will be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000 with a quarter of that in other places.

On Dangerous Ground.

Sacramento, Calif., Feb. 6.—Speaker Philip A. Stanton took the floor yesterday and secured, by a strong personal appeal, unanimous consent of the Assembly to postpone further action on the Japanese school segregation until next Wednesday.

He declared he had information which he could not reveal, that proved the Assembly was treading upon dangerous ground in passing the anti-Japanese bill Thursday.

OLD LAND EXCITED.

War Play Starts a Frenzy of Military Enthusiasm.

London, Feb. 6.—English theatregoers seem in somewhat of a panic over the possibility of invasion by a hostile army. Numerous incidents, following the production of the play, "An Englishman's Home," built on such a possibility, show the state of mind of a section of the general public. Lord Esher appealed through The Daily Mail for 11,000 volunteers to complete the quota of the county of London in the territorial army, and an anonymous reader sent him a check for $50,000 to assist in the work of recruiting this force. The solemn warnings which Lord Roberts has been uttering for two years and the fervid speeches which Mr. Haldane, the Minister of War, has been making all over the country, have done their work, and suddenly under the influence of the realistic play, the people have awakened to a realization of what war would mean. Nothing is talked of in the street, the club, the home, except the defence of the island. Efforts which can be described only as frenzied are being made to recruit the territorial army.

The Admiralty is asking the Government for authority to lay down six Dreadnoughts this year. This is a panic program, and taken in connection with the fresh concentration of naval strength in the North Sea—most inopportunely announced on the eve of the King's departure for Berlin—is sufficient evidence of the hollow mockery of the pretence that Britain and Germany are prepared to abandon their mutual suspicions.

ROWDY HOCKEYISTS.

"Sports" on Train Indulge In Disgraceful Fight.

Brockville, Feb. 6.—Returning to Westport Thursday night with the Newboro' and Athens hockey teams, who had played exhibition games here, and 250 supporters, a special B., W. & N.W. train was the scene of a continuous melee until Athens was reached. Bottles flew, windows were smashed, four passengers are suffering from fractured noses, while a Newboro' man is nursing a badly lacerated thumb, bitten by one of the fighters. One member of the party, a resident of Athens, named Curry, was pushed off a car, but the train stopped and he was picked up. Wholesale prosecutions are likely to follow.

Macklem Will Stay.

Toronto, Feb. 6.—T. C. Street Macklem, provost of Trinity College, has addressed a letter to the members of the corporation of Trinity College withdrawing his resignation of a month ago on account of "so strong a protest from many whose opinion I am bound to respect," and a pressure he is unwilling, if not indeed unable, to withstand.

The letter concludes with particular reference to the confidence and friendship of the students and staff of the college. It is unfortunate, he comments, that to the leaders is commonly attributed praise which belongs largely to others, certainly it has been so in this case.

Two Boys Burned In Fire.

Montreal, Feb. 6.—Advices from Wickham, Que., tell of the burning of the home of Arthur Dubreuile, in which the lives of his two sons, aged two and five years, were lost.

Magistrate Lectures Hammerstein.

New York, Feb. 6.—Frederick M. Hall and James J. Doyle, local reporters, accused of assaulting Oscar Hammerstein, the impressario, were held in $300 bail for trial in special sessions.

Magistrate Finn referred scathingly to the letter written by Hammerstein regarding the reporters.

"Any man with a drop of red blood in his veins," he said, "would naturally resent such a letter. There are a lot of gentlemen in this town who seem to think they can insult a man with impunity, who have the idea that anything bad they do is good, but, as I have stated, two wrongs do not make a right."

Set Child on Hot Stove.

Staunton, Ill., Feb. 6.—Julius Greenwalt, a coal miner, narrowly escaped rough handling at the hands of an enraged mob Thursday night after he had placed the four-year-old child of the woman with whom he boarded on top of a red-hot stove because the child annoyed him.

Instead of taking Greenwalt to the jail the village marshal hid him in a restaurant near the interurban station, and when a northbound car arrived he was rushed aboard and taken to Carlinville, where he will await the action of the grand jury. The child is in a serious condition from her burns.

Good Crops In the Far North.

Ottawa, Feb. 6.—The Department of Agriculture has been experimenting with the growing of cereals at Fort Vermillion, 350 miles north of Edmonton, and has received reports up to Dec. 19. The wheat crop of the district has been 35,000 bushels, with an average of twenty-four bushels to the acre; the barley crop 5,000 bushels, average sixty bushels to the acre; oats 4,000 bushels, average fifty bushels. Root crops have given: Turnips, 16 tons; mangels, 15 tons, and white carrots, 12 1-2 tons to the acre. Hardy fruit trees and vegetables have done well.

Brother Shoots Brother.

The reason assigned for this action is shortage of orders for coal.

Progressive British Columbia.

The energetic advertising campaign now being carried out by the British Columbian Government, not only in the press, but also by cinematograph exhibitions in connection with fruit displays throughout the country, has already reaped its harvest, and there is no doubt that the most striking feature of the emigration season next spring will be the number of well-to-do farmers, squires' sons, yeomen, and young fellows generally with $5,000 or more of capital, who will cross the Atlantic for the orchard lands of the Okanagan, Kamloops, Nelson, the Thompson and Fraser Valleys, Vancouver Island, and other fruit-growing districts opened up by the C.P.R. The Pacific slope has always been the most British part of Canada, and these emigrants, or rather "migrants," will find that they are transferring their energies to a portion of the Empire which is in sentiment and practice very similar to the Old Country.—Standard of Empire.

LOCAL SEVEN TRIMMED MIDGETS IN GREAT GAME OF HOCKEY BEFORE 2,000 WILDLY EXCITED FANS HERE LAST NIGHT

Score at Half Time Was 1-1, But Petes Out-Lasted and Out-Played the Visitors—Ice Was Soft But the Game Was Fast Throughout.

THIRTY-THREE PENALTIES

Before one of the biggest crowds that ever saw a game in Peterborough, the Intermediate O. H. A. team extracted sweet revenge from the Lindsay Midgets at the Brock street rink last night, for the defeat sustained at their hands two weeks ago, by trimming the Midgets handily by five goals to two, after a hard fought, spectacular game, which was, considering the condition of the ice, remarkably fast. Fully two thousand people saw the battle and the crowd reminded one of the old time championship seasons. At seven o'clock there were scores waiting to get in, and when the doors were opened there was a steady rush for seats, which, at eight o'clock, developed into a scramble that was like the mad race to Gowganda. All the reserved seats and the majority of chairs in the balcony had been sold before five o'clock, with the result that shortly after eight o'clock there was not a seat to be had and standing room was at a premium. The Lindsay team brought down two hundred and fifty fans on a special train, arriving shortly before 8 o'clock, and the visitors had difficulty in finding places in the rink. The victory puts Peterborough right in the running for the championship of the district, as by defeating Cobourg in the Lakeshore town on Tuesday night they will be tied with the Scugog team, and the issue will have to be decided by a sudden death game or home and home matches between the two clubs.

an enormous crowd having a rapid effect upon the playing surface. Before half time there was a considerable amount of water on the ice, while a mist hung over the surface and the temperature of the building was at summer heat. The conditions made it difficult to pass the puck accurately and the rubber was often over skated, although the ice was better with the water on than with an inch of slush, as was the case in Lindsay.

Considering the condition of the ice the game was a grand one, and the hockey displayed was of a spectacular nature. There were brilliant flashes of combination, although for the most part individual tactics were followed, and the crowd always had something to enthuse over. Both teams checked hard and the game was fought out until the finish, although it lately faded badly on end and were glad when the timer's whistle brought the play to a close. The penalty list inflicted by Referee Sutherland was an abnormal one, no less than thirty-three men were ruled off, Peterborough having twenty-one and the visitors twelve, so that the teams were nearly always playing with a man or two short, and near the finish there were but four Peterborough men to six Lindsay players. It was hard to see why so many of the penalties were inflicted, but at least Sutherland was impartial and weeded them off both sides.

Peterborough had the better of the play and their victory was well earned and deserved. They checked Lindsay close and hard and met sodden time Taylor when they came down the ice with stiff body checks that soon took all the ginger out of the Lindsay centre men, with the result that they began to hang back and take chances on shots from away out. Cotey and Randall, on the wings, kept hammering along, but they could not accomplish much with no one at the centre. If they did get up, Koyl, the Lindsay's star point, whose rushing is generally a feature, was checked to a standstill. On the other hand, Peterborough played combination whenever it was possible and kept boring in on the nets, so that they were bound to score. They never let up for a minute, but kept plugging along right to the finish, having it on the visitors in the matter of condition.

The work of the Peterborough defence could not have well been improved upon, and Lindsay found them almost unbeatable. Derocher played a magnificent game in the nets, his work during the first half being of a sensational nature. Once he waded out when Randall was clear through and blocked the shot and on other occasions he picked off shots at close range. Glover also stopped many shots, while he checked in grand fashion, and his rushes always helped. Mooty broke up rush after rush, taking care of Koyl and Stoddard in a manner that left the latter a little dubious about coming too often. "Jakey" also rushed well and played a fine game. All played well on the forward line, although Parnell was on the fence too often to be effective. Morgan, although he has not rounded into shape and was bothered by the soft ice, played a grand game, getting two of Peterborough's goals in his own clever fashion, while he figured in many combination runs, generally starting the works going. Charlie Ray got back into the game after a two weeks' rest and the little Strathcona man put up a brilliant and most useful game. He was always at it, rushing repeatedly and checking back like a demon. He worried Koyl so much that the big fellow could hardly get started with the rubber before Ray had nipped in front of him and headed off the rush and was in the game at all times. Dusty, although he had come through a hard game with the Straths against Lakefield the night before, played a magnificent game at left wing, repeatedly tearing down the boards in rushes that kept the Lindsay defence busy, while he checked back splendidly.

For Lindsay the two wing men, Randall and Cotey, were the best of the forwards and neither let up much. Taylor was not effective and Stoddard, although fast, did not relish boring in very much and generally got rid of the rubber as soon as possible. Sullivan was effective on the defence, as was Koyle, although the latter was checked too closely to be of much assistance to his forward line. Newton played a splendid game in goal, making some fine stops of shots from close in and all that were earned.

The well known eastern hockey authority, Jim Sutherland, of Kingston, refereed the contest and established a record for penalties. He was strict, in fact, about the strictest possible that has been seen here in some time, but was thoroughly impartial, and caught every thing. There could be no fault found with his work, although some of his decisions were hard to follow.

The teams lined up as follows:

Lindsay	Peterborough
Goal
Newton	Derocher
Point
Koyl	Glover
Cover Point
Sullivan	Moore
Rover
Stoddard	Ray
Centre
Taylor	Morgan
Right Wing
Randall	Parnell
Left Wing
Cotey	Dusty

It was after 8.30 when Referee Sutherland called the team together, and gave them the customary lecture, after which the puck was faced. The pace was hot from the start, with both teams digging in like demons, and the enormous crowd was kept on tip-toes all the way. Peterborough broke away from the face off, and nearly scored, but Newton was on the job, and cleared at the critical moment. Stoddard broke away, but Moore met him with a body check, and the puck travelled back again. Ray and Dusty each had a chance, but missed connections. Sullivan tripped Morgan and headed a long list of exiles from the ice. Soon after Moore was relegated to the side lines for slashing. Ray got away for a beautiful rush, but Koyl stopped him before he could shoot. An off side occurred in front of the Lindsay nets, and Morgan getting the draw, slammed one past Newton, amid the wildest enthusiasm, the local fans going wild with delight. Time 4 minutes.

Peterborough, 1; Lindsay, 0.

Ray slashed at the puck, and Referee Sutherland waved him to the penalty box, and Taylor followed him a moment afterwards for jabbing a Peterborough man. Dusty made another bench warmer for two minutes for slashing. The puck was lifted into the crowd and lost, and there was a delay for a few moments. Randall and Glover collided and both were sent away. Just after they were back, Sullivan was exiled for tripping Ray. The play was hard and fast, with no let-ups, while the referee kept weeding them out for minor offences. Parnell was the next to be sent away, getting two minutes for slashing. Cotey and Moore came together and they, too, were given a polite invitation to absent themselves from the game for two minutes. Finally after 9 minutes hard playing Goosie Taylor got a pass at centre and going down the side scored on a pretty shot, tying the score amid hysterical cheers from the 250 Lindsay fans present.

Peterborough, 1; Lindsay, 1.

Morgan was sent away for tripping Koyl, and Taylor got a sentence for a similar offence. Glover tripped Koyl and was benched, and was hardly back before Stoddard and Parnell hooked up, and both were put off. Morgan had his knee hurt and went off, the visitors dropping Taylor with him. Moore was sent away for slashing and Sullivan got his for dumping Dusty. Then Parnell used his stick too freely to suit the referee, and he went the way of the rest of them, while just before half time Dusty and Randall had a tilting bee which resulted in both of them climbing into the penalty box.

There was no further score until half time although both teams worked hard. Derocher picked off some most dangerous looking shots while Newton also got in the way of some beauties.

There was considerable water on the ice when the teams came back after the rest, and a mist began to gather which made it bad for the players, although the difficulties did not seem to have any effect upon the speed of the men, and the pace was as hot as at the beginning. Soon after the half opened, Taylor was knocked out by a heavy body check and went off for repairs. Morgan accompanying him. Stoddard was loafing outside but failed to get away with it, being sent off for two minutes. Parnell served a sentence for slashing and had just got back when he and Randall hooked up in a fistic encounter which resulted in Parnell getting five minutes and the Lindsay man ten. His sentence was doubled because he went back at it after the referee had temporarily restored law and order. With the teams playing five a side, Glover made a pretty rush down the ice and although the puck went into the corner, he shot from there and scored, the shot beating Newton. Time, 8 minutes.

TOM LONGBOAT.

Sullivan got a rap on the nose and the game was delayed until he was patched up. Both teams were working at top speed and the game was most exciting although Lindsay began to fade, and Peterborough had easily the best of it from that stage on. Moore got away nicely, passed to Morgan, who returned in front of the nets, and the local cover point slammed one past Newton in 9 minutes.

Peterborough, 3; Lindsay, 1.

Morgan was ruled off for slashing, and Moore got two minutes for the same offence. Morgan and Randall came back on the ice together but the local's centre was sent back for dumping Koyl. On his return he scored Peterborough's fourth goal in brilliant fashion. Parnell shot from well out dead on the nets, and New-on made a pretty stop. Morgan, however, followed in and passed in a goal in the re-bound in four minutes.

Peterborough, 4 Lindsay, 1.

Lindsay retaliated quickly. Koyl and Stoddard rushed together and there was a scrimmage during which Koyl poked one past Derocher. Parnell went off for slashing. Dusty received a wrist shot in the face, which put him out of the game for keeps, and Lindsay dropped Cotey, the game being finished with the teams six men a side.

Peterborough, 5, Lindsay, 2.

Koyl mixed it up with Moore and was sent away and shortly after Moore was punished for slashing. Ray followed him almost immediately and for two minutes Peterborough had four men to six Lindsay, however, could not score, the remaining holding them out until the men returned. There was not further scoring until time was called. Parnell was penalized for the seventh time just before the end of the game.

Following is the summary:

1—Peterborough, Morgan, 4 min.
2—Lindsay, Taylor, 3 min.

Half time:

1—Peterborough, Glover, 8 min.
4—Peterborough, Moore, 9 min.
5—Peterborough, Morgan, 7 min.
6—Lindsay, Koyl, 30 secs.
7—Peterborough, Ray, 4 min.

Penalties:

First Half—Sullivan, Moore, Ray, Taylor, Dusty, Randall, Glover, Sullivan, Parnell, Cotey, Moore, Morgan, Taylor, Glover, Stoddard, Parnell, Moore, Sullivan, Parnell, Dusty, Randall.—Total, 21.

LONGBOAT'S STAMINA WAS TOO MUCH FOR SHRUBB AND THE GREAT LITTLE ENGLISHMAN HAD TO QUIT

New York, Feb. 6.—Another Marathon has been run and won. The victor, Tom Longboat, well deserves the race, as he met and defeated the world's greatest ten and fifteen-mile runner, Alfred Shrubb, the English champion. The task was too much for the little fellow, and he gave up the fight at the twenty-fifth mile, fifth lap.

Shrubb jumped to the front and kept the lead until he quit. He gained lap after lap, and at one time was nearly a mile ahead of the Indian, who, at the twenty-third mile, began showing signs of distress. At the twenty-third and half mile Shrubb stopped, knelt and adjusted his shoes. Longboat gained a lap he had lost, but the English man arose and sprang after him with the speed of a deer. At this juncture Flanagan appeared at the track side with the Indian's bride. Tom smiled broadly, nodded his head and took fresh life. The [illegible] squaw waved encouragement at each lap and the new life injected into the race caused Shrubb to lose heart. Shrubb began to walk in the twenty-fourth mile, and Longboat began to make lap after lap. Shrubb was done for. He was wobbling and tears streamed down his cheeks. He knew defeat was his, yet he staggered on, refusing to quit. His gait was nothing but a walk. Honors were even as the end of the race drew near. Had Shrubb had anyhing left it would have been anybody's race. As it was it was nothing but Longboat.

Tom Flanagan was beside the ring and working like a trojan. "I'm satisfied," said he, as he notices the distress of Shrubb. At the end of the twenty-fifth mile and fifth lap Shrubb walked into the arms of his trainer and was led from the track. Longboat continued and finished the race. He received a rousing ovation.

THE WIFE'S ALLOWANCE.

From Farm and Dairy.

Why call it an allowance? We no longer live in the barbarous ages when men hunt their wives with clubs and take them by sheer force. In those days women were kept as a species of slave and it would then be permissible to call what the husband gave her, whether rations, or what not—an allowance.

Now we live in an age when it is generally acknowledged that the husband and wife take each other for better for worse, for richer for poorer, not to mention "all the worldly goods" with which the man endows his better half. For this reason it is better if they are both socially and financially of equal stations; but circumstances alter cases, and the matter of the wife's portion depends upon the husband's position and the kind of wife he possesses.

When a wife is a bad manager, or not interested in her husband's work she deserves to be put on the same plane as the child and the hireling who receive an allowance. However, as a rule Canadian women are excellent housekepers and thrifty managers, whose merits should place them on an equal with the men they marry.

Perhaps there is no life better adapted to the division of profits, (or better still, the union of two purses), than on the farm where man and wife carry the divided weight of the burden. What could be more reasonable than for a husband and wife to share equally the money which they have both equally earned by sharing the work and the struggle of gathering a home together?

Many farmers and their wives often begin life with nothing and in that case it is impossible to give the wife a stated weekly allowance. If the wife is a true partner, she will strive her level best to be economical, and to help her husband invest what they can in the farm, for it is impossible to get money out of land without putting money into it.

Still, all work and no play is not strict economy. Recreation is necessary at times, both for the farmer and his wife, in order to give them fresh energy to continue "the daily round, the common task."

In cities where the husband goes to business, or has a regular salary, perhaps it is better to allow a certain sum for household expenses, putting the balance by for a rainy day; but on the farm this system will not always work. The farmer's income varies from month to month and from year to year, and there are good years and bad years, but whatever the income may be, it should be the joint property of both partners.

Just as a lantern is incomplete without its glass globe, so is the farmer incomplete without his wife. The farmer may bear the burden and heat of the day, but who bears the burden and heat of the kitchen? Is not the woman in the house the pivot on which things turn?

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

Enthusiasm Growing

Now that the Local Option campaign is well under way, the interest being taken in it is increasing rapidly. During the past two weeks temperance workers have been canvassing ratepayers in all parts of the city for signatures to the petition to the City Council asking for the taking of a vote on Local Option. This has had the effect of bringing the fact that a campaign is on to the attention of a large number of people. The reception the workers have received has been very encouraging. Signatures have been received with greater ease and in larger numbers than was anticipated. Already over the required number of names have been secured. The workers will meet again next Monday evening in the League Rooms, 173 Simcoe street, to report progress.

Wholesaling and Penalties.

The temperance workers are being asked what will be done in regard to the wholesale and shop licenses and with the brewery in Peterborough, in the event of Local Option being carried. Should Local Option carry, the retail shop business will be cut off the same as the hotel licenses. The brewery will not be closed, but it will not be allowed to make sales in small quantities or to any person who intends to retail it in a Local Option district. The law in regard to this matter is briefly summarized as follows :

A Local Option by-law does not prohibit the issue of licenses to sell liquor by wholesale. Wholesale licenses, however, are only issued directly by the Provincial Secretary, under regulations provided by the Government, and the Government, through the Provincial Secretary, has definitely announced that no such licenses will be issued to take effect in municipalities in which Local Option by-laws have been carried.

The smallest fee that is charged for a wholesale license is $250, and it authorizes sale only in large quantities and on premises entirely devoted to wholesale business. A wholesale license would pay only in a place in which there was a large retail liquor business. There are only twenty-three such licenses issued in the whole Province of Ontario.

The Bear and the Bar Room.

Already references to the campaign in Peterborough have been made in a number of city pulpits. Several ministers are planning to deliver a series of temperance sermons.

At the evening service in St. Andrew's Church the pastor on Sunday last made use of the following illustration :

On the premises of one of the local hotels, for some time recently, a bear was kept. Though petted, pampered and well fed, he was securely chained, and as time went on his temper became exceedingly irritable. So much so was this the case that he became a menace to the safety of all who came near the limits of his range which he was constantly trying to extend. Finally a moment of carelessness, one woman came very near losing her life by falling into his power. As a result the bear was promptly destroyed and his carcass was put on exhibition so that all might know the danger removed.

But on the premises of every hotel, there is a far more dangerous monster than the bear. True, like him, it is chained and like him also it is constantly striving to get beyond the limits of the chain in its reach for fresh victims. This monster, unlike the bear, who nearly killed one captive has done to death hundreds of people and has brought misery, degradation and ruin worse than death to hundreds of others. What shall we do with it? Some would shorten the chain and let him go on killing victims in a range that would perhaps be more limited. But if for threatening one life the bear should be killed, surely no time should be lost in despatching a monster that is actually taking many lives, and is stretching out with insatiable appetite for the blood of every man that comes within its reach.

Catholic Clergy and Temperance

All over the world, the Catholic Church is doing a splendid work in the interest of temperance. Perhaps nowhere has this been better illustrated than in our own community, where great progress has been made under the leadership of this church. We quote here the opinion of one prominent clergyman, Archbishop Ireland, who says :

> "The Catholic Church is absolutely and irrevocably oppused to drunkenness and to drunkard making. In vain, we profess to work for souls if we do not labour to drive out an evil which is daily begetting by the ten thousand and peopling hell In vain we boast of civilization and liberty if we do not labour to exterminate intemperance. Education, the elevation of the masses, liberty—all that the age admires—is set at naught by this dreadful evil. The individual conscience is the first arm in opposing it, but the individual conscience has to be strengthened and supplemented by law. The claim of saloon keepers to freedom in their traffic, is the claim to spread disease, sin and pauperism."

Campaign Notes.

A vigorous local option campaign has been begun in Belleville. An organization meeting has been called for an early date.

Several people in Peterborough seem to think that the local option law is identical with the Scott Act. This is not the case. An article pointing out the great superiority of the former will appear in this column in the near future.

Full arrangements in regard to the essay competition have not been completed. They will be announced shortly.

The temperance workers in Brantford are not going to be caught again this year. At a largely attended meeting held recently, officers were elected and organization effected.

A well known Farmers' Institute Speaker, Mr. W. F. Stephen, of Huntingdon, Que., who has been addressing a series of meetings in rural districts of Ontario, states that where local option has been in force for over a year, the hotels are as well kept as they ever were. It is only where local option is new that the hotels are inferior to what they were. Mr. Stephen claims that in a few months, conditions will right themselves.

LOCAL OPTION COLUMN.

Enthusiasm ran high on Monday evening in the committee room of the City Temperance League, 173 Simcoe street. Temperance workers have been busy during the past week securing signatures to a petition asking the city council to introduce a by-law providing for the taking of a vote on local option next January. The campaign committee met last evening. Workers were present from every polling sub-division in the city. After they had presented their report it was found that already over twenty-five per cent. of the rate-payers have signed the petition. In some divisions over fifty per cent. of the ratepayers having attached their signatures. The workers reported that ratepayers in all parts of the city are enthusiastic about the approaching contest and confident that it will carry by a large majority.

It was found on Monday evening that considerable of the ground had not been covered. It was decided unanimously to press the canvass vigorously. Those ratepayers who were away from home when the workers called at their homes will be visited again.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

PAST SEASON PROSPEROUS

From Farm and Dairy.

Ed., Farm and Dairy:—Looking back over our past season's business we are glad to say there is a marked improvement in the general condition of the poultry we have received. We have been doing our best for some years past to educate the farmers to dry-pluck their fowl. Until the past two or three years three parts of the poultry received used to come in scalded, the result being we had to sell it for from three to four cents a pound less than we could realize for the dry picked stock. After scalding, poultry turns dark very quickly, and it is very hard to sell.

A gradual improvement has taken place; this season we are safe in saying 75 per cent. of our receipts have been dressed according to our instructions. The farmers have realized much better prices, and could profit still more if they would pick out the thin birds and fatten them up before sending them to market.

We might also add that if these people would only starve the birds for at least 24 hours before killing, and take the trouble to kill by bleeding at the mouth or throat, it would give them a much nicer appearance.—The Wm. Davies Co., Limited, per Jas. W. Atherton.

Miss Kilroy Investigates

By TROY ALLISON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

To the casual observer Miss Kilroy did not seem exactly fitted for an investigator of sociological problems. The government had probably been prompted by some wise head when it appointed women to that branch of work.

Formerly when men, important in uniforms and brass buttons, or men in plain clothes, augmented by much pomposity, had made the rounds of the foreign settlements such dignity had frightened or embarrassed the women and children to such an extent that it was an impossibility to obtain freely spoken opinions as to what they liked in America, what they did not like, what they expected Uncle Sam to do for them or what they themselves could offer as a just reason for Uncle Sam doing anything at all for them.

Nobody, however, could possibly take fright at pretty Miss Kilroy, who, dressed in the nobbiest white shirt waist suit, a rather gay ribbon on her hat, knocked at the humblest door of the humblest tenements and generally found a welcome.

Grantley, in charge of the temporary quarters provided while the investigation was being carried on in this city, looked up as she entered the office in the afternoon, tired, but jubilant.

"Seems to me I have secured enough information today to make a complete report upon the sociological problem in America," she said, throwing her notes upon her desk.

"Good work," he answered, wondering why she ever undertook such a job. "It's strange that the youngest, most—er"—

"Oh, don't mind me! Go on and say it—the doll baby of the force, the woman who is so pink faced and blond haired that one wouldn't suspect her of having an idea concealed about her, had"—

"No, by George, I didn't mean that! I hesitated because I didn't know that it was exactly proper for me to finish my sentence. I was going to say, since I must refute your impression, the 'most attractive, dainty girl, who looks like a piece of high art'—I don't see how it is that she beats the others all hollow when it comes to turning in the results from a day's labor. Would you mind telling me about your methods of procedure, Miss Kilroy?" Grantley was clearly interested in knowing how she did it.

Miss Kilroy laughed somewhat shamefacedly. "I'm afraid I'm not really businesslike," she admitted, "but I proceed upon an instinctive knowledge of human nature. Today I went to interview a great big Irishwoman. When she came to the door and saw me, notebook in hand, she positively glared. There certainly wasn't a glimmer of hospitality in her face. 'What would the likes av ye be afther wantin?' she demanded.

"When I reeled off my set of questions her indignation increased. 'How long have I bin in America an' what av the wurrik I have done? Faith, an' I think it impudence for a yellow haired chit of a gurrel who ividently spends her time dressing up an' wearing blue ribbons on her hat to come an' call an honest woman from her wurrik to ask questions about her private family. Ye might as well be afther taking ye-alf off. Bridget Maguire don't answer no fool questions.'

"I believe, Mr. Grantley, that if she hadn't been so scathing about my blue hatband I would have walked off and abandoned the interview, but that hatband and the 'yellow haired chit of a gurrel' had to be avenged.

"I leaned against her door dejectedly, tried to turn pale and said: 'You mustn't think I want to do it, for I so hate to be rude, but I have to do it for my living. I'm so tired and so warm'—leaning against the door with an attitude indicating an early approach of tears—'and if I don't find out things for them they will dismiss me and I'll have nothing to live on.'

"Mrs. Maguire's bark was fiercer than her bite. Her face changed, she took hold of my arm gently and led me into her one room. 'Ye poor little craythure,' she said, 'I'll make ye a cup of tay right off, an' you'll soon be better.'"

Miss Kilroy waved her notes gayly. "I felt somewhat hypocritical, but I have fitted her into the proper place in the sociological report."

Her chief smiled approval. "It takes a woman to beat all," he said. "Don't you ever meet with more serious annoyances?"

The girl blushed. "Sometimes the men stare at me a little more than I like. There is a party of Syrians in Jing's court. One of them is a fine specimen. He was dressed in beaded jackets and—er—things and had a red sash and a red fez or something fantastic on his raven locks. He would inspire an artist to paint a 'Son of the Desert' or a 'Type From the Orient.' I have had several interviews with him, because he speaks less fractured English than the others, and yesterday he insisted upon presenting me with a string of red glass beads. He—well, he was slightly effusive and called me a maid of the dawn whose hair was kissed by the rising sun. I decided that I wouldn't interview him any more. He seemed inclined to be impulsive."

Grantley chuckled. "Good thing you have closed the episode. The next chapter might have disclosed the oriental son of a gun desert bearing away upon a flying steed the maid of the dawn, who struggled and protested that she preferred Americans and their customs. Might have caused international complications by abducting you. Even as it is, he may spot your window ledge and twang a guitar or a zither, or whatever it is that Syrians do twang. He may cause you to lose a whole night's sleep."

The elevator boy stuck his head through the doorway. "There are two queer looking females, fixed up in some kind of foreign trappings, that want to see Miss Kilroy," he announced.

"Show them in, Tommy—that is, if you don't mind, Mr. Grantley." She looked at him inquiringly.

"Not at all. I will step into the adjoining room if they will be embarrassed, or I'll listen to your style in interviewing," he said teasingly.

Miss Kilroy smiled when her visitors entered in the very evident throes of formality. "Oh, it's you, is it, Zulieka, and your pretty daughter."

The old woman smiled and nodded until her ear pendants jingled. "We come see maiden like dawn," she announced genially.

Miss Kilroy remembered the origin of the compliment and had the grace to blush. "Did you come to tell me some more about your beautiful country?" she asked graciously.

The woman shook her head. "Come to tell-a you of my son," she beamed.

"Has he succeeded in getting a position?" interestedly.

"No, not on the work we come, is it Hareede?" She appealed to her daughter delightedly.

The girl's black eyes glowed with importance. "We—we women—it is always so," she explained ingratiatingly, "it is for us to tell the fair one that she is beloved"—

"An' you marry my son—yes?" broke in the mother eagerly.

Miss Kilroy sank back in her chair weakly. "Of all things"—she gasped.

"You like-a my son?" urged Zulieka, leaning over and patting caressingly the limp hand of the object of her son's affection.

Miss Kilroy looked dazed. "I—I can't marry your son," she announced feebly.

"But my son—my son! He like-a you, he marry you. The way you smile make him happy. I ask you to marry my son!" her gestures expressing a fervent solicitude that exceeded her vocabulary.

"But I don't want to marry your son," gestured Miss Kilroy desperately.

The eyes of the two matrimonial agents flashed and their voices rose angrily. Miss Kilroy put her blond head upon the desk and sobbed. Grantley considered this an auspicious moment for interference. He rose and spoke blandly to the mother, who stood panting with indignation at the slight to her offspring.

"It is perhaps best for me to explain the situation, madam," and he bowed low in a manner which he hoped would impress them with an idea that he had learned his manners in foreign court circles. "It is not that Miss Kilroy scorns your son; it is that"— He hedged for time to invent something soothingly plausible. "It is only that you have come too late. Miss Kilroy is already betrothed," he added gravely, "and therefore expresses regret that she cannot consider your son."

The blond head of the sociological investigator was raised abruptly from the desk. Zulieka, however, repeated uncomprehendingly "Betrothed?"

Grantly said slowly, "Betrothed—affianced—to be wed—espoused," he added desperately.

The mother and sister of the rejected looked at each other with a flash of understanding. "Ah-h!" they breathed.

"To me—to me." Grantley tapped his breast convincingly.

The woman's face was again wreathed in smiles. "I tell-a my son. I tell-a him that the beautiful maid not strong to cook—to wash. He marry Syrian now. May the rising sun forever kiss your hair, meet, and may your children be as many as the pomegranite seed," she said to Grantley with growing cordiality.

When the door closed behind them Grantley stood with his feet apart and his hands in his pockets, according to the method of meditating man.

"By Jove!" he said finally.

A slight sniff was Miss Kilroy's only contribution toward relieving the awkwardness of the situation.

"We're engaged," he announced cheerfully.

"You're a brute!" she answered cholingly.

"I must say your interviews are conducted upon rather original lines," he teased.

Miss Kilroy's shoulders were shrugged resentfully. "I'll never interview another foreigner so long as I live," she declared.

"Certainly you must give that up—when we are married," he suggested, a twinkle in his eye.

She showed for an instant a pair of indignant, tearful eyes. "We are not engaged," she declared stormily, and her head went back to cover of the desk.

Grantley leaned over her gently. "I wish—we were," he suggested softly.

A sudden tense quietness settled on the bowed figure.

"I have wished for a long time—that we were," he repeated insistently.

He stooped down until he could whisper, "Aren't we, dear?" and the blond head nodded acquiescence.

The Man's Way.

"Is your husband suffering from the toothache?"

"Well," answered the woman with a tired expression, "he says he's suffering, but from the way he's bragging about it I'm half suspicious that he's enjoying it."

THE WHITEWASH CAR.

How the Railroads Keep Tab on Uneven Trackage.

Curiosity is often displayed by travelers over the method employed in making mile after mile of trackage so level that scarcely an undulation can be felt as the whizzing train reels off the laps. This levelness is maintained by the "whitewash" car.

The "whitewash" car, says an exchange, is an ordinary vehicle fitted with a sort of whitewash magazine. As the cars run over the rails at a moderate gait the developed sense of the division officials notes any inequalities, and at each one a valve is pressed, whereat a dash of whitewash falls on the tracks at the points where later the working gangs get busy to make things even.

This homely "whitewash" car is giving way rapidly, however, to a more modern and scientific arrangement in the way of a handsome coach elegantly fitted out with many comforts and in which is to be found a delicate instrument. This latter is so constructed that it registers all unevenness in the tracks on paper which has indicated on it the mileage and names of stations along the way, so that when a run is completed it will be shown just where repairing needs to be done. That indicating sheet is sent to the proper department heads of the company, and by them the work of making the roadbed level is prosecuted.

Young Man Held by Police and Wanted in Millbrook.

Norman Locke, a young man, of twenty years was held in the police station this morning on a charge of theft. Word was received on Sunday afternoon from Chief Constable Miller of Millbrook to arrest him and P. C. McLarty arrested him shortly afterwards.

THE ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD

Rev. J. P. Wilson Preached at George Street Church on Sunday.

Splendid services were held at the George street Methodist church yesterday, it being the Sunday School anniversary. Large congregations were present both morninga nd evening. Special sermons were preached by Rev. J P Wilson, of Lindsay, and a former pastor of George street church.

In the morning the children of the school marched into the church, several pews having been reserved for them. The hymns were appropriate for a children's service, and the remarks were especially addressed to the scholars. The members of the primary class promoted to higher classes in the Sunday school were each presented with Bibles by the pastor, Rev. E A Pearson.

At the morning service, twenty-four men and women were admitted into the membership of the church, each making a profession of their faith.

Rev. Mr. Wilson in addressing the children did not choose a text, but, spoke to them on "What is a Christian." Before beginning he said that it gave him a great deal of joy to be again amongst the people of George street church. He was glad to be present at such an enthusiastic gathering of Sunday school scholars and workers. It was simply overwhelming, he said, to see the interest taken in children by the old people.

"What is a Christian?" asked the reverend speaker. Every child, he said, went to school as soon as they reached the age of five years, but one did not have to be any particular age to go to the school of Christ. Scholars went there to learn from Christ, to learn how to be good and honorable. Jesus loved everyone and wanted them to be good. He fed the birds and beasts and the preacher thought everyone should be thankful to Him for all the things He had provided them with for their happiness. Christ was a tender and gentle Teacher.

To be a Christian one must believe and have faith. "You must trust in the Lord," said Mr. Wilson. Then a Christian must be a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ. He had to be obedient to His commands and should endeavour to be as much like Him as was possible. The preacher likened a Christian to a soldier who had to follow the leader.

The scholars of the Sunday School should be as saints of God, as should every Christian be holy and pure in their lives.

THREE YEAR OLD BOY LOSES HIS LIFE IN THE RAPIDLY FLOWING WATERS OF CREEK THIS AFTERNOON

SEARCHING FOR THE BODY

A distressing fatality occurred at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon, when Max Roberts, the youngest son of Mr. Walter Roberts, Stewart street, was drowned in the rapidly flowing waters of the creek, which passes through the city. The little fellow who was only five years of age, was playing with a number of boys of his own age along the creek on Murray street, between Stewart street and Bethune street. There is a crib work along the creek at this point, and below it is a strip of open water, the recent thaw and rain having melted the ice for some distance out, and raised the depth of the water, so that it is about three feet deep.

Young Roberts in some manner lost his balance and fell off the crib work into the water, disappearing beneath the ice. His companions, who were brothers by the name Delbay, were too small to give him any assistance and ran home to tell their mother of the accident. The unfortunate boy's family were notified and the alarm was given to a number of the neighbours, who turned out to render what assistance they could.

Some telephone line men were in the vicinity and they assisted in the search for the body. No trace was to be found of the little fellow, but the ice near the spot was broken and the water searched with poles and peavies.

At the time of going to press the boy's body had not been discovered and it was feared that he might have been carried some distance down the creek beneath the ice. His mitten was noticed passing beneath the bridge at Bethune street some minutes afterwards, having passed under the ice and come to the surface again.

JOHN LEE, THE MAN THE GALLOWS REFUSED TO HANG, AND WHO SPENT YEARS IN PRISON, IS NOW MARRIED

Was Accused of Murder and Three Times Stood on the Death Trap and Each Time the Mechanism, Strange to Relate, Did Not Answer to the Usual Summons.

LONG TERM IN PRISON

Readers of the Examiner will remember the story of John Lee which appeared last spring in several Saturday issues, giving the story of his life, which in many respects was more than remarkable. He was accused of murder and sentenced to be hanged, and although three times on the scaffold, the mechanism on each occasion refused to work. The following is the account of his recent marriage:

London, Feb. 8.—John Lee, of Babbacombe, (the man they couldn't hang) was married quietly the other day at Newton Abbot, Devonshire.

Lee was released from prison a little over twelve months ago, after serving twenty-two years penal servitude for the murder of Miss Emma Keyse, by whom he was employed as butler at Babbacombe. Lee was sentenced to death, and three attempts were made to hang him, but the gallows mechanism failed on each occasion, and after the unparalleled ordeal the prisoner was granted a respite.

Every care was taken to ensure that the ceremony should be kept secret.

The report of the wedding soon spread, and when the newly-married couple left the church a large crowd which had gathered outside showered confetti over them. Mr. and Mrs. Lee drove direct to the railway station, and entrained for Durham, where the honeymoon will be spent.

JUDGMENT GIVEN AGAINST DEFENDANTS IN MINING CASE INVOLVING THREE LOCAL MEN

Mr. Justice Teetzel Heard Mining Case and Peterboro' Men Have to Pay North Bay Grocer for Goods Used in Carrying on Mining Operations.

DEFENDANTS PAY COSTS.

In the Toronto World to-day appears the judgment given by Mr. Justice Teetzel, of Toronto, in the case of Alice, (a merchant at North Bay) against Braund, Dixon and Crowley, local men. The account is as follows:

Alice v. Braund.—S. White, K.C., for plaintiff. F. D. Kerr, (Peterborough), for defendants, Braund and Dixon. J. M. Macnamara, (North Bay), for defendant, Crowley. Judgment (B.). The plaintiff sues for goods sold and delivered to the defendants, and as assignee of other accounts, owing by defendants. Under an agreement of 30th January, 1907, the defendants are joint owners of six mining claims in the District of Nipissing, and it is recited in the said agreements that the parties have agreed to merge or pool their respective interests in such claims upon the terms thereinafter stated; and it is agreed that the defendant, Crowley, is entitled to an undivided one-quarter interest therein, and that the parties should be entitled to the net proceeds of the sale of the said claims, or of any part thereof, that may be sold, as well as of all mineral that may be sold therefom in the same proportions. As to whether the agreement constituted a co-partnership or co-ownership, I am of opinion that it was a co-partnership agreement. I think upon its face it covers the terms necessary to constitute the relationship of partners within the authorities, but I find upon the evidence that it was dissolved as between the parties, Crowley ceased to have authority to pledge his associates' credit. Two of the claims for wages assigned to the plaintiff, amounting to $40, cannot be allowed against the defendants, Braund and Dixon, as the assignors were minors; but the defendant, Crowley, consented as against him to the allowance of these claims. Judgment will, therefore, be against the defendants, Braund and Dixon, for $200.86, and against the defendant, Crowley, for $240.86, with costs against all the defendants.

Horse Struck Telephone Pole Throwing Out Driver After Narrowly Escaping Engine

An accident which fortunately was not attended by any serious consequences occurred at the C. P. R. station on Saturday evening, about seven o'clock. A Benson street young man was driving south on George street, his horse travelling at a very rapid rate and was beyond his control. A train was approaching from the east and the street gates were lowered by Mr. John Byers. Almost at the same time the horse's gallop, sounding hard and clear on the bare, frozen road, was heard by those on the station platform, and as it rapidly drew nearer the feeling that an accident was imminent was impressed upon every one.

The horse was almost on the gates and the bystanders expected it to break through in front of the engine, when suddenly it swerved to the right and crossed the sidewalk, striking its breast with a thud against a telegraph post at the end of the platform. When its hoofs met the pavement there was a display of sparks that would do justice to a smithy before the animal fell over on its side. The driver was thrown out by the impact and was lying under the buggy. At the same instant the engine of the freight crossed the street with a noise of crunching iron, as the brakes were applied.

For an instant there was some confusion, until Mr. Byers grasped the horse by the head and held him down. The engineer of the train with a number of bystanders lifted the driver from his position, and beyond the shock no serious injuries were evident.

The buggy escaped with but slight damage and the horse likewise seemed unhurt. A horse and buggy were telephoned for from Gibbs' and the young man was removed to his home. It is thought that the horse shied at the green light on the gate, otherwise it would undoubtedly have gone through and would likely have been struck by the engine. The prompt action of those who were near by was also responsible for quieting the animal and preventing it from in any way injuring the driver, who lay beneath the buggy.

EXPLANATION WANTED.

The following from the Vancouver, (B. C.) Sunset, Independent-Conservative, shows what Pacific Coast opinion is concerning the bogus telegram episode. Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition, on the eve of the last Dominion election sent a telegram to British Columbia stating his position upon the immigration of Asiatics. The concluding sentence of Mr. Borden's telegram says he stood for "the absolute protection of white labour." By some mysterious means, not yet satisfactorily explained, the telegram was changed so as to read "absolute exclusion of Asiatics"; and in this garbled form it was made public, and circulated with all the energy due to so important a campaign roor-back. The result was that British Columbia where feeling ran very high on the the Asiatic immigration question, went almost solidly for Mr. Borden and the party he represents. The Sunset's remarks are as below:

The Victoria Colonist is in about the dirtiest mess I can recall in Canadian journalism. That the Borden telegram was altered with deliberate intent after it left the C. P. R. telegraph office and before it was placed in the hands of G. H. Barnard in the political meeting of October 24th is self evident. The Colonist itself admits that the copy on file in the telegraph office contains no such words as "and the absolute exclusion of Asiatics." Yet it printed a fac-simile of the telegram reproduced by photography, in its issue of October 25. The camera cannot be blamed for making a mistake. Those words could not have been added without the active intervention of a man with a typewriter. Had the wording of the telegram been merely copied and set up in type an error might have crept in. But in this case the telegram was photographed and etched on a zinc plate by photographic process. The plea of inadvertence is therefore absolutely untenable, it made. Now what is Mr. Barnard going to do about it? Is he going to retain the seat won by such a despicable trick? He says he is an honorable man and wants to stand as such before the members of both sides of the House. How can he do so when he holds his seat as the fruit of one of the dirtiest campaign tricks ever worked in Canada?

There is room here for a good deal of explanation. The mystery centres around the fac-simile reproduction of the telegram which appeared in the Colonist. A printed reproduction of the telegram could easily be altered, but a photographic reproduction would be exactly like the telegram received and would show any tampering or change that might have been made, in the closing sentence of the telegram. The flabby plea that the original was lost and was reproduced from memory wont explain the alleged photographic reproduction of the original. Anyway, as the Sunset remarks, it is a very dirty mess. The fact stands out that Mr. Borden owes his following in British Columbia to the "improved" telegram circulated in his interest. True he repudiates sending a telegram containing the direct reference to the "Asiatics" but it is to be noted that he only gave this repudiation after Sir Wilfrid Laurier had brought up the matter in the House. Mr. Borden says he knew nothing of the telegram which he repudiates, being used to help his election, till after the voting. It seems, however, that he learned it soon after, but took no steps to set himself right with the country till he was compelled to face or outface, the matter on the floor of the House, nearly three months after the election. Mr. Borden repudiates the telegram; to be consistent he must repudiate the support the bogus telegram undoubtedly brought him, or stand convicted of accepting and enjoying support in the House of Commons, obtained and held on false pretenses.

The public man who would consistently pose as a flagellator of the political sins of his opponents should remove from a vitreous environment of a domiciliary character.

If the Senate persists in killing further level crossing legislation, it may become the subject of another level crossing fatality.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

There are critics who carp at the cost per mile of the Transcontinental Railway. The expense is largely incurred in providing low gradients and easy curves, a matter of greater initial cost, but a perpetual advantage in the operation of the railway. How important grades and curves are considered, may be illustrated by the fact that the Southern Pacific Railway of the United States, is preparing to tunnel the Nevada Mountains at a cost of $25,000,000, with a view to improve the grade. If this had been done when the line was first built, a large proportion of the cost of the improvements would have been saved in traffic returns and operating expenses.

ON GOING TO CHURCH.

What is the Real Motive for Appearance at Worship.

I wonder what would happen if some great mind would invent a machine which would record in bold type at church door the real motive in attending church? It would make highly interesting reading, and that the congregation would take to climbing in through the painted windows, while the other half would tamper with "the words" very likely. Even the parson would have to give his good reasons for attending to the wants of the souls and the sheep under his care.

What if madam (considered devout) saw: "my new coat" set up in bold type? What if the Christian who really believes he is going for the good of his soul saw, "I go so as to give good example," set up before his blinded eyes? Well, every Sunday churches are full of good Christians and come to think of it, none of us would like to tell the exact reason we go.

I wouldn't say "going to church" is a bad thing—not even for hypocrite, who cheats six days out of the seven; nor yet for saintly who slanders everyone within a ten mile radius; but it would be a great thing for ourselves to know and to understand the real reason we attend. For "machines" recording these facts would be sold, and for myself, I'd climb up the belfry and drop down on some other sinner's head before I'd submit to having my thoughts on this subject recorded.

I like to go to church. I like to see the poor and lowly herd together in rear seats, wearing their working clothes without shame. I like to observe the feathers wagging in front pews and to note the invariable rule that money takes first rank and sits in the shelter of the pulpit. I like to see the little children walk up the aisle, worn shoes and satin frocks smiling at each other and no barriers drawn between blessed childhood's years, between the poverty and the riches of life's "little ones!"

I like to go to church because it encourages the opening and airing of the edifice one day in seven. I like to go to church to make the clergyman "do something for his pay!" But when we get a machine to record "motive in going to church" it will be a comfort to know the real reason my neighbour goes.—Winnipeg Free Press.

WRITES AGAINST LOCAL OPTION FIGHT

"Observer" Gives His Impressions of The Issue.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir—I think you will agree with me, that in all matters concerning public and others questions, fairness and honesty should accentuate the efforts employed to advance a cause. In the matter of "Local Option" in this city the so-called temperance advocates are misrepresenting facts in order to secure signatures to the petition. Statements have been made that "Local Option" would only imply the closing of the bars, while liquor stores would still be allowed to sell. Such statements are not true and are used to get votes from those who would gladly see the bars abolished, but do not approve of having the sale of beer, etc., suppressed. Fair minded people are already seeing the evil of Local Option enforcement in those districts where the measure has been carried. While the sale of liquor is prohibited in unlicensed places, it is sold on an extensive scale in drug stores and other stores as medicine or Peruna. The influence upon the character of the people who thus see the law defied and evaded cannot be otherwise than bad.

I hope the Peterborough citizens will not fall into the way of those wish to force upon others their particular views.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I remain yours.

YOUNG MOTHERS

A mother who is in good physical condition transmits to her child the blessing of a good constitution; sickly, ailing mothers, the reverse.

The tiny babe brings to her a living responsibility. At such a time too great care cannot be taken to build up the mother's general constitution, and restore her feminine system to a healthy, normal condition. The greatest assistance that any woman can have in accomplishing this all-important work is

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND

Mrs. M. Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

"I was greatly run down in health, suffering from a weakness peculiar to my sex. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I was not only restored to health but am the proud mother of a fine baby girl. I wish every sick and ailing woman would give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial."

Mrs. Paul Oliver, of St. Martinville, La., writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"For years I suffered from the worst form of female troubles, and the doctor said I could not get well without an operation. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound restored me to perfect health, and I have the sweetest little baby girl. I will never cease to praise Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with the worst forms. Why don't you try it?

MADMAN SLAYS TWO PEOPLE

Frenzied Hand Kills Two and Wounds Four Near Shelburne.

George Stewart Slays John and James Spanhouse, Fatally Injures Mrs. Spanhouse and Wounds Three Others In Early Morning Frenzy of Homicidal Mania—Uses Revolver, Club and Rifle.

Shelburne, Feb. 8.—A terrible deed of blood in Shrigley, in the northern portion of Melancthon Township, 12 miles from here, was the result of an outburst of maniacal frenzy by George Ernest Stewart, a thresher of the township. Two persons were killed and four severely injured by the madman, who was armed with a revolver. The victims are:

John Spanhouse, farmer, aged 65, dead.

James Spanhouse, his son, unmarried, aged 42, dead.

Mrs. Spanhouse, wife of John Spanhouse, not expected to recover.

George Beaumont, hired man, recovery expected.

Mrs. Gowan, housekeeper, recovery expected.

William Wilson, farmer, struck over head.

Stewart, who is about 29 years of age, has shown signs of insanity for several years. After his murderous onslaught he returned to his father's house where the constable found him in a peaceful slumber. He offered no resistance when arrested by Constable Thompson of Shelburne.

Mrs. Mowat, 85 Marlboro avenue, Toronto, and Mrs. Foggett, 303 Dunlas street, West Toronto, are daughters of Mr. Stanhouse, Sr.

Stewart had been spending the past couple of days at the home of his brother, William Stewart, whose farm is the west half of lot 28, concession 3, Township of Melancthon. He had passed a couple of sleepless nights, and Saturday night seemed specially restless. His brother William remained up with him till a late hour in an attempt to get him in a frame of mind that would induce sleep.

Finally George went to bed, but only took off his boots and socks. Noticing this, and doubtless fearing to some extent that he would attempt to go outside alone, William did not go to bed, but decided to spend the remainder of the night on a sofa, where any movement of his brother would awaken him.

About 5 o'clock yesterday morning, attired as he had laid down on the bed, with the exception that he had pulled one sock on, George went to go out. William asked him where he was going, and he said just outside. William attempted to follow him and was met by a blow from his fist that sent him flying. Again he attempted to prevent George making off, only to be met by blows that knocked him senseless.

It would appear that George had a revolver, although where he got it is not known. Armed with this and a heavy stake taken from a woodrack in his brother's yard, the crazed man made his way up the road to John Spanhouse's. The door he went to at Spanhouse's opened into the parlor, off of which was the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Spanhouse. Spanhouse, Sr., heard him at the door and got up and put on his trousers and went to investigate. Mrs Spanhouse heard her husband open the door. Then there was shooting, and her husband's voice cried out: "Oh, I am shot." She crouched in the corner of the room at the foot of the bed. The murderer entered and attacked her.

James Spanhouse and the servant, Miss Grace Christian, who were sleeping upstairs, were aroused. The girl, crazed with fear, locked herself in her room, but the man ran downstairs into the parlor, grabbing an old military rifle on his way. As he entered the parlor it was wrested from him and the stock partly broken off and Stewart smashed his head into a pulp with the heavy wood stake. The old people were also battered by the stake.

Mrs. Spanhouse subsequently recovered consciousness sufficiently to tell her story of the affair, but is not expected to survive over to-day.

From Spanhouse's the murderer made his way towards his father's home at Maple Valley. He had discarded the heavy stake at Spanhouse's, taking in its place the old military rifle, less part of the wooden stock. Not far south of Maple Valley lives William Wilson. Wilson had just put on the fire when Stewart walked in. Stewart made some reference to the gun and then hit Mr. Wilson a crushing blow on the head with it.

Leaving the Wilson place he went across the road to E. J. Pound. Pound is away, but here he found the hired man, George Beaumont, and Mrs. Gowan, the housekeeper. Making some remark about the gun, the same as he had done at Wilson's, Stewart then attacked Beaumont, clubbing him so savagely that but slight hopes are entertained for his recovery. Mrs. Gowan attempted to escape into another part of the house and was also clubbed.

When Stewart left the house, however, she succeeded in dragging herself to the telephone and alarming W. D. Taylor, storekeeper at Maple Valley. Taylor started down the road to the rescue, met Stewart in front of the farm of his brother, Arthur Taylor. Stewart told him not to come near. Somewhat alarmed at the maniac's actions, Taylor started into his brother's place. Stewart followed to the fence, leveled the gun, and called to Taylor to throw up his hands. When Taylor called for assistance, Stewart snapped the weapon, and finding it would not explode, put off up the road again in a rage.

He was seen to go into his father's house, and here Constables Thompson and Wattam of Shelburne found him sleeping peacefully about 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when they went to arrest him. He was brought to Shelburne about 6 o'clock and confined in the town jail, where, later in the evening, manacled as he was, he attempted to assault his jailer. He will be taken to the Dufferin County Jail at Orangeville to-day.

Stewart's awful work was certainly that of a madman, extending, as it did over a territory of more than three miles, and starting, as it did, with two or three nights of sleeplessness and winding up wth the peaceful sleep as of a babe in his father's home after his carnival of blood and violence.

The murderer is a young man of rather heavy physique. He has been mentally unbalanced for some three years, a hereditary taint, doubtless, for two of his uncles died insane. Three years ago he got into some kind of trouble in Medicine Hat, Alberta, and was incarcerated in the barracks of the Northwest Mounted Police there. He was released on promise of his brother that he would be taken care of, and was brought to his father's home at Maple Valley.

Art Gallery Entered.

New York, Feb. 9.—Mystery surrounds the theft of "Mother and Child," a valuable painting by Antoine Emile Plassan, from the Robert L. Stuart gallery, in the Nenox branch of the New York Public Library, Fifth avenue and Seventieth street Friday.

The painting, which is a panel nine inches long and seven inches wide, was cut from its gold frame as it hung on the wall at the end of an alcove in the northeast wing of the building. In reporting the theft to the police, Wilberforce Eames, the librarian, said he believed the picture was stolen between 9 and 10 o'clock in the morning Friday at a time when there was no attendant on duty in the gallery.

More Sugar For England.

London, Feb. 8.—British customs receipts from sugar rose from £4,478,700 in 1902-03 to £6,707,807 in 1907-08. With this increase in sugar there has been a large drop in excise receipts from intoxicants, from which it is deducted that many men are making up for less alcohol by increased sweets. This is particularly noticeable in the dinner and luncheon menus at restaurants and clubs and also in a new feature of London street life in the numerous vendors of chocolate and other sweet stuffs.

Basket Gown Next.

Paris, Feb. 8.—The directoire gown is doomed, so say the costumiers, and by next fall a new fashion which will revive the Louis Quinze basket dress will be the mode. The scabbard gown, which is a modification of the directoire gown, is now in vogue. This is practically as form-fitting as its predecessor, but includes an overskirt which hangs to the knee.

Whoso would write clearly must think clearly, and if he would write in a noble style he must first possess a noble soul.—Goethe.

Would Make World Dry.

Washington, Feb. 8.—A universal "water wagon" is the proposition submitted to the House by Representative Sheppard of Texas.

He introduced a bill providing that the President shall call a world's temperance conference of all nations represented at The Hague peace conference, for th purpose of considering legislation curtailing the use of intoxicating liquors, drugs, narcotics, and other "dangerous" articles, including tobacco.

According to the provisions of this bill, the President is to appoint not less than one hundred delegates from the United States, and is to request other powers to send twelve representatives each to the conference, which is to be held in Washington or "some other seaport town." The bill was referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Sembrich's Farewell.

New York, Feb. 8.—On the same stage where she made her first appearance in opera in New York, some 25 years ago last October, Mme. Marcella Sembrich, as she is best known to a music-loving public, whose number is legion, sang and said. Saturday night, her formal farewell as an opera singer to a clientele which, to say nothing of its numbers, in its admiration and affection is of a kind that no other individual singer in the history of opera in New York has ever succeeded in attracting to her or his standard.

The real demonstration of the evening came, however, when ex-Mayor Seth Low, on behalf of the public, presented Mme. Sembrich with a string of pearls and a watch and chain set with diamonds.

Wants Canadian Eggs.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Believing that the removal of the duty on Canadian eggs would go far toward reducing the cost of the United States product, Arnold Brennan of this city has adopted an endless chain postcard system to accomplish such an end.

The primary purpose of the endless postcard system is to bring the matter forcibly to the attention of Sereno F. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee of the lower House of Congress.

Miners' Demands.

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—After selecting Indianapolis for the convention next year the convention of the United Mine Workers of America adjourned. New Colonial Policy.

London, Feb. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—A Colonial Office official states that the visit to Australia of Sir G. Lucas, who returns unofficially via Canada, is a forerunner of similar visits and marks a deliberate policy. Lucas will be prepared to discuss every conceivable thing with the Ministers of Australia, who will probably endeavor to obtain some help in connection with emigration.

Germany and Canada.

Berlin, Feb. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—In the Reichstag Doctor Stresaman (National Liberal) expressed a desire for the establishment of normal relations with Canada, which was now ready to make advances. It was to be hoped that the interests of both countries could now be served without impairing national dignity.

Open Water at Port Arthur.

Port Arthur, Feb. 8.—Until to-day it looked almost sure that there would be no ice harvest here this winter, as the bay was all open water. Last night a thin sheet of ice formed, and if the sun and wind do not interfere, a situation that has been causing some anxiety will be relieved.

Bryan Hurt In Auto Accident.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 8.—While returning from Sutherland College, where he delivered a lecture Saturday evening, William J. Bryan came near losing his life. A big automobile in which he was riding threw a tire on a bridge and plunged into the trestlework, throwing the occupants out. Mr. Bryan was on the side next to that which struck the woodwork and was jammed against a rail and suffered considerable injury.

Murdered and Burned.

London, Feb. 8.—A special despatch from Santiago, Chile, says that the body of the chancellor of the German legation was recovered yesterday from the ruins of the burned legation building there. To Suffer From Headaches Makes Life Miserable.

It takes a person that has had or is subject to headaches to describe the suffering which attends them.

The majority of cases are caused by constipation and dyspepsia. The dull throbbings, the intense pain, sometimes in one part, sometimes in another, and then over the whole head, varying in its severity by the cause which brings it on, purely indicates that there is something the matter with the stomach or bowels. To the fact that Burdock Blood Bitters reaches every part of the system is due its success in relieving and permanently curing headache. It has proven a specific for the malady in all its forms.

CONSTIPATION AND HEADACHES.

Mrs. Allison E. Brown, Summerfield, N.B., writes:—"I have been troubled with Constipation and Headaches for a long time. After trying different doctors to no effect, a friend asked me to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I find I am completely cured after taking three bottles. I can safely recommend it to all."

HEADACHES ARE DANGER SIGNALS

They Tell Us Plainly That Something is Wrong Inside.

There are tablets and powders that will stop a headache promptly—but removing a danger signal does not take away the danger.

In nearly every case a headache—of whatever kind—is a symptom of poisoned blood, due to Bowels, Kidneys and Skin failing to thoroughly remove indigestible food and waste, poison-out tissue from the body. Then digestion is poor, causing sick headaches, or uric acid is formed and deposited on the nerves, causing neuralgia.

Not only the danger signal, but the danger itself as well, is quickly removed by "Fruit-a-tives."

"Fruit-a-tives" are tablets made of the combined juices of oranges, apples, figs and prunes, containing all their medicinal properties, concentrated and intensified. They cause the liver to secrete more bile, which moves the bowels freely and regularly, and cures the most obstinate cases of Constipation. They stir up kidneys and skin to throw off all the urea, or dead tissue, which has been poisoning the system. They sweeten the stomach, improve digestion and tone up the whole body. The headaches disappear—because the source is removed.

SIGNIFICANCE OF MERE TRIFLES

"Every Man Must be a Man, But Every Woman Must be a Lady."

Some small things go down to the depths, just as tiny islets may be the peaks of enormous mountains under the sea. It is a small thing to take off one's hat in the drawing room; it is an even smaller thing to vote. But these things are trivial or tragic according as they stand for certain strong desires in men and women. Wear your hat before a lady and you have said that she is not a lady; you have destroyed the whole structure of civilization on which she stands. Tell a man that he must not vote and he will probably be angry, even if he does not want to. For you are telling him that he is not a man at all; you are turning him out of the club, the coarse and brotherly association which is necessary to males. To sum it up in one awful phrase, you are chucking him out of the public house. That, very rightly, shocks his sensibility. But the sensibilities of the woman are quite different and demand quite different considera tion. And no one will ever begin to understand men and women till he understands this fact: That every man must be a man, but every woman must be a lady.
—G. K. Chesterton.

Wm. Here is one case: "I am now using the second bottle of your Parisian Sage, and can notice a new crop of hair appearing. I am glad to say it is a darker colour than my hair was before I became bald." Harry Reid, 10 Manhattan street, Rochester, N.Y.

Don't wait till you're bald before using Parisian Sage, use it now. Kill the dandruff germ and prevent baldness. Wm. POVERTY OF THE RICH.

The butler to the millionaire occupant of a Newport villa has sued one of his hosts's guests to recover $500 money loaned. After the notices by Newport grocers that they will no longer give millionaires unlimited credit, this butler's suit is another token of the comparative poverty of some of the newly rich.

In many households the butler, the chef, the footmen and the maids have more real money at the end of the month than the occupant of the villa. They get their board and lodging besides wages. The master has an uncertain income, without regular salary or food and shelter provided by some one else.

A Fifth Avenue waiter recently bought $60,000 worth of real estate from his tips. Not one in a hundred of the men whom he has served could lay his hands on so much ready cash to-day. The man who, as Stuyvesant Fish recently said, has had to cut his living expenses from $200,000 to $50,000 a year not only feels, but is poorer than his butler, his valet or his cook, who have put their wages in savings banks, and to whom discharge would mean an opportunity for a vacation in their old homes in Europe.—The World.

Necessary Essentials For Great Race Through Life

Subject of Sermon Delivered by Rev. Mr. Anderson at Knox Church Last Night—Large Congregation Heard Excellent Advice—Instruction to be Prepared

OPPORTUNITIES OF SERVICE

"I Press Toward the Mark," was the text of Rev. F. W. Anderson's sermon to a very large congregation at Knox Church on Sunday night. The occasion was a special one, the day being devoted to the Young People, and the text was applied to the "Young Christian in the Race, or Practical Forms of Service." Rev. Mr. Anderson dealt with the essentials required by all those who desire to win the mark or goal which lies in the Kingdom of God, the race which all of us are anxious to win and the goal of which Christ Himself desires us to attain.

Revv. Mr. Anderson is the secretary of the Young People's Missionary Movement in Canada, and in his two sermons, the one in the morning at St. Andrew's Church and in the evening at Knox Church, he presented a strong plea that the great race we are called upon to lead in this life find us well prepared for its frequent demands on our perseverance our determination and our ability to withstand the severe test which we must endure, as well as a realization of the goal which we are seeking to attain.

Rev Mr. Anderson is a young man, deeply imbued with the spirit of the to which he is devoting himself, and his impressive appeal to the congregation, young and old, was listened to with profound interest. He stated that the recent race over the Marathon distance was illustrative of the subject of his remarks. Three things are necessary to success in winning the great goal which awaits man at the end of his long and arduous course through life. First, there must be the goal itself and a realization of it; there must be perseverance and stamina in the race, and there must also be a determination, without which the goal would never be reached. As it is on the athletic field so is it in the race for the Kingdom of God.

The practical form of service as pointed out by Rev. Mr. Anderson, are found in our every day lives. The opportunities which face the young people as they start out in the world are found on every side, and require our best service and usefulness and should be grasped. The ordinary ideal is to reach at the opportunities to serve ourselves, to make all the money we can, to get all the influence we can and then after that there is plenty of time to consider our relationship with God. The material spirit is destroying the better instincts of the men and women, too, of to-day. The true meaning of a personal relationship with God is in your hearts the Kingdom of God. He is the only one who can give us the standard of righteousness."

One of the practical forms of service is prayer. By that we know His will better and yield ourselves in subservience to Him. Our place in the congregation offers a great service for everyone. In the Sunday School and Guild meetings, too, we can put our lives in that sphere of opportunity where we can do the most for God. In the home and in its neighbourhood service of a much similar nature is presented. When a young Christian starts in the race people want to see him bear up well. Too many declare their faith in Jesus, but afterwards shirk in their duties. Any race must be run determinedly and it is no child's play to run in the race of to-day.

Rev. Mr. Anderson closed his sermon by referring to the great missionary work that the present generation is called upon to undertake. The call to be true to Christ was never so great as it is to-day. "If the world is not evangelized during this generation," he said, "God alone knows how difficult it will be for the next."

REV. F. W. ANDERSON, M.A.,
Of Toronto, who will speak at the Young People's Rally in Murray Street Church to-night.

Intermittent Storms During February, According To Hicks

A Storm Period From 13th to 18th —Pleasant Weather Will Follow —Month Will Close With Rain and Sleet, Playing Havoc.

AN UNSETTLED MONTH

Following is Irl Hicks' weather prediction for February: A regular storm period covers the first five days of February, which is central on the 3rd. By the 1st and 2nd the barometer will be falling and the temperature will be rising in western sections of the country. By the 3rd cloudiness and storm areas will be organized, and during the 3rd to 6th rain, wind and snow will prevail generally, passing progressively from western to eastern extremes of the country. The storms of this period will reach their culminating severity and extent in connections with the full moon on and touching the 5th. By the 5th storms will have turned to driving snow in the north and west, followed closely by rising barometer, high northwest winds and change to much colder. Cold, fair weather will advance eastward and southward in the immediate rear of these progressive storms, reaching in varying degrees of frigidity most parts of the country by the 7th to 8th. We believe that earthquakes and general seismic shivers will grow less frequent as we pass through the interim between the Jupiter periods; but in some degrees such phenomena will continue in regular cycles. The 5th is the central day of such a period, embracing about the 3rd to 8th, notably the 4th, 5th and 6th.

A resectionary storm period is central on the 8th, 9th and 10th. At this time look out for marked reaction to warmer beginning in the west. Falling barometer will follow, bringing cloudiness and rain, with possibly electrical storms southward on and touching the 9th. As these storms move eastward the west sides of storm areas will turn to snow and be followed immediately by rising barometer and much colder, fair weather. Learn well this lesson of storm and anti-storm areas passing periodically across the country from west to east and you will rarely "get left" in your calculations of what will reach your locality at regular intervals.

A regular storm period extends from the 13th to the 18th, being central on the 15th. This period, as shown by the storm diagram, lies within the interference of earth's vernal equinox. Hence equatorial disturbances are possible and probable in southern extremes at this and following periods in February. We will name the 15th, 16th and 17th as the central days of the storm developments. On and touching these dates low barometer and storms of rain, turning to snow, will touch most sections in their eastward passage across the country. Astronomic conditions at this time indicate that disturbances may over-run the limits of this period, uniting with the next storm period.

A resectionary storm period is central on the 20th, 21st and 22nd. This period is at the incoming of the Mercury disturbance with new moon immediately preceding, also containing moon in perigee and on the equator. Marked barometric depression will appear at the beginning or as early as the 19th, attended by growing warmth, and during Saturday, to 20th, to Tuesday, the 23rd, general and decided storms of rain, wind and thunder will visit regions to the southward, turning to heavy and destructive sleet storms over central to northern sections. Blizzards are entirely possible at the culmination of this period. There is strong probability of West India hurricanes at and about this period. Barometer conditions in all the Gulf and south coast regions should be persistently watched and heeded. In all probability seismic shakes will be reported from many parts of the globe within three days of sunset on the 19th most likely on the 20th, 21st and 22nd.

A regular storm period falls on the last four days of the month, being central with that of the Mercury period on the 28th. Moon also passes first quarter on the 26th. The barometer will fall decidedly on entering this period and renewed storms of rain, sleet and snow will visit in some form or other, almost the entire country on and touching the 26th, 27th and 28th. This is a time when the sleet god will have a picnic with the wires. Watch and see

FAT MEN.

Fat men get all the good things in life. They are conducted to the best tables at restaurants, they get the corner seats at the theatre and always seem to have enough money to get along without worrying. When a fat man enters a drawing room doesn't he always get the most comfortable chair? asks the writer. When his hat blows off on a windy day doesn't some one always run after it for him? No one expects him to get up in a bus or train to give his seat to a lady—he would block the gangway if he did. Even his wife doesn't expect him to stoop to pick up things when she drops them. Everybody tells him their best stories, because they like to hear him laugh.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY TO-NIGHT

Rev. F. W. Anderson of Toronto Will Address Young People at Murray Street.

In connection with the Young People's Rally in the Murray Street Baptist Church to-night there will be a song service, commencing at 7.45, conducted by Rev. J. R. Webb. The Young People's Societies will give up their own meeting and most of them are planning to meet at their own church at 7.30 o'clock and marching from there to Murray street Baptist Church.

This is the first official visit of Rev. F. W. Anderson to the Young People's Guilds of Peterborough. He revealed his powers as a speaker in the services yesterday and, no doubt, will give a stirring message this evening. The offering of the evening will go towards the work of the Young People's Missionary movement.

Labour Conditions In City As Reported For December

Mr. J. Arthur Sharp, correspondent for the Peterborough district to the Labour Gazette, reported as follows for December:

General Condition of Labour Market.

The general condition of the labour market during December was a little better than in the previous month, and the outlook for the coming year is encouraging. The Wm. Hamilton Company has started operations with about fifty men, and the Canadian General Electric Company is becoming busy again; the wire and pattern departments were working full time, and the others will probably be started about the first of January. The lumber industry is fairly active, with full forces, but the cut will be less than that of last year. The railways had a good month. The contract for the construction of section No. 7 of the Trent Canal has been awarded; it extends from Rice Lake to Healy's Falls, a distance of about nineteen miles. The contract involves the construction of a lock at Hastings, a dam, and dredging throughout the section, as well as the straightening of the river. The amount of the contract is $450,000.

Condition of Local Industries

Agriculture—The farmers have been busy marketing their grain and produce, the roads being excellent.

Lumbering—The lumber camps have been busy, the weather being very favourable.

Manufacturing — Industrial establishments show a slight improvement, especially the metal trades and flour and food preparations.

Condition of Particular Trades

Bricklayers and masons were rather dull, with carpenters, lathers and plasterers fairly well employed. Painters had a good month, and stonecutters were active, but builders' labourers were dull. Iron moulders were busy; machinists reported a slight improvement, and electrical workers a good month; while brass workers, polishers, buffers and platers reported trade dull, and blacksmiths improved conditions. Woodworkers and canoe builders had a good month, and pattern makers were busy. Printers were fairly well employed; tailors had a very good month, and bakers and confectioners were very busy, but conditions with cigar makers and tobacco workers were reported somewhat dull. Tanners and leather workers reported business good. Railroad workers were very busy, but there was very little demand for unskilled labour.

Floating Bridge For Ball Lake Is Being Considered

Warden Scott and Reeve Fife of Otonabee will go to Bobcaygeon in the morning where they will meet Reeve Shaw of Harvey to discuss the erection of a floating bridge over Ball Lake. The proposal is to build a bridge at the Narrows between North and South Harvey for the accommodation of the people of the latter section. It would mean a saving of a considerable distance in the trip of South Harvey people to Bobcaygeon. The bridge if erected will be about one half mile long. The result of their inspection will be reported at a special meeting of the County Council in the near future.

Thanks Expressed To Mr. And Mrs. R. R. Hall From The Council

The concluding minutes of the County Council are given as follows, containing a number of items of interest.

Moved by Mr. Stewart, seconded by Mr. Coben, that this Council give expression to their appreciation of the suitable and unstinted manner in which R. R. Hall, Esq., and wife furnished a room in the County House of Refuge, and that the clerk forward a copy of this resolution to Mr. and Mrs. Hall.—Carried.

On motion of Messrs. Moher and Shaw, that the clerk be authorized to have notices printed and sent to the different Reeves drawing the attention of the public to the law in regard to the enclosing of holes cut through the ice for any purpose on any waters open to the public.

Moved by Messrs. Graham and Stewart, that Andrew Chatten be refunded his pedlars' license fee amounting to $40.00.

On motion Mr. J. E. Belcher was appointed County Engineer.

INTHON BIBLE CLASS PROGRESS

Sunday's Meetings Well Attended—Continued Prosperity.

At the "Inthon" Men's Bible Class the attendance yesterday was the bumper one this year, seventy-three being present. The class contest which has just started, is responsible for this.

The class is divided into three sides: Red, white, and blue, with Messrs. J. W. Johnston, G. W. Powell and S. A. Oke as captains over the three sides respectively.

This contest ought to keep the attendance pretty well up to the 75 mark, and the fight for the supremacy will cause much excitement and hard work for the side that stays on top.

The morning service was well represented by the class, about fifty being present.

Secretary P. M. McCarrell who sustained a bad sprain of his ankle some two weeks ago will likely be able to take up his work with the class by next Sunday.

The prayer circle held between 6.30 and 7 p.m. is gaining ground rapidly. The circle is led by E. G. Clarke, chairman of the Devotional Committee, and is held in the Primary parlour every Sunday evening.

A presentation was made to Mr. R. Howland yesterday afternoon for his regular attendance.

To-night! To-night! Sunday School Concert. Under the direction of Miss Amy L. Doty, of London. In the George St. Church. Admission, 25c; children, 15c. Large choruses. Bethlehem's Story. Queen Vashti's Lament. Sons of the Sea. The Rainbow Drill. Many excellent features. 1d

'ROUND THE STORES.

There does not seem to be much variation in the price of beef. Butchers keep telling their customers that it is high — which is quite unnecessary. The wise housewife who visits the meat shops in person two or three times each week, has her hands full deciding on the cut that will best suit her purse and her table. It may be difficult to please some people, but it would be worth while for some of the meat cutters themselves to make it less difficult for a buyer to decide. The way some expert meat handlers will twist and turn a cut to prevent the bone being seen, or some of its inferior points, is certainly ingenious. On the meat counters are displayed all kinds and conditions of cuts; you take your choice and it requires skill to buy right.

One dealer quotes sirloin and porterhouse roasts and steaks at 12 1-2c; shoulder steak at 10c; beef by the quarter at 6c and 8c; lamb 12 1-2c and 15c by the quarter, and mutton 11 1-2c and 12 1-2c. These are considered closest prices. But watch the ads.

A very neat and pretty design of cups, saucers and plates with edge line and sprig of gold leaf clover is being offered at ten cents for the three pieces at Routley's. The average housekeeper wishing to add to her table service at a trifling cost, couldn't select anything prettier.

Another "flyer" offered at one of the down town drug stores is a comb and hair brush set ticketed worth 40c, for only 17c the set. They were picked up quickly on Saturday. See the advertisement on eighth page.

Winter coats are suffering from severe cuts in price at the mid-winter sales. The mild winter has affected the demand considerably, and the consequence is that too many remain over. Ladies' and misses' coats were offered among the Saturday "specials" on George street, at half original retail prices. This is protection from the cold at little cost.

GENERAL LAKE HAS BEEN REBUKED

Ottawa Free Press Criticizes His Recent War Speech.

OFFICIALS MUST BE QUIET

Government Organ Says Address of Inspector-General of Canadian Militia Was Indiscreet In His Address of Presentation of Shooting Trophy at Toronto University When He Discussed Japan.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—Military men and members of Parliament who spend the week-end in the capital are discussing with serious interest the editorial raking over which The Ottawa Free Press, the organ of the Government, administered to Gen. Lake in its Saturday issue, because his remarks in Toronto forecasting an ultimate conflict with the orient. The article, which is specially displayed, has the earmarks of a studied rebuke, and is not lacking in indications of having been inspired from high political sources.

At the outset The Free Press says: "Gen. Percy Lake, by his speech in Toronto on Thursday night, has, we are very much afraid, once more proved how difficult it is for an imperial officer to grasp the importance of weighing his words before uttering them. We would have thought from Gen. Lake's record that he had learned the lesson taught to his predecessors that it is the duty of an officer of the Canadian Government to keep his lips sealed upon matters of controversy in Canadian politics."

"Surely," says The Free Press, "such a speech was not only inappropriate at this time, but it was also dangerous.

"What will be thought at Tokio when the news goes there that the inspector-general of the Canadian militia urges the youth of Canada to prepare to fight for our ideals,' with especial reference to the time 'when Japan has pulled herself together?'"

MURDERED FOR MERCY.

Frenchman Slays Wife Rather Than Have Her Suffer.

Paris, Feb. 8.—Alphonse Baudin, a workman living in Puteaux, last week shot his wife to put an end to her intolerable suffering caused by a hopeless disease. The question has often been raised whether a man has the right to put an end to another's life in a case like this, but few men have been brave enough to try the experiment and wait for justice to decide what should be done with them afterwards.

Prof. Landousey, dean of the faculty of medicine, says of the case: "The drama is one of passion inspired by pity which had been aggravated to a point where the man lost his reason."

Toronto Boy In Search of Mother.

Rochester, Feb. 8.—Fred McMartin, aged 17, of Toronto, applied to the police on Saturday to assist him in finding his mother. The boy was born in Bay street and his parents separated when he was a year old. He was given to a family named McMartin. They died six months ago, and he has to shift for himself.

A relative, a Mrs. Ed. Archer, was the object of his coming to Rochester. He didn't know her name, but the police located her on Saturday. She is a widow, but in good circumstances. The meeting was affecting and the boy will assume his mother's name of Hussey.

Murderer Drags Wife With Him.

New York, Feb. 8.—Hunted all night by a posse who wanted him for the murder of John Connolly, a coal dock superintendent, James Dick, an Italian, was captured late on Saturday.

Dick and his wife had been occupying a part of Connolly's house, and on Saturday night was asked for the rent, whereupon he killed Connolly with a shotgun. Dick and his wife fled and all Saturday night the hunted Italian dragged his wife through the soft marshes and across the country in efforts to escape the police.

Milan Swindler Sentenced.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—Charged with having married and swindled fifty women of $50,000 in as many cities of the United States and Europe, Harry [illegible] Bauman, alias Dr. Herman Brandt, was given an indeterminate prison [illegible].

NO WOMAN

CAN BE STRONG AND HEALTHY UNLESS THE KIDNEYS ARE WELL.

When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up. Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble know not the misery and suffering which those afflicted undergo.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by healing the delicate membranes of the kidneys and thus make their action regular and natural.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and all the urinary passages.

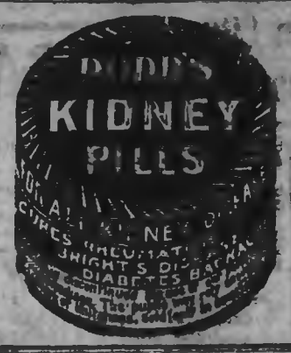
Let Doan's Kidney Pills do for you what they have done for thousands of others, that is, cure you.

Mrs. M. Bryanton, Spring Valley, P.E.I., writes: "I was troubled with my kidneys for two years. They were so bad at times I could not cross the floor for the pain. I tried a doctor but he did me no good at all. I sent to my nearest druggist and got four boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills, and I am glad to say that after taking them I have had no more trouble for nearly three years now."

Price 50 cts. per box, or 3 for $1.25, all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In ordering specify "Doan's."



POISON IN CANDY.

Suicide In McArthur's Mills Is the Climax to Plot.

Bancroft, Ont., Feb. 8.—A very unfortunate affair, resulting in the suicide of Mrs. Swinard, heretofore one of the most highly respected residents of the little community at McArthur's Mills, is agitating the people of Mayo township and may result in an investigation by the authorities.

The deceased woman was reputed to be jealous of a neighbor, Mrs. Grant, and on Thursday last a paper bag containing candies was mysteriously left at the latter's gate. It was picked up by two men who were passing, one a brother of Mrs. Grant, Chester Hannah. The men tasted the sweets, but found them bitter, and Hannah fed three of them to a dog. A few moments later the canine was in a fit, similar to those produced by strychnine.

Hannah and his father immediately started for Bancroft, where they made a declaration before the Justice of the Peace, asking for an investigation, and leaving the balance of the candies to be forwarded to Toronto for analysis.

The following morning it was noised abroad that action was being taken, and Mrs. Swinard swallowed a dose of poison and died in a very short time.

Much sympathy is expressed for the dead woman, who was supposed to have been crazed with trouble. She was a daughter of the late William Allison, one of the first settlers in the district, and had always been highly esteemed by the community. It is said she would soon have become a mother. Coroner Dr. Leavitt of Bancroft is investigating the case.

SMUGGLING CHINAMEN.

U. S. Authorities Promise to Reveal Big System.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Feb. 8.—Sensational developments in connection with smuggling from Canada of Chinamen into the United States are expected within a few days.

Evidence has been secured by United States detectives which discloses full details of a scheme of illegal traffic which is said to be largely carried on between this city and Fort Erie, and in which prominent residents on both sides of the border are involved.

In the case of one man, a farmer in Welland County, the evidence is said to be conclusive.

The Chinese are said to be brought here from Toronto and concealed on the farm, and later conveyed by boat to Buffalo. The magnitude of the operations was discovered when Riley and Baltz were arrested at Fort Erie.

As the men cannot be extradited for the offence it is not known what course the law will pursue, but the technicalities of the law will be exhausted to bring the men to justice.

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Mrs. Thomas Godgin of London dropped dead in her home at 235 Queen's avenue, of heart failure.

A. L. F. Jarvis, secretary of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, has been gazetted as Assistant Deputy Minister of the Department.

A Hudson Bay cellar man named Walker was instantly electrocuted in the basement of a building at Fort William on Saturday afternoon.

Andrew Carnegie has donated $3,000 to repair the organ of the St. James' Church, Montreal, on the condition that the congregation raise a like amount.

A piece of brick in the rail curve caused a C.W. & L.E. electric car to jump the curve at Chatham and crash in Mr. Baby's poolroom, shattering the plate glass to fragments.

Hon. C. H. Hyman and J. C. Duffield of London have left on a trip around the world. They go to San Francisco to sail for Hong Kong, to Marseilles, to London, and thence to New York and home. They will be gone four months.

Canada and the Treaty.

London, Feb. 8.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Sunday Observer, regarding the waterways treaty, says the nominal inequality caused by the difference between American and British constituencies implies no disparagement to Canada. Nevertheless Crewe's telegram in vindication of the Colonial Office might have been more tactful if the people of the Dominion would prefer merely an apparent equality to a practical advantage, viz., privacy. Then, in this, as in everything, Canada's own view of Canada's interests must unquestionably prevail.

Lost His Way and Perished.

Lloydminster, Sask., Feb. 8.—The body of John Peterson, a Swede homesteader, who has been missing since Jan. 14, was found on Saturday, about a mile from his late residence. Deceased had lost his way going from a neighbor's to his home, one mile distant. He came here from Beaudette, Minn., last June, where it is said he has a brother.

Motorman's Sentence.

Berlin, Germany, Feb. 8.—One of the drivers of the electric trains on the Berlin Electric Railway which collided on Sept. 26 last, resulting in the death and injury of many people, was sentenced to twenty-one months' imprisonment.

Dissolve Italian Chamber.

Rome, Feb. 8.—The Council of Ministers has decided to propose to King Victor Emmanuel that the chamber be dissolved and that authority be left to the Premier to fix a date for a general election.

THEY WILL VISIT THE EMPEROR

King and Queen Leave London For Berlin To-Day.

MILITARY FEVER GROWING

While Their Majesties Are Bound For Germany on a Mission of Good Will the United Kingdom Is Having a Frenzy of Recruiting as a Result of War Melodrama—The Liberals Don't Like Stare.

London, Feb. 8.—Keen interest is being shown both here and in Germany in the visit of King Edward and Queen Alexandra to the Emperor and Empress.

Their Majesties started this morning, and to-morrow will find them in Berlin, where no British king has been for the past 186 years.

A large and distinguished suite, which accompany the King, and which includes the Earl of Crewe, Secretary of State for the Colonies, as Minister in attendance, and Sir Charles Hardinge, representing the Foreign Office, emphasizes the importance attached to the visit, but those behind the scenes hardly anticipate that the present effort to ease the relations between Great Britain and Germany will be attended by much more striking success than that which followed the Emperor's visit to the British court last year.

A remarkable wave of newspaper militarism has suddenly swept over England during the past week, which delights the friends of the "larger army" and alarms the supporters of the Liberal party, who see in this only unnecessary public expenditure and incitements to war with Germany. The territorial army scheme of Mr. Haldane, Secretary for War, still lacks more than 50,000 men of the number necessary to its fulfilment.

The National Service League, of which Field Marshal Roberts and Lord Curzon are the moving spirits, have chosen the psychological moment to issue an appeal for more recruits. The newspapers, which have taken up the cry for soldiers, are using sensational devices to advertise their propaganda and to incite apathetic youths in England to enlistment. Some employers have been stirred to interest themselves in the cause, and are offering inducements to their workmen to join the territorial forces.

The matter is becoming more and more a political question of defence. The agitators proclaim that the country must have more volunteers or adopt conscription. Conscription as a possibility has come up for discussion to a greater degree than ever before. A strong faction of the Liberals are doing everything possible to suppress the heated newspaper talk, as they believe this tends more to bring on war than to strengthen the country's defence.

In all quarters Germany is pointed out as the possible enemy against which the island must prepare, and the call for soldiers and for six more Dreadnoughts, which comes on the eve of the visit of the King and Queen to Berlin, seems an unhappy coincidence, for Germany's increased naval program was launched at the time of the Emperor's last visit to England, and created much feeling here.

Hot In Australia.

Sydney, Feb. 8.—A heat wave recently swept over New South Wales, the shade temperature in the country districts ranging from 105 degrees to 125 degrees. In Sydney 104 degrees were registered in the shade and in the suburbs 113 degrees. Fierce bush fires have been raging, chiefly along the Southern Railway line and in the Blue Mountains, doing great damage.

Another Lake Line Merger.

Hamilton, Feb. 8.—It is reported here that the combined Hamilton and Turbinia steamship companies are negotiating for the purchase of the Niagara, St. Catharines & Toronto Navigation Co., which operates the Lakeside and Garden City, as well as an electric line from St. Catharines to the Falls.

Arrests His Own Wife.

New Orleans, Feb. 8.—Patrolman Freitage arrested his own wife Saturday night when she and a neighbor engaged in a quarrel. He marched both women to the police station and preferred a charge against them of disorderly conduct.

TOM ECK CHALLENGES THE WORLD'S BEST RUNNERS TO RACE AT ANY DISTANCE FROM 15 TO 26 MILES

Isle of Hope, Ga., Feb. 3.
To the Sporting Editor,
The Peterborough Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I see by the papers that there is to be an International Marathon Race at Madison Square Gardens, New York, March 17th, in which it is stated Longboat, Dorando, Shrubb and Hayes are to start. But it does not mention Fred Simpson, the Ojibway Indian, of Hiawatha, Canada, who ran sixth in the English Olympic Marathon, when he defeated Longboat and Dorando, and he defeated Hayes in Canada and Shrubb did not gain anything on Simpson in their relay at the Garden.

I am willing to match Simpson to run Longboat, Dorando, Shrubb or Hayes any distance from 15 miles to the full Marathon distance, 26 miles 385 yds. over any good track, on the turf or hard board floor, or Simpson will run in the International Marathon on the 17th of March and run for the money to be divided in three shares, or no money to him if he does not run one, two, three, and further more Simpson is willing if the Marathon record is not broken he does not want a dollar of the gate or purse money.

Simpson has a large following in Canada and is conceded to be equal to Longboat by a good many of the best judges in Canada and he should be given a fair chance in this International Marathon race.

Simpson is training here on the Automobile Road which is the finest road in the world. He is improving every week and will try for Dorando's 15 mile record this afternoon, Feb. 4th, 1.26.34 1-5.

Yours respectfully,
TOM ECK.

CHALLENGES HARRISON TO MEET DAVE HARTLEY IN HANDICAP RACE

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have read in your columns Mr. Harrison's bluff of styling himself the long distance champion of Canada. Now it looks to me as if he was trying to steal something for nothing. Will Mr. Harrison tell the readers of your paper where he ever in his life showed that he was a long distance man and whom he ever beat. Now if I have followed the Examiner correctly there is only one long distance champion of Canada and that is David Hartley, and while he is old and might not be able to repeat, he still must have the credit till some man beats his time over the same distance. Let me refer to the Port Hope barber. He tried and tried again to do the thirty-four hour walk and failed. Toronto has sent out three different walkers to try it and they too have failed. It looks to me as if Hartley still holds the record. With reference to Harrison he has shown that he can walk about seven miles an hour, while Hartley can walk about 7 1-2 or 8 miles. Now, if Mr. Harrison thinks that he has the goods for a thirty-six or forty hour walk and will give Hartley a mile an hour handicap and can raise $1,000 or $500 it would do you good to see the friends of the old veteran rally around him and put the money up for him.

It looks easy for Harrison to give this handicap to an old man considering his comparative age and walking ability, but the grind will tell.

No gate receipts or no play about it from Mr. Harrison. No walking for honour. Mr. Hartley has that now. And if Mr. Harrison wants to walk for nothing but honour he can take the road for it.

Yours truly,
"A Faithful Reader of the Examiner and a Sport."

THE PETERBOROUGH BOWLERS MADE GOOD SHOWING ON TORONTO VISIT

The Peterborough bowlers met defeat in Toronto on Saturday night at the hands of some of the best bowlers in the Queen City. The boys did not expect to win as it was their first break into fast company and the first time many of them bowled on strange alleys. However, their showing was very creditable, and they made a good impression. The picked team from here was composed of Messrs. J B Hay, W McIlroy, Herb Martin, Geo Cairns and Graham Ferguson, and this bunch had the pleasure of winning the second game from five of the best bowlers that could be gathered together in Toronto. To take one game out of three is no small trick when one remembers that the locals are nearly all, in fact all but one, only new players who never bowled until Mr. Hay started his alleys here. They were also playing on strange alleys and amid strange surroundings which makes a big difference. Geo. Cairns was in good form and rolled up a total of 557 for the three games. McIlroy also bowled well in the first two games.

The Printers' League team of the Mail & Empire defeated the locals three straights but the Peterborough boys played a good game.

After the match the visitors were entertained at the Printers' Club where a most enjoyable time was spent. Most of the boys returned home Sunday night on the midnight, and are well pleased with their outing.

Printers Coming

The Mail & Empire team will visit Peterborough next Saturday night, and will give the locals a return game. On the Peterborough alleys the result should be somewhat different although the Toronto men are good bowlers.

THE LINDSAY VIEW OF FRIDAY'S BATTLE WITH PETERBOROUGH

The Lindsay papers seemed to have dropped their village style of journalism, and in their report of Friday night's game with Peterborough, they gave a fair, just account of the battle. The Warder says:—

And it came to pass that a hockey team from Lindsay known as the Midgets, journeyed to Peterborough, which is beside the Otonabee. The Peterborough hockey players rose up and warred against the invaders and great was the battle. The Midgets were beaten five goals to two.

Great was Derocher

To the credit of one, Derocher, another, Glover, yet another, Ray, it is that the "Peters" won. They were the boys in pink last night. Great, particularly, was Derocher, the youngster between the goal posts for Peterborough.

The game marked the second meeting this season of the two teams and yet neither outfit has displayed decided superiority. The score in Lindsay was 7-4 in favour of the Midgets,, and the Forridgers won by the same number of goals in their own bailiwick.

1-1 at Half Time

Just here it would be well to mention the score was 1-1 at the end of the first half. In spite of the soft ice, there was some real, good, stiff, enthusiastic hockey during that first 30 minutes. Lindsay had the best of it till the interval, and then the team went to dreamland, figuratively speaking, and the Petes came back like demons and won out.

There are no excuses to offer from this meridian of latitude, and the huge crowd of camp followers which accompanied the team were as happy as kittens coming home. Lindsay has two chances yet to win; if Peterborough gets beaten in Cobourg and if not, there is the sudden death game for the district. And the Midgets will have the laid in their tresses for that game.

FRED SIMPSON,
Peterboro's Indian runner, on whose behalf Tom Eck has issued a challenge.

But Peters Were Lucky

In the meantime the best thing is to revert to the Peterborough victory in that city.

Even Peterborough men will admit their team had all the luck that was going. In fact it is stated on authority that Rollie Glover and Morgan carried rabbit's feet sent down by Fred Whitcroft from Edmonton. Glover played stellar hockey, and would you believe it, scored a goal.

That's the honest truth!

It was before the war that he scored his last goal before last night, and when he accomplished the feat during the last half he could hardly believe his senses. Now Rollie will die happy.

Yes, the score was five to two, and Lindsay got the two.

Three hundred hockey enthusiasts accompanied the Lindsay Midgets to Peterborough Friday evening to see them battle with the Electric City septette in, it was hoped, their final game for the championship of the district. The locals went down to defeat before Rolly Glover's braves in a game that was remarkable in many respects.

Peterborough stole a march on Lindsay in sending up the information that the ice was in splendid condition. They knew their chances were good for winning the game on soft ice, and events proved they were not far astray in their conjectures. The game should never have been played on such ice. Before the game the surface was covered in spots with water, and before half time was finished, the rink was a miniature lake only fit for aquatic sports. These conditions told on the locals, and while we give Peterborough due credit for their victory, still we maintain that on keen ice the Midgets, to use a Rooseveltian term, would have beaten them to a frizzle.

Although the ice was not in good condition for hockey, still a truly remarkable exhibition of the game was given in the first half. Lindsay had the best of the argument all through and made shot after shot on the Peterborough nets, but it was like a flight of fire flies against the Chinese wall. Leonidas Derocher, the Franco Irishman in goal for Peterborough, was a marvel. Never did Chuck Tyner or Eddie Giroux give a better exhibition of net guarding than this youth, and his stellar work saved the Electric City from a crushing defeat. "Jacky" Moore, the cover point who attained such a reputation as a rough house artist, was a model of lamb like meekness, while Rolly Glover, the "iron duke," scintillated during the game, and seemed to be at home on soft ice, or at least, soft water. The old veteran is good for a few years more. The baby of the team, Ray, is a comer, and will be heard from later on. He was the shining star on the Peterborough forward line, but he had a tendency to hug the puck too long. "Wally" Parnell was in a belligerent mood, and was the "bad man" of the night. His record in the penalty box speaks for itself. He was deliberately dirty at times. "Tricky" Harry Morgan, the old war horse, wore that smile of innocence which he has carried since away back in the misty past. For a "has-been" he played a very steady game, and was of great assistance to the forward line, but as the game progressed he showed the effect of the grind, and was certainly well pleased when the game ended. Dusty was a good man in his position, and played a steady, consistent game.
—Lindsay Post.

LINDSAY TEAM WILL PLAY HERE ON WEDNESDAY IN FIRST OF GAMES TO SETTLE DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP

Cobourg has defaulted to-morrow night's game to Peterborough, and as a result the Petes and Lindsay are now tied for the championship of the district.

To settle the question of supremacy the two teams have been ordered to come together in home and home games this week, the first game to be played here on Wednesday, and the second in Lindsay on Friday night, goals to count. The announcement will be sufficient to get the fans agog with excitement, and there will be another record crowd present to see the two teams in action. Friday night's game on soft ice was one of the best ever seen here and with good ice which should be available for Wednesday, there is every reason to expect a magnificent game and it is to be hoped that they will get it for the next two games.

The plan of the reserved seats will open to-morrow morning at the rink, and the fans who wish to secure seats should remember last week's experience and get in early or they may find all the seats gone. It will be a great game of hockey and the Lindsay team hope to be able to defeat Peterborough here, or at least to hold them down so that they will have no trouble of winning out on the round.

There will be a big bunch of fans down with Lindsay for Wednesday's game.

It is likely that Peterborough will run an excursion to Lindsay on Friday night for the final game.

LONGBOAT WAS WILLING TO QUIT IN FRIDAY'S RACE SAYS LOU MARSH

Lou Marsh in the Toronto Star has the following graphic review of the Longboat-Shrubb race—

I want to whisper to you that Alfred Shrubb just cracked up in time to save Mr. Longboat's life from a running.

I'm not detracting from the Indian's victory, but telling the truth. Talk about Dorando giving Longboat a narrow squeak for it at Buffalo the night the Italian quit after running 18 miles, but that was not a patch on the tight fit here last night.

Tom Longboat wanted to stop a mile before Shrubb blew up, and 25 yards from the spot where Shrubb first stopped to a walk in the 22nd mile the Indian actually tried to stop but was urged on by Sol Mintz and Tom Flanagan.

To Mintz and Flanagan belong the real credit of winning the race. They worked like heroes and pushed a man through to victory who had but little real license to win—the way that was run and the condition he was in.

Ran With the Indian

Even when Shrubb was battling along and looking strong and the Indian, beaten by four-fifths of a mile, was weakening fast and had lost heart, they jumped in and cheered him on. They just kept him going lap after lap, running beside him until the crowd hissed and jeered them. They had scarcely the faintest hope that Shrubb would weaken. But on a glimmering chance they urged the Indian on.

Their Efforts Rewarded

Then Flanagan's quick eye detected Shrubb's approaching distress. With a beaten man on their hands they stuck to their guns and were rewarded, just when they were at their wits' end how to encourage the Indian and the red-skin was all but stopping, to see the English-man drop to a walk. Then the Indian plucked up courage and went on and won all alone.

Mighty Narrow Escape

Don't think for a minute I want to cast aspersions upon the Indian's courage. I give him credit for coming out, an athlete far from being in the pink, and tackling the man he most feared, and with running behind so long, but the fact remains that the Indian was far from being right and he had a mighty narrow escape. He had no opponent at all and won out simply because he stuck and the other man could not go the distance. Look at the time.

The Time Was Slow

As long as Shrubb was in front and running it was good, but when he weakened look how it sagged off. The Marathon distance was done in 2 53 49 2-5. Compare this with the Dorando-Hayes, 2.44.20 2-5, and the Longboat Dorando 2.45.05 2-5, both of which are admitted to be away slow and you can gain a good idea of what the race really was.

Then put this in your hat, too, that the Indian was dead as a nut when he finished, and you have real dope on this race.

Honest Criticism

I know that this sounds like a grouchy criticism, but look it over and ask those who were there, and if they speak honestly they will tell you that it was true. I will admit I favoured Shrubb before the race, but right down in their boots the strongest Longboat man who was there knows what a narrow squeak the redskin had. This is his third. He will get his good and plenty one of these fine days if he keeps on meeting good men when he is not in real form.

A Cruel Struggle

Well, let me get back to the race, and tell you how it all happened. I want to tell you right off the reel that it was a bitter battle. I want to see no more cruel thing than the awful struggle when it came to a show-down. To see the patched-up Indian, run out his legs in the first part of the race, hang on mile after mile with a three-quarter mile lead staring him in the face, hoping for the agile little chap out in front to quit. To see his futile attempts to spurt and prevent that lead from stretching out, only to have to fall back and to watch his stride shorten and knees go numb, and to see the look of surprise as defeat stared him in the face, was hard enough, but to see the slender, dapper little Englishman, with all his keen appreciation of the relative values of victory and defeat, slowly reach the point where he was forced to admit to himself that he hadn't the necessary stamina and reserve to hold on and win, and to see him alternately walk and run and strive to keep ahead of the big Onondaga, was pretty tough, but it was heart-rending to see the white man give on to the Indian when he had still two lens to the good, and, limping and stumbling along, try to make that win the palm of victory for him.

A Heart-rending Scene

Then when his will could not force his legs to hang on longer, to see him quit and walk and amble till the Indian came around again, and then to go back at him again and stick on until he was finally forced to quit once and for all; to see his antagonist scatch a victory he at one time all but tacked to his record was almost heart-rending.

And don't think that the Indian didn't need sympathy too. He was tired and weak. His feet were sore and he staggered as he pounded ahead determined to beat his weakening antagonist into the ditch or drop himself.

WHITCROFT'S TEAM WINNING GAMES ON EDMONTON ICE

In one of the cleanest games played on local ice this season, the Edmonton hockey team defeated Saskatoon in the Thistle rink last Monday night by a score of 12 to 6. The game was a fairly good one and the crowd present were given an exhibition of good fast hockey although the odds in favour of Edmonton were rather large. In spite of the fact that the game last evening was as fast or faster than any seen in the city last season, the crowd was comparatively small. Good hockey is not receiving the support that it should here this winter. The hockey fans in the city do not seem to realize that they can not have a championship professional hockey team in this city unless they give it their support. Several games are now being arranged for the balance of the winter and it is up to the public to turn out to see these games. They will receive good value for their money and will be shown a brand of hockey that would make the crowds in other places get up on their toes with excitement.

The Edmonton team showed up in their usual good form and receive considerable applause as they went down the ice and scored either from individual rushes of combination play. Whitcroft played left wing and filled the position well. He was about the speediest skater on the ice and handled his stick well. Miller and Deeton showed up in all their old-time form, while Boulton as rover, was there with the goods. The spectacular rushes of Hugh Ross from cover were the feature of the evening. Crowley is heavy on the defence work as usual, while Allan in goal guarded the nets well.

For Saskatoon, Richardson, the speedy rover, was the king-pin of the bunch. Berry, at centre, did some very effective work, while little Houlding at point made a good defence man. The team showed their weakness in being unable to shoot well, but they were hampered considerably by the consistent checking of their opponents.

The following was the line up—

Saskatoon		Edmonton
	Goal.
McGoffin		Allan
	Point.
Houlding		Crowley
	Cover.
Rodgers		Ross
	Rover.
Richardson		Boulton
	Centre.
Berry		Deeton
	Right Wing.
Saunders		Miller
	Left Wing.
Ashley		Whitcroft

Euchre Decorations.

Place a high glass vase with two or three long stemmed white roses in the center of your table. Around the base of the vase arrange the picture cards—bowers, kings and queens—from a pack in a circle like a dolly.

The ices can be served in boxes simulating a pack of cards, and paper napkins on which cards are printed will add to the decorative scheme.

Make sandwiches and cakes in shape of hearts, diamonds, clubs and spades and have heart and diamond shaped dishes for bonbons and salted nuts.

As artificial light always adds a charm, exclude daylight, as your euchre is an afternoon affair, and light the room with candles. Get together as many candelabra and candlesticks as you can find places for putting them on sideboard, shelf, bracket—everywhere except on the table. They will give the room a soft, pretty light not attainable with gas or electricity.

At each cover place a playing card, face up, alternating the black and red suits. Duplicate these cards from another pack, and as the guests enter the dining room deal out one that corresponds to each place card, giving the women red and the men black, if men are present. In this way the guests will find their places at tables or partners with whom they are to converse. If refreshments are passed around, the table may be further decorated at each corner with a house of balanced cards, such as children delight in building, and any person unfortunate enough to knock one down must build it again for the amusement of all present.

For prizes the shops are showing chocolate jugs, water pitchers and candlesticks in a cream white porcelain decorated with playing cards. There are, too, little figures of the devil standing on a card that are very amusing and good for booby prizes.

Titled New Yorker Raises Poultry.

Poultry raising has become the chief diversion of Lady Craven, formerly Cornelia Martin of New York. It is fifteen years since the shy girl, then barely sixteen years old, faced a congregation of 2,000 persons in Grace church and went to the altar as the bride of the weak looking young Englishman. There were many that day who predicted trouble for the child wife, but Lady Craven has been one American wife in Europe to find happiness. At the Craven estate, Coombe abbey, in Warwickshire, she has one of the finest collection of hens, ducks, geese and turkeys in England. As a duck fancier she has taken many first prizes with her multicolored Mandarins, Carolinas and Bahamas. She also has won many firsts in the ornamental fowl class with specimens of the gray cerropas, the white feathered Sebastopol and the barred Magellanic. The proudest possession of Lady Craven's poultry yard, however, is the buff laced Wyandotte which she imported from this country. Lady Craven gives close personal attention to the care of her birds.

King of the Barnyard.

In the barnyard strutting
Old gobbler goes about,
And if he doesn't like a fowl
He chases him right out.

He is a lordly fellow,
And e'en children fear
To go into the barnyard
When they his gobble hear.

They perch themselves in safety
Upon the fence so high,
With legs a-dangling outside,
So that they may jump and fly

If old gobbler comes too near them
With his threatening wings wide spread,
For a gobbler can whip children—
At least so it is said.

And there they sit and watch him
And gayly laugh and talk,
But if he "gobbles, gobbles,"
They quickly take a walk.

SECURITY FELT ABOUT TREATY

Franco-Canadian Compact Certain to Be Ratified.

CONSIDERATION IS RESUMED

Customs Committee of French Senate Sets to Work Again on Agreement —M. Pichon, the Foreign Minister, Insists That a Decision Be Arrived at Promptly—Another Meeting on Friday.

Paris, Feb. 9.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The Customs Committee of the Senate resumed consideration of the revised French-Canadian treaty yesterday. M. Viger, ex-Minister of Agriculture, and M. Troullot, who is also an ex-Minister, reported on the latest Ministerial statements with reference to the treaty, dealing especially with the supplementary convention signed on Jan. 26, which set up a special tariff on imports of cattle from Canada. The Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Commerce and Agriculture then addressed the committee, replying to questions received through the president of the committee. M. Pichon, Foreign Minister, insisted strongly in the name of the whole Cabinet that the committee should examine the treaty as completed by the supplementary convention of Jan. 26, without delay, and should come to a prompt decision. The committee will meet again on Friday and decide as to its action according to the opinion of the members. The ratification of the treaty may be regarded as certain.

Engineer Saves Lives.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 9.—One hundred lives hung in the balance for the fraction of a second on Monday night while Engineer W. Baldwin of a Santa Fe train hesitated as to whether he should follow his fireman's example and jump or stick by his engine and pilot it over the fast-settling bridge at Avenue 35 and the Arroyo Seco. The Arroyo was a raging torrent from the heavy storm, and the water had cut under the concrete piling of the bridge and it began to sag.

Had he hit the bridge at high speed, the cars and passengers would have gone into the roaring waters.

Two Bad Jail Breaks.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 9.—Seven white prisoners in the city jail sawed their way through steel bars to liberty at an early hour yesterday. They jumped from the second floor. Three were captured and bloodhounds were secured to trail the others.

Columbus, Feb. 9.—Four criminally insane men, two murderers and two burglars, having armed themselves with knives made from steel taken from the soles of their shoes, broke from the keepers at the Columbus State Hospital. Ernest Terwillinger, wife murderer, of Newark, and Frank Sear are still at large.

Hurrah For Binns.

Feb. 9.—To-day Jack Binns, the wireless telegraph operator on the steamship Republic, goes to Peterboro, his native city, where an official welcome from the mayor and the city council awaits him. The horses from his carriage will be removed, and, accompanied by three bands, Binns will be borne in triumph through the decorated streets to the town hall, where an illuminated address will be presented to him.

Foreman of World's Greatest.

Schenectady, N.Y., Feb. 9.—Robert Geddin Brooke, general foreman of the largest machine shop in the world, died here yesterday of paralysis, aged 60. He was born in Ireland and reared at Brantford, Ont. Mr. Brooke was identified with the General Electric Co. since Edison founded the plant here twenty-three years ago.

Big Man In the Toils.

McCowen of Degraff, Kas., one of the best known Indian authorities in the country, was arrested here yesterday on a federal grand jury indictment, charging him with embezzlement and misappropriation of federal funds, while superintendent of the Indian school at Chilocco, Okla., from 1904 to 1908.

For Aged Poor.

Ottawa, Feb. 9.—Ralph Smith (Nanaimo, B.C.) will move in the House of Commons for the appointment of a committee of nine members of the House "to enquire into and consider a scheme by state aid or otherwise, for making provision for the aged and deserving poor, with special regard in case of any proposals of which they may approve, to their cost and probable financial results."

NO DOUBT AS TO STEWART'S INSANITY

Melancthon Murderer Tries to Kill His Guards in Jail.

MRS. SPANHOUSE BETTER

Surviving Victims of Madman's Attack Are Improved In Condition and Will All Probably Recover—Coroner's Jury Recommends More Accommodation For the Feeble-Minded of Province.

Shelburne, Ont., Feb. 9.—George Ernest Stewart, the crazed perpetrator of Sunday morning's atrocities in the northern part of Melancthon Township, yesterday was committed to the county jail at Orangeville by Magistrate Rutherford, and will appear for further hearing at 1 p.m. Thursday. Chief Constable Joseph Thompson and Special Constable Jeremiah Brundige escorted him to Orangeville. They drove instead of going by train as at first intended, and wisely had him heavily manacled. In spite of this he made a break for liberty on the street, knocking the constables aside, but was stopped by a spectator.

In the cells Sunday night Stewart gave very decided signs of lunacy in most of his actions. Manacled as he was, he made a desperate attempt to assault Chief Thompson and attempted to lay out Reeve Thomas Babe by kicking at him. His chief amusement during the night was in dancing his handcuffed hands up and down between the light and the wall and watching the shadows made thereby.

It transpires that Stewart had greatly alarmed the inmates of his father's home at Maple by his sleeplessness and strange actions. This accounts for the close watch his brother William was keeping on him the night before the tragedy.

The coroner's jury yesterday returned the following verdict:

"That the said John Spanhouse and James Spanhouse came to their deaths on Sunday, Feb. 7, 1909, at their own house, in the Township of Melancthon, from the effects of wounds inflicted by a heavy club or weapon, at the hands of George Ernest Stewart, who appeared at the time he killed the said John Spanhouse and Jas. Spanhouse, to be of unsound mind.

"We strongly and unanimously recommend that a closer scrutiny be kept upon all feeble-minded people in the Province of Ontario and that proper refuges be established, where they will be as far as possible self-supporting, which, we believe, can be accomplished by a careful consideration of the questions involved."

Word from Maple Valley late last night indicates that William Wilson and Mrs. Gowan, two of the people who were attacked, are getting along all right and in no danger of serious results. Mrs. Spanhouse is alive and conscious, but very weak. George Beaumont, the hired man of E. J. Pound, who was very badly used up, was in somewhat better condition yesterday, though not out of danger.

John Spanhouse, Sr., and his wife have had a family of ten children: James, Jr., Shrigley, aged 44, dead; William, Badgerow, aged 40, farmer; John, Reddickville, aged 25, farmer; Mrs. W. Phillips, Collingwood; Mrs. A. Moat, Toronto; Mrs. W. T. Foggett, West Toronto; Mrs. C. Huggins, Shrigley; Mrs. W. McKenzie, Reddickville; Mrs. Hiram Stantenbery, Collingwood; Mrs. W. London, Shelburne.

Will Reveal Scott's Grave.

Winnipeg, Feb. 9.—Ambrose Lepine, lieutenant and adjutant-general of Louis Riel, president of the rebel government that held possession of Fort Garry during the winter of 1869-70, says that for a consideration he will point out the spot where the body of Thomas Scott, the murdered martyr of the Red River expedition, lies. Negotiations to this effect have been under way for several weeks.

The grave of Scott, who was shot before the stone gateway near where Main street and Broadway now intersect in Winnipeg, has never been discovered by his family, friends or his brethern of the Orange order, to which he belonged.

For Italian Relief.

Washington, Feb. 9.—When Queen Helena of Italy three weeks ago consented to superintend the distribution of The Christian Herald fund for the relief of the mother and baby sufferers of the earthquake disaster, The Christian Herald agreed to supply a thousand dollars a day toward this object. During the three weeks it has sent $75,000, and on Monday contributed another $25,000,000 to the same object.

Denman Thompson Ill.

West Swanzey, N.H., Feb. 9.—That Denman Thompson, the aged actor, who is ill at his home here, had had a very comfortable day, was the report given out last night. Mr. Thompson is suffering from a heavy cold.

London, Feb. 9.—Herbert William Jolly, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jolly, recently out from England, choked to death Sunday night by swallowing a handful of peas with which he was playing.

INDIGNANT AT REPORT IN NEWS

Breaks Lifelong Rule to Rebuke The Toronto News.

HE RESENTS A CRITICISM

Hon. Mr. Graham Announces That There Will Be No New Railway Subsidies This Year—W. F. Maclean and C.P.R. Stock Issue—Bill to Regulate Cargoes on Inland Waters of Canada.

Ottawa, Feb. 8.—The House of Commons is fairly indulgent to press criticism, and no member of it more so than the Prime Minister, a fact which may be better appreciated when it is stated that not once during his whole experience in Parliament has he had occasion to call attention to any newspaper statement, but Sir Wilfrid Laurier found it necessary yesterday to break the self-imposed rule which he had observed for so long in order to correct an impression sought to be created by a section of the Tory press, that when he raised the question of the campaign methods adopted by the Conservative party in British Columbia, and referred to Mr. Borden's telegram to The Victoria Colonist, he knew that that message had been partially forged.

Sir Wilfrid, rising to a question of privilege, said he desired to correct a statement in The Toronto News, observing that it was the first time in his 34 years of Parliamentary experience that he had taken occasion thus to correct a newspaper report. The News had said that in the House the other day he persisted in using the garbled version of Mr. Borden's "Asiatic Exclusion" telegram, although he had previously been told otherwise by Mr. Templeman.

Sir Wilfrid said he had been informed by Mr Templeman, just after the elections, that he had written Mr. Borden about the telegram, but had received no answer. That was all. Sir Wilfrid then read a letter just received from Mr. Templeman in which the latter corroborated this, adding that he had not yet received a written reply from Mr. Borden; that one day in the club Mr Borden spoke to him about it, his recollection being that Mr. Borden had merely told him he was awaiting further information. This, said the Premier, was proof that he didn't know the telegram was a forgery, when he quoted it in the House.

R. L. Borden observed that he had not answered Mr. Templeman's letter, but he was quite convinced that he had left the impression upon that gentleman's mind, when they spoke on the matter, that there was a mistake in the telegram.

"In fact," said Mr. Borden, "in his letter to me he expressed his own conviction that I had not sent the telegram in the terms in which it was published."

"While on this matter," added Mr. Borden, "I wish to refer to comments made in at least one Liberal journal, The Montreal Herald. For the third time I repeat in this House that I did not know anything about the altered telegram until the middle of December."

Hon. Mr. Graham made the announcement in the House that there will be no new railway subsidies this session.

This statement was made in reply to a question by Mr. McCarthy of Calgary as to the Government's decision in reference to the request of the Premiers of Alberta and Saskatchewan for a federal aid to further railway building in these provinces.

"It is not the Government's intention this year," said the Minister, "to add to the obligations already incurred in the way of aid to railways."

In compliance with a motion of W. F. Maclean (South York), Hon. G. P. Graham yesterday laid on the table the order in council approving of the increase in the capital stock of the C.P.R. from $150,000,000 to $200,000,000.

"The company represent," says the memorandum, "that looking to the general development, it is essential that they should have money to pay for the added equipment that is sure to be required in order to keep pace with the progress of the country, and they ask for approval of an increase of $50,000,000 on the authorized capital, making the authorized issue $200,000,000.

"The Minister recommends that the application of the company be granted, provided that none of such new stock be issued at less than par; and, further, that no part of the capital so to be raised shall be applied to the construction of any works outside of Canada.

"The Minister further recommends that the said $50,000,000 of stock shall not be deemed capital expended in construction, and the power of the Parliament of Canada or the Governor-General in council to reduce the tolls upon the railway of the company shall in no wise be affected."

In reply to Mr. Edwards, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the question of granting lands to veterans of 1866 was now receiving the attention of the Government.

Mr. Arthurs was informed that the cost of revising the voters' lists in the disorganized townships in Parry Sound district for the last election was $751, the number of names on the list being 2,253.

The Minister of Justice informed Dr. Beaugarlant that of 200 persons sentenced to death in Canada in the past 25 years, the sentences of 88 had been commuted.

Mr. Paquette was informed that during the fiscal year, 1907-8, the Government paid $140,857 in immigration bounties. The arrivals of immigrants were: From the United States, 58,312; from Great Britain and Ireland, 180,188; from France, 2,671; from Belgium, 1,214.

During the year 1,479 immigrants had been refused permission to land from steamships, and 1,907 had been deported after landing.

R. N. Lewis introduced a bill to establish for vessels on inland waters and for coasting vessels a safely load line, compulsory from Sept. 15 to May 15 in each year. It was also to be made compulsory for a master in clearing outwards to leave with the collector of customs the names and addresses of his crew. The bill was read a first time.

Paris, Feb. 9.—M. Catullo-Abraham Mendes, the noted French poet, was found dead in the railway tunnel at Saint Germain yesterday.

BEWARE OF LA GRIPPE

At this season of the year La Grippe is more than usually busy and its victims are to be found everywhere. PSYCHINE, the greatest of tonics, should therefore be in every home.

The after effects of this terrible scourge are even worse than the malady itself, leaving the patient utterly prostrated and too often leading to consumption.

PSYCHINE strengthens the whole system and brings back health and vigor. Weakness cannot exist where this powerful remedy is taken.

Mr. G. D. Colwell, of Walkerville, Ont., was stricken down with La Grippe in 1906 and it left him in very bad condition. He says: "I was all run down and bordering on Consumption. I could not sleep at nights, had awful sweats, and coughed nearly the whole time. This is how I was when I began to take PSYCHINE, in a low nervous state; but from the first bottle I began to improve. It did marvels for me and brought me back to health in no time, making a new man of me.

"It fortifies the body against the attacks of La Grippe and is a sure preventative. I always take PSYCHINE if I feel a cold coming on and it puts me right in no time."

Aunt Lucy's Legacy.

By JANE LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

People could talk all they liked about poverty bringing happiness, but Bayard Leighton kicked—literally—at the suggestion. He had just finished reading a letter from his maiden aunt, in which she had declared: "Money has not brought me happiness. I have lived alone all my life, and I sometimes envy you in your poverty, loved and adored by so sweet a girl as Virginia."

"I know exactly what I think of her, old man," drawled Jimmy, "but a lady's a lady—even if she is your aunt—and I'd rather not put my opinion into parliamentary English."

"You're a moral coward, that's what you are, Jimmy Bookwalter," declared Bayard as he flung the letter across the tiny hall room. "You've got a rich father who gives you more spending money in a month than you could earn in a year, besides which you're too lazy to fall in love. I hope you won't misunderstand me, Jimmy, when I tell you that the space you occupy in my luxurious apartment is much more valuable than your august presence at the present moment."

"SHE WILLS AND BEQUEATHS TO YOU THIS PORTRAIT OF YOURSELF."

Jimmy rose from the uncomfortable straight backed chair, which was the only one in the room. Bayard had given it to him when he entered and had taken a corner of the bed for himself.

"Oh, I see," mused Jimmy. "Want to get dressed, eh? Well, so long till tomorrow night. Be sure you show up at the club and dine with me at 7 sharp."

When he was gone Bayard put the inhospitable chair up on the bed to make more room and took a suit of clothes from under the cretonne curtain which covered his meager wardrobe.

It did not take long to select a tie, because he only had six or seven. Bayard seemed to be going through a mental reincarnation during this process of dressing. First he said disagreeable things—not whole sentences, but just pertinent ejaculations, such as "old fossil," "ought not to be out without a keeper," "envy me, indeed."

A little later he began to whistle snatches of popular songs, nervous little thrills. And finally, with stick in hand, he opened the door of his room, humming in a most contented manner, "Love Me Little, Love Me Long." After all, life was worth while!

Virginia Tracey and Bayard Leighton had been engaged some months. Bayard's father had lived like a rich man, and when he died suddenly the son found himself penniless. Brought up to lead an idle life, untrained for practical work, he took the first position offered to him in a broker's office at $15 a week.

That seemed all right until he suddenly realized that without Virginia nothing was right. Recklessly he asked her to marry him, and with all the impulsiveness of her love she gave herself to him. They were young, and they could wait. Aunt Lucy, Bayard's maiden aunt, had promised to make him her heir, and decidedly Aunt Lucy was no longer young.

When Bayard was blue, Virginia seemed to be doubly radiant, and tonight she was at her best as she entered her drawing room to greet him.

"Had a letter from Aunt Lucy, dear," Bayard announced as an important piece of news.

"Goody," cried Virginia, "and what did the dear old lady have to say for herself?"

"She told me how fortunate I was to have you care for me, for one thing," began Bayard as he watched the color mount to Virginia's cheeks at the compliment. "Then she said a lot of rot about— But let's talk about the pleasant things. You do care for me, don't you?" he added.

"Silly! Silly! Of course I do!" she cried. "You're silly for a whole lot of reasons—silly to make me wait to be really yours until you can take me to a fine home, but if you are satisfied to take a toothless old woman for a wife—well"—

And when Bayard went home that night he was still humming a happy air.

He took the chair off the bed, tucked it in one corner of the room and stretched himself out for the night.

In after years he talked much about that room. He always declared that he could open the door with his hand and the window with his foot at the same time; that if he bent over to lace up his boots he butted his head against the side wall, and when he thrust his arm through the sleeve of his shirt he invariably bruised the back of his hand on the ceiling.

The next night while dining with Jimmy a telegram was handed to Bayard.

"Your aunt died this morning—funeral Thursday," it read.

"Well, I hope the dear old lady will be happy in heaven," Bayard said, not without some feeling. "She had persuaded herself that she wasn't here."

"That telegram means a lot to you, doesn't it?" inquired Jimmy, with an air of finality.

"Yes, it does. It means that I'll have a goodly bit of the necessary long green and that Virginia and I can be married."

Some two weeks later Bayard was notified by the express company that there was a package there for him with $40 due on it, shipped from Chicago. Bayard knew at once that it was some of Aunt Lucy's valuable silver sent on to him. Jimmy would lend him the money to pay for it.

The bill was paid, and the big packing case was ordered sent to Virginia's house and Jimmy duly invited around to participate in the unpacking. Hammer and chisels were put to use, and all three of them entered into the gay spirit of the party. Piles of packing were pulled from the box, and finally a heavy gilt frame came to view. Coats were taken off, and the combined strength of Jimmy and Bayard was put to the test. Finally the picture was taken out. It proved to be a life sized portrait of Bayard as a child.

"Here's a letter," announced Jimmy as he pulled a long white envelope from the corner of the frame. Virginia opened it and read aloud:

"Your aunt, Miss Leighton, left her entire estate to charities. She wills and bequeaths to you this portrait of yourself. The portion of the will relating to you reads as follows: 'I leave no money to my dear nephew, Bayard Leighton, because I do not wish to shatter his ideal method of life. He is earning a good salary and has good health. As a slight token of my affection and as a remembrance I leave him the Gilbert portrait of himself which now hangs in my library.'"

"Isn't it a darling!" cried Virginia as she danced about the huge portrait.

"Seems to me," broke in Jimmy, "that there's plenty of wood right here to build the house, and it won't take long to cover the walls. There's the oil painting to begin with. Then we can have that letter framed. I'm sure Bayard never wants to part with that. Then I'll give you a large photograph of myself, and"—

"What's all this nonsense about going to housekeeping?" interrupted Mr. Tracey, Virginia's father, as he came into the room. "When these young people get married—and I wish they'd hurry up about it—they must come and live with me. Virginia can change her name whenever she wants to, but not her residence. And as for this legacy business, I'd rather have a man for my son-in-law who can fight his own way than one who was made by an inheritance."

Mr. Tracey picked his way across the room over the pine boards, chisels and excelsior packing. He took his daughter in one arm as he extended his free hand to Bayard.

"Do you mean it?" sang out Bayard gleefully.

"Mean it?" echoed Mr. Tracey. "Well, I bet I do, and to prove it I'll take Jimmy Bookwalter into the dining room and keep him there until you two settle on a date for the wedding."

The words "dining room" seemed to awaken Jimmy from his stupor. He had a mental picture of a sideboard plentifully stocked with reviving liquors. He announced that he was ready for the proof of Mr. Tracey's assertion, and together they went out of the room, leaving the lovers alone.

A Hypochondriac.

"Pa, what is a hypochondriac?"

"A hypochondriac, Wilfred"—

But just a moment. "Pa" in this anecdote is not a good and kind father, yearning to impart useful information to his son, but one of those smart answer givers whose main object in life is to get into the back pages of the magazines. Such fathers look upon their little sons groping for knowledge as providers of openings for senseless domestic epigrams; hence—but we'll go back.

"Pa" takes off his glasses and looks benignly at his son.

"What did you say, my boy?"

"Pa, what is a hypochondriac?"

That gives "pa" his chance.

"A hypochondriac, Wilfred"—names like Wilfred add humor to this sort of thing; John, for instance, would fall flat, and James would be indefinitely worse; but to resume—"a hypochondriac, Wilfred, is a man who has such a dread of catching cold that whenever he takes a bath he stops up all the holes in the sponge for fear of drafts."

And Wilfred not quite seven years old! Isn't it a shame?—New York Times.

The Moving Force.

A teacher after giving some lessons on physical force asked, "Now, boys, can any of you tell me what force it is that moves people along the street?"

He was greatly surprised and the class highly amused at receiving from one of the boys the unexpected answer:

"Please sir, the police force."

COCHRANE, ONT., IS ALREADY BOOMING AHEAD.

Town Lots Still in the Virgin Forest Are Sold to Long-Sighted Buyers Who Are Expecting a Great City Where Now the Wolves Bay at Nights—145 Lots Bring in More Than Fifty Thousand Dollars.

The people of Canada, and of Ontario in particular, have not yet realized the full significance of the event which took place recently, when 145 lots of the new townsite of Cochrane, the junction of the Temiskaming & Northern Ontario Railway and the National Transcontinental, were sold by public auction, the sale taking place on the surveyed site of the new town, says W. M. Scanlan in The Toronto Globe.

The event and the manner in which it was conducted were remarkable in more ways than one. To the superficial observer it would seem that the faith that would lead a man to purchase at a high price a town lot 66 feet by 132 on which virgin forest still stands, and which, though but a few blocks away, he can see only on the plan, the bush being too thick to allow of his penetrating to his prospective, or newly-acquired purchase, indicates either that the man is exceptionally foresighted or exceptionally foolhardy. The writer, after having accompanied the 600 pioneer buyers on their expedition into the far north—Cochrane is 500 miles nearer the north pole in a direct line than Toronto—is of the opinion that the surprising thing is not that so many went, but that so few of our Canadian business men, supposedly aggressive and alive to the opportunities of a new country, have realized what the signs of the times, as applying to Cochrane, portend.

The journey of the big train of twelve coaches from Toronto to Cochrane was of momentous significance. In the first place it signified the completion of the Ontario Government's railway, the Temiskaming & Northern. For three years or more this road his been pushing its way northward into the heart of an unknown wilderness, which is now revealing formerly undreamed-of riches in minerals and choice farming lands. The "Cochrane Special," as it was called, was the first train to make the complete journey from North Bay to the junction with the Transcontinental right-of-way, a distance of 235 miles.

The train itself was a most exceptional one. It consisted of two private cars, three Pullmans, a dining-car, five day coaches and a baggage-car fitted with a lunch counter, 12 cars in all. To take a train like that over a newly-completed track, over muskeg and high trestles newly built, required considerable faith in the work of the contractor, but the journey was made without a hitch. Arrived at Cochrane, the buyers found themselves still three-quarters of a mile away from the town. As a result, a long line of growling, grumbling, slipping, sprawling men had to pick their way through the mud and over the corduroy to the freight shed in which the sale was to take place. These intrepid explorers on their quest for investment were, however, not balked by so small an item as mud.

The sale lasted two hours. The total price paid for the 145 lots was $50,425. Twenty-five per cent. of this was paid down in cash. The buyers, according to their agreement, will erect buildings on their lots within a year. Five banks purchased sites.

What does all this mean? It means that, here at the junction of two great railways, one extending across the continent, the other forming the outlet to the populous country to the south, are conditions such as no town ever before had at its birth to justify its being brought into existence. It means that here, in the centre of the great clay belt, which may prove to be the best hay, root and grain-producing country in the world, with an outlet to the markets of Great Britain which will bring them closer than they have ever been before, a town has been commenced, not haphazard, or at random, but by design, by men who have thought well of what they are about, and who know the situation thoroughly; and this town will, in all probability, within the next ten or fifteen years, show feats of rapid growth such as have never before been seen in this country.

And here is something which some, even of those who have invested in property in the new town, have not taken into consideration. East of Cochrane lies the Abitibi River, penetrating into the heart of a country which is known to possess immense quantities of pulpwood, as well as good timber, of which pine forms a large percentage. Some seven miles to the west of Cochrane lies the Frederick House River, which penetrates into another part of the same country. Hitherto, the timber resources of these northern woods have been untouched for want of an outlet for their products. Now, however, with these two waterways and their network of tributaries tapped by a railway which can carry their wealth either east to the Atlantic, west to the Pacific, or south to lower Ontario, and the United States, lumbering on a large scale will commence at once. And Cochrane will be the distributing point for this great timber wealth. Can Cochrane fail to become a metropolis?

Alexander Mackenzie's Idea.

Mr. T. C. Irving of Toronto, while responding to a toast at the St. Andrew's night, told a characteristic story of Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, whose election agent he had been for many years before the death of the Liberal leader.

In his quaint pawky Scotch style Mr. Mackenzie said: "Mr. Irving, I have never as yet had a protest and I have no fault to find with the judges of the land, but if I ever have a protest I think I would just a little prefer that it be tried by judges who had been Reformers in their day."

Meaning of Fabian Policy.

A Fabian policy in war consists in wearing out the enemy by delays, misleading movements, feints of attack, etc. It is called Fabian because it is the policy that was adopted by Fabius Maximus, who commanded the Roman army in the second Punic war. He was appointed to the command just after the army had suffered a defeat, and he knew that in its disheartened condition and with its complement of raw recruits it could not successfully oppose troops flushed with victory and led by their great commander, Hannibal. He therefore attempted to tire out the enemy by countermarches, ambuscades and skirmishes, avoiding a pitched battle. This he continued until the Roman senate interfered.

Two Bird Problems.

There were sixty-seven blackbirds sitting in an oak tree. Willie shot into the flock with his new shotgun, killing nineteen. How many were there left? (None, because the rest flew away.)

On another occasion there were also sixty-seven blackbirds in a tree (but this tree was a maple), and nineteen flew away before Willie could get his gun. How many left? (Nineteen "left" at first, and the rest left when Willie came with his gun and shot at them.)

Sign of the Craft.

In the days when I was a cub reporter I used whenever I had a week's pay in my pocket to dine at a quaint little restaurant not far from Washington square.

The place was a quiet one and had as its peculiar attraction a waitress named Sadie, a bland and smiling Swedish girl.

I had noticed for several evenings a young fellow dining, like myself, with careful reference to the right hand side of the menu. My curiosity was excited about him, and one evening I called the affable Sadie to my table.

"Sadie, who is that fellow over there?" I asked.

"His name ban Smith," said she, "Hopkinson Smith."

"Ah, yes!" said I. "What is his business, do you know?"

"Vall, Ay dunno yust," she replied. "Ay alvays t'ought he ban writer faller like you van. He neffer has mooch moneys."—Harper's Weekly.

A Village Power.

A Columbus firm had an account against a man in a small country town in Ohio and after ineffectual attempts to collect determined to do something radical. So they wrote a letter to the postmaster of the town and asked information concerning the merchant, what his reputation was, whether he paid his bills and what kind of man he was generally, and said if he was no good to give the bill, which they inclosed, to the justice of the peace for collection. The answer they got from the postmaster took their breath away. It read something like this:

"Gentlemen—I am the John Smith about whom you are seeking information. I am also John Smith, postmaster, and I am John Smith, justice of the peace. Yours very truly.

"JOHN SMITH."

A MODERN NOVEL.

Told in Tabloid About Mr. Stayleigh and His Beloved Gwendolyn.

CHAPTER I.

The lights in the hall were turned low. Mr. Stayleigh was taking his last leave of his beloved Gwendolyn. Accordingly he drew her to him and stole a last kiss.

At that precise moment the father emerged from the room facing the reception room farther down the hall and stepped briskly forward.

"Heavens!" gulped the girl. "I'm afraid he saw us!"

This fear deepened into absolute certainty as the father approached and said to Mr. Stayleigh:

"Young man, I should appreciate the favor of a few words with you in the library."

CHAPTER II.

Stayleigh followed the father, and the library door closed behind them. Meanwhile the girl, pale with anxiety, concealed herself behind a convenient portiere in order that she might be enabled to exchange a word with Mr. Stayleigh should her father permit him to go to the door unattended.

The staring eyes of the girl became fixed upon the closed library door, visible to her from her retreat, and she vainly endeavored to divine what was passing beyond.

Would Mr. Stayleigh be forbidden the house?

Would she be admonished to think no more of him?

Whatever was happening, one thing was certain—the interview between the two men was long and earnest. This perplexed the girl, for, reasoned she, surely it consumes no more than a minute or two to dismiss an objectionable lover.

But stay! Perhaps Mr. Stayleigh was bravely defending himself. Indeed, it might even transpire that, taking his courage in both hands, he had in a way concluded to hold the lion at bay and boldly demand her hand in marriage.

CHAPTER III.

At last the door opened. Mr. Stayleigh came out alone. As he passed the portiere Gwendolyn emerged

"Billy," she gasped, "what did papa say?"

"He asked me to lend him a hundred," replied Stayleigh in a tone betokening the old man's success.—Edwin Tarlese in New York Herald.

A Little Mistake.

Lady (on the Metropolitan railway, London)—Please, sir, will you help me to get out at the next station?

Gentleman—Why, certainly, ma'am.

Lady—You see, sir, it's this way. Being rather stout, I have to turn around and get out backward, and the porters always think I am getting in, so they push me back into the carriage and say, "Hurry up, ma'am." I've passed four stations that way already.—Success Magazine.

Eclipsed.

Gunner—Fogg certainly loves his wife. He actually wears the neckties she makes him.

Guyer—Yes, but Harker goes that one better.

Gunner—Yes?

Guyer—I should say so. He wears the red mittens his wife knitted.—Chicago News.

A Safe Return.

"I went home to see the old folks recently and introduced myself to them as the prodigal son."

"So they wouldn't mistake you for the fatted calf?"

A Side Path.

"I suppose," said the facetious stranger, watching a workman spread a carpet from the church door to the curb, "that's the highroad to heaven you're fixing up?"

"Nip," replied the man; "this is merely a bridal path."—Harper's Weekly.

Burdensome.

Mrs. De Flashleigh (dressing for charity ball)—I suppose I'll have to wear all my diamonds, Livingstone?

Mr. De Flashleigh—Do as you please, dear, but if they fatigue you don't expect me to lug them around.—Puck.

Just His Luck.

"William, Freddie informs me that his teacher has decided to advance him from the sixth to the seventh grade owing to his fine deportment and his praiseworthy attention to his studies."

"Pshaw! That's just my luck!"

"Why, what makes you say that?"

Dioxygen For the Mouth.

The merits of dioxygen as a mouth wash can not as well realized as they should be. It is easy to get and not expensive. A stoppered glass bottle of it should be on every washstand.

After eating, if one hasn't time to brush the teeth, the mouth should be rinsed out with diluted dioxygen. It is a strong antiseptic, keeps the teeth from decaying and protects the top of the mouth and gums from soreness or from creating and emphating a disagreeable odor.

The toothbrush should always be dipped in a little of it and brushed over the teeth and gums at morning and night, even after tooth paste is used.

The latter merely cleans the teeth. It does not disinfect the mouth. People do not pay enough attention to the inside of their mouths, even though they may be scrupulous about their teeth.

A Remedy For Choking.

Few people know that a very simple and effective remedy for choking is to raise the left arm as high as possible, which relieves the person much more rapidly than by the usual method of thumping him on the back, says a physician. Very frequently at meals and at play children get choked, and the customary manner of relieving them is to slap them sharply on the back. The effect of this is to set the obstruction free. The same thing can be brought about by raising the left hand of the child as high as possible, and the relief comes much more quickly. In happenings of this kind there should be no alarm, for if the child sees that other persons or parents get excited the effect is bad. The best thing is to tell the child to raise its left arm, and immediately the difficulty passes away.

Don't Snub Children.

Children love to be treated with courtesy and respect. They resent having their opinions and sentiments snubbed, and parents might learn a good deal from them and about them if they would encourage them to talk more freely of all they think and feel. We are hardened by the gathering years, and we have lost our keenest sense of what is the very truest and the very best. The contact of a child's mind with its pure vision is like a message straight from God.

Changes in English.

A striking means of measuring the great changes that have from time to time taken place in the English language is to study the Lord's Prayer as it has been written in different centuries:

1150.—Fader ur heune, haleweida beith thi neune, cumin thi kuneriche, thi wille beoth idon in henne and in erthe.

1200.—Fader are in heavena, halewyn be thi name, thi kingdom come, thi wille be done as in hevene and in erthe.

1370.—Oure fadir that art in heune, hallowid be thi name, thi kingdom come, be thi wille done in erthe as in heune.

1524.—Oure father which arte in heven, hallowed be thy name. Let thy kingdom come, thy wyell be fulfilled as well in earth as it is in heven.

"Daily bread" appears in three versions severally as "dawe briead," "days bred," "dayly breds" and "unperstantial bread."

Teetotallers Not Served.

Much of the life of the Right Rev. Edward Carr Glyn, Bishop of Peterborough (Eng.), who recently celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday, has been connected with the royal borough of Kensington. He was vicar of Kensington for nearly twenty years, and can remember it when it was little more than a village, surrounded by market gardens. His parents were passengers by the first railway train that steamed into Euston. The bishop is a firm believer in the episcopal utility of the motor-car, for it enables him to visit the clergy of his widely-scattered diocese in a manner impossible in former times. He is also a stanch teetotaller, and on one occasion, so the story goes, running short of petrol, his chauffeur applied at a public house for a fresh supply. The publican came out, and, seeing the bishop in the car, replied: "Yes, I've got petrol, but I don't sell it to the likes of them wot never buys my beer."

A thousand times listen to the counsel of your friend, but seek it only once.—Hardy.

MANY DON'T KNOW

HEART AFFECTED.

More People than Aware of It Have Heart Disease.

"If examinations were made of everyone, people would be surprised at the number of persons walking about suffering from heart disease."

This startling statement was made by a doctor at a recent inquest. "I should not like to say that heart disease is as common as this would imply," said the expert, "but I am sure that the number of persons going about with weak hearts must be very large."

"Hundreds of people go about their daily work on the verge of death, and yet do not know it. It is only when the shock comes that kills them that the unsuspected weakness of the heart is made apparent."

"But undoubtedly heart weakness, not disease, is more prevalent nowadays. I should think that the stress of living, the wear and rush of modern business life, have a lot to do with heart trouble."

There is no doubt but that this is correct, and we would strongly advise any one suffering in any way from heart trouble to try a course of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

FLUTTERING OF THE HEART.

Mrs. G. M. White, Williamstown, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with weak spells and fluttering of the heart. I was so bad I could scarcely lie down in bed. I procured a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and they helped me so much I got another box and it has made a final cure. I cannot speak too highly of them. I think they are worth their weight in gold."

HOW the FASHIONABLE YOUNG GIRL is TAUGHT to TRAVEL INTELLIGENTLY

A Page for Misses

Studying the Intricacies of an Automobile

NOT the places visited, but the intelligence and the enthusiasm of the traveller, make a trip interesting, and the girl who is really eager to know and to see all there is to be learned or seen of a country through which she is touring will derive more lasting benefit and enjoyment from a week's or a month's sojourn in the one foreign city than will she who, in a half hearted, scarcely interested manner makes a tour of the globe. Great as can be the pleasure in a summer holiday spent in travel by train or motor through new, unfamiliar lands, still travelling should not be sought simply for the delight of the moment, but should be looked upon as a real episode in one's life, an experience to be looked back upon always in a series of interesting, vivid mental pictures. True enjoyment in travelling is impossible without a fairly clear knowledge of the countries visited, the people, their history, their art and their language. Any girl with the least spark of intelligence will naturally enjoy the ordinary fun of travel, the meeting new people and the constant excitement of moving about from place to place, being shown the principal things of interest in each town, city or country place, but she will learn but little in this way, and will often become bored with mere sightseeing if she has not provided herself before starting on the tour with a fund of information of every place to which she will go and a very complete list of things and places which she is especially anxious to see.

The girl who makes her first visit to the Old World soon after her graduation from school or college is indeed to be envied. Her knowledge of facts and dates, of painting and of architecture is still fresh and sure, and she cannot fail to be enthusiastic at visiting those places made familiar to her by history or in viewing for herself the beautiful buildings and the famous works of art which hitherto she has known only by means of blue prints or none too satisfying copies. Even the busy schoolgirl, however, will do well to confine her reading for some time before she is to sail to literature touching upon the countries which she will visit during her vacation, and books of romance and historical novels often give a wholly fascinating idea of a country or city that is not to be obtained in any other way.

LENTEN sewing circles, bridge classes, matinee clubs and private theatricals are already being organized for the eight weeks, more or less, before Easter, but the girl who has been promised a summer trip to Europe will do well this year to devote all her spare time in preparation for the fun that is to come. A language class can be every bit as enjoyable as any bridge class, and it is always possible for a band of girls to meet together two or three times a week and study the art of conversation in French, German, Spanish or Italian, even if all the members are not so fortunate as to be contemplating a foreign trip. Almost every girl who has been to school has been drilled in the rudiments of both French and German and feels that she has a certain acquaintance with those languages, the people and their literature. Yet she will be astonished to find how very helpless she is in the ordinary everyday conversation of that tongue when she tries to make herself understood by one who knows nothing of her English. Just a little practice is necessary, and by the time she is leaving a country she will, perhaps, find herself at last becoming proficient in that tongue. This chagrin and the disappointment can easily be avoided by a few weeks of practice, which will give her the necessary self-assurance, when she finds herself in some foreign part where she must either make herself understood or go without that which she desires or wants to know.

FOR a girl who can speak French or has studied even the rudiments of Latin both Italian and Spanish are easily acquired, and if the trip contemplated includes either a visit to Italy or a motor tour in Spain a knowledge of even the barest forms of conversation will add enormously to the pleasure and the profit of the trip.

It is all very well to say that English is now so universally spoken that she can get about without inconvenience in any civilized country, or that everywhere some person can be found who can converse in French if not in English, but this is a great fallacy. In Paris, perhaps, or any of the great European centres a knowledge of the language of the country is not obligatory for the tourist, but everywhere a knowledge of the native tongue will be found a great time and money saver if nothing else, while there will be many bits of interesting information that can be gathered only from some old inhabitant who knows no language but his own.

Visiting Points of Interest with a French Teacher

If the course in school has not included a study of the history of painting, sculpture or architecture, then every spare moment can well be spent in acquainting one's self with these three great arts—for without some knowledge on these subjects the treasures of Italy are a closed book, while there is scarcely a town of the meanest size in all the Old World which cannot boast of at least one wondrous church or cathedral or some few far famed paintings that tourists find it worth while to travel hundreds of miles to view. With a brief but comprehensive book on the history of architecture, including a clearly stated outline of the different periods and their sequence, from early Greek to late Renaissance, as well as a dictionary or table of the architectural terms for the component parts of a building, a student can gather a sufficiently good idea of the subject to be able to acquire a keen appreciation of this great art. And with the first lessons will come an understanding of the gradual growth of an idea of beauty in stone from its beginning in the colossal pyramids of ancient Egypt down through the ages to the perfect proportions of the Gothic cathedral at Cologne, and the exquisitely delicate ornateness of the great white marble cathedral at Milan. Blue prints at only a penny apiece can be obtained at all art stores, and these help tremendously in giving an excellent idea of the different styles of architecture that are being studied.

Acquiring a Knowledge of Art

THE art of the great painters of the world can naturally be studied to better advantage in a gallery such as our Metropolitan Museum of Art than by any other means, and while there may not be in this country many of the finest examples of the famous masters, still nearly every artist of note is represented in a good copy if not an original. Before going to the gallery it is well to first pick out a particular group or school of painters, fix their time firmly in the mind and read a brief story of their lives and times. Taken school by school in this way they will make an impression which will be lasting and make it possible not to become confused when in such galleries as the National in London, the Louvre in Paris or the Royal Academy in Venice, where there is such a great wealth of marvellous canvases to be studied and kept distinct in the mind.

Sculpture can also be studied with good results only in a museum where there are reproductions in plaster, marble or bronze if not the original figures, but an appreciation of the best in the various branches of sculpture will be a delightful possession for all times.

A BEGINNER can naturally learn more quickly and with far less difficulty with the aid of an experienced teacher. Conscientious attendance at a class devoted to the subject of architecture, painting or sculpture would surely be an excellent pursuit for some of the spare moments during the weeks of the Lenten season.

There are any number of charmingly written, well illustrated books descriptive of all imaginable motor trips abroad. Apart from their actual historical value these books make delightful reading and invariably inspire the reader to learn more actual knowledge of the places touched upon before following out for one's self the same tour. If the holiday is to be spent entirely in France, with different motor trips planned through Normandy, the coast towns or the chateau country, the pleasure in these tours will be but slight to the girl not thoroughly familiar with the history and the romances of the French.

It is not necessary to read only the histories of the guide books of a country in order to know its people. With the amount of history learned in the schoolroom as a foundation, a knowledge derived from the literature of a people and the best of the so-called historical novels dealing with a country will add enormously to the pleasure of sightseeing.

Fad in "Bon Voyage" Gifts.

THE fad is to send "bon voyage" gifts in handsome leather boxes, and the consequence is that the person going away is fairly swamped in leather cases, which she is perplexed to know what to do with.

A popular girl who is sailing for Italy this week has been the recipient of fifty gifts, each one beautifully encased in leather. At first she was so enchanted with them that she planned to take them all with her as a matter of course; but when they kept coming, and she saw that an extra large trunk would be required for the sole purpose of packing them, she was persuaded by her mother to have the bulk of them at home. She is quite unreconciled to doing this, for she has a great deal of sentiment about gifts, and she realizes as well that many of the cases are costly; but what can one do? However beautiful they may be, heavy, bulky articles are the last things travellers wish to encumber themselves with. While it is running its course it looks as if this leather case fad might be as great a nuisance as a similar one was when brides were inundated with plush and leather encased gifts—an appalling medley of boxes which they never used and which were always in the way.

SOCIAL AMENITIES FOR THE SCHOOL GIRL

IT would seem as if among girls of refinement there ought not to be any need of calling attention to the subject of table manners, and yet one often sees girls who are supposed to be well bred, doing such astonishingly bad mannered things at the table that one is forced to believe that constant reminders are necessary.

Surely all girls know that they should not talk when they have food in their mouths; but some of them forget the simple fact and make themselves most unattractive by an open-mouthed display of partly masticated food, inevitably seen by the person to whom they are talking. As if this were not bad enough in itself, there is the further objection that it is impossible to articulate clearly when the mouth contains food, and mumbling is most reprehensible.

You should be extremely dainty about the amount of food you put into your mouth, taking very little at a time and swallowing it before you follow it with something else. It is shocking to put several things into your mouth at once, as if you were a barbarian who knew nothing whatever of the customs of civilization. If you take your food with delicacy you dispose of it with ease and speed, and you never commit the offence of masticating with your mouth open or talking with it full.

Young girls are not supposed to drink wine, and etiquette used to prescribe that when they attended dinners where wine was served, they should turn the wine glasses at their place upside down, which signified to the servants that the glasses were not to be filled. But this is no longer the custom. The proper thing now is to permit the glasses to be filled and then to leave them untouched. The servants, of course, are quick to perceive that you do not drink the wine and so pass you by when they go the rounds again.

It is not good form to spread your napkin out over your lap, as if you were an infant likely to drop half of what you were eating, but instead you should leave it folded the long way. And when you have occasion to raise it to your lips do so with your right hand only, and using merely the end of the napkin. On no account put even the tip of your napkin in the finger bowl, as a girl was seen to do recently when she wanted to moisten her lips. At the end of dinner, when the finger bowl is used, the lips may be moistened by touching them lightly with the tips of the first and second fingers of the right hand which have been delicately dipped in water.

To appear perfectly at ease under all circumstances is an art which all girls should strive to acquire, and nowhere is this accomplishment more admirable than when dining out among strangers, where by being at ease yourself you help others to attain that agreeable condition. Dinner whether at home or abroad is distinctly the festive meal of the day, occurring at an hour when people naturally expect relaxation and enjoyment. And you should make your contribution to the general entertainment by looking and by acting your prettiest, the latter embracing your conduct and your conversation.

If you are attending a somewhat formal dinner remember that the conversation is never general on these occasions, and that you are expected to confine your attentions to the two persons between whom you are seated.

Old Fashioned Sashes and Scarfs.

THE long, deep fringed sashes and beautiful silk scarfs of an earlier generation have come into their own again, and girls whose mothers or grandmothers have these treasures and bring them out for use are in luck, for none of the new things can compare with the old in beauty of color, and often this is true of the texture as well. One of the delightful things about the present fashion in sashes is that the old ones can be modishly used without cutting into them, and that is a real comfort to the feminine heart. And whether it be very long or very short is can be used to advantage. If it is short it serves for a girdle and the wider it is the better while the Empire idea remains; but the real beauties are the very long ones which wind about the waist and, knotted at the side or at the back, fall in graceful, flowing ends. If a girl is tall and slender she will get the most becoming effect by tying the sash at the side of the front, but if she is short the front lines of her figure should not be broken and the sash, therefore, should fasten at the back. To keep these sashes or scarfs from about the waist they should be caught on a band of stiffening, but this will not do them any harm, as just a few stitches, far apart, will suffice.

PRACTICAL TALKS BY THE APRIL GRANDMOTHER

"FAIRE TACT must have presided at that girl's birth." The April Grandmother's voice was expressive of unqualified approval as she waved farewell to the youngest of her departing guests. "She has a gift which, from a social viewpoint, is of more value than beauty or wit and one which, like true courtesy, is based upon a sympathetic, unprejudiced and unselfish nature. I would like to have her at all of my house parties. During the course of this visit she confided to me that several years ago, when her mirror and her nearest relatives had convinced her that she could never hope to be pretty, she determined to cultivate her manners. The result is that she now has so many charming ways that no one ever thinks of her as plain looking. One of her chief attractions—a desire to acquire information and to broaden her mental horizon—impels her to unconsciously flatter elderly men and women by asking for their opinions, a form of tactfulness always appreciated and one which in her case never degenerates into toadyism.

"Whatever may be the woes and disappointments of Miss Tact, she is invariably cheerful, and if it sometimes seems to her that the whole universe is indigo tinted and this mortal coil a burden to be speedily shuffled off, she has the grace to temporarily avoid society, realizing that if she cannot present a smiling face to the world she would better present none at all. In no circumstances is she ever seen going about with a frowning brow, for she knows that no expression is more repellent or more certain to reap a harvest of social tares in the shape of unflattering criticism. She never broods publicly. If she is feeling depressed she takes a long, brisk walk, even if rain is falling, for she realizes that anything is better than wandering about the house looking as though one had just buried a lifelong friend.

"To cultivate the bright side of life is a rule which little Miss Tact made because she not only wishes to keep cheery herself but to make other people happy by force of example. As you know, her reward is a host of friends of all ages, scores of flattering invitations and a countenance that reflects a sunny nature and a sweet soul. Such an expression would render the most irregular set of features attractive.

"Never have I seen her sullen or pouting, but occasionally she remarks that she is feeling so 'cross' from overfatigue or overeating that she is going to tell her troubles to the family doctor, who probably gives her a strong dose of advice and a weak prescription. But her chief claim to admiration is her placidity. She remains calm under the minor annoyances which seem to be so upsetting to the temper of the average young girl that she will be quite likely to degenerate into a state of chronic irritability by the time she is forty. I assure you that Miss Tact can wait several minutes for a delayed street car without wrinkling her brows, biting her lips or otherwise distorting her features. Convinced that peace of mind does not emanate from strife, she steadfastly refrains from taking part in argument and gossip, and is exceedingly careful not to say or do anything for which she may be forced to apologize—realizing instinctively that such excuses are embarrassing to listen to and frequently are not believed."

Novelties in Belts and Buckles.

BUCKLES of heavy cast brass, gold plated or metal finished, more than anything else resemble harness straps and are set upon both edges of the elastic silk web belts which girls are wearing in the school room. In one and a half inch and in two inch widths these beltings are to be had in black, white, taupe, brown, tan and all the fashionable blues and reds. Roman finished clasps are used on the belts of plain silk elastic webbing that is printed in dainty floral designs.

White metal buckles of artistic shape and carrying chased designs are used with the plain gilt and silver bandings as well as with the black velvet elastic beltings.

Cut steel buckles close the silk elastic belts that are studded with steel nail heads and plain dull gold clasps are attached to the waistbands of silk embroidered in Persian effects.

Suède belts in the softest tones of catawba, green, gray, bine and tan are joined with suède covered buckles, and scarab clasps are on the taffeta belts that are shirred twice at each side of the front and decorated with ribbon loops and ends at the back. With these belts come matching neckties. Messaline girdle belts have a deep point at the back and a shallow point at the front, decorated with large metal buttons set with topaz, garnets, amethysts and composition "jewels."

Patty's Business Experience

By MAUD HUMPHREYS.

"Is it as bad as that?" asked Mrs. Constance Wilson in dismay.

"Every bit as bad," responded Patty, with a brave attempt at cheerfulness. "When it is all over I will have perhaps $500 and the furniture."

"Dear me," thought Mrs. Wilson, "and every one thought Mr. Norris was such a fine business man." But she did not express the thought. She knew the girl's loyalty to her dead father.

"Patty," she finally exclaimed in triumph, "there are the Van Allen girls going abroad. Their father is a widower. He wants a companion for them. You know the continent like a guidebook, and you'd be useful. They are new to this sort of thing, you know."

Patricia Norris drew herself up very straight.

"Connie, don't suggest impossible things. I positively refuse to take a position that savors of charity. I'm going straight into the business world and work—really work."

Mrs. Wilson affected a cheerful acquiescence which she did not feel.

"I'm going home now, my dear, and think this over. You'll hear from me tomorrow. And of course you'll succeed, whatever you undertake."

Mrs. Wilson had been Patty's governess in the days when such a thing as financial uncertainty seemed far removed from the Norris mansion. Now she was manuscript reader for a big publishing concern. When she reached her dimly lighted bedroom, third story, back, in a noisy boarding house, she drew forth a small bank book and studied it carefully. As a result of long reflection she dispatched the following note to Patty:

My Dear Girl—Before we do anything else we must find a home. I am sick unto death of boarding. Shall we have a little flat together, a cunning apartment, with what you want of your dear old things as furnishings? Then we'll find you the position. But first a home, for your sake and mine. Save me from the fate of a hall bedroom, my dear. It is the chance I have dreamed of for years.

Three weeks later Mrs. Wilson caught Patty frowning at her across a dinner table that was homelike and dainty.

"Connie, there's absolutely nothing left for me to do. The tins are hung straight in the kitchen, and I've tried the bricy-bracy in every conceivable position. I'm not to be put off any longer. I want a job."

There was mirth in the tone, but it rang false. "Job" from the lips of Patricia Norris! Nevertheless that same evening they faced the situation together. Mrs. Wilson had seen this coming and was prepared.

"There is absolutely nothing open in our offices, as I had hoped, Patty, and the only schools where I would have influence are supplied with teachers that never marry or die." She surveyed the girl through a veil of unshed tears. "You've a regular Gibson figure, dear, and such lovely fluffy hair"— She broke off disconnectedly. Patty laughed.

"Connie, do stick to the text. Shall I go forth as an artists' model?"

Mrs. Wilson clasped her hands tightly.

"Not exactly that, but I heard of something today, Patty, that you could do—so well!"

"Name it," responded Patty, but with an odd sinking sensation in her heart.

"At Schermerhorn's they want—a—a model to show off their imported suits, and you're the very— Oh, Patty, don't look at me like that. I've tried so hard to get something better!"

In a second the girl's soft arms were round her neck.

"Connie, behave yourself! Of course I shall take it and be properly grateful. How much?"

"Only $12.50 a week, but you wouldn't have got that much only that I told the head of the department what a—a beauty you were."

So did Patricia Norris make her entry into the business world. It was not hard work, and she never wearied of handling the beautiful wraps and frocks. Her statuesque beauty set them off to perfection, and the head of the department approved of her because she "never got gay" nor wasted the time of other employees by chatting with them, as her predecessor had done. In fact, she held herself aloof from the other girls in the shop. It was an odd, unreasoning pride that they could not understand. If the girls who thought her proud had known how she envied them they might have felt differently. They worked with their hands, and she—just posed. It was not brain that earned her salary, but a mere bauble of physical perfection.

And she resented most of all the quiet, searching glances of a young fellow who seemed to be in the cashier's department. Once when she went to draw her salary he stood near the window and handed forth the envelope without even asking her name. She flushed slightly, and after that his compelling glance called forth a stiff little bow when they came face to face.

One noon when she was threading her way through a stream of cars and drays she was almost run down, and the gray eyed young man from the cashier's department reached her before the policeman. Two nights later when she and Mrs. Wilson indulged in the extravagance of tickets for a fashionable playhouse, they emerged upon a sudden rainstorm.

"Oh," wailed Mrs. Wilson, "my new bonnet!"

Just then some one arrayed in a long coat and balancing a comforting umbrella reached their side. It was the young man from Schermerhorn's.

"Come back into the lobby, Miss Norris, while I call a hansom for you."

"A hansom, Patty! He said a hansom!" exclaimed Mrs. Wilson almost tearfully. "What will it cost?"

"I don't know," snapped Patty nervously, "not as much as a new bonnet."

A few moments later he escorted them to the waiting hansom, raised his hat gravely, looked just once into Patty's brown eyes, and away they whirled in the blackness of the night.

At their apartment Mrs. Wilson, covering her beloved confection of chiffon and roses with a handkerchief, rushed into the hall, leaving Patty to settle the bill. The latter was strangely silent until they were brushing their hair, when she suddenly burst forth in wrath:

"It is bad enough, Connie, to rail in public over a ruined hat, but to bewail the price of a hansom is unforgivable."

"Why—why"— gasped Mrs. Wilson.

"He paid the hackman, that's all," groaned Patty, and she threw herself face downward in her pillows, murmuring, "He needn't think that just because he saved my life he can pay my hack fare."

And yet inconsistently she took a strange pleasure in recalling the look in his dark gray eyes when he leaned forward.

A month later, Mrs. Wilson came home radiant.

"There's an opening, Patty, dear, in our office, and you must take it quick. There are dozens of applications, but I have the promise!"

And the next day Patty handed in her resignation to Schermerhorn & Co., to take effect on Saturday. With the last day came word that Mr. Frawley would like to see Miss Norris before she left. For once she relaxed the rule and asked one of the girls who Mr. Frawley was.

"Oh, he's the company," responded the girl carelessly.

After drawing her last pay envelope Patty crossed to the main office and was ushered into a smaller room. The ubiquitous young man of the gray eyes rose to receive her.

"Mr. Frawley has sent for me," she began, with just the suggestion of a flush in her cheeks.

"I am Mr. Frawley," replied he, and the gray eyes danced at her confusion. "I wanted to tell you, Miss Norris, that, while we regret to lose your valuable services, we are glad to know you are securing a position better suited to—er—your tastes and abilities. I trust you will not forget—us."

The gray eyes were looking most pleadingly into hers. The flush crept closer and closer to the soft brown hair.

"I am afraid I've been very rude sometimes, Mr. Frawley," she murmured in a low voice. "But you know it was all so new to me, and I felt—oh, I can't tell you just how I did feel!"

"I think I understand, Miss Norris. I—I hope I shall see you again. May I"—

"We live at the Jerome apartments, Mrs. Wilson and I, and we are always home Tuesday evenings."

The gray eyes thanked her eloquently, and she walked rapidly from the office.

That night at the dinner table Mrs. Wilson rambled on happily: "I really don't think it has hurt you, dear. You had to gain business experience somehow—and"—

"No," replied Patty absently. "It has done no harm." But she was thinking not of the experience, but of the glad light in the gray eyes when she had told him he might call.

Sarcasm in the Commons.

The reluctance of the house of commons to adjourn over Derby day recalls a story related of one of the Roman Catholic peers who took their seats some four or five years before the passage of the first reform bill after an exclusion of a century and a half. He gave notice that on a certain day he would make a certain motion, whereupon there arose from his noble colleagues a general cry of "Derby!" The astonished novice named another day, only to be greeted with an equally unanimous expostulation of "Oaks!" At this he explained that he would have to ask the forgiveness of their lordships; but, having been educated abroad, he was forced to acknowledge that he was not familiar with the list of saints' days in the Anglican calendar.

HINDOO JUGGLING.

Wonderful Feats of Balancing Performed by an Acrobat.

The Hindoo jugglers and acrobats are the most skillful in the world, and we are always hearing new stories of them, says the Chicago News. One of the latest stories is about a performer who went through many wonderful feats perched on top of a single bamboo stick about fifteen feet in height. The top of the stick was tied to a girdle around his waist, and a leg rest was provided by a cushion a few feet down the pole. Perched on this slender stick, he hopped and danced around in the liveliest way, accompanied by the tapping of a drum. It would be considered a skillful feat to walk about with ease on a pair of stilts fifteen feet in height, but this Hindoo showed a marvelous power of equilibrium on a single stick.

He did other things even more wonderful. For example, he balanced a light stick on his nose and a heavy one on his chin and then threw the heavy one into the air with his head and caught it on the end of the light one. While balancing the two sticks thus, end on end, he made one revolve in one direction and the other in another direction. Another feat was to place his hand on a flat circular stone, throw his feet up into the air and balance a stick on each of them, at the same time revolving rapidly on the pivot made by his arm and the stone.

Writing Games.

When you are tired of romping play "story teller." All agree upon a title to the story. Each writes a few lines, turns down and passes it to his neighbor, telling him the last word. So on it goes around the circle, when the last one reads the story.

Have you ever tried this? Each takes a letter, beginning with the first letter of the alphabet, and writes a line in any meter chosen, all the words of which must begin with that letter (A). The papers are pressed, and the next in turn writes a line, beginning every word with "B" to rhyme. Every two lines should rhyme, and the game kept up as long as possible.

The critic is played thus: Each writes the name of a book, turns down the slip and passes it to his neighbor, who writes a second title; then the author's name is written and then a review.

Emblem of Turkey.

When Philip of Macedon approached by night with his troops to scale the walls of Byzantium the moon, then new or in crescent, shone out and discovered his design to the besieged, who repulsed him. The crescent was after that adopted as the favorite badge of the city. When the Turks took Byzantium they found the crescent in every public place and, believing it to possess some magical power, adopted it themselves.

"Bronchitis"

Is generally the result of a cold caused by exposure to wet and inclement weather, and is a very dangerous inflammatory affection of the bronchial tubes.

The Symptoms are tightness across the chest, sharp pains and a difficulty in breathing, and a secretion of thick phlegm, at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color.

Mrs. D. D. Miller, Allandale, Ont., writes: "My husband got a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for my little girl who had Bronchitis. She wheezed so badly you could hear her from one room to the other, but it was not long until we could see the effect your medicine had on her. That was last winter when we lived in Toronto.

"She had a bad cold this winter, but instead of getting another bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I called a home made receipt which I got from a neighbor but found that her cold lasted about twice as long. My husband highly praises 'Dr. Wood's,' and says he will see that a bottle of it is always kept in the house."

Be sure and accept none of the many substitutes.

Bisley Dates.

London, Feb 9.—The National Rifle Association meeting at Bisley will be held July 12 to 24. A special prize in connection with the jubilee of the association will be added for colonial teams, for an aggregate score in the Kolapore and Mackinnon competitions.

At a meeting of the association yesterday, Lord Shaftesbury intimated that there was still a possibility of Great Britain being represented in the competition to be held in America in September. The council, he said, had originally decided that, as this was the jubilee year of the British Association and there would be an unusual attendance from the colonies at Bisley, it would not be feasible to accept the "very cordial invitation" from America, but in view of a later communication from America it had been decided to reconsider the matter, and, if possible, arrange for the representation of Great Britain.

J. H. Dube pleaded not guilty, and, after evidence had been called, the case was postponed until Friday for argument.

PRESS HOPEFUL.

German Papers Look For Good Result From Royal Visit.

Berlin, Feb. 9.—The visit of King Edward to-day is regarded generally in itself as an event at the present moment of the greatest political significance and with the feeling that it would be an excellent thing for both nations if the meeting of the two monarchs resulted in a mutual understanding tending to allay international tension.

King Edward is accompanied by Queen Alexandra and official circles welcome the royal visitors in the most courtly tone, regarding their coming to Berlin as a return for the Emperor's visit to England and making no comment on the political importance of the event.

The semi-official Nord-Dutsch Allegemeine Zeitung, says: "We expect the meeting to effect good in the relations between the British and German peoples. The demonstration of friendly feeling and kinship to which the visit gives rise, will be a further encouragement for all who are striving both in Germany and England, against the estrangement of the two nations, and for those who desire to lead the relations in a same direction. Assiduous efforts will, however, be necessary in order to attain the goal of endearing friendship, founded upon mutual esteem between the two great civilized nations."

The German newspapers, in many instances, are inclined to view the King's visit as a mere return courtesy, adopting the "tone" that the British nation is not with the King and his journey to Berlin.

Mission Congress.

Toronto, Feb. 9.—J. Campbell White of New York, international secretary of the Layman's Missionary Movement, and H. K. Laskey, associate secretary, will hold a conference with the officers of the Canadian Mission Congress to-day.

To Bombard Animals on Warship.

Paris, Feb. 9.—The French Government is planning to carry on interesting experiments with the disabled battleship Iona in a few months to establish certain facts concerning the durability of modern warships under the fire of shells, and also to discover how great the loss of life would be.

The animals will be placed on board the ship in compartments which will be carefully ventilated, and the effect of gases which will result from explosions on these boats will be observed by means of instruments.

The firemen took her out through a window, down a ladder, though she resisted desperately, not willing to leave her bed.

Owing to high seas, no stop was made, and all passengers were carried on to Liverpool.

The best previous record was five days and five minutes. New propellors make the difference.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—(Special.)—At the Montreal Stock Yards West End Market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Feb. 6 were 1,250 cattle, 625 sheep, and lambs, 1,200 hogs and 140 calves, and the offerings this morning were 1,100 cattle 100 sheep and lambs, 1,200 hogs and 60 calves. A firm feeling prevailed in the market for cattle to-day owing to the fact that the supply was smaller than a week ago by 250 head, and as butchers were generally pretty well cleaned out of stock there was an improved demand and a more active trade was done for local account. In addition to this, there were quite a few out-of-town buyers present, and, as they all wanted a share of the stock offered, the bidding for the good to choice grades was keener than usual, as supplies of such were none too plentiful. Altho cable advices from Liverpool this morning reported trade in cattle as being slow, and noted a decline in prices of ½c to ¾c per lb., as compared with a week ago, there was a fairly good demand here for export account, and several loads were bought. Choice steers sold at 5½c to 5¾c; good at 5¼c to 5c; fair at 4¾c to 4¾c; good cows at 4c to 4c; common cows at 3½c to 3¾c, and bulls at 3½c to 4¼c per lb. There was no further change in the condition of the market for sheep and lambs, prices being firmly maintained on account of the continued limited supply coming forward, for which the demand is good for local consumption. Choice lots of lambs sold at 6c to 6¼c, and good at 5¾c to 5¾c per lb. Good straight lots of sheep brought 3¾c to 4c, and culls 3½c to 3¾c per lb. Calves continue to be very scarce, for which there is a very good demand, and prices rule firm at from $5 to $10 each, as to size and quality. Owing to the continued small certane of the market remains very strong, and prices have gained a further advance of 25c to 25c per 100 lbs. On Saturday a few sales of extra choice lots were made at as high as $7.35, but the range of prices this morning was from $7.05 to $7.25 per 100 lbs. for selected lots, weighed off cars. The demand from packers was not so keen as it has been of late, owing to the fact that at the present high figures the consumption is falling off some, and they are away above export basis, consequently it would not be surprising to see a reaction in values in the near future.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

ANOTHER CHARGE

OBTAINED IN HIS HOME.

Charles Mitchell appeared before Magistrate Dumble yesterday afternoon, charged with having stolen from a parcel sent by post, said parcel having been sent to Mr. J. F. Perkins, containing jewelry. The prisoner declined to elect. He was represented by Mr. F. D. Kerr.

Mr. Alex. F. Perkins was the first witness. He stated that he had come from Essex County, England, in 1907. His wife remained at home. Most of his goods were left behind at home. His brother-in-law was to send out certain articles, and on December 31st he had written, stating that he was sending the parcel on January 4th. Witness did not get the letter nor the parcel. He had told Postman Mitchell to take care of the parcel he was expecting and he promised to do so. About a week ago he met Mitchell on King street and remarked that he did not understand what had happened to his letters. The postman replied that he had noticed that he was not getting any mail lately. Witness went with P. C. Newhall to Mitchell's house, where he found some of the goods which he expected, and which he identified in court.

P. C. Newhall's testimony dealt with the searching of the house and the finding of the articles produced.

On the charge Mitchell was committed for trial at the next sitting of the next court of competent jurisdiction.

PEOPLE IN APSLEY WOULD LIKE TO HAVE ELECTRIC RAILWAY LINE RUN THROUGH THEIR TOWNSHIP AND ASK FOR ASSISTANCE

Mr. Wm. Gallon Writes to the City Council in Regard to the Matter and the Letter Was Read at Meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee on Monday Afternoon.

THE COMMITTEE WILL TAKE STEPS TO ACT IN THE MATTER.

A meeting of the Manufacturers' Committee was held yesterday afternoon when all the members were present with Ald. Gillespie in the chair. Among other matters which came up was a letter from Mr. Wm. Gallon of Apsley, in reference to having an electric line run from Peterborough to Apsley, a distance of 40 miles. The letter pointed out the many advantages of such a road, not only to the farming community through which it passes but also to the city itself.

Mr. Gallon stated that he had seen in the Peterborough press the announcement of the proposed electric road from Cobourg to Stony Lake. He thought it was a good thing and asked why not continue it through to Apsley. He referred to the large amount of money spent by the people in the farming communities in Toronto, principally Simpson's and Eaton's. He also referred to the large quantities of provisions bought at the stores all through the district. All this might be diverted to Peterborough retail and wholesale stores while the freight traffic on the electric road would be considerable and the passenger traffic would soon develop.

Mr. Gallon suggested that if the people of Peterborough would take the matter up the Apsley people would be glad to co-operate with them.

The committee considered the matter and instructed the city clerk to reply to Mr Gallon's letter and also to send a copy of it to Mr J.H Larmonth, manager of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company.

Waggon Tossed About On Rice Lake Crossing From Harwood

Mr. Mirriam, of Harwood, who drove to Peterborough yesterday, had an experience in crossing Rice Lake which was as unusual as it was hazardous. Owing to the snow having entirely disappeared from the roads he had to make the journey in a waggon. The lake is one glare sheet of ice, and on Monday an ice boat could have travelled miles in the teeth of a high wind, which would have skimmed it along in flights as rapid as those of the swallows which in summer dart over its ruffled surface. The wheels of Mr. Mirriam's vehicle swerved here and there, as the wind blew it onwards and at times the horses were going in a direction at right angles to the waggon. Several times an upset seemed imminent and it was only by extreme caution that such was avoided. A canoe in rough summer weather was more easily steered than the waggon, which was practically at the mercy of the wind which swept down the lake.

Woodmen Of The World Make Presentation To Mr. R. N. Jones

There was a very interesting ceremony at the regular meeting of Sherwood Forest Camp, W.O.W. No. 30 last night. After the regular business had been put on and five candidates were initiated, a presentation of a beautiful signet ring and address were made Bro. R. N. Jones, the present counsel commander. The ring was handsomely engraved and bore the emblem of the order with the letters W.O.W. to R. N. Jones. The gift was in recognition of the valuable service the recipient had rendered the lodge in the past in the way of securing new members.

Mr. A. A. Haskill, clerk, received the following letter from the head clerk of the order, which he presented with the ring to Mr. Jones—

London, Feb. 6th, 1909.

A. A. Haskill, Clerk,
Peterborough, Ont.

Esteemed Sovereign,—I cannot help recognizing the good work done in your camp in the past year by Sov. R. N. Jones

It is certainly gratifying to see the members take such an interest in our Order, and I feel that we must make some recognition of the good work done by such members as Sov. Jones, and I wish we had more members in our subordinate camps like Sov. Jones. I am sure the order would go ahead by leaps and bounds.

I take the liberty of asking you to present Sov. Jones with this signet ring, as a token of the appreciation of the head office of the Canadian Order of the Woodmen of the World, and trust that Sov. Jones may long be spared and take the same interest in your camp in the future as in the past.

Wishing your camp every success for the coming year, I remain,

Yours fraternally
W. C. FITZGERALD,
Head Clerk.

CONTRACTOR EXPRESSES OPINION THAT THE BUILDING OPERATIONS DURING THE COMING SUMMER WILL BE SATISFACTORY

Churches of the City Give Promise of Providing Work in Additions and New Building—Private Houses Are Also Being Represented Among the List.

STONE CUTTERS ALREADY AT WORK AT ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

An Examiner reporter this morning questioned a contractor as to his opinion of the prospects in the building lines during the coming summer. There has been some feeling among those who seem anxious about the season's work, but this gentleman stated that he was impressed with the feeling that the building trades would experience a good summer and he knew already of certain work which seemed to promise a good supply of work.

He has been informed that some of the churches would have to provide a certain amount of work in the building line. He had been told that there was a strong possibility of a large addition to Knox Church. This was almost assurred, he had been informed, and from the fact that the congregation had grown to a great extent he considered that the statement has some foundation. Builders were also of the opinion that the Murray Street Baptist Church would likely make an addition to their present edifice. It was practically certain that All Saints' Church would be built this year. Seven or eight stone cutters have started work preparing the granite, which has been secured from Quebec, and will be used in the trimmings of the building.

There were also quite a number of private buildings that have been spoken of and altogether the season gives promise at this early date of a fairly busy summer.

Some Protection Is Needed At Point Where Drowning Occurred

"It's a wonder that more children have not been drowned there," remarked a well known local citizen to the Examiner to-day, referring to the tragic death of little Maxwell Robberts in the creek yesterday. "There is absolutely no protection at that point, and there is nothing to prevent children from falling into the creek. In the summer or in the winter when the creek is firmly frozen over there is no danger, but when the spring freshets are on or when the ice is opened by a thaw during the winter, the spot is not safe."

An Examiner reporter visited the scene yesterday and was satisfied that some precaution should be taken by the city to prevent a repetition of of yesterday's accident. There is a long stone of cribwork from which youngsters might quite easily topple into the swift stream below. A railing along the bank at that point would cost but a trifle and it might prove the means of preventing accidents. The Board of Works should look into the matter at once and see what steps should be taken.

Immigrant Was Asked To Do Many Tasks For $2 Per Month

A young immigrant has related to the Examiner his experiences with a farmer in one of the surrounding townships, which certainly do not show the yeoman up in any too favourable a light. The young man was hired by the farmer for three months at the princely salary of $2 per month and board and was expected to do the "chores" around the farm. He found that these included the looking after twenty-five head of cattle, 200 hens and other stock, besides many other duties. That was bad enough, but the young man was game and remained on the job until the farmer concluded that he wasn't doing enough for that two spot, and accordingly made him get up a little earlier in the morning and do his duties around the stable, after which he sent him out to the woods until after dark each day to cut wood. The day's duties were brought to a close long after dark with another visit to the barns and stables, and all for $2 per month.

Fell From The Bridge And Was Very Painfully Injured

Mr. J. Noyes, Munro Avenue, Fifth Ward, was the victim of a very painful accident last evening, while on his way home at six o'clock. He was crossing what is known as the short cut, a bridge built of ties, over the old race way in East City, and in some manner, while in the middle of the bridge, slipped and fell to the ground, a distance of twelve feet, striking heavily on the frozen earth. As a result he received a nasty wound on the head, which bled freely and he was badly shaken up.

Fortunately a man was closely following him and saw the accident. He hurried to Mr. Noyes' assistance and helped him to his home, where today he is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER BINGHAM PRESENTS PLAN TO RID THE RACE OF TUBERCULOSIS IN HIS ANNUAL REPORT TO THE CITY COUNCIL

The annual meeting of the Board of Health was held this morning with the following members present—Dr. Burnham, Dr. McNulty, Dr. Young, Mayor Rush, Messrs. Jas. Edgar, Chief Roszel, Jas. Murty and D. Bingham.

The appointing of a chairman for the year was the first duty and on motion of Dr. Young and Dr McNulty, Dr. Bingham was re-appointed to the position. Dr. Bingham's annual report as Medical Health officer was then presented as follows—

It becomes my duty once more to lay before you a brief notice of the sanitary condition, and the mortality report of the city during the year 1908.

The city council and the tax payers have nobly discharged their duties in laying the foundation of a model city, on the most improved sanitary principles. This will be seen from the fact that Peterborough has now over 40 miles of granulithic sidewalks, and about 13 miles of wooden ones. The city has been free from any fatal scourge of infectious diseases.

We had an outbreak of scarlet fever of a very mild type, and no deaths resulting therefrom. There were few cases of typhoid fever and only one or two of diphtheria.

As usual the grim reaper has not been idle and although the ratio of mortality has not been excessive, still during the year many from amongst us have gone to the narrow house and the long sleep. Some so young that they seemed only to be born to weep and die. And some have been called away in the midst of a busy life with all their plans unfinished. Some of the aged too laid down the heavy burden of life to go where the weary are at rest. And yet there are still many amongst us in active life who have passed the chloroform period.

There were 273 deaths in the city during the year, some of these occurred in the hospitals, and should not be reckoned in with the deaths in the city.

That much dreaded disease tuberculosis caused 20 deaths in the city during the year. This disease is sometimes called consumption and sometimes the white plague. The scientists have a theory that our incautious ancestors, the slave dwellers transmitted the loathsome disease to posterity and the burning question of the day is how to get rid of it.

The well meaning philanthropist is working at the wrong end and will never accomplish anything in that way. All the sanatoria in the world can only give temporary relief, but will never eradicate the disease from the human race.

One step in the right direction would be early marriages. From sound stock, and the healthy pedigree of the contracting parties should be examined for three generations, the same as for a life insurance policy. With a good start made in this way, and afterwards a life of strict temperance in all things, and a close observance of all sanitary laws, the race in time would be free from the ravages of tuberculosis.

As the custom prevails at present many people get married who are better adapted for a health resort than for the cares of married life. Moreover it may be said in this connection, that if we hope to get rid of tuberculosis in Canada, we must cease importing it from the slums of other countries.

During the year a large amount of important sanitary work was accomplished by the chief and his men.

Yards examined	4189
Notices served	509

Houses disinfected	48

The citizens are well aware that pure water, pure air, and pure food are the best safeguards of good health. The dwelling house and all its surroundings should be absolutely clean as the best defence against infectious diseases and sickness of any kind.

The general depression has touched Peterborough very lightly and all the industries have an air of prosperity and bright hope for the future.

J. BINGHAM,
Medical Health Officer.

On motion of Mr. Edgar and Dr McNulty the secretary was authorized to send a letter of condolence to the family of the late Mr. Alfred Parker.

On motion of Dr. McNulty and Mr. Edgar the Medical Health Officer's report was received and was ordered to be sent to the secretary of the Provincial Board of Health.

WHY HIS BUSINESS DID NOT GROW

He did not know how to advertise.

He did not keep up with the times.

He tried to do everything himself.

He strangled his progress by cheeseparing economy.

He never learned that it is the liberal policy that wins in business building.

He thought he could save the money which his competitors spent for advertising.

He was pessimistic, and all his employees caught the contagion, making the whole atmosphere of his establishment depressing.

THE VALUE OF PASTIMES.

For the past few days the papers have been teeming with accounts of the great race between Shrubb and Longboat in that scene of so many past contests of skill and endurance, Madison Square Garden. The race, owing to the world-wide reputation of the two participants, as well as to the peculiar circumstances attending it, created an enormous amount of interest. Throughout the English speaking world, at any rate, men watched eagerly for the result. As much excitement was evinced over it as over the taking of Pretoria, or the relief of Ladysmith or Mafeking. But there was not wanting a certain section of people who were disposed to cavil at the way in which the multitude gets worked up over such exhibitions, and to assert that it would be far better employed in attending to its spiritual and temporal welfare than in going boisterously mad over a footrace. It would be hard to convince such people that in this very enthusiasm for sport lies the true secret of the greatness of the English-speaking race. Greece was never more prosperous, never shone with greater lustre than in the days of her Olympian, her Nemaean, her Pythian, her Isthmian games, and decry it as one may, deem it foolish as one may, the fact is irrefutable that sport, true, straightforward, honestly conducted sport, is one of the strongest aids to the up-keep of a nation. That it is environed with dangers there is not the least doubt. The gambling spirit sees in it its finest quarry. It has fastened on many of its branches with a hold as strong as that of the codling moth on the apple tree. Many games also are conducted in a way bordering on ferocity and in a spirit of win-at-any-price, which is not conducive either to manliness or morality. These are evils quite capable of extinction by the spread of the gospel of fair play. It is most encouraging to see that gospel being diffused so widely throughout Canada at the present day, for it means, not only a clearer perception of our duty one towards another in our private sphere, but also in the domain of commercial and public life. The boy who is honest as day in his pastimes is not likely to go far astray in regard to business integrity, when the time comes for him to shoulder the responsibilities of manhood.

U. S. IMMIGRATION.

Canadians have a common interest with the United States in the matter of immigration. Therefore the report of the Commissioner-General of the United States Immigration Department, will be of interest to Canadians. The report shows that immigration into the United States for the year ended June 30, 1908, showed a greater falling off in the number of arrivals than was generally expected, the total being 782,870, as compared with 1,285,349 for the preceding twelve months. Concurrent with this decrease was a decided increase in the outward movement of emigrant aliens, of whom 395,073 returned to their former homes. Thus the net increase of the population of the republic was but 387,797.

The cause of the slump in immigration was the financial flurry of the fall of 1907 and the subsequent lessening of industrial activity.

Austria-Hungary contributed liberally last year to swell the population of the United States, 168,509 immigrants coming from that country, as compared with 156,711 from Russia and Finland, 128,503 from Italy, and 93,510 from the United Kingdom. The decrease as contrasted with 1906-7 were: Austria-Hungary, 169,943; Italy, 157,228; Russia and Finland, 102,232, and the United Kingdom, 20,187.

An increase of 18,592 is noted from Canada and of 18,592 is noted from Canada and Newfoundland. The numbers arriving from the more important countries during the fiscal year were:

Austria-Hungary	168,509
Russia and Finland	156,711
Italy	128,503
Great Britain and Ireland	93,390
British North America	38,510

A feature of interest is that while the United States is getting most of its immigration from Eastern and Southern Europe, the bulk of the immigration into Canada comes from across the line and from the United Kingdom. In fact, we are getting the pick.

The Americans, like ourselves, are becoming increasingly particular relative to the importation of undesirables. During the year, 1890 persons were excluded, which is about 1.1 per cent. of the admissions, and with the care now taken it is thought that the newly-arrived immigrants, instead of being a public menace, are probably the healthiest class in the country.

THE "UNWRITTEN LAW."

The Hamilton Times deals with the perilous fallacy, the "Unwritten Law" in the following terms:

According to the Philadelphia Public Ledger, there were no fewer than 100 lynchings in the United States in the year 1908. It is not to be wondered at that such a record gives the United States an unsavory name throughout the world. The year 1908 was marked by nearly double the number of lynchings of 1907, and yet the showing is vastly better than it was ten years ago, when the number was 127, or in 1892, when it was 2335. In the years 1882 to 1908, inclusive, there were reported 3,709 lynchings by mobs—an average of nearly 143 a year.

It is a terrible showing; but the story is not all told by these figures. There have been, besides these cases, probably many times the number of murders for private revenge for which the law has never exacted a penalty. Why should it do so? The crime of lynching is merely the "unwritten law" in the large — the doctrine that the mob should proceed to usurp the functions of the law, dispense with the safeguards of trial, and wreak its vengeance in whatever summary and horrible manner diabolism suggests. And why should we blame the mob when the legislatures and courts to whom the protection of society, in pocket and person, is entrusted, gravely tolerate as the excuse for cold blooded, cowardly assassination the plea that the "unwritten law" is higher than the laws of society and that to merely assert it is sufficient excuse for the most fiendish of crimes? There are some people who would disapprove assuring immunity to a spiteful man who would deliberately shoot down his unarmed neighbour because of a grudge; and yet they are inclined to give some weight to the theory that he should not be severely blamed if he believes, or says he believes, that his victim reflected upon the honour of his family. Is it not plain that to admit such excuses at all is to open the door to wholesale murder—to plunge us into social chaos and remove all the safeguards which society has erected to secure person and property.

No man who feels any inclination to excuse the crime of the cowardly degenerates, Thaw and Hains, has any right to affect horror at the record of United States lynchings. That which he deplores on the part of a mob he would excuse on the part of each single cowardly, calculating assassin. It cannot too soon be made clear to all that there is no safety in ignoring the laws made for the good of society.

NOW—AND THEN.

The fact that the Legislative Assembly of Ontario has been called to meet on the 16th inst., is a reminder that the Provincial Parliament first met in York, now Toronto, in 1796. At that time the settlement consisted of a few log-houses and the barracks, and vessels approaching the banks threw out a gang-plank to the muddy shore.

Because of the paucity of accommodation, Peter Russell, the then governor, six months before the meeting of the Legislature, wrote a letter, which contained the following language:

"As the Legislature is to meet at York the first of June, it becomes absolutely necessary that provision should be made for their reception without loss of time. You will, therefore, be pleased to apprise the inhabitants of the town that twenty-five gentlemen will want lodgings and board during the session, which may possibly lead them to fix up their houses and lay in provisions to accommodate them."

Hon. J. M. Gibson, our present governor, has failed to send out a similar note preparatory to the session of 1909, from which we infer that boarding and lodging may be obtained more readily in the Toronto of to-day than they could in the provincial capital a century ago.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Brantford Expositor says:

The Dominion Government, through the Premier, has intimated its intention to give land grants to the Fenian Raid veterans of 1866 and 1870. This decision is easily reached, but trouble will begin when the Government has to decide who are entitled to receive the grants.

There should not be much trouble on this score. Doubtless a large proportion of those entitled to grants, in this province at least, will have their names and qualifications as beneficiaries on the score of their services in 1866-70 as rolled in the archives of the Parliament buildings, Toronto.

HOW TO MAKE THE BEST REMEDY

Fine Recipe For Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble Gives Prompt Relief.

FIX THIS FOR YOURSELF

The following prescription for the cure of rheumatism and kidney and bladder troubles has no doubt been filled millions of times, viz.: Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. These simple, harmless ingredients can be obtained at any good prescription pharmacy at little cost and are mixed by shaking well in a bottle.

The dose for adults is a teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime, drinking a full tumblerful of water after each dose. It is stated that this prescription is a positive remedy for kidney trouble and lame back, weak bladder and urinary difficulties, especially of the elderly people, and one of the best things to be used in rheumatic afflictions, relieving the aches and pains and reducing swellings.

A well-known authority states that this mixture acts directly upon the eliminative tissues of the kidneys, cleanses these spongelike organs and gives them power to sift and strain the poisonous waste matter and uric acid from the blood which is the cause of rheumatism.

If your back or sides ache and you suspect kidney trouble, it would be wise to try this for a few days.

Hastings, Feb. 8.—Miss Annie Reid, of Peterborough, has been visiting her cousin, Miss Maggie Oakman.

Mrs. J. King, of town, has been spending a few days under the parental roof.

The concert given in the Town Hall on Monday night by the coloured singers, the old Southland Sextette, was well attended and much appreciated by the large crowd present. The singing of the old Southern melodies was all that could be expected, and everyone was more than pleased with the evening's entertainment.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. George English, one of Asphodel's oldest and most respected residents, who departed this life on Wednesday last at the age of 73 years. Mr. English has spent a greater part of the last few years in the West, but came home a short time ago in broken health, which resulted in his death. He leaves to mourn his loss besides his widow; a family of grown up sons and daughters.

Mr. Thos. Lynch, of Rochester, is renewing old acquaintances in town after an absence of about 20 years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Londerville, of Lakefield, have been guests of the former's mother, Mrs. S. Londerville.

We learn that Mr. Harry Wilson has secured a position in the head office of the Bank of Ottawa.

Mr. Jack Wilson is home from Toronto.

At the annual meeting of the Fire Brigade, a committee was appointed to interview the Council at their next meeting, regarding the purchase of two long ladders for use in case of fires on Main street, and also to secure the usual remuneration granted for men attending fires during working hours. The Brigade also decided to bring on their Minstrel Show immediately after Eastertide.

The many friends of Miss Loretta Coughlan, of Peterborough Normal School, sympathize with her in the pain of a broken ankle which will detain her from school for some time.

Mr. Stevens, of Randolph Macdonald & Co., contractors, at present working on this section of the canal, has opened an office in the Radiator Building which will be used as headquarters for the contractors until spring.

Mr. Duncan Fife attended the funeral of his cousin, Mrs. J. Drummond, of Keene on Friday last.

A SCHOOL GIRL'S DONT'S

Don't giggle. A merry heart may be a good medicine, but the chronic giggler is like unto the patent nostrums. She should be legislated against.

Don't gush. Sugar in moderation is necessary to youth, but an overdose is nauseous and calls for sharp remedies.

Don't be noisy. It is not the bass horn or resounding drum that leads the band, but the silent baton.

Don't be "smarty." Real wit is to "smartness" as a five pound box of maroons to an "all-day sucker."

Don't be a tell-tale. The girl who "peaches" on her mates is like unto that foolish one who seated himself between two stools. Friends will hate her and teachers despise her.

Don't be a sneak. The bellowing bull is not half so fearsome a foe as the silent snake which glides on you unawares; the one you run away from; the other you bide your time to kill.

Don't be boy crazy. The girl who runs after the boys has as much chance of catching them as the cat who chases her tail.

Don't be a fibber. The school girl who doesn't deal in fact is as foolish as the "wolf" crier—she will not be believed when belief is vital to her.

Don't be a sloven. The girl who has dirty hands and missing buttons will find a reputation for slovenliness trail her through life though she becomes an old maid for primness.

Don't be fresh. The egg that is fresh may bring a high price; the girl with similar qualities finds few bidders for her society.

Don't be quarrelsome. The girl who is always hunting trouble is as desirable a companion as a chestnut burr inside a shoe. A sweet heart does not make up for the bad jabs of a prickly shell.—Philadelphia "Ledger."

USEFUL DISCOVERIES

Are Not Always Startling, Neither Do They Create the Most Talk.

It is not always the greatest, most startling discoveries of science that are most useful to the human race.

Comparatively few people were directly interested in Herschel's finding of the new planet Uranus, but many thousands have been benefited by Prof. Unna's experiments, which proved beyond a question that dandruff and baldness are the results of the inroads of a parasitic germ which invades the roots of the hair.

The discovery of the true cause of baldness made Newbro's Herpicide possible. Herpicide effectually kills this germ. Destroy the cause, you remove the effect.

WINNIPEG MAN CURED OF RHEUMATISM

Remarkable Case of Cure After Specialists Failed.

Winnipeg, Man.—A prominent resident of this City, who for personal reasons does not wish his name mentioned publicly, but who permits us to show his letter to interested enquirers, writes to say that he was suddenly taken with excruciating pains in the back and side, which were pronounced by his physicians as Rheumatism. Hot applications were at once resorted to, the usual medicines administered, supplemented by electrical treatment, but all to no purpose. In his desperation he took Gin Pills on his own account, and in a few hours after taking the first Pill the pains commenced to subside. He continued taking them and in 48 hours he had not an ache or a pain left.

Gin Pills are sold at 50c a box—6 for $2.50. Send to us if your dealer does not handle them. Sample box free if you mention this paper.

CHANGES IN PETERBORO LINE-UP
LEO QUINN WILL BE IN THE GAME AGAINST LINDSAY ON WEDNESDAY

Good ice is promised for to-morrow nights big game with Lindsay here and it looks as if both teams were going to get what they have been asking for the past two weeks. The plan of the reserved seats opened at the rink this morning and judging by the way in which they were snapped up there will be another record crowd on hand for the battle. The Peterborough fans are thoroughly roused by the team's fine showing this season and they will all be around to-morrow night to help on the good work by rooting for the Petes. With the good ice that is available there is every reason to expect one of the best games that has been pulled off at Brock street rink with both teams working at top speed all the way and with excitement the key note of the evening.

There will be several changes in the Peterborough lineup to-morrow night and the team that will wear the local's colours will be about as fast as has been turned out as many moons. Leo Quinn of Lakefield for whom a certificate has been secured will be on the line up and Bill Rose will also have a place. The forward line will be composed of Quinn, Rose Desty and Ray although the exact positions of the four have not been decided upon. The defense will be the same as in the last game with Lindsay.

The team had a great workout last night every player being out in fine form and they travelled at a pace that made the big crowd of fans present smile with satisfaction. Many railbirds were on hand to see Quinn workout with the Petes and they were not slow in giving their opinion that he should make good although he will be sent into a hard game to-morrow night to make his debut. It will be the game of the season and there is every reason to expect a crowd that will be as large as Friday's if not larger.

SPECULATORS HAVE SOME TICKETS BUT THERE ARE PLENTY FOR EVERYBODY

Through no fault of the management of the hockey team or of the Brock street rink, about sixty of the reserved seats have fallen into the hands of speculators who are holding the seats at double the regular price. The seats were put on sale at the rink this morning in the usual way and at the usual time, and the individuals in question who are connected neither with the club nor the rink company, were enabled to snap up about half the reserved seats.

This is a peculiar state of things in Peterborough, although it is customary in other places, and the public is assured that the hockey club or the rink are not responsible. It will not, however, affect but a very small portion of the crowd, and in order to safeguard the interests of the public in the sale of the balance of the tickets, the tickets for the east side of the rink at 25c, and those at the west side at 35c, will be put on sale to-night and to-morrow at the rink and not more than six will be sold to any one person. It should be understood that there will be plenty of seats for everybody as the manoeuvres of the speculators will affect only sixty seats, whereas the rink will accommodate 2,000 people easily.

There promises to be a record crowd at the game as the fans are stirred up as never before.

SHRUBB STATES THAT HE WILL NEVER RUN THE MARATHON AGAIN

Pat Powers says that Alfred Shrubb Tom Longboat, Dorando Pietri, and Johnny Hayes will run a four cornered Marathon in Madison Square Garden, March 17.

They will not!

Alfred Shrubb will not be there.

Who says so?

A. Shrubb.

The game little Briton has run his last Marathon—if you will believe him. I do. I heard him say it. He sat in the rotunda of the Victoria Hotel in New York, Sunday night, a wreck of the dapper, confident little cockney—I do not use this term in decision, for I have a wholesome respect for Shrubb. I saw him in P. T. Powers' office Thursday.

His eyes were glazed and sunken, and looked like two burnt holes in a blanket. His cheeks were hollow and the lines about his mouth were deeply lined. He alternately clasped and unclasped his hands, and while the Canadian, contingent hovered around him and paid heartfelt tribute to the game little cock sparrow, who so nearly defeated their idolized aborigine, his feet beat a nervous tattoo upon the tiles. He was so broken up that he comprehended but a tithe of what was said.

"Tom Flanagan and you fellows beat me," he said over and over again. He referred to the way in which the Canadian bunch swarmed over cops and officials and everything to cheer the faltering Indian on when he was slowly but surely overcoming Shrubb's great lead.

"I've no kick coming," he said, "All I want is a race with him at 15 miles. I'll be ready in two weeks."

He didn't look as if he could get ready in a month.

"Will you run Tom a Marathon outdoors?" I asked him.

"No more Marathons for me," he returned earnestly, "they are too far."

If Shrubb ever runs another Marathon and tries to win it at the expense he did Friday night, he'll leave Madison Square Garden in a box.

I think that the cruel struggle of Friday night so strained his heart and sapped his reserves, took so much out of him that he will never again run a good race at 15 miles. I think Longboat, with six weeks' real training, would clean him up, even at his own distance. I don't think Shrubb can beat 1.24 for 15 miles. I doubt if he will ever again beat 54 for 10 miles or 25 for 5 miles. Shrubb as a Marathon was a very much over-estimated runner.

When it comes to a show-down, I fancy Matt Maloney will be the Indian's third opponent in the four-cornered Marathon if one is run. Johnny Hayes declares not, because he says Longboat and Dorando being out the same stable would frame it up to beat him.

It is to laugh!

Imagine the Indian and the Italian slowing up in the back stretch to frame up a deal on Johnny Hayes.

DECISIVE GAMES IN CHURCH LEAGUE

St. Andrew's and Knox Church Play To-night at Knox Church Rink

A most important game will be played at the Knox church rink to-night between 7 and 8 o'clock, when the St. Andrew's and Knox church teams will meet in the Senior Church League fixture. A win for St. Andrew's will give them the championship, while a victory for their opponents will put the two teams upon an even footing. In the last game between the two teams Knox church were beaten by 2-1 and to-night's game promises to be another desperate battle. It is likely that either Harry Morgan or Walter Miller will referee the game and the teams will line up as follows—

St. Andrew's		Knox
	Goal
Patterson		Crowe
	Point
McDonald		Reid
	Cover Point
Flanigan		Henderson
	Rover
Stanton		Bartley

HOCKEY

Orange Lodge, No. 60, challenge the Grand Trunk team to a friendly game of hockey, to be played on the Knox Church rink as soon as available.

• • •

The L. O. L., No. 50, hockey team accept the challenge of the East City team to a game as soon as the Brock street rink can be secured.

• • •

Mr. W S Hasecock, of Toronto, according to the Toronto papers, will referee to-morrow's big battle with Lindsay.

• • • •

Bruce Ridpath, the crack hockey player, who has been playing with the Toronto "pros," has signed on with Cobalt for the remaining games of the season. He joined the team yesterday and will receive $500 for his work. A dispatch from Toronto reads as follows:—

"Bruce Ridpath gets $500 for the remaining games of the season with Cobalt. He joined that team yesterday."

Cobourg, Feb. 8.—Before quite a large crowd here to-night Cobourg juniors were defeated by the Whitby seven, the score being 8 to 3.

Referee—Livingston.

Cobourg has defaulted to Peterborough and it is Lindsay and Peterborough for the championship of the district with home and home games. The locals will journey by special train to Peterborough on Wednesday and the return game will be played here on Friday. Goals will count in the two games. This will give hockey with the goats an opportunity to see two good games. Weather indications are favourable for good ice in Peterborough on Wednesday evening, so that the fans may expect a speedy game. A large crowd will accompany the boys, and an effort will be made to wipe out Friday's defeat.

—Lindsay Post.

• • • •

Cobourg has thrown up the sponge and given their game to Peterborough. Thus Lindsay and Peterborough are on an even footing now, and home-and-home games will decide the district. Lindsay goes to Peterborough on Wednesday and the return game will be played on Friday in Lindsay, the total number of goals to count.

The district champions will be decided this week and the winners will probably play off with the winners of the northern group, which looks like Midland from here. Collingwood though, may win from the Gould septette. The two teams play off to-night in Barrie.

It will be a bang-up battle between the Midgets and the Petes and if the locals can hold Rollie Glover's cohorts down to a narrow margin in Peterborough, the chances are good that the Petes will be down good and plenty here in Lindsay.

A special train will be run to Peterborough for the game on Wednesday, leaving Lindsay at the same time as the last special; viz, 7 o'clock.

—Lindsay Warder.

Messrs. C. G. Graham and Fred. A. Clarke have donated a beautiful cup to the Junior City Hockey League, which will be competed for annually by the junior teams of the city. The cup will be held this year by the Chieftains who have captured the championship of the League this year without a defeat. The cup is a valuable one and the two donors who have always been anxious to do everything in their power in the interest of sport, are to be congratulated upon their public spiritedness in providing such a handsome trophy. The conditions attached to the playing for the cup have not yet been decided upon, but it is likely that they will be the same as those governing the Senior City League, that is the cup will become the property of the team winning it for three years in succession.

An interesting game was played at the Knox street rink last night, when the Knox Church Juniors defeated Park Street Juniors by 3 goals to 1, after a battle that was hard fought throughout. The winners were ahead 2—1 at the half and scored the only goal in the second period. Herb Reid was a satisfactory referee and the teams were as follows:

Barrie, Feb. 8.—Before a crowd of 1,500 people here to-night, and in one of the fastest, cleanest and most hotly contested games that has been seen in Barrie for some time, Collingwood defeated Midland in the sudden death game for the intermediate championship of this district by 7 to 6.

At half time the score was 3 to 1 in favour of Collingwood. Midland played like Trojans in the second half, and one minute before full time the tally stood six each. The pace was terrific and excitement intense, Midland charged the Collingwood stronghold time and again, but Belcher and Cain broke away, and in a brilliant combination Belcher scored. The bell rang and four hundred Collingwood fans cheered frantically. Ed. Watt, referee, of Berlin, refereed satisfactorily.

WRESTLING.

Yankee Rogers, the famous Buffalo wrestler, will arrive in Toronto on Wednesday ready for his big match with Fritz Mohl at the Riverdale Rink on Friday night. Rogers is in excellent shape, and thinks Mohl will have no cause for complaint when he gets through with him. Mohl is one of the heaviest men in the business, and came to this country with Geo. Hack-nachmidt four years ago. The wrestling fans in this city have never had the opportunity of seeing men who are at the top of their profession, and men of the Rogers-Mohl calibre can always be relied upon to wrestle and wrestle to win.—Toronto Star.

BOWLING

The Grays, tail-enders in the Bowling League, continued their winning streak last night by taking two out of three games from the Lock Works, and the Perry-McFadden-Sullivan combination are now one step further up the ladder. The Grays are a unit in attributing their success to the fact that Mr. J Bilsky, the "prop." was out of the city last night. He is regarded as a "hard luck" by the Grays and they have opened up a subscription for the purpose of sending Mr. Hay away from Peterborough on the nights upon which the Grays are scheduled to do battle. The Grays promise to be in the first division before long if the appeal meets with the response it should at the hands of the bowling fraternity. A mite box has been hung up at the alleys and all those who desire to assist in this praiseworthy achievement are asked to drop their contributions therein.

The scores were as follows:

A DISAPPEARING KNOT.

Handkerchief Trick That Will Mystify Beholders.

This is a very amusing and deceptive trick. You ask any one for a handkerchief and tie the ends firmly together in a double knot, allowing him to feel it or pull the ends as tight as he pleases. You then throw the center of the handkerchief over the knot and ask the person to hold it tight between his finger and thumb. You ask him if the knot is still there, to which he will answer in the affirmative. You then take hold of any part of the handkerchief and direct the holder to drop the handkerchief at the word "three." You count, "One, two

The method of managing this trick is as follows: Take the handkerchief and tie the ends in a simple knot, keeping one end tight and the other end loose. We will call the tight end A and the loose one B. Keep A always in the right hand and on the stretch horizontally, and the handkerchief will look as in the cut. Do this when you tie it the second time and draw B tight, which will then form a double tie round A, but will not hold it firm. When you throw the handkerchief over the knot you draw out A with the finger and thumb of the left hand, and the knot will apparently remain firm, although in reality it is nothing but a double twist of silk, which, of course, falls loose when the handkerchief is dropped.—Philadelphia Ledger.

AN INTELLIGENT DOG.

Noble Newfoundland Which Seemed Endowed With Power to Reason.

A gentleman connected with the Newfoundland fisheries possessed a dog remarkable for his fidelity and sagacity. On one occasion a boat and crew in his employ were in circumstances of considerable peril just outside a line of breakers which, owing to some change in the wind or weather, had since the departure of the boat rendered the return through them hazardous. The spectators on shore were quite unable to render any assistance to their friends afloat. Much time had been spent, and the danger seemed to increase rather than diminish.

Our friend the dog looked on for a length of time, evidently aware that there was great cause for anxiety in the minds of those around. Presently, however, he took to the water and made his way through to the boat. The crew supposed he wished to join them and made various attempts to induce him to come on board. But, no! He would not go within their reach and continued swimming about a short distance away. After the crew had made several comments on the peculiar conduct of the dog one of the hands suddenly suspected his apparent meaning. "Give him the end of a rope," he said. "That's what he wants." The rope was thrown. The dog seized the end in an instant, turned around and made straight for shore, where a few minutes afterward boat and crew, thanks to their four footed friend, were placed safe and undamaged.—Philadelphia Ledger.

IT'S THE TALK OF THE COUNTRY SIDE

How Dodd's Kidney Pills Cured Mrs. Samuel Thompson's Dropsy.

Her's Was a Terrible Case and the Doctors Were Powerless to Check It, But the Great Kidney Remedy Cured It.

Holt, Ont., Feb. 8.—Special. — All the country side about here is talking of the wonderful cure of Mrs. Samuel Thompson of this place. She was taken sick with jaundice, and though the doctor was called in she grew steadily worse. Her stomach was so bad she could not keep anything on it. Dropsy set in and she bloated to a terrible size. The doctor came three times to tap her, but her husband would not allow him to do it, saying that if she could not get better they might let her die in peace. Finally she dropped the doctors and tried other medicines, but they did her no good. Her leg burst and the water streamed from it. Then someone told her about Dodd's Kidney Pills and so she asked her husband to get her a box.

After taking them a while she took a bad turn. Something would come up in her throat and she would vomit. The water would just fly from her mouth. But from that time she commenced to get better and to-day she is a well woman.

Then Found She Would Not Suit—Breach of Promise Case for $1000 The Result.

North Yakima, Wash., Feb. 8. — That the girl's disposition has undergone a complete transformation in the ten years he has been her fiance, is the defence entered by John Edward Jackson to a suit for $1,000 for breach of promise filed in the Superior Court here by Eleanora Elizabeth Schilling, now of Seattle.

From a quiet, modest and unassuming girl of "unexalted station," he avers she has developed into a worldly woman with extravagant tastes that would ill comport with his mode of life.

He admits the engagement and says it has been so long he has been enabled to make a thorough study of her nature and he has concluded their marriage would be unwise.

Anniversary Concert By The George Street Sunday School

The anniversary entertainment in the George Street Methodist Church, under the auspices of the Sunday School, last night, was a great success.

There were over eight hundred people present and every one thoroughly enjoyed it. The programme was a lengthy one, but, nevertheless, it was a great success showing how the young people of this city can be trained when they have a person who knows "how" to train them. Miss Doty, of London, Ont., was the the moving spirit among them and great praise is due this talented lady for her untiring zeal in training the young people. This is the second year that the services of Miss Doty have been called into commission, and shows that she can train the youngsters on short notice, as it is barely three weeks since she arrived in town. Praise must also be given Mr. J. S. Knapman and Miss L. Smith for their work in making the concert what it was.

Miss Smith was presented with a large bouquet of flowers by little Miss Ruth Knapman during the interval between the parts of the programme, to show their esteem for the noble work that she has done in their behalf. The accompanists were Miss L. Smith and Mr. Harold Brown, who delighted the audience with their music. The following is the programme:

The Service In Which Every Young Life Should Be Invested

Large Assembly of Young People of the Different Churches of the City at Murray Street Baptist Church—Officers Were Elected.

SERMON OF GOOD ADVICE

Representatives of the Young People's Societies of the various churches of the city gathered at Murray Street Baptist Church last night at a rall which should instal an increased impetus in the young people for the success of their societies and for greater and broader efforts.

The meeting was largely attended and a marked earnestness was manifest throughout. There was a song service at 7.45 o'clock, after which the regular service was commenced.

The occasion was in part the annual meeting of the Young People's Union and the officers for the coming year were elected. Rev. H. J. Keith, the president for 1908, conducted the service and also called for nominations which resulted in the following officers being elected:

Pres.—Rev. J. R. Webb.
Vice-Pres.—Rev. J. G. Potter.
Secretary—Mr. Wilfrid Shiner.
Treasurer—Mr. R. J. Cox.

The Sermon

Rev. F. W. Anderson, M.A., secretary of the Young People's movement for Canada, preached a pithy sermon, dealing with the question of the proper investment of a young life. Every God realized the importance of the future of the young life of a city like this, he said, and it should be guided from the selfish and material paths which eliminate for the time, at least, the thoughts of spiritual welfare. This is an age of investment. Men are striving to find out how their money, their time and their talents may be put to the best advantage for their material prosperity. The whole commercial life of to-day speaks of investment. It is the spirit of giving something in order that a greater return will be obtained in the future. The farmer has a certain acreage of land he must cultivate. He goes to his granary and takes therefrom his supply of seed which he scatters on every side, knowing that with God's blessing a manifold harvest will be obtained.

The selfish spirit of seeking to grasp everything for self is altogether too evident to-day. Jesus Christ has struck at the very root of that miserly disposition in the following words, "He that saveth his life shall lose it, but he that loseth his life for My sake and for the Gospel, the same shall find it." There is not the widespread realization of the fact that man's chief end in life is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever. Life is a sacred burden and it is well for those who are young and strong and vigorous to realize the sacredness of their lives from day to day. There are some people who intend to look after the welfare of their souls, but they prefer to wait until they have attained their worldly ambitions. The idea that should be clearly grasped is not that I have a soul but that I am a soul and I look after my body only so far as it may be a suitable habitation for myself. What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul? This should be the spirit upon which we place our investment. What will it bring to us if we fritter away our lives leaving us unprepared, leaving us without having made a proper investment, and, therefore, without anything to look forward to? The giving of life for God and humanity means the saving of it for time and eternity.

God sacrificed His own son for a purpose and that was that the sacrifice would redeem lives which would be the instruments of blessing in this world. He is waiting to-day to make use of those who have been redeemed and who want to work for Him—a work angels would have delighted to perform, but which was reserved for men. Rev. Mr. Anderson appealed to the young people to seriously consider their duty, and any who felt called to give themselves to Christ to hearken to it and not turn away for worldly ambitions.

The plan for the Hope Morgan Concert in the Conservatory of Music Hall, on Thursday evening of this week, is now open at McDonald's Drug Store. 2d-33

FACTS WERE NOT MISREPRESENTED

Mr. Cunningham Writes in Regard To The Local Option Fight.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—In a recent issue of your paper an anonymous writer makes the statement that canvassers for the submission of the Local Option By-law to a vote of the people, are misrepresenting facts by stating that only bars would be closed and shops continue to sell as usual.

Such a statement would be absurd and in our Saturday issue of Local Option information we pointed out that not only were liquor shops closed, but that in Local Option constituencies the government would not even issue a wholesale license, neither are club licenses permitted in Local Option districts.

The league does not employ paid canvassers and only public spirited men of unquestioned character are engaged in this work.

Public sentiment is so strong for prohibitive measures that a plea of partial restriction would have no weight. As for the "old cry" of the evils of Local Option we refer this "Observer" to observe what the people say where they have tried it and know the facts, and note no place has ever repealed Local Option where it has once been carried by even a bare majority.

The verdict of January 4th, 1910 is the doom of a legalized liquor traffic and a great majority of the citizens of Peterborough are eager for the issue. No half way arguments are required. Please read our regular Saturday information columns in the Examiner.

Yours truly,
A. B. CUNNINGHAM,
Secretary City Temperance and Moral Reform League.
Peterborough, Feb. 9, 1909.

AFFINITY COSTS HUSBAND $500

Wife Prosecutes for Non-Support and Wins Suit—Introduced Another As Wife.

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 9.—An affinity may be permissible for a man with an "artistic temperament," but in the municipal court Judge Kyle decided that for a carpenter it wasn't at all proper. Mrs. Charles Goodman was prosecuting her husband, a foreman carpenter employed by Patrick Morley, a contractor, on a charge of non-support. She said that when she came to Kansas City three months ago her husband told her he could not introduce her to friends as his wife, because he had already introduced another woman as his wife. Mrs. Goodman testified that Goodman desired to bring his "affinity" to their home. Goodman was fined $500.

MARBLES CONFISCATED FROM SMALL BOYS

Boys Thought They Would Take Them, So Did the Police.

Chief Roszel and his men have sixteen glass alleys which were confiscated from two small boys who were apprehended taking them from an up-town store. The proprietor was not present in court, but a lesson was read the youngsters by Magistrate Dumble and now the alleys become the property of the police department. It is but to be guessed at whether the custodians of the peace will take to the game of their boyhood with this supply of fancy marbles. At any rate it is not expected.

ARRANGED TO SUIT THE FARMERS ON SATURDAYS

The Royal Moving Picture Show Will be Kept Open During Dinner and Tea Hours.

The management of the Royal Theatre, recognizing that the farming community are increasing their interest in the moving pictures, has decided to operate this place of amusement on Saturdays with a view to their convenience. On Saturdays the Royal will be kept open continuously; that is, will not be closed at the dinner or supper hour.

'ROUND THE STORES.

Some of the new valentines this year are as pretty and artistic as any Easter or Christmas card. The city stationery stores are well equipped with them, and one store whose assortment is quite large and handsome reports sales for the high class valentines, as quite large valentine novelties, gifts, party prizes, and postal cards are also in good demand this week.

Butter and eggs seem naturally to go together in prices. The best of each can now be had for 28c to 30c. There are grades of butter below the 25c line, which go under the name of "cooking" butter, which might just as well be first class with no more expenditure of time or trouble if the makers knew their business. Routley's Charlotte street grocery has been selling good, fresh eggs and butter below the ruling prices. Read their advertisement.

The belief expressed of a few weeks ago that the price of butter would decline owing to the accumulation of so much, and the somewhat inferior quality of it, has come to be truth. Butter last week was down a couple of cents on account of there being so much of it in the hands of the dealers, as well as in the stores of retail merchants who deal direct with the farmers.

How is it that prunes, dried apricots, peaches and pears are so dear in Peterborough? The average housekeeper has to fall back on many of these dried fruits at this season, and they are excellent as well as wholesome for the family table. The grocers here charge 18c and 20c a pound for a fair sample of dried apricots, while in Toronto a good quality is offered at 12 1-2c.

The fur dealers are lucky in having so much good seasonable weather for their mid-winter reduction sales. Some of the furriers are making their advertising quite effectual, speak of business as being quite active, since the prices have been cut down so fine. Men's coon coats of good clean stock have been selling at McWilliams for $65 and $60, that were formerly marked $75 and $80. Alaska sable stoles can be bought to-day for $17, that were $25 and $27. Reductions like this seem considerable of a sacrifice, especially when it is known that now fur like Alaska sable is advancing, and will be high next season, caused by the growing demand for all soft fluffy furs in the furnish market.

FIRE CHIEF RECEIVES CHEQUE FROM C. P. R

Fire Chief Howard received a cheque to-day from Mr. W. S. Dodd, of the C. P. R., for services rendered by the fire chief at Owen Sound and Peterborough, in connection with C. P. R. wrecks. It will be remembered that at the time of the recent wreck at the foot of Parnell street, Chief Howard and his men turned out and did good work in extinguishing the blaze which sprang up among the wreckage. For this act and his work at Owen Sound he received a letter of thanks from the company, which has been supplemented by the cheque which Chief Howard will devote to the firemen's fund.

MAKES A WILL WITH QUEER PROVISIONS

$150 dollars per year, instead of dower.
Her choice of one room downstairs.
Her choice of two rooms upstairs.
One cow, to be kept and fed by his sons.
Fuel, to be supplied her by sons.
Beds and furniture.
Six hens, kept for her by sons.
A plot of ground for a garden.

The estate is worth $11,360, and the farm is valued at $10,200. The farm property is to be divided between his two sons, Ernest and Wesley Steckley, and one of the conditions of the will is that they shall put a stone wall and a good stable under the barn.

A codicil to the will revokes a provision granting $40 per year as wages to each of the three daughters, Salena Hoover, Emma Hallman, and Emily Steckley, as they had stayed at home and worked on the homestead. This revocation is of no effect, however, for it is signed by only one witness, Isaac Pike. Therefore the two sons will have to pay each of the girls the $40.

GREEN'S PROTEST.

He Made Good Use of the Cigars His Wife Gave Him.

"George," said Mrs. Green as she hurried into the library where he was trimming the Christmas tree, "I have just made a most startling discovery."

"Suppose some other aunt or cousin hasn't been remembered with a four dollar present," he growled.

"I wish it were no worse," sighed his wife. "Here we have just been congratulating ourselves over securing such a perfect hired girl, and now I find I must discharge her."

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Green. "What for?"

"She smokes."

"She—she whats?"

"She smokes—smokes big black cigars—and seems to enjoy them too. I just caught her at it."

"Well, let her smoke," smiled Green, with a sigh of relief. "We won't stand for cigarettes or a corncob pipe, but she's a mighty good cook and ought to have some privileges. Maybe I can borrow a weed from her sometimes when mine run out."

"Never, George, never will I have a girl around here who smokes! Just think of the children."

"Yes, and just think of me hustling around the intelligence offices looking for another girl. Besides, there's that Christmas dinner party tomorrow. You haven't been foolish enough to discharge her, have you?"

"Not yet, but she must go after the dinner. It's perfectly shocking."

"You leave it to me," said Green after a little thought. "Of course we don't want a girl waiting on the table with a cigar in her mouth or one meeting our guests at the front door and blowing smoke in their faces, but I've got a little scheme that will cure her of the habit. I'll guarantee you'll never see her smoking after a day or two."

It was two or three weeks later when Mrs. Green remarked to her husband:

"George, I don't believe the girl has smoked since the day that I told you about it."

"She's stopped it, of course," chuckled Green. "Told you I'd fix it, didn't I?"

"How did you manage it? I'd like to know, George."

"Oh, I just handed her that box of cigars you gave me for Christmas," he replied, with another chuckle.—A. B. Lewis in Bohemian Magazine.

A Confession.

"It is said that you have made a profound study of ethnological subjects."

"I have," answered the professor.

"Then you can satisfactorily explain the strange garments and headresses of the savages."

"I cannot any more than I can satisfactorily explain directoire gowns or 'Merry Widow' hats."—New York Life.

Handicapped.

"My dear, you mustn't yawn like that. The hostess might see you."

"I can't help it. I'm sleepy."

"But you shouldn't show it. Just see that gentleman over there. He looks dreadfully tired, but he doesn't yawn."

"Eh? Why, that's old Fussywig. He can't yawn. He's got insomnia."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Betting Evil.

"Well, Toto, are you sick?"

"No, indeed. It is merely that Bob and I had a wager as to who could eat the most plums. I won!"—Le Rire.

An Awful Pronouncement.

Etta, a kindly if somewhat autocratic old colored woman, is much devoted to her little four-year-old charge and watches over her with the jealous care of the proverbial hen mother.

One day little Katherine, escaping from her vigilant duenna, joined some small neighbors and fled to a vacant lot about two squares from her home, where she enjoyed an hour of freedom and fun.

Poor old Etta, after much excitement and fruitless searching, finally discovered the young miscreant and brought her home, the while lecturing her solemnly upon her evil ways.

"What I done tole you, honey, 'bout runnin' away from home an' ole Etta? Don' you know dere's bad men round in de city jes' a-watchin' out fo' little girls like you an' a-waitin' to tek an' carry dem off? An' what'll yo' po' father an' mother do if yeh gets cat-

Early Shoppers Secure Biggest Savings and the Best Choice

Thursday, February 11th to Saturday February 27th

February launches us into another business year and we have developed plans to make 1909 the biggest and best both for you and for ourselves. Last year, as you know, manufacturers found orders hard to get and were willing to book them regardless of profit to keep the wheels moving. We had faith in the future and placed many liberal orders at prices that will enable us to offer them to our customers at less than those merchants who hesitated can buy them at to-day.

The first of these lots we will offer in a Gigantic Sale of Underbought Homefurnishings, commencing Thursday, February 11th.

Charles Mitchell, Postman, Will Spend Three Years In Kingston Penitentiary

Appeared Before His Honour Judge Weller This Morning on Charges of Stealing From Mails—Two Terms Will Run Concurrently.

WIFE AND CHILD PRESENT.

On the charge of having stolen three dollars from each of two post letters, the property of the Postmaster General, Charles Mitchell was this morning sentenced to three years in the penitentiary at Kingston, by His Honour Judge Weller. On the charge of stealing from the mails a quantity of jewelry, the property of Mr. J. F. Perkins, he was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. These two terms are to run concurrently and Mitchell will, therefore, spend but a term of three years, the minimum penalty for this crime.

The court room at the Court House was thronged with a gathering of men who have been following the case since Mitchell, who was a postman on a walk in the south end of the city, was arrested on Wednesday, February 3rd, charged with the criminal offence of stealing money from the mails. Practically every seat in the room was occupied and silence feigned throughout except during the early part of the proceedings when the prisoner's little child of two or three years innocently laughed in glee as she pointed at her father in the box, and gurgled "Pa, pa." After a time the little one became restless and her smiles changed to whimpers. His Honour asked the mother to kindly take the little one to an adjoining room, as the proceedings were being interrupted.

Took Sentence Coolly

The prisoner Mitchell took an interest in all the proceedings and even to the close manifested but slight signs of what he may have felt in his innermost thoughts. He received the sentence almost in a matter of fact manner and left the room as calmly as he entered. He was represented by Mr. F. D. Kerr, while Mr. R. E. Wood conducted the prosecution. The latter stated that he had seen fit to change the charge as follows:

Of having unlawfully stolen two post letters, each containing three dollars, contrary to the criminal code, of having stolen six dollars, the property of the Postmaster General, of having stolen three dollars from a letter addressed to Mrs. A. Head, and of having stolen three dollars from a letter addressed to Mrs. Robert Martin.

The prisoner pleaded not guilty and elected to be tried by His Honour Judge Weller.

The Evidence

Mr Merrick, Postoffice Inspector, was first called.

He stated that his first trip to Peterborough was made on January 13, when he came here to investigate the losses of letters of which numerous complaints had been made. Many had been reported from Mitchell's walk and a week ago witness again came to Peterborough and placed two decoy letters in the post office to be delivered on Mitchell's walk, or route. One of them was for Mrs. Arthur Head, 257 Bethune street. It was stamped in the regular way and given to Postmaster Rogers, who placed them with the other letters for distribution. It contained three dollars in Canadian bills. The other was addressed to Mrs. Robt. Martin, 255 Dalhousie street, and contained three United States one dollar silver certificates. It was date-stamped at Rochester.

Later in the day witness went to Mitchell's house with Chief Roszel. He denied the charges which witness made and on account of the latter's request he was arrested by Chief Roszel. The letters were found, opened, in his mail bag and the money had been extracted.

To Mr. Kerr witness said he got the second letter stamped in Rochester by sending it to the postmaster there. It was not addressed to anyone, but was enclosed in another letter Mrs. Martin's name and address was written on it. The money was placed in it in the local office in Postmaster Rogers' presence.

The stamps on both letters were properly post-marked when put in the local office.

The Post Master

Postmaster Rogers having been sworn, stated.—Mr. Merrick read each of the two decoy letters and I witnessed him putting the bills in them, as stated. I took them into the office and put them in Mitchell's pigeon hole. I saw him take them out later and arranged them for delivery. I went down to Mrs. Head's house and told her she might get a letter and asked her to hold it for me. I told the same to Mrs. Martin and with her permission I remained in the latter house. Mitchell came along an hour later, but did not deliver either of the letters. He did not call at either residences. I proceeded to the Chief's office and reported to Mr. Merrick that the letters had not been delivered.

Mr. Kerr stated in the prisoner's behalf that the whole point was whether this was a regular postal letter. He contended that it was not a post letter under the meaning of the act. He cited authorities to support his contention. The potency of the stamps on the two decoys in this case was done. There was a theft of some kind, whether it came under the Postal Act or not. The question as to which it was would have to be settled by His Honour the Judge.

Mr. R. E. Wood stated that any letter placed in the post office was a post letter. In this case the cancellation of the stamp was done by a post office official. On the whole case he claimed that there was no question open as to whether this was a post letter or not.

On the second charge of stealing from his mail bag the parcel of jewellery which belonged to Mr. A. F. Perkins, 248 King street, prisoner pleaded guilty.

The Judge found Mitchell guilty on the first charge, stating that it was quite manifest that the prisoner took the money, and that the letter was a post letter in the true meaning of the act.

His Honour proceeded to deliver judgment.

Mr. Kerr, speaking for the prisoner, asked that the sentence be as mild as the statute would allow, having regard for the fact that the prisoner had a wife and small child.

His Honour stated that the prisoner had known full well that he was doing wrong, although he might not have realized the serious nature of his offence. He had evidently taken advantage of his position of trust to steal money or jewellery, or whatever he could lay his hands on; with the idea that he would not be found out. But every man in the country was interested in a case of this kind, as they all depend upon the letter carriers for their regular and safe delivery of the mail. It was no pleasure to send a young man to the penitentiary but the minimum term was three years. As to the wife and child, the prisoner had not thought of them when he opened the letters. His Honour concluded by saying that he would take into consideration every circumstance and make the sentence the minimum, but should anyone ever appear before him on the same charge, after this warning, there would be no minimum sentence given.

The term of three years covers the entire charges. All of the first were united into one and the sentence in the second runs concurrently as stated above.

BOY THRUSTS RED HOT POKER THROUGH FENCE CRACK SEARING EYE OF CHILD WHO WAS PEEKING

Boys Were Playing Games in a Shack and Little Girl Was Told to go Away—Explanation by the Boy Who it is Claimed Did the Deed.

WARRANT FOR HIS ARREST.

Montreal, Feb. 9. — A red hot pointed poker thrust through a crack in the wall of a small wooden shack in Point St. Charles, may result in the loss of an eye to the little Hazel Veary, the 7 year old daughter of Mr. Thomas Veary of the Water Department, City Hall.

On Saturday afternoon the rain made skating impossible on the little rink at the back of the victim's home, 41 Rosel street, so the boys to the number of five gathered in a small wooden shack which breaks the gap in the fence between the two properties, and there in the warmth of a small stove played games.

Little Hazel was curious as to what was going forward in the shack and peeped through a wide crack. The boys say they told her to stop.

One of the youngsters, aged 10 years, said he would stop her peeping, and when the unsuspecting child looked again the red hot poker was thrust through the opening into her right eye, piercing the lower lid.

The mark of the brand is distinctly visible on the wordwork, which shows the course of the iron in its vicious upward thrust.

As soon as the wound was inflicted the child ran screaming into the kitchen to her parents, who at first thought the injury had been done with a pointed stick, but Mr. Veary communicated with Dr. Leslie Allan, near by, and together they took the child to Dr. Tooke, Mountain street, who deemed it advisable that she be removed to the Royal Victoria Hospital, where she now is.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Joseph Bondoux, living on Coleraine street, who, the other boys say, did the deed. Bondoux says that they were fooling with the red hot poker, and that one of his companions threatened to burn him with it, and when snatching it away it flew from his hand into the crack in the wall.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED BY THE STONY LAKE COTTAGERS

Annual Meeting Held in Toronto Yesterday—Will Oppose the Extension of Time Asked for by the Radial Railway Company.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

The annual meeting of the Stony Lake Cottagers' Association, Limited, was held on Tuesday, Feb. 9th, at the Confederation Life Building.

A dividend of five per cent. on the paid up stock was declared and the directors reported that a number of improvements including a new wharf had been completed at the Juniper Island headquarters. It is proposed this spring to make important additions and improvements to the pavilion and grounds and to carry out a programme with regard to entertainments, Sunday services, etc., that will make the sojourn of the Stony Lakers this summer much more enjoyable.

A resolution regarding needed improvements of wharfage at Lakefield to permit trains to land passengers at the boats was passed.

A resolution was also passed requesting the directors to oppose on behalf of the Association any extension of the charter of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, unless definite assurance were given of an immediate effort to construct the line between Peterborough and Stony Lake.

The Officers and Board were re-elected as follows:

President—Jas. Acton, Toronto.
Vice-Pres.—S Henderson, Toronto.
Sec-Treas.—H Sutherland, Toronto.

Directors (in addition to officers)—Hon. J R Stratton, R Neill, Wm. Irwin, Peterborough; E S Piper, Toronto; F Addison, Toronto; A L Davis, Toronto and J Nugent, Peterborough.

Would Like To See A Strong Board Of Trade In The City

In the opinion of one of the members of the Board of Trade, the citizens of Peterborough do not take sufficient interest in that body or its activities. Many Ontario towns have large meetings of this Board, and the strength it thus acquires gives it a prominent standing and makes it an influence in the city. Last night there was not a large enough attendance to form a quorum and the expected meeting did not materialize. This member believed that a vigorous board would be a good thing for the city and he would like to see something done to rejuvenate the Board and make it healthy and strong.

DANIEL RYAN NEXT WEEK

Opens Week's Engagement in High-Class Repertoire at Grand.

Daniel Ryan and associate players open a week's engagement at the Grand next Monday with "A Royal Lover" as the offering. During this week he will be seen as John the Baptist in Salome, Shylock in "The Merchant of Venice"; Mathias in "The Bells."

Many Shylocks have been given to the American stage for years, but none have met with more universally favourable comment than the Shylock of Mr. Daniel Ryan, who is to appear at the Grand during the next week. His characterization of the money-lending Jew is strikingly original and intensely dramatic.

Much of the conventionalities of the stage business of other Shylocks are completely ignored by Mr. Ryan and replaced with telling effect by a straight-from-the-shoulder method that drive home to the auditor the real meaning of the author's lines and his intended characterization of the vengeful Jew.

No one should miss seeing Mr. Ryan as Shylock, as his performance graces the intellectual contemporary stage.

REQUESTS TO CHARITY BOARD

Members Discuss Methods to Curtail Demands Made on City.

The financial condition and the demands for assistance were discussed at length last night by members of the Charity Board at their regular meeting. The requests for aid are too numerous to suit the members and they considered ideas which would relieve the distress and cut down the call that is made upon the city by those who are out of work. Something will likely be done to meet the question in some satisfactory manner.

WHY HIS BUSINESS DID NOT GROW

He did not know how to advertise.

He did not keep up with the times.

He tried to do everything himself.

He strangled his progress by cheeseparing economy.

He never learned that it is the liberal policy that wins in business building.

He thought he could save the money which his competitors spent for advertising.

He was pessimistic, and all his employees caught the contagion, making the whole atmosphere of his establishment depressing.

PRAISE FROM SIR HIBBERT.

Praise or approval from Sir Hibbert for the Grand Trunk Pacific is significant. Sir Hibbert Tupper, on his arrival in Canada from England the other day, made this interesting statement:

"I do not think that Sir John Macdonald himself could have beaten Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the last election, taking all the circumstances into consideration and taking particularly the National Transcontinental railway, and the Grand Trunk Pacific and the part the people think they will play, and I think rightly, in the development of the country."

Sir Hibbert comes from the West where the need of increased transportation becomes practically an individual and personal matter. Yet we have weak-kneed, and short-sighted politicians in Peterborough, who scoff at the idea of another Transcontinental railway. We have felt the need of transportation facilities since Confederation and we have met the need by an expenditure to provide them never surpassed by any nation of our population and resources. In this respect we have won the approval of so great an influence as the London Times. And now we have the approval of Sir Hibbert Tupper of the Transcontinental, which adds to the discomfiture of the Little Canadians, administered by the electorate in the strong endorsement of the Laurier Government's policy in regard to providing means to make it easy as well as in posse, "The Granary of the Empire."

A CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION.

The London Advertiser thus delivers itself upon the proposal to hold a Dominion Conservative Convention:

The Ottawa Opposition favours the calling of a Conservative convention, representative of the whole Dominion. It is hoped that such a gathering, by bringing leading Conservatives from all the provinces into personal touch, would spur the energies of the party. The chief work of the convention would be the framing of a new policy or the revamping of the Halifax platform, which in its present form has proved too unsubstantial for practical politics. It was evolved out of Mr. Borden's inner consciousness and at first sight it appeared to have some radical features. Even Mr. Maclean was inclined to jubilate over the public ownership plank—but not for long. Mr. Borden's public ownership views, as he went through the country expounding and interpreting his self-made policy, began to resemble the cloud in Hamlet—almost in shape like a camel, and then again backed like a weasel, and very like a whale. The nationalization of telegraphs and telephones, which he put forward with a string to it, is heard of no more. Upon the tariff question the language of Mr. Borden and his followers is equally shadowy. The mention of the Halifax platform calls up no definite idea in the public mind, certainly no principle to fight over. The Government has spiked some of the Opposition guns by a measure of civil service reform, by inaugurating rural mail delivery, and by placing the railways, telegraph, telephone and express companies under the control of the railway commission. A progressive administration has almost cleared the field of disputed issues. The Opposition is hard put to it to find a bone of contention. Perhaps a convention, with its multitude of counsellors, will furnish something that will make a noise like a real party policy.

TECHNICAL EDUCATION IN ONTARIO.

The London Advertiser has the following on this important subject:

The Minister of Education, Dr. Pyne, announced a new policy at a little gathering of party friends around a dinner table at a Toronto cafe Monday night. A public meeting or a sitting of the Legislature would have been a more appropriate occasion, but the minister is no stickler for etiquette, in speech or otherwise. He promised that his department would establish technical schools, or continuation class schools where boys and girls over the age limit, who were employed during the day, might continue their education at night.

The greater part of Dr. Pyne's speech was an attack upon the Ottawa Government for not finding the money for technical education. Having recently and voluntarily increased its subsidies to all the provinces, the Federal Government may well regard as unreasonable a request from them for more money for a system over which it would have no control.

The administration at Toronto has had a full treasury, due in part to the federal bounty, and it cannot shirk its duty to deal with a matter over which the B.N.A. act gives it jurisdiction. Dr. Pyne admits that each province should formulate its own scheme of technical education, as technical schools must be adapted to the peculiar needs and conditions of each province. He would merely allow the Dominion Government to contribute to the cost. It is, of course, much pleasanter and easier for Governments to spend money than to find it.

Ontario is the premier manufacturing province of Canada. It should be in advance of the others in the provision for industrial training, but it cannot claim this distinction. Compared with some countries of Europe, and some states of the Union, it is deplorably behind the times. The Government is to be commended for making a start, however belated. Confidence in the progressiveness of the education department had been rudely shaken by recent events.

Premier Whitney complains of Canada's lack of practical loyalty to the British Empire. The London Advertiser invites the opponents of the British preference, who are mostly in Mr. Whitney's party camp, to put that in their pipes and smoke it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

A recent bulletin issued by the census department at Ottawa treats of Canadian farm values. It places the average per acre for the whole of the Dominion at $35.70. Ontario stands second in the list, being considerably below British Columbia, while only three provinces rank above the average, as will be seen from the following table:

British Columbia	$76.10
Ontario	47.30
Quebec	41.90
Prince Edward Island	33.70
Manitoba	27.30
Nova Scotia	25.00
New Brunswick	21.40
Saskatchewan	20.40
Alberta	18.20

The average in the case of British Columbia is held up by the comparatively small extent of agricultural lands which the province possesses, and the prominence given to fruit-raising.

THE HOME LIFE ASSOCIATION.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found the satisfactory annual report of the Home Life Association of Canada, presented at the annual meeting held in the Home Life Building, corner Adelaide and Victoria streets, Tuesday, February 9th, 1909. The report was a companion one to that of last year, in that it showed a pleasant surplus, the second in its history, and both achieved under its new administrative authorities.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, president of the association, submitted the annual financial statement and a statement of assets and liabilities. The improvement of the assets, especially in view of the untoward conditions in financial activities last year, was very gratifying, the increase in first mortgages on real estate being $57,071.90. The assets, which total in round numbers, $981,000, are all of a satisfactory character. The net ledger assets show an increase of $118,523.15 over last year. The payments to policyholders show a substantial decrease, and satisfactory conditions are reflected in the decrease in the amount of cash surrenders. The excellent interest-earning capacity of the association's investments, showing an increased revenue of $8,138.45 over that of last year, is emphasized by the fact that, if last year's excess of such earnings, $12,791.03, over death claims is approximately maintained, the returns from investments will serve to meet accruing claims of this kind. The excellent nature of the Home Life Building account is shown by the fact that the net income from rentals is nearly double that of 1905. The legal reserves show an increase in this year's statement of more than $100,000.

In short, the report and statements show the affairs of the Home Life Association to be in a highly satisfactory and healthy condition, which, with a continuance of the careful administration that now obtains, promises to be maintained.—Toronto World.

Dear Sir—There is a saying "that music hath charms to sooth the savage beast" but there are some kind of these creatures if they lived where I do and had to listen from one week's end to another, to pupils receiving lessons and then to all hours of the night to people trying to raise the roof of the top of their heads, they would come to the conclusion that the old saw was not correct but that it should read "Music maketh the man mad and the heart crazy." It does not matter whether a man is dying or a woman is sick, this kind of work is "their business."

GIRLS WHO WORK

Girls who work for their living are especially exposed to the dangers of organic feminine disorders. Standing all day, or sitting in cramped positions; walking to and from their places of employment in bad weather all tend to break down their delicate feminine organism.

No class of women are in need of greater assistance, and thousands of letters like the following demonstrate the fact that restores the feminine system to a strong, healthy, normal condition.

Miss Abby F. Barrows, of Nelsonville, Ohio, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was very sick, had dull headaches, pain in my back, and a feminine weakness. I had been to several doctors and they did me no good. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me well and strong, and I can do most any kind of work. I am in better health than I ever was, and it is all due to your medicine."

Miss Lillian Ross, of 530 E. 84th St., New York, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I had a female trouble, nervous headaches, and was tired all the time, and could not sleep. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made me feel so much better that I hope every woman who suffers as I did will try it."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for feminine ills, and has positively cured thousands of women. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice.

COLEMAN'S

WELCOME AT BERLIN WAS ENTHUSIASTIC

King and Queen Are Warmly Greeted by the Kaiser.

UNEMPLOYED START RIOT

Demonstration to Mar Meeting of Monarchs Is Quelled by Police and Many Are Wounded by Sabres of Soldiers—Addresses of King and Emperor Bespeak Warmest Relations Between Countries.

Berlin, Feb. 10.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra received a hearty welcome from the Emperor and the German people yesterday.

The principal interest in the first day of the British monarch centred in the speeches of the Emperor and the King, when proposing healths during the course of the gala banquet at the imperial palace last evening. The utterances of both were of the most cordial nature, each emphasising the peaceful sentiments and the close relationship of the two nations.

The Emperor, speaking in German, said:

"Your Majesty may be assured with me that my capital and the whole German empire see in your presence a token of friendly feelings and sentiments which induce Your Majesties to pay this visit. The German people greet the ruler of the mighty British world empire with the respect due him and perceives in his visit a new pledge of future peaceful and friendly development in the relations between our two countries.

"I know how much our wishes for the preservation and the strengthening of peace are in accordance, and can offer no better welcome than an expression of the firm conviction that Your Majesty's visit may contribute to the realization of these, our wishes. In giving voice to the hope that the vast empire over which Your Majesty rules may continue to prosper and flourish, I pledge this glass to the health of Your Majesty and the Queen."

King Edward replied in German, saying in part:

"With regard to the aim and desired result of my visit, Your Majesty has given eloquent expression to my own feelings, and I can therefore only repeat that our mission is of the purpose not only of recalling before the world the close ties of relationship between our two houses, but also aims at strengthening the friendly relations between our countries, and thus at the preservation of a general peace, towards all my efforts are directed."

The dinner was a brilliant spectacle. King Edward sat between the Emperor and Empress, with Queen Alexandra at the Emperor's left. All the imperial princes were present. Prince Von Buelow, the Imperial Chancellor, was seated opposite Their Majesties, surrounded by the British suite and the German Ministers. The table was strewn with red, white and blue flowers and the dinner service was of gold. The Emperor wore the uniform of the British Royal Dragoons, while the King was attired as a Prussian general. The Empress appeared in white and the Queen in black.

After the dinner Their Majesties held a reception and the Emperor bestowed decorations on the members of the King's suite and the British embassy.

The special train bearing Their Majesties arrived at the Lelater Railroad station at 11 o'clock. There had assembled to meet the King Emperor William and a large number of court officials.

These exchanges over, the procession for the march to the palace was at once formed.

The route of march to the palace was line with large crowds that had been waiting for at least two hours. The weather was cold and nipping.

Within the Brandenburg gate the mayor, Herr Kirschner, and the aldermen of Berlin, welcomed the visiting royalties.

A demonstration by the unemployed of the German capital planned to coincide with the arrival of the visiting monarch was only partially successful. A number of meetings of the unemployed were held in various parts of the city, after which those present formed in two processions and started to march to the palace, whither King Edward had been escorted by Emperor William, and the town hall. Their progress was intercepted, and the police attacked it with drawn sabres. A number sustained sabre wounds and others were arrested.

Out of Work, Suicides.

Toronto, Feb. 10.—Worrying because he had been out of work for nearly a year Arthur Folkes, 130 Peter street, went to the northwest section of the city in search of employment and, being still unsuccessful, last night he put a bullet in his head.

Folkes was 32 years of age. He was born in England. He leaves a wife and two children in destitute circumstances.

Woman Deported.

New Westminster, B.C., Feb. 10.—Amy Morris, who came here recently from San Francisco, with the intention of marrying Lee Barker, Chinese merchant of Victoria, was deported yesterday as undesirable.

THE CAMERA CLUB HAD FINE MEETING

Mr. N. A. Howard Moore Gave a Demonstration to the Members.

The Camera Club's meeting last night was well attended and considerable business was transacted. A sleigh drive is being arranged for next Tuesday evening to Warsaw, where those who go will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Deslisle. It was decided to hold an exhibition April 25 to 30th open to all Canadian Clubs and Rochester and Buffalo. Entries to close April 16th. If sufficient encouragement can be secured a special class will be formed of all amateurs in county of Peterborough, open to all amateurs who do all their own work. The details will be worked out later. The demonstration on Pyrogallic acid and Rytol developers from Tabloid chemicals manufactured by Messrs Burroughs, Wellcome & Co. of Montreal, was a most interesting feature of the evening's programme. Mr. N. A. Howard-Moore the indefatigable secretary-treasurer, handled this item in an able manner and showed how Pyro for general purposes both for amateurs and professional photographers was the most generally used and an old and reliable developing agency giving the very best results when handled right. Rytol is a developer which gives good results for the amateur and is considerably cleaner than Pyro. It gives a sharp, crisp negative with lots of detail and is also as cheap as any, which is a consideration for a good many amateurs. Mr. Howard-Moore developed several plates which the members had brought, so as to show that any plates can be made good by properly handling the developing agents, and the plate can be made good in many cases when not properly timed in the exposure.

Tabloid chemicals reduces the amount of dark room machinery to a minimum, and do away with scales, weights, bottles of solution made up ready for use. The tablets can be dissolved in a few minutes ready for use. The demonstrator showed us by making up his solutions there at the time, and just 3 minutes after the tablets were removed from the bottles, the solutions were ready for use.

The club passed a vote of thanks to the manufacturers for their generous treatment of the club and its members in giving them an opportunity of seeing their chemicals put into use.

The annual meeting of the Knox Presbyterian Church will be held to-night at eight o'clock, when the reports from the different church bodies for the year will be received. Mr. Fred Roy, of the Roy Studio, who recently returned from a visit to a number of the large cities of the United States, is introducing a number of new ideas and up-to-date improvements to the operating rooms at 140 1-2 Hunter street. During his stay in some of the American cities, which was chiefly on the look-out nature, several new features worthy of adopting were noted. Considerable expense has been incurred in the painting of a new set of backgrounds in new scenic effects from special designs furnished by the Roy Studio, which will contribute additional merit to the high-class character of Roy's photography.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—The report of the Medical Officer of Health published last night is interesting; and of course the usual reference is made to the slums of some other country. Why not look around? The death rate from consumption is greater in Canada because of insanitary conditions, too long hours of work and insufficient food—the best being sent to the slums of Britain. Of course this is a new country. By the way, one would think it is a sin to die after reading the trust by which the public are "gulled."

Yours truly,

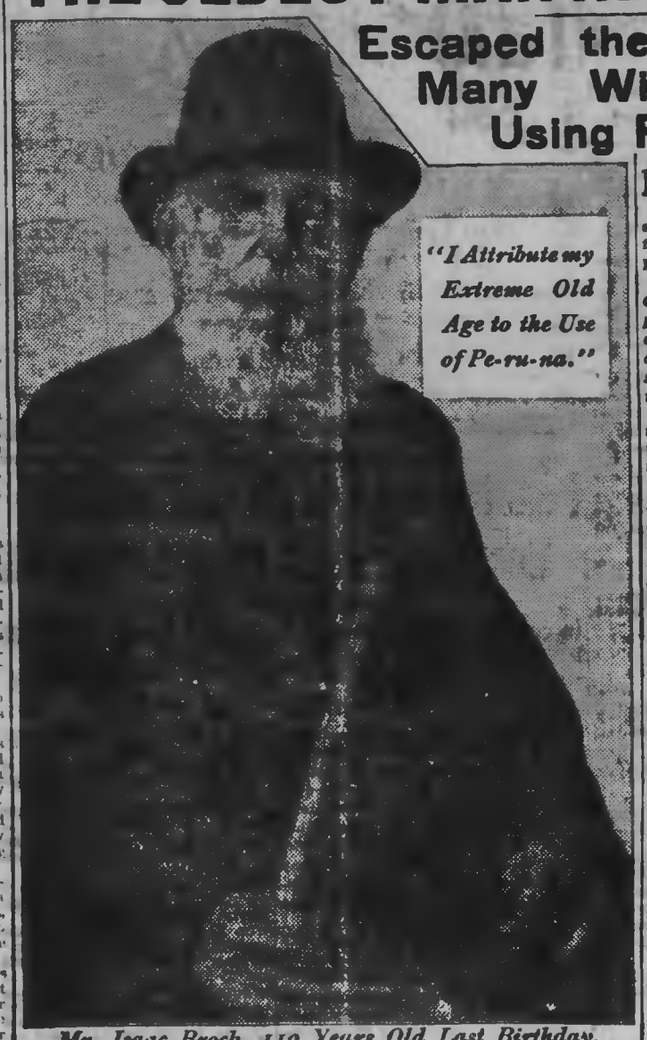
THE OLDEST MAN IN AMERICA

Escaped the Terrors of Many Winters By Using Pe-ru-na.



"I Attribute my Extreme Old Age to the Use of Pe-ru-na."

Mr. Isaac Brock, 119 Years Old Last Birthday.

ISAAC BROCK, a citizen of McLennan county, Texas, has lived for 119 years.

For many years he resided at Bosque Falls, eighteen miles west of Waco, but now lives with his son-in-law at Valley Mills, Texas.

Some time ago, by request, Uncle Isaac came to Waco and sat for his picture, holding in his hand a stick cut from the grave of General Andrew Jackson.

His family Bible is still preserved, and it shows that the date of his birth was written 119 years ago.

Born before the United States were formed.
Saw 22 presidents elected.
Pe-ru-na has protected him from all sudden changes.
Veteran of four wars.
Shod a horse when 99 years old.
Always conquered the grip with Pe-ru-na.
Witness in a land suit at the age of 110 years.
Believes Pe-ru-na the greatest remedy of the age for catarrhal troubles.

IN speaking of his good health and extreme old age, Mr. Brock says:

"After a man has lived in the world as long as I have, he ought to have found out a great many things by experience. I think I have done so.

"One of the things I have found out to my entire satisfaction is the proper thing for ailments that are due directly to the effects of the climate. For 119 years I have withstood the changeable climate of the United States.

"I have always been a very healthy man, but, of course, subject to the affections which are due to sudden changes in the climate and temperature.

"As for Dr. Hartman's remedy, Pe-ru-na, I have found it to be the best, if not the only reliable remedy for these affections. It has been my standby for many years, and I attribute my good health and extreme old age to this remedy.

"It exactly meets all my requirements. It protects me from the evil effects of sudden changes; it gives me strength; it keeps my blood in good circulation. I have come to rely upon it almost entirely for the many little things for which I need medicine.

"When epidemics of la grippe first began to make their appearance in this country I was a sufferer from this disease.

"I had several long sieges with the grip. At first I did not know that Pe-ru-na was a remedy for this disease. When I heard that la grippe was epidemic catarrh I tried Pe-ru-na for la grippe and found it to be just the thing."

In a later letter, Mr. Brock writes:

"I am well and feeling as well as I have for years. I would not be without Peruna."

Yours truly,
Isaac Brock.

A letter dated July 3, 1906, written for Mr. Brock by his wife, Sarah J. Brock, states:

"Last winter I had just gotten up out of a spell of sickness, when I commenced taking Peruna. I think it improved my health very much."

In a postscript, Mrs. Brock adds: "He receives a great many letters inquiring about what Peruna will do. I do not answer them all, as I think they can get a bottle and try it."

ANNUAL MEETING
—OF—
THE HOME LIFE ASSOCIATION OF CANADA

The Annual Meeting of the Home Life Association of Canada was held at the office of the Association, corner Victoria and Adelaide Streets, Toronto, on Tuesday, February 9th, 1909.

There was a good attendance of the Shareholders and Policyholders.

The President, Hon. J. R. Stratton, occupied the chair, and Mr. A. J. Walker, Secretary of the Association, acted as Secretary of the meeting.

The statement submitted by the Directors showed that the total net ledger assets at the close of the year amounted to $928,079.29, being an increase of $118,523.15 over the figures of last year.

The assets of the Association total $981,053.13. Thirty-five per cent. of this is represented by first mortgages, which, in turn, represent $323,887.19. The debentures, bonds and stocks amount to 25 per cent., $185,230.13; loans on policies, $146,186.11, amount to 16 per cent. of the total; cash in bank, $126,268.86, 7 per cent.; Home Life Building, $145,000, 16 per cent. The balance of the percentage to make 100 is represented by outstanding or deferred premiums and agents' balances. It is to be seen that the investments are not of a speculative character.

The cash premium income for the year amounted to $199,789.12, an advance over the amount of 1907.

Interest earnings for the year 1908 amounted to $46,761.48, being 21 per cent. over the previous year.

The legal reserve on policies issued, provided for on the stringent Government basis of valuation, total $819,990.31, an increase of more than $100,000 over the figures of 1907.

The total assets for the protection of Policyholders now amount to $1,752,461.61.

The interest earnings of the Association, $46,761.48, are now $12,791.63 in excess of the amount required to satisfy the liabilities arising from policies becoming claims.

The decrease in the amounts of payments in respect of cash surrenders was noted with satisfaction; and there was a gratifying lessening in lapses of policies.

The payments to Policyholders during the year amounted to $54,680.60; death claims comprised $33,964.95; matured endowments and cash surrenders totalled $20,715.15.

The total insurance in force at the close of the year was $5,548,258.00, under 4,408 policies.

The reduction in expenses of management and the satisfactory surplus are regarded as two features of a gratifying character.

The annual statement of assets and liabilities was satisfactory to Shareholders, and, taken in connection with the other satisfactory aspects of the report, were considered evidences of general improvement in the condition and interests of the Association.

Taking this into account, and also the good results of last year, and in addition, having regard to what has been accomplished under the present Board, there is shown conservative and competent administration of the affairs of the Association. With this assured, and in view of the present satisfactory state of its affairs, a continuation of prosperity may be anticipated with confidence.

After remarks expressing congratulation and explanation by the President, Vice-Presidents, General Manager and Shareholders, the report was adopted unanimously.

A JEALOUS EAGLE ATTACKS FAST TRAIN

While French Express Speeds on Bird Fights Conductor But is Captured.

Paris, Feb. 6. — While the Cote d'Azur (Riviera) express train was running at full speed, its conductor, Lecourt had a fierce fight with a ferocious eagle.

The train was whizzing between Chalons and Fontaines, when the huge eagle swooped down from the sky as if curious or jealous of the train's speed. The king of birds not only kept pace with the express but flew around it as if trying to determine how best to halt a rival so formidable. Suddenly it decided to attack an object furnished to it, a man — Lecourt.

With a blow of its beak the eagle smashed the window of the small compartment in which the conductor sat studying the signals along the line. It flew at Lecourt, attacking him savagely with beak and talons.

The train sped on, for the infuriated bird kept the man so busy defending himself that he could not reach the cord to the alarm gong on the engine. At last Lecourt felled the eagle and stunned it with a blow from a stout stick then bound it securely.

He is very proud of his captive, whose outstretched wings measure more than six feet from tip to tip.

FLYING MEN ARE CALLED NUISANCES

Paris League Formed to "Abate" Them —Puts Them in Class of Possible Culprits.

Paris, Feb. 6. — Although aeroplane travel is still in its infancy its probabilities have already led to the formation in this city of a league to combat aeroplane nuisances. The founders of the association give the following reasons for their initiative, some of which are being made the subject of humorous comment by such writers as Clement Vautel, of the Matin:

The founders of the league say:

"Aeroplanes will destroy the crops in the fields in which they alight."

"They will terrify the birds and in a short time swallows and nightingales will have disappeared from this country."

"Aeroplanists will destroy everything they encounter — telegraph wires, stained glass windows, chimneys.

"Aeroplanes will cause a great increase of crime. With their aid burglars will enter houses at night through the upper windows, secure the valuables and leave as they came."

The league considers aeroplanes so dangerous to the community that every owner of a aeroplane should be regarded as a "possible culprit," and be subject to permanent police supervision.

In his remarks about the league Clement Vautel compares the mentality of its founders to that of the member of the French House of Peers who opposed the introduction of railways on the ground that locomotives would kill poultry, and consequently cause great damage to the rural population.

Peterborough Is To Remain The Headquarters Of Work Among Girls

Interesting Interview With Mr. Alf. B. Owen in Regard to the Barnardo Institutions---The New Addition to the Margaret Cox Home.

The Toronto Globe publishes an extended interview with Alfred B. Owen, manager of Dr. Barnardo's homes in Canada. The interview contains much of interest to Western Canada. Asked as to the present position of the Barnardo work, Mr. Owen replied: "We have had a very satisfactory season, and the prospects for the new year are all that we could desire."

"Do you still find the same demand for boys and girls in Canada?"

"Taking one season with another the demand shows a steady increase."

"Where do you chiefly place your boys and girls?"

"Entirely in the country among the farmers except older girls for domestic service. They are not wanted in the cities and towns, and we do not want the cities and towns for them. On the farms their help is needed and valued, and they grow up under healthy and natural conditions. They are not mere hirelings on the farms, but in the majority of cases our children share the family life and privileges of the home."

"Do many of the boys drift into the cities?"

"Not in any considerable number. There are, of course, lads and young men who have tastes and ambitions for something other than farm work, and we have old Barnardo boys occupying positions in almost every calling, trade and profession."

"Many scores of them take up land in the northwest; indeed it would be a very striking testimony to the value of our work if we should produce a map of the western provinces, showing the lands occupied and cultivated by old Barnardo boys."

"I understand that you have a system of boarding out the younger children?"

"We have, and a most useful and successful development of our work it has proved. We bring out every year some hundreds of children from six to ten years of age. These children are boarded in farm households, a payment, generally of $5 a month, being made to those receiving them, on the understanding that the children are sent to school without intermission."

"What number of boys and girls have you actually placed out in Canada up to the present time?"

"The figures stand at 20,197 up to the close of the present immigration season."

"Previous to the recent general election we made an estimate of the number of boys qualified to exercise the franchise and there are, roughly, about 5,000."

"Peterborough is still the headquarters of our girls' work, and is likely to remain so. Senator Cox, who has been for so many years a most generous supporter of Dr. Barnardo's enterprise, is now building for us a magnificent addition to the original building at Peterborough, and improving and refitting the original premises. When completed it will be, thanks to the munificence of Senator Cox, one of the most complete and well equipped institutions of the kind in the country."

"What assistance does your work receive from the government?"

"The capitation grant of two dollars a head upon children who have not been inmates of pauper institutions and have passed satisfactory inspections. This grant has been given for many years past, ever since, in fact, the system of free transportation and free meals for emigrants was abolished some twenty years ago. This is all the aid given by the government towards the bringing over of healthy, carefully picked, carefully trained children. The capitation grant for the present year will amount to about seventeen hundred and eighty dollars. This is rather less than the average weekly cost of the upkeep of our various homes in Canada and the maintenance of the children who boarded out. In other words, the Canadian government support the work for one week in the year, while its support for the remaining 51 weeks means the expenditure in Canada of something like a hundred thousand dollars of English money."

"How has the general work of the homes been progressing in England since Dr. Barnardo's death?"

"The whole organization has been wonderfully maintained. Following upon the doctor's death there was an immense outpouring of liberality, inspired in a great measure by Her Majesty the Queen, and so far we have seen no signs of any reaction. At the present time the homes are supporting over 8,000 children, and both the income and the volume of work accomplished is larger than at any previous period in the history of the institutions."

The Examiner Gains 115 Additional New Subscribers

Result of the First Week's Scoring in The Examiner Newsboys' Competition.

The first week of the Examiner's Newsboys' Competition has been productive of the most satisfactory and encouraging results. The total number of new subscribers added to the Examiner's list at the close of last Saturday's selling was 115.

The regular newsboys, as well as the large roll of new beginners, made good use of their spare time and were well repaid for their trouble. Here's how some of the brightest hustlers made money selling the Examiner:

Johnny Bennett, with 23 new subscribers, was the first boy to win the weekly prize of $2.00. This amount added to the profit which he made on 46 customers, $1.84, gave him a total profit of $3.84, for the week.

Young Hilliard was the next nearest kid to the winner of the weekly prize, he having made a gain of 21 new subscribers during the week. For this good work he was rewarded with an extra prize of $1.00, although no second prize was promised.

Young Portsmouth, also, was another good hustler, and received an extra prize of 75c. for his 11 customers.

Two other boys, Veeman and Adams, also received extra prizes for gains of 5 and 3 new subscribers. A large number of other boys gained various additional new subscribers, but not enough to entitle them to any other bonus on the weekly prize.

The boys should remember that the weekly prizes have nothing to do with the big cash prize of $25.00 for the first boy; $20.00 for the second boy, and so on, that are given at the end of the competition.

There is no more profitable investment for a boy than to get into the business of selling the Daily Examiner after school. It is a great, big paper easy to sell, and the people are looking for it.

Boys, this competition has not really got started yet—make up your minds to get one of the prizes and you will find it very easy to make money.

Concert Under Auspices Of The Athletic Association

About four hundred people were present at a delightful concert given in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute last night, under the auspices of the athletic association. The programme consisted of both vocal and instrumental music and recitations. Mr. L. M. Hayes acted as chairman and proved very acceptable. The evening started with a selection from the girls' chorus, which delighted the audience, then followed a selection from the P. C. I. orchestra, which consists of some of the most talented boys and girls of the Collegiate. This was the first time they have ever appeared before the public, and great praise is due the promoters of the organization.

Miss Helen Davies sang in her well known manner, delighting those present. Miss Davies also played the accompaniment for the girls' choruses.

Recitations were given by Miss A. Stinson in the first half, and Miss W. Blewett in the second half of the programme.

Miss E Palmer and Miss K. Wallis rendered violin solos, to the enjoyment of the audience, and Master Harold Brown gave a solo on the piano. The concert came to a close with the boys' chorus and the singing of the National Anthem.

GALWAY LITERARY SOCIETY'S DEBATE

Mr. William Dennis Was One of Those Who Took Part— Another Will be Held Soon.

Examiner Special.

Kinmount, Feb. 9.—The second of the series of Literary Meetings of the Galway Literary Society was carried out the other evening, and the large crowd present were amply repaid by hearing a splendid discussion on "Resolved: that farm life is more independent than city life." The farmer's side was upheld by Patrick Collins and William Dennis. The negative was ably supported by John Doherty and James Mansfield. The judges found it very hard to come to a decision, but finally announced that they had decided it a draw. Miss Maggie Collins sang "Stay on the Farm" in fine style. The society decided on having a social on Feb. 22nd, and Frank Doherty and James Allen were chosen to carry out all arrangements for it.

At a meeting of the Water Commissioners, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, city clerk presented a report of the years finances showing an encouraging condition of the finances of the Waterworks Department. The report was as follows—

I herewith submit the Financial Statements of the Water Works Department for the year 1908.

The amount expended during the year in laying mains and setting hydrants was $8,959.01 and in laying service pipes $3,282.91, making a total of $12,241.92 expended in construction work.

A balance of $7,520.43 which was at credit of the Profit and Loss Account on January 1st, 1908, has been transferred to the Contingent Fund, bringing the amount at the credit of that fund up to $24,390.50

The net water rates for the year amounted to $38,024.71, an increase of $2,940.77, including the special frontage rates. The expense accounts including interest on debentures, sinking funds and amount written off tools and plant for depreciation amounted to $28,765.58, showing the profits of the year to have been $9,259.13, which amount is at credit of the Profit and Loss Account.

Respectfully submitted,
S. R. ARMSTRONG,
Secretary Treasurer.

Cobourg And Port Hope People Anxious To Have Only One Line

Are Throwing "Cold Water" on the Electric Line to Peterboro, According to the Sentiments Expressed in the Papers—Favour Havelock Line.

WHAT THE PAPERS SAY

A large number of Peterborough people are interested in the proposed electric lines from Cobourg the one to Havelock and the other via Peterborough to Stony Lake. The following from the Port Hope Guide is given to show the feeling, that is being express in regard to both of these propositions.—

'Cobourg Sentinel Star: — The Cobourg, Port Hope and Havelock Electric road, as will be noticed by our advertising columns are applying to the Dominion Parliament for a charter, (H. A. Ward, ex-M. P. applicant)

The road will draw trade to Cobourg, and also give its connection with the Canadian Pacific.

What we see objectionable to the other road is it will go around Bewdley and thence to the Kawartha Lakes. It will draw trade to Peterborough and also take away a large proportion of our summer visitors. We don't wish this as it will be detrimental to Cobourg's summer trade.

The Township of Hamilton Council have endorsed the Cobourg, Port Hope & Havelock road as it will benefit that township. Havelock town has lots of water power and does it. We want an electric road but we also want one that will benefit our town and township, not one that will in the opinion of the Peterborough papers, benefit Peterborough.'

The Guide continues—

'We published a former editorial from this paper and from the above it would appear that the people of Cobourg are beginning to realize how detrimental to the interests of Cobourg would be the proposed electric line via Bewdley to Peterborough which is being promoted by David Ewing of Cobourg.

We are informed that the promoters of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Kawartha Lakes Road have stated their line will be built within six months; yet they are trying to secure two years' option for the right of way from the farmers for the magnificent sum of $1.

Surely the farmers will not permit themselves to be tied up by David Ewing's proposed railway in this way to the detriment of their own interests and to the embarrassment of another railway which positively will be built as a main line, as against a very improbable branch line of the Cobourg-Peterborough Railway For one dollar the farmers tie up themselves and their farms so that they can neither sell nor mortgage for two years after giving this option.'

WHERE SAVAGES BEAT US

The rude, uncultured savage did not sit most of the day in a padded office chair, a carriage or car. His food was not prepared by a chef. He had to hunt for something to eat. And dinner, when he got it, was none too rich.

But the rude, uncultured savage did not suffer from indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, as we civilized beings do. Exercise and the amount of fruit and fresh vegetables in his diet, kept liver, bowels and kidneys working right.

None of us want to go back to the days of wigwams and tomahawks but a lot of us certainly would like to have the digestion of the savages.

We can, by taking "Fruit-a-tives." "Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the stomach, liver, kidneys and skin, and keep these organs in perfect condition. "Fruit-a-tives" bring back lost appetite and sound digestion to the Dyspeptic—regulate the bowels of those who suffer from Constipation — and build up the whole system. Trial size 25c. Regular size 50c, or 6 for $2.50.

ROW IN SENATE OVER THE TREATY

Senators War Over U. S.-Canadian Waterways Pact.

CONSIDERATION POSTPONED

Senator Smith of Michigan Says That Agreement Was Not Drafted by Former Secretary Root, But by an Attorney For the Power Interests — Dispute Between Senators Smith and Lodge.

Washington, Feb. 10.—A somewhat sensational charge made in the executive session of the Senate yesterday by Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan during the consideration of the international waterways treaty precipitated a lively row between that Senator and Mr. Lodge of Massachusetts, who is a leading member of the Foreign Relations Committee. Mr. Smith, who is fighting the ratification of the treaty, asserted that the convention was not written by former Secretary of State Root at all, but by Chandler Anderson, a New York attorney, formerly connected with the Joint High Commission. He said that Mr. Anderson had told him so. Mr. Lodge retorted that this was to be viewed as closely related to mendacity, for it was not made in the presence of the gentleman concerned. Thereupon Mr. Smith replied, in effect:

"Then I will repeat it, and add that the Senator from Massachusetts also told me so."

Senator Smith continued his statement in regard to Mr. Anderson's alleged connection with the treaty, declaring that he is the attorney for large power interests at Niagara Falls and that the treaty was framed for the benefit of these interests. The charge made more impression on the Senate than anything that has yet come out in the discussion of the treaty, and it became evident that the opposition to the convention will continue for some time. Senator Lodge, who is practically in charge of the treaty, will try to keep it before the Senate in frequent executive sessions until the matter is disposed of.

The waterways treaty has aroused a surprising degree of acrimony in the Senate. During the debate behind closed doors yesterday, Senator Smith turned fiercely upon Senator Lodge, saying in unparliamentary terms: "You irritate me; you always irritate, and you irritate others here. Your patronizing manner is offensive."

Mr. Lodge ignored the personal attack, but answered Mr. Smith on the points raised against the ratification of the treaty.

YOU CAN END ALL THE STOMACH TROUBLE

Get Some Diapepsin and Cure Yourself Forever of Stomach Distress.

You haven't Catarrh of the Stomach, or Nervousness ,or Gastritis, or Cancer, etc. Prove this by taking Pape's Diapepsin after your very next meal. Convince yourself within five minutes that your actual disease was sour, acid Stomach—Food fermentation — that every bite you ate turned to Stomach gas, Stomach poison and Acid, which makes you feel sick and miserable, producing such symptoms as pain in the pit of the stomach, Difficulty in breathing after a meal, Headaches, Belching, Heartburn, Nauseous breath , Water brash, Biliousness, sour risings, Gas on Stomach and many other bad feelings.

Indigestion is a result, not a cause, of your misery. If the Stomach is sour, your food becomes tainted, and that's why you have these stomach disorders.

Ask your pharmacist to show you a case of Pape's Diapepsin, which costs only 50 cents. Read what this effective Stomach and digestive treatment contains, and how absolutely harmless it must be; how it does for the stomach what the washing and sun bath do for the earth, absolutely removes every corrupting or tainting element, and will digest all the food you can eat.

Go to your druggist and get some Diapepsin now, then eat anything you want at your next meal, and you will not suffer from indigestion or stomach trouble. Each bite of food will taste good, and, besides, you will not need liver regulators to keep your intestines and Stomach clean and fresh.

Now and forever rid yourself of the misery of Indigestion and Stomach trouble. Make your meals a pleasure by going to the table with a healthy appetite.

More Foot and Mouth Disease.

Lockport, N.Y., Feb. 10. Sheriff Foley was notified yesterday of an infected case of foot and mouth disease on a farm near Edgewater, Niagara County. The sheriff immediately notified Dr. Claris of Buffalo, a veterinary in the service of the state, who informed the sheriff that he had already sent inspectors to the farm.

COMPENSATION FOR LOST MAIL

The Postmaster-General's Bill Is Given Second Reading.

C. P. R. STOCK ISSUE AGAIN

W. F. Maclean Seizes Opportunity to Raise Question Once More—Deepening of Welland and Digging of Georgian Bay Canals Will Be Necessary Soon, Says Minister of Railways and Canals.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The progressive policy that has marked the administration of the Postoffice Department under Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux is again reflected in the provisions of the bill read a second time yesterday, under which compensation, not exceeding $25 in amount, will be paid for registered letters or parcels lost in transit from one point in Canada to another. Hitherto extra postage on domestic or inland registered letters or parcels has insured special precautions, but no compensation was paid in case of loss, though there was such a provision covering letters and parcels sent abroad or coming from other countries in the postal union. The bill was favorably received by the House and passed through the committee stage.

Haughton Lennox thought the new regulation should require the Postmaster to ascertain the amount placed in a letter, and Mr. Lemieux added this would be done, adding that the Department always makes good any loss through the dishonesty of any officials.

E. Guss Porter called attention to the case of a constituent who had entrusted money to the Postmaster for delivery in a foreign country and had not been able to recover for failure to deliver.

T. W. Crothers (West Elgin) asked why the Government did not guarantee payment of larger amounts.

Mr. Lemieux said he had under consideration a plan of Government insurance for larger amounts.

David Henderson again pleaded for a one-half cent drop letter rate for rural communities, and moved an amendment to section two of the act to that effect. The Postmaster-General asked him not to press his amendment, as he desired that a full fiscal year should elapse since the reduction of the drop letter rate in cities, before making further reductions. The amendment was withdrawn.

Mr. Fisher's animal contagious diseases act amendment was given its second and third readings. The Minister said the quarantine regulations owing to the prevalence of foot and mouth disease in the United States had not been relaxed except as to horses.

W. F. Maclean observed that it was the view of drovers that the export of inferior grades of cattle to Buffalo during the recent outbreak was not in the interests of trade, and should have been prohibited.

Mr. Graham's amendment to the Government Railways Act was then taken up and reported.

During the hour for private bills last night, Haughton Lennox objected to proceeding with a bill to incorporate the Salisbury and Harvey Railroad on the ground that Parliament should first have a declaration of policy from the Minister in respect to level crossings.

Before incorporating any more railways the Minister should lay down a policy, but he would agree to advance the bill if given the assurance that some safeguards will be incorporated when the bill goes to the committee. Mr. Graham assured Mr. Lennox that whatever safeguards were decided upon would be made applicable to every charter put through this session.

Dr Sproule also urged prompt action by the Minister. W. F. Maclean protested against the idea that the proposed level crossing legislation should apply only to the new railways. It should cover the old roads. The bill was read a second time.

During the discussion of the canal estimates last night, Hon. G. P. Graham stated that the plans for the deepening of the Welland Canal had not been completed, and until they were he would be unable to say what policy would be adopted with regard to the transportation question.

He admitted that something would have to be done, either to deepen the present highway or cut a new channel, build the Georgian Bay canal or do both.

Mr. W. F. Maclean is not yet satisfied that the Government has pursued the proper course in authorizing by order-in-council the increase of C.P.R. capital stock. Last night he took the opportunity presented by a motion to go into supply to reopen the subject, and in support of his claim that Parliament should have control of such matters, referred to what happened in 1902, when a similar application by the C.P.R. was discussed. He quoted from Hansard to show that the then Minister of Justice took the view that it was necessary to pass an act to authorize the additional capital stock, and that certain conditions should be imposed, among them that the additional capital should only be applied to the specific purposes for which it was asked, and that the new stock should not be sold at less than par. He also called attention to a promise made by the then Minister of the Interior, that a reference would be made to the courts to ascertain the actual cost of the C.P.R., and asked whether that promise had even been fulfilled.

Hon. Mr. Graham did not think an act was necessary, but promised to look into the matter. As for the conditions imposed in 1902, he thought they were covered in the order-in-council passed in the present case.

Swyreda Must Hang.

Brampton, Feb. 10.—Radcliffe, P.E., has erected his scaffold in the backyard of the jail here and all arrangements for the execution of Steffan Swyreda at dawn Thursday morning are completed.

The last hope for the condemned man was swept away yesterday afternoon when the Court of Appeal refused to reopen the case. The court, consisting of Chief Justice Moss and Justices Osler, Garrow, Maclaren and Meredith, were addressed by T. J. W. O'Connor, counsel for the prisoner, who moved for leave to appeal to the court and to have a reserved case submitted by Justice Riddell, the trial judge.

The condemned man still protests his innocence of the murder of Olecka Liuteck, a Galician compatriot, in Joseph Fasken's bush, near Clarkson, on or about Good Friday last, and for which he was brought to book by the skilful work of Provincial Detective Miller.

Youthful Murderer Lynched.

Houston, Miss., Feb. 10.—Bobby Baskin, murderer of Rev. W. T. Hudson, was lynched by a mob here yesterday afternoon.

A crowd of over 300 determined citizens took the negro from the jail and hanged him to a nearby tree. Not a shot was fired, and the whole proceeding was conducted quietly.

Baskin was 18 years of age. He admitted the murder of Hudson, who was found shot to death on Sunday, under a tree where he was wont to rest. Baskin had robbed him and then killed him to try and conceal the crime.

Licensing Vice.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—As the result of the action of Chief of Police Campeau in inviting keepers of houses of illfame to come down to police headquarters to be served with a summons, followed by a fine, looked upon as somewhat in the way of a tax, Recorder Weir yesterday made a hot attack on the methods of the police department. Such a course, he declared, seemed like licensing the vice.

Young Woman Brutally Assaulted.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 10.—Unconscious, shot through the hip and arm, her body a mass of bruises, hair bloody and disheveled, and her clothes torn to shreds was the condition of Flora Ellsworth, 22 years of age, a victim of a cruel assault, when found late on Monday night at Shamrock, 40 miles east of here. There is no clue to her assailants.

House Committees Chairmen.

Ottawa, Feb. 10.—The several standing committees of the House elected chairmen yesterday as follows: Public accounts, A. H. Clark; railways, H. Guthrie; banking and commerce, H. H. Miller; private bills, Mr. Ethier; privileges and elections, William German; standing orders, Mr. McCraney; agriculture, M. S. Schell.

Nature's Gift to Canada.

London, Feb. 10.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Ed. Osborn, addressing the Royal Colonial Institute, said the G.T.P. would be a long step forward in the solution of the transporation problem, adding that nature has given Canada control of North American transportation.

Smallpox Epidemic.

Montreal, Feb. 10.—Dr. Nadeau has returned from St. Leuthere, of Kamouraska district, where he was sent by the Public Health Council to control an epidemic of smallpox. The number of the diseased exceeded 25, and the health officer disinfected more than fifty houses and vaccinated hundreds of villagers.

Condemned to Hanging.

Odessa, Feb. 10.—Capt. Nikitin of the general staff, retired, has been condemned by a court-martial to death by hanging, after having been found guilty of conducting revolutionary agitation among the enlisted men of the army.

Want to Come Home.

Wingham, Feb. 10.—Many people in this vicinity who have relatives in the west are receiving letters telling them of the great hardships suffered out there, and asking for money to assist them in returning to Ontario.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on a double varicocele. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much and I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and knew they were square and skillful. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

GREAT ICE FOR TO-NIGHT'S BATTLE
RECORD CROWD WILL BE ON HAND FOR GREATEST GAME SEEN HERE

A great sheet of ice is available for to-night's big struggle at the Brock street rink, and with both teams getting what they have been calling for, the game should be one of the fastest ever seen in Peterborough.

There is the greatest excitement over the game among Peterborough fans, the changes in the line-up of the Petes having caused much speculation and discussion. With Lindsay claiming that they can beat Peterborough in hollow fashion on hard ice and with the local enthusiasts of the opinion that the Petes are one hundred per cent better on fast going than they are in the slush, there is every reason to expect that both teams will move at a much livelier rate than they did last Friday.

Goals count on the round, so that the locals will endeavour to get as big a lead as possible over the Scugog invaders to-night. There will be two changes on the Peterborough line-up, while Lindsay will have identically the same team as was defeated last Friday night, although the defence may be shifted by moving Koyl up to cover point. A number of the Petes were out for the final practice with the Straths last night, and as far as condition goes, the seven are there with the goods. They should all be capable of going the distance at top speed. Quinn has been working hard in the City League games, while the others have had lots of practice.

The Lindsay rooters will be here by special train, leaving Lindsay at seven o'clock, and a big crowd of Scugog people will be down to see the battle, firmly expecting to see Lindsay victorious here to-night. Whether they will succeed in winning is another matter, but at any event it will be a game that will be worth going miles to see.

The game will start sharp at 8.15 o'clock with W. S. Hancock, of Toronto, referee, and the teams facing each other like this:

Lindsay.	Peterborough.

SURPRISE IN THE CHURCH LEAGUE
KNOX CHURCH TRIMMED LEADERS HANDILY BY FIVE GOALS TO ONE

A surprise something like the one that overwhelmed the Stratconas in their game with Lakefield last week, struck the St. Andrew's senior church league team in their league game with the Knox church team at Knox rink last night, and when the smoke cleared away the south-end Presbyterians were found tightly clinging to a five score, while the best the Saints had collected in the meantime was one counter. St. Andrew's expected to win handily, and by so doing to clinch the championship, but the result was the other way, and it now looks like a tie for the championship, in which case the teams will likely be brought together for the final game on Brock street rink.

Last night's game was an excellent exhibition of hockey, and was witnessed by a large crowd, both teams having many camp followers who made the night air hideous with their rooting. The excitement was at fever heat, and both teams played great hockey all the way, although the winners had a clear margin on St. Andrew's in the second half, when they scored four goals and blanked their opponents.

In the first half the teams were inclined to mix it up a little, but Referee Leo Derocher, of the Petes, was always master of the situation, and inflicted penalties accordingly, with the result that the players soon steadied down and the brand of hockey in the second period was faster and cleaner. The ice was in great shape for fast hockey.

For the winners, Barclay, at rover, and Hillier, at centre, were the stars, both playing great hockey. They were faster than any of the St. Andrew's line, and tore along at a great clip all the way, and they were given good support by their team mates, Flanagan at cover, and Currie, at right wing, were the best of the losers. Flanagan is big and fast and a hard checker, while Currie works unceasingly.

St. Andrew's were the first to score, Currie doing the trick, but Knox church came back with another, Galley beating Patterson. There was no further scoring until half time, but in the second Knox church came along with a rush that left the erstwhile leaders in the gasoline strip behind. Their forward line failed to check back with the winners, and when the latter broke away the Saints' defence, unassisted, was unable to hold them out. As a result the Southerners rammed in four goals while St. Andrew's were unable to score, so closely were they checked. Hillier scored first for Knox and their third goal was scored by Barclay. Galley came along with the fourth and fifth was batted in by Barclay, leaving Knox church victorious by 5 goals to 1.

The teams and summary follow:

St. Andrew's.	Knox.
Goal.
Patterson	Crowe
Point.
McDonald	Reid

Flanagan	Henderson

2. Knox church—Galley.

3. Knox church—Hillier.
4. Knox church—Barclay.
5. Knox church—Galley.

As a result of last night's game the standing in the League just now is as follows:

"CAN I GET WELL?"

If Your Trouble comes from the Kidneys, or from Kidney Poisons in the Blood,

YES!

And if you have been ailing a long time don't lose your courage. It takes a little time—takes some constitutions longer than others. But Doan's Kidney Pills will gradually drain the poisons out of your system; the pain in your back will stop; the sediment in the urine will cease; there will be no rheumatic pains; you will feel freer and brighter, and when the last of the poisons have gone you will be well.

There is no way of getting the kidney poisons out of the system except through the kidneys, and no medicine so effective in taking them out as Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mr. W. Perkins, South Maitland, N.S., writes: "I feel it my duty to let you know of the great cure I have obtained by using Doan's Kidney Pills. For six months I could not obtain a good night's rest, had to get up four or five times to urinate, and the urine was very thick and red. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

THE CITY LEAGUE HAS SERVED ITS PURPOSE

That the Peterborough City League is succeeding admirably in the purpose for which it was intended, i.e., to develop material for the Peterborough O. H. A. team, is shown by the team which Peterborough is sending out against Lindsay to-night. Of the seven all but one (Hollie Glover) are graduates from the City League ranks. Derocher, the goal keeper, played in the City League ranks with the T.A.S. and Strathconas, being with the latter team last year. Cover point Moore served his apprenticeship with the Farriers in the City League. Quinn, of Lakefield, who is playing his first O.H.A. game to-night, has played four years in the City League with the Lakefield team. Charlie Ray started with the Orphans in the local league, and for the past two years has been with the Strathconas. Bill Rose, right wing, has played City League for four years with the T.A.S. and High Lifes, and Ben Dusty has been playing for the same team with the Charlotte street team and the Strathconas, the last two years with the High Commissioners.

GEO. McDONALD,
Point player of the St. Andrew's Church League team, which was beaten by Knox church last night by 5 goals to 1.

ALL SAINTS WON THE JUNIOR GAME

The All Saints' Junior Church League team boosted their stock in the League race last night by defeating the Knox juniors by 3-0 in an interesting game. The All Saints' team were ahead at half time by 2-0 and had the better of the play all the way. Jack Patterson of the St. Andrew's team made a very satisfactory referee and the teams were as follows:—

GREAT EXCITEMENT IN BUFFALO OVER LONGBOAT-SHRUBB RACE

Buffalo, Feb. 9.—Tom Longboat and Alf. Shrubb have been offered a purse of $7,500 for a fifteen-mile match race in this city on Feb. 25, and there is substantial reason for the statement that there is more than a probability the men will meet.

Shrubb was communicated with by wire, and sent back his prompt acceptance. It was not expected that word would be received from Longboat before to-morrow, because of the fact that his engagements are in the hands of managers, but his Toronto friends who have been with him throughout have sent him a message urging his compliance with the terms.

So certain are the promoters of getting the men together that they already have obtained an option on the spacious Seventy-fourth Regiment Armoury. It has greater floor space than Madison Square Garden, though its capacity, measured by accommodation for spectators would probably be limited to about 10,000. It was in this building that the Indian won his first indoor American race, three years ago, when as an amateur he met George Bonhag. Later he met Dorando on the same track.

Many Friends for Tom

While the general judgment would seem to be that Shrubb would be favoured by the conditions, Longboat would have a tremendous following among the speculative contingent. It is argued that while his Marathons necessitated training for staying power rather than sprinting, yet that Shrubb's going out of his distance on Friday night in New York will do him no good.

This city is Marathon mad. It is estimated that its sporting colony who supported Longboat loyally against Shrubb won upward of $50,000, getting as high an average as 8 to 5 on its money. There would be thousands of Canadians over for the match, and the event would probably call out the biggest betting that ever took place in Western New York or in all Canada, for that matter, because, so far as Longboat is concerned, all Canadians now are Missourians — they have to be shown.

PRESENTATION OF LOCKETS TO MEMBERS OF EDMONTON TEAM

The following is from Thursday's Edmonton Bulletin:

The banquet tendered by the officers and executive of the Edmonton Stanley Cup to the Edmonton Stanley Cup challengers and to the Saskatoon hockey team at the Alberta Hotel last evening was one of the most enjoyable functions of its kind ever held in Edmonton.

Alderman Robert Manson proposed a toast to the Edmonton Stanley Cup Challenge team, as he termed it, the finest hockey team in Canada. He expressed pleasure at the good, clean, manly game played by the Edmonton team, as being the best kind of sport. The trip of the Edmonton team east had been an excellent advertisement to the city, and he thought the club deserved a great deal of praise for their work.

E. E. Chauvin, secretary of the hockey club, replied to the toast. He thanked the citizens of Edmonton for their support of the club. He believed the money subscribed had been well expended. The team had left an excellent impression behind them in the east, and Edmonton had certainly been well advertised by their trip. He reviewed briefly the history of the eastern trip and their reception in the various cities where they played hockey.

"If the citizens of Edmonton do not send this team east next year after the Stanley Cup," concluded Mr. Chauvin, "they are making a big mistake. The cup belongs here, as we have everything else that is good, and I believe that we can win it."

Mayor Lee warmly seconded the remaerks of Mr. Chauvin anent going after the Stanley Cup next year, and expressed the opinion that once it was won it would be a long time before it would be taken away. He congratulated the Edmonton team on the brilliant showing they had made in the east and welcomed the Saskatoon team to the city.

Presentation to Players

He then proceeded to one of the most interesting functions of the evening, the presentation to the members of the Edmonton hockey team who went east with handsome lockets. The lockets, or fobs, were of gold. On one side was engraved the initial of the player and on the other "Edmonton Stanley Cup Challengers, 1909."

These souvenirs were presented to Fred Whitcroft (manager of the team). Harold Deeton, Jack Miller, Hugh Ross and Will Crowley, all of whom replied in a suitable manner.

Eczema, Salt Rheum.

Eczema or Salt Rheum, as it is often called, is one of the most agonizing of skin diseases. It manifests itself in little round blisters, which contain an extremely irritating fluid. These break and subsequently a crust or scale is formed.

The intense burning, itching and smarting, especially at night or when the part is exposed to any strong heat, are almost unbearable.

The pre-eminent success which Burdock Blood Bitters has met with in permanently curing a disease of such severity is due to its wonderful blood cleansing and purifying properties.

No other remedy has done, or can do, so much for those who are almost driven to distraction with the terrible torture, as our thousands of signed testimonials can testify to.

Mrs. John O'Connor, Burlington, N.S., writes:—"For years I suffered with Salt Rheum. I tried a dozen different medicines, but most of them only made it worse. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I got a bottle and before I had taken half a dozen doses I could see a change so I continued its use and now I am completely cured. I cannot say too much for your wonderful medicine."

SHOULD CUT OUT THE HISSING ACT

'True Sport" Objects to the Habit of Some of the Local Hockey Fans.

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I was among those who attended the hockey match between Peterborough and Lindsay last week and was struck by the apparent lack of a spirit of fair play among a portion of the crowd. I noticed many people hissing the referee whenever he made a decision that affected the home team, whether that decision was just or not. This conduct is not appreciated by the players of the home team or by the greater portion of the crowd. The spectacle of a full grown man sticking out his neck and hissing like an angry gander is neither dignified nor elevating and it is to be hoped that there will be no display of this lack of good sporting manners at to-night's game. The small boy cannot be blamed but for his elders there can be no excuse.

Yours truly,
"A True Sport."

CURLING.

The following men have made up the two rinks that went to Toronto to play in the district cup game. The skips are D. Davidson, G. H. Giroux and the rinks are A. Moore, W. Hall, W. J. Thompson and other R. Hicks, W. Long, and A. A. Hollingshead.

• • • •

A very exciting game of curling was played in the Keene rink yesterday afternoon between two Peterborough rinks and Keene, and resulted in the teams coming out even. The ice was in good shape and the men say they all enjoyed themselves, the only drawback being that the rink was terribly cold. The rinks and the scores are as follows:

GREAT MEN WHO HAVE PROVED ZAM-BUK

Scientist, Analyst, Magistrate, and War Correspondent all Testify.

Men and women great in point of knowledge position and experience say that Zam-Buk stands supreme to all other healing substances. Read the opinions of the following eminent men

Mr. C. E. Sanford, of Weston, King's Co., N.S., a magistrate, a school commissioner and Baptist Deacon says —Zam-Buk cured me of eczema on my ankle, which had defied every other remedy tried during twenty years. It also cured me of piles; and I take pleasure in recommending it to my fellow-men."

Mr. Frank Scudamore, the famous war correspondent, who has gone through twenty nine battles, and whose dispatches during the Boer War were so eagerly read from coast to coast in Canada, says— Owing to the poisonous dye from an undergarment penetrating a slight scratch, my legs broke out in ulcers. At one time I had seventeen deep holes in my left leg, into each of which I could put my thumb; and had fourteen similar ulcers on my right leg. Remedy after remedy failed to heal these, and I was well nigh worn out with pain and lack of sleep. Zam-Buk was introduced, and I am glad to say that it gave me speedy relief. A few weeks' treatment resulted in perfect cure of all the ulcers."

Dr. Andrew Wilson, whose reputation as a scientist is world-wide, in a book recently published ("Homely Talks on First Aid") says— "Zam-Buk may be relied upon as an antiseptic dressing which requires no preparation, and has the particular advantage of possessing unique healing properties."

Mr. W. Lascelles-Scott, the famous analyst to the Royal Commission for Victoria, says— I have no hesitation in certifying the entire purity of Zam-Buk. It is of great healing power for open wounds or injuries."

So one could go on quoting authority after authority, all of the opinion, based on personal tests, that Zam-Buk should be in every home. Zam-Buk is a sure cure for cuts, burns, scratches, cold-sores, chapped hands, ulcers, scalp sores, ringworm, blood-poisoning and eczema. It is also used extensively for piles, for which it is without equal. All druggists and stores sell at 50c a box; 3 for $1.25; or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. You are warned against harmful imitations.

OBITUARY.

GEORGE ENGLISH

On Wednesday, February 3rd, 1909, there passed away one of Asphodel's most respected residents, in the person of Mr. George English, aged seventy-one years. Born in County Antrim, Ireland, he came with his parents to Canada while a child, and settled on the farm upon which he lived all his life.

About a year ago, while on a visit to his sons in the west, he contracted a severe attack of muscular rheumatism which laid him low for several months. Last November he was able to return home, but gradually weakened until the end came.

He leaves a widow, a family of four sons and five daughters to mourn the loss of a kind husband and loving father, viz., Wm. and Fred of Asphodel, John and Curtis in the west, Mrs. Nolan and Mrs. Bryce of Iowa, N. S., Mrs. F. E. Godfrey, Peterborough and Mrs. J. King, Hastings.

His body was laid to rest on Saturday in the Trent Valley Cemetery, in full hope of a glorious resurrection.

"Not lost, but gone before."

JOHN McKEIVER

Mrs. Jas. O'Shea received a letter this morning from Falls City, Neb., containing the sad intelligence of the death of her brother-in-law, John McKeiver, second son of Mr. Ed. McKeiver, of that city. The deceased, who was unmarried, passed away in his twenty-sixth year, after an illness of nine days from appendicitis. The family formerly lived here. They returned to Peterborough from Falls City last year, but remained only five months when they returned.

MRS. JOSEPH TOUGAS

The sad death occurred this morning (Wednesday), at ten o'clock, of Mrs. Joseph Tougas, at the age of forty-nine years. Mrs. Tougas was born in Peterborough, and was married twenty-eight years ago. She will be greatly missed by both old and young, as she was greatly liked and respected by all who met her. She is survived by six children, two boys, William and Frank, and four daughters. They are Mrs. Donaldson of Millbrook, Gertrude, Theresa and Pearl, living at home.

The funeral will be held at two-thirty on Saturday, from the family residence, Harvey street, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery, Rev. W. C. Riddiford will officiate.

He had the injury dressed again and once more returned to work, and is still doing duty almost as if nothing had happened.

THEY KICKED ON THE SALOME DANCE

St. Thomas, Feb. 11.—The forthcoming production of "Salome" with Mr. Daniel Ryan in the role of John the Baptist, has aroused the opposition of the clergy of this city, several of the ministerial bodies adopting resolutions of protest to-day at their regular weekly meetings.

The drama will be presented nevertheless and the house was sold out two hours after the box-office sale opened. Several speculators reaped a harvest by buying blocks of tickets and selling some as high as three and a half dollars.

WELL KNOWN DUMMER WOMAN BURNED SO SEVERELY BY UPSETTING OF LAMP THAT SHE DIED TO-DAY

Mrs. Frederick Payne the Victim of a Terrible Fatality—How the Accident Happened is a Mystery

WAS WITH CHILDREN.

Warsaw, Feb. 11.—A terribly fatality occurred five miles from this village last night, when Mrs. Frederick Payne, Sr., a widely known resident of Dummer Township, was burned so severely by the accidental upsetting of a coal oil lamp that she died at eight o'clock this morning. Just how the accident happened is a mystery. Mrs. Payne, who was living with her sons, Frederick and Harry, remained at home last night with her three little grandchildren, the eldest of which is a boy of about seven years. It is supposed that Mrs. Payne upset a lighted lamp, and while extinguishing the blaze that ensued set fire to her clothing and the resulting injuries caused her death. The adult members of the family were away attending a wedding, and on their return at 12.30 o'clock this morning they found the unfortunate woman lying on a sofa in the dining room terribly burned, but still conscious, although she was so painfully injured that she was unable to give a coherent account of how the accident happened.

Her family did what they could to relieve her suffering, and a hurried message was sent to Dr. Munro, at Warsaw, who went to Mrs. Payne's home as speedily as possible. He found Mrs. Payne in a very serious condition and saw at once that there was little hope of her recovery. She rapidly sank until death put an end to her sufferings at 8 o'clock to-day.

The children were so badly frightened that they could not explain the accident. Mrs. Payne had been successful in extinguishing the blaze, as there were few signs of damage by fire, but in doing so received her injuries.

The late Mrs. Payne was the relict of the late Frederick Payne, who died a short time ago, and was fifty-eight years of age. She had lived in Dummer for a long time and was known and respected by every resident of the township. She is survived by four sons, Herbert, of Deloraine, Man., who is home on a visit just now, and David, Harry and Frederick Payne, all of Dummer.

CASE AGAINST ONTARIO BANK TO BE PROCEEDED WITH IN COURTS

Toronto, Feb. 10. — At a meeting this morning of the committee appointed by the Ontario Bank shareholders, a unanimous decision was reached that the actions for over $1,000,000, launched against former directors of the defunct bank, should be pressed in the courts.

The announcement was made this morning by A. D. Braithwaite, who was appointed general manager of the bank after the suspension on Oct. 12, 1906.

The special committee is composed of: E. R. Wood, chairman; J. J. Gormally, K.C., of Ottawa; Alex Bruce, K.C.; W. T. White, of the National Trust Company; Barlow Cumberland.

The case may reach court in April, and it is probable that Charles McGill will be brought up from Kingston to be a witness in the cases, because the charge in some cases is that the directors were negligent in their duty.

The committee has held three meetings to consider the subject. It will be remembered that at the last meeting of shareholders, some of whom demand that the actions should be proceeded with, Mr. Cephas Goode launched a motion to this effect, when it was proposed that a special committee should deal with the subject.

The defendants are: Geo. R. R. Cockburn, Donald Mackay, R. D. Perry, Richard Harcourt, Rulfff Grass, Thos. Walmsley, John Flett.

PRIVY COUNCIL GIVES JUDGMENT FOR DOMINION IRON AND STEEL CO.

Examiner Special.

London, Eng., Feb. 11th. — The Privy Council gave judgment to-day for Dominion Iron and Steel Company in the famous Coal Steel case. The appellants are to pay the cost of the main appeal. The damages for the repudiation of the contract are assessed. The amount involved is about $15,000,000. The cost of hearing before Privy Council amounts to something like $70,000 to each side.

"No Humbugs And Blood Suckers" Tolerated At The County Fairs

Messrs. Robert Leary and William Collins representing the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, are attending the ninth annual convention of the Ontario Association of Fairs and Exhibitions which was opened yesterday in the City Council Chamber. Many questions are being considered at the representative meeting of farmers such as education along agricultural lines, the dangerous level crossings and others.

The superintendent warned societies that no breaking of the law would be permitted No wheels of fortune or gambling devices will be allowed. Those who try will be caught. The department is determined that they must be cut out. No boys' tickets for cigars will be allowed. The directors would be fined and the grants forfeited.

There must be no humbugs and blood suckers at the fairs of the country.

He would suggest to the smaller societies that they keep pure bred stock for the benefit of their respective communities.

It should be remembered that the convention represented more wealth than any other convention that had ever met in the city hall.

Each year a number of societies have lost gate receipts through bad weather. He would suggest that all societies in the province be requested to pay a certain sum each year into a fund to be used to meet such emergencies. He thought $5 or $10 from each society would suffice. This would give a fund of $1,500.

The societies, he hoped, would where necessary give attention to the matter of better judging rings.

SWRYDA HANGED TO-DAY FOR THE MURDER OF A YOUNG BOY

Brampton, Ont., Feb. 11. — Stefian Swyrda, found guilty of the murder of Oleck Liutick, a fellow Galician, on Good Friday last, was hanged here this morning. Hangman Radcliffe officiated. The scaffold was erected in a corner of the jail yard, hidden from view on two sides by a specially built high board fence, and on the other sides by the stone walls. On the scaffold Swyrda still maintained he was innocent. The drop fell at 8 o'clock and within twelve minutes the man was pronounced dead. Only officials were allowed to witness the proceedings.

Students Of Higher Schools Will Contest In Debate

Friends of the Collegiate Institute and Normal School are taking an interest in the debate that will be held a week from Monday night in the assembly hall of the former institution. The subject will be on a legal point—Resolved that a lawyer is not justified in defending a prisoner of whose guilt he is assured. Miss Stintson and Mr. Michael O'Brien will represent the Collegiate Institute.

The P. C. I. musical and literary students will contribute to a programme which altogether should be of unusual interest.

THE FIRST TIME IN TEN YEARS

That Board of Trade Has Not Had Quorum.

Regarding the adjourned meeting of the Board of Trade on Tuesday evening Mr. T. Q. Quartermain, secretary of the Board, informed the Examiner that it was the first time in his ten years as secretary of the Board that a quorum had not assembled. On this occasion the weather was extremely disagreeable and several other important events were being held. All the meetings have been well attended, and the discussion has always been of public interest.

NEW PETERBORO LUNCH COUNTER

Successful Opening Last Evening—The Seats all Filled and Refilled.

Mr. Jacobi, the hustling proprietor of the new Peterborough Lunch Counter and Restaurant, was delighted with the hearty welcome which he received on his opening night. It was a "bumper" house, all the lunch counter stools being filled and refilled repeatedly. The door was unlocked about eight o'clock, and the key sunk in the river, as it will not be needed again—the significant legend on the doors and windows being "Will Never Close." Mr. Jacobi offers $2 to any one who will find the key and lock the door. The "Ready to Serve" all day bill of fare was pronounced fine by the guests, and everybody got the worth of their money, and promised to call again. The service was well appreciated and all day the kitchen was kept busy. Civility and courteous attention was given to all, and the light afternoon refreshments, specially prepared, was a dainty service. The dining room in the rear will not be ready until Friday. Watch for further announcements in the Examiner.

WHY HIS BUSINESS DID NOT GROW

He did not know how to advertise.

He did not keep up with the times.

He tried to do everything himself.

He strangled his progress by cheeseparing economy.

He never learned that it is the liberal policy that wins in business building.

He thought he could save the money which his competitors spent for advertising.

He was pessimistic, and all his employees caught the contagion, making the whole atmosphere of his establishment depressing.

CANADA'S GOOD CREDIT.

In spite of the spite of partzan politicians and newspapers and little Canadians, the blows aimed at Canada's credit at "home"—have fallen harmless. for Canada's credit in England stands high. The loan recently floated in England on excellent terms, has been absorbed by the investing public, so the financial journals of London inform us. This is very gratifying, considering the efforts that have been made to pound down this country's credit. Many influential old country newspapers have been "loaded up the wrong way"—with misrepresentations of Canada's position and prospects. These misrepresentations have failed in effect, because they are contradicted by palpable facts, of which one is the fact that public money in Canada is used on enterprises that mean the building up of the country and the development of our resources and adding to the value of Canadian securities. The energy and enterprise of the government, which is simply a reflection of that of the people as a whole, is shown in the fact that nearly a thousand miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific are completed and are in operation. The sensible British investor can see for himself that Canada's borrowed money, spent to make practically another Canada, is not wasted, but will give ample returns in quickened commerce and stimulation of all the activities set in motion by increase of population and subjection of new millions of fertile acres to productive influences and conditions. The action of the Government of Canada in gauging expenditures to income, as represented by the lessened estimates for this year, cannot have failed to give a favourable impression. Canada's credit is good in Great Britain and throughout the world.

AN ENEMY'S PRAISE.

It is noted with pleasure that the Ottawa Citizen, Conservative, very often lays aside the partizan intensity that clings to some other journals of the party to deal with public questions rather on their merits than from party consideration. It is a pleasure to reprint a papagraph from the chief Conservative newspaper at the capital. Dealing with the estimates for 1909-10, The Citizen says—

"The main estimates for the fiscal year ending March 31st, 1910 were tabled in the House Monday and show a comparative decrease from last year's of $19,296,398. Supplementary estimates may, of course, wipe this out, but in any event the decrease is a matter of congratulation. The administration of the actual processes of government is evidently being accomplished more economically having regard also to increased efficiency, that hitherto. In the total asked this year there is also provision made for the redemption of public debt to the amount of over fifty millions, and twenty millions allotted for the surveys and construction of the National Transcontinental railway. Taken altogether the government has no reason to be ashamed of its estimates, policies may differ; but the people like to be known figures that reveal something and in this case there is no room for dissatisfaction apparent."

A tribute like this from a party journal to the wise administration of a government it is theoretically its duty bound to oppose, does both itself and the government credit, as well as raises journalism to a higher plane.

MONEY NOT WASTED.

The Weekly Sun has this weakly comment—excuse the weakly pun—in its last issue.

"The million dollars which is being voted for the Trent Canal represents so much of the people's taxes absolutely thrown away."

The Sun describes itself as "an independent journal for farm and home." To begin at home let the Sun ask the farmers in the Midland District whether they consider money spent to construct the Trent Canal as "absolutely thrown away." Even in its uncompleted condition the canal is responsible for the establishment in Peterborough and other places of industrial establishments which create an enlarged market for farm produce, not only through the medium of employment of labour, but as direct consumers — direct purchasers — of farmers' grain at good prices. Some of these establishments of large proportions, were influenced in the matter of location by the existence of thee canal, and when it is completed their operations will be greatly expanded. By all means ask the farmers in the Midland district if the money is "absolutely thrown away." To go further afield. Ask the farmers of the northwest, present and to be, whether money spent in providing increased facilities for getting their wheat to market is "absolutely thrown away." The reduction of freight rates secured from the C. P. R, in connection with the Crows Nest Pass Railway subsidy, in five years, in lessened freight rates on wheat alone, saved the farmers or, rather, gained for the farmers, nearly four million dollars, and that advantage is permanent. We all know that the great work is to get the grain of the west to market. When the Grand Trunk Pacific is brought into operation, the settlement increase, grain production and traffic increase, will glut all our avenues of transportation. The opening of the Trent Canal to through traffic will be a national benefit in this regard. It will help a great deal and will be found indispensable, even with an enlarged Welland Canal and three transcontinental railways reaching out to the sea board. The Weekly Sun may think it is currying favour with the farmers by denouncing the expenditure named. The intelligent and progressive farmer, the farmer who thinks, will not be influenced by such parochial considerations. We are engaged in Canada in building a nation. We must spend money to do it, money that will, like the grain falling in kindly soil, yield returns of fifty and even a hundred fold.

Every farmer knows that the first essential of a good crop is the investment of good seed in good soil.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Nelson Monteith, late Minister of Agriculture in the Ontario Government, is reported to be on the list for appointment as Clerk of Forestry and Superintendent of Colonization, in succession to Mr. Thomas Southworth. While Mr. Monteith may have the general qualifications for the office he will lack the long experience and valuable newspaper training which made Mr. Southworth a valuable and public servant. The main qualification, aside from the general qualifications, is the will and energy to do what is to be done.

SOFT, GLOSSY HAIR.

It Can Only Be Had Where There is No Dandruff.

Any man or woman who wants soft, glossy hair must be free of dandruff, which causes falling hair. Since it has become known that dandruff is a germ disease the old hair preparations that were mostly scalp irritants, have been abandoned, and the public, doctors and barbers included, have taken to using Newbro's Herpicide, the only hair preparation that kills the dandruff germ. E. Dodd, of Dickinson, N. D., says — "Herpicide not only cleanses the scalp from dandruff and prevents the hair falling out, but promotes a new growth. Herpicide keeps my hair very glossy."

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—Sufferer's little growl in yesterday's Examiner was very amusing.

One is inclined to wonder what would be the result if "Sufferer" had the running of things. We should in all probability be compelled to wear sack cloth and ashes and behave ourselves like undertakers' assisstants. I for one, however, would forgive his growl if he had refrained from the music and beast joke.. Dear, dear. In this day of originality, too! Heavens! How he must have suffered to be sure. Would it be considered very rude to ask what particular type of beast you belong to, Sufferer? And do you not think that a change of diet would be beneficial to you, as you certainly appear to be a real "Sufferer" right enough, but it is either indigestion or measles.

Yours,
A POSSIBLE CULPRIT.

115 NEW SUBSCRIBERS

First Week of The Examiner's EXCITING Newsboy's Competition

A Big Success

The score in the Examiner's live Newsboys' Competition for the first week of the contest showed an addition of 115 new subscribers to the Examiner's Daily Circulation.

The Boys gave a splendid account of themselves, and our circulation manager believes he has as bright an array of hustling newsboys as ever stepped in shoe leather.

Johnny Bennett

Was the first boy to win the Examiner's Weekly Prize of $2.00. He secured 23 new subscribers during the week. This amount, added to his profits on his total sales, (46), gave him a clear profit of $3 84. Pretty good "rake off" for a few hours work after school, with a good chance to be in the winning for one of the Big Cash Prizes at the close of the contest, April 31st.

Cash Prizes

To be paid at the close of the contest, April 31st, 1909.

FIRST PRIZE	$25.00	FIFTH PRIZE	$5.00
SECOND PRIZE	20.00	SIXTH PRIZE	4.00
THIRD PRIZE	15.00	SEVENTH PRIZE	3.00
FOURTH PRIZE	10.00	EIGHTH PRIZE	2.00
TWELVE PRIZES OF		- -	$1.00

Don't hang back because you didn't score the first week. If you become one of our Newsboys and start out now and secure two or more new customers a week, you are sure to get one of the cash prizes offered below. Parents who would like their boys to earn sufficient to almost keep them, should encourage them to handle the Daily Examiner after school. There are many young men now holding good positions who made thier first money by selling and delivering The Daily Examiner.

Boys, Get Into the Race!

Get in line; Make up your minds right away. Start in and canvass those who are not taking the Examiner — they will always read it if you once get them started.

This week's prize of $2.00 is going to be paid to some boy who hustles the most. The boy who gets the largest number of New Customers by Saturday will win it. Now get busy.

An Important Condition

In order that protection may be given to each boy who is entered in this competition it is a condition that no one will secure a prize who does not legitimately earn it. If a boy applies for a weekly prize and has not bought the papers for his own use and sale it will be turned over to the boy who has actually won it.

MONTREAL ICE CARNIVAL.

First Day of Winter Festival Is Very Quiet.

Montreal, Feb. 11.—The winter carnival opened yesterday very quietly. Evening trains yesterday brought in a fair number of visitors, but they are hardly noticeable yet. Though the Governor-General is in town no formalities in connection with the carnival were observed.

There was plenty of skating and tobogganing going on, and the picturesque costumes of male and female snowshoers were seen in goodly numbers last night for a torch-light tramp over the mountain.

There are several features promised during the celebration. To-night the ice-palace will be stormed under support of the Montreal Field Battery.

Hundreds of quaintly dressed men carrying vari-colored torches will crowd about the glistening walls, and the lights of the Roman candles and the other pyrotechnical works will be reflected from the surface of the ice-palace.

The carnival will last for ten days.

Two Guilty of Murder.

Paris, Feb. 11.—Renard and Courtois, respectively a steward and a footman, the latter a mere boy, employed by the late August Remy, a wealthy retired banker were found guilty of the murder of the banker. Renard was sentenced to imprisonment for life and Courtois to 20 years' imprisonment. The jury found extenuating circumstances.

There was intense interest in the case. August Remy was stabbed to death in his home in the Rue de la Pepiniers last June. The killing was done with a desert knife and a large quantity of money and jewels were taken. Courtois had confessed to participating. The evidence was sensational and at times disgusting.

Failure In Relief Work.

Boston, Feb. 11.—A number of Italian residents of this city, who returned yesterday after a fruitless search for the bodies of relatives at Messina, stated that while the Government seemed to have plenty of funds the people in the earthquake zone lacked food and the soldiers gave little help to those suffering from injuries.

That the fruit crop was not utterly destroyed was shown by the fact that the Canopic, which brought the Italians home, carried a cargo of 14,070 boxes of lemons and other fruits.

John Small Dies.

Toronto, Feb. 11.—John T. Small, for twenty years collector of customs for the port of Toronto, died yesterday morning as a result of a recent paralytic stroke.

The deceased was widely known and respected, and had hosts of friends who regard his death as a personal bereavement. As chief officer of the custom house he was regarded with the highest esteem by every one of his subordinates. His death took place in the family residence, 355 East King street, in which he was born 78 years ago.

Canadian's Death at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N.Y., Feb. 11.—A man who is believed to be George M. Sheaver, or Shearer, whose home was in Montreal, died in a hospital early yesterday. At midnight Sheaver was rescued from drowning in the Evans' slip by two policemen. He was about 40 years of age. A letter, signed by a relative in Montreal, appealed to the dead man to return home, saying that his little daughter Evelyn was dying. Other letters lead the police to believe that he was traveling for some Canadian drygoods house.

Inventor Oliver Dead.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—Thomas Oliver, inventor of the Oliver Typewriter, died suddenly on Tuesday of heart disease while waiting with his wife at a railway station to start for Pine Bluff, Ark., to test a cotton-picking device which he had recently invented, and which he declared would revolutionise the cotton industry.

"The physician attending me prescribed, on my rallying from an attack of rheumatism, your Scott's Emulsion, which I have been taking every winter since. I find it most valuable in strengthening and building up one after a severe illness. I have not had rheumatism since the time mentioned above and I owe it to your most valuable Emulsion. It is my life now, and makes me strong and healthy."—R. PICARD, Grand Ligne, Quebec.

For two hundred years before SCOTT'S EMULSION came Cod Liver Oil was used for rheumatism.

Scott's Emulsion

is modernized Cod Liver Oil; the purest and best oil partly predigested, made palatable and suitable for the most delicate child or invalid. It enriches the blood, tones up the entire system, and drives out rheumatism.

Tramps Fire Barns.

St. Catharines, Feb. 11.—Tramps started a fire early yesterday morning that nearly caused a big conflagration in the residential district. A number of tramps went to a vacant barn on Niagara street, owned by the Wardell estate, and about two o'clock a man returning home from work discovered it to be on fire. The flames quickly communicated to Albert Hagen's barn adjoining. Firemen had hard work saving the neighboring houses.

Couldn't Wed, Took Lives.

Bowling Green, Ohio, Feb. 11.—Miss Margaret Brandon, 22 years of age, is dead, and William Davis, her fiancee, 19 years, is not expected to live, as the result of a suicide pact.

Miss Brandon drank carbolic acid at her home and Davis shot himself after going out into the woods.

It is believed the pact was due to lack of funds that prevented their marrying.

Stream of Lava Mile Long.

Mexico City, Feb. 11.—A special despatch says that another earthquake occurred in the vicinity of Colima. A violent eruption of the volcano followed the quake. A ridge of lava about a mile long is streaming down one side of the volcano. No fatalities have resulted so far as known. The region affected is barren.

Fatal Rabbit Hunt.

While coaxing a ferret from a hole, the trigger caught in a bush. The bullet severed an artery in his leg, and death resulted from blood-poisoning and loss of blood.

From Fire to Water.

Mexico City, Feb. 11.—The famous oil well which for months shot a column of flames and smoke into the air for many hundreds of feet, has turned into a geyser and fears are entertained that eventually the well may become an active volcano.

Roblin to Sifton.

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—Premier Roblin, in an interview, has thrown down the challenge to Hon. Clifford Sifton in regard to the Manitoba lists. He says that if Mr. Sifton can prove that one person in the electoral division of Brandon who has qualified, and who complied with the law, was refused his franchise, he will repeal the present law and go back to the old Greenway law.

Peru Looking For War.

Guayaquil, Ecuador, Feb. 11.—Considerable excitement has been caused by the news that the Peruvian Gunboat Lima recently arrived at Tumbes, which lies close to the coast near the border and landed a military commission with 260 well-equipped soldiers.

It is believed here that the intention of the commission is to study and prepare plans of the frontier.

Blame Some One Unknown.

St. Catharines, Feb. 11.—The jury impanelled by Coroner Jory to investigate the death of James McAnaney, found dead in Devlin's livery stable ten days ago, brought in a verdict of accidental death resulting from a blow on the head dealt in some unknown way, and recommending that in future liverymen prevent intoxicated men from frequently their stables.

Great Exhibit of Corn.

Windsor, Feb. 11.—The corn growers' convention at Essex is attracting large crowds. The total number of entries is 295, and is the largest exhibition of corn ever seen in Canada. Prof. Klink of Macdonald College, one of the speakers, says the exhibit equals the best ever shown in the American corn belt.

$100,000 Gift to McGill.

Montreal, Feb. 11.—A donor who desires to conceal his identity gave $100,000 to McGill yesterday, on condition that an additional half million dollars be raised, the total of $600,000 to be put into a general fund for the use of the university. The time is stated for the collection of the half million.

There's nothing but that's bearable as long as a man can smack.—Eliot.

New York Dairy Market.

Cheese—Firm, unchanged; receipts, 877.

Eggs—Easier; receipts, 2967; state, Pennsylvania and nearby fancy selected white, 32c to 33c; do., fair to choice, 30c to 32c; brown and mixed fancy, 32c to 37c; do., fair to choice, 30½c to 32c; western firsts, 34½c; seconds, 33½c to 34c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Hogs 5c to 15c Higher at Buffalo and Chicago.

LONDON, Feb. 10.—London cables for cattle are steady, at 12½c to 12¾c per lb., dressed weight; refrigerator beef is quoted at 9¾c to 10¼c per lb.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 10.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market were light, about 50 carloads all told.

Exporters.

Export steers, of which there were few, sold at $5.25 to $5.40; bulls, $4 to $4.50.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots sold at $4.90 to $5.25; loads of good, $4.50 to $4.75; medium, $4 to $4.40; common, $3.75 to $4; cows, $3 to $4.25; canners, $1.50 to $2.50; butcher bulls, $3 to $4 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

H. & W. Murby report receipts light, with a fair demand at unchanged prices, as follows: Best feeders, 900 to 1050 lbs. each, at $3.70 to $4.15; best stockers, 700 to 900 lbs. each, at $3.30 to $3.70; medium stockers, 600 to 800 lbs. each, at $3 to $3.30.

Milkers and Springers.

Liberal receipts of milkers and springers met a very strong market. The cause for this was that there were two buyers from Quebec, two from Montreal, and two from Ottawa. This extraordinary demand sent prices away up. Good to choice quality cows sold from $55 to $74 each; medium cows, $40 to $50, and common cows, at $30 to $37.50 each. See sales quoted below:

Veal Calves.

There was a fair supply of calves that sold at $3 to $6.80 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Receipts were light and prices higher, as follows: Export ewes sold at $4 to $4.50 per cwt.; rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $5.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

Hogs.

The market for hogs seems to be easy at quotations given on Tuesday, as far as could be gathered. Some drovers who bought hogs at higher prices than authorized by the packers, were offering on the market at what they paid for them in the country, thereby losing freight and time. Selects, fed and watered, are still quoted at $6.75, and $6.60 to $6.65 to drovers at country points, for hogs, f.o.b.,

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—(Special.)—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market this morning the offerings consisted of 550 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 525 hogs, and 160 calves. Notwithstanding the stormy weather a large number of buyers turned out, including some exporters and as they all wanted some cattle, a brisk trade was done and the undertone to the market was strong, but prices show no material advance, owing to the fact that there were no really choice heavy cattle there, but if there had been buyers stated that they would have willingly paid ¼c per lb. more for them. A feature of the trading was the demand for export account and 100 head were bought to complete shipments with, at $5.10 to $5.60 for Northwest and Manitoba steers, $5.50 for Toronto steers, $4.75 for Manitoba cows, and $4.40 for bulls per cwt. The demand from local buyers was extra good, considering that they also bought very freely on Monday and by noon all the offerings were well cleaned up. A load of steers weighing 1160 lbs. each, sold at $5.15 to $5.50 per cwt., and in smaller lots picked steers brought 5¼c; fairly good, 5c to 5¼c; fair, 4¾c to 5c; common, 3c to 4c; cows, 4c to 4¼c, and bulls, 3½c to 4¼c per lb. The supply of sheep and lambs was very small, for which the demand was keen and dealers stated that if the right quality of grain-fed lambs were offered 6c per lb. would be paid for them, but such stock was very scarce, and the best sold at 5c to 5½c, and sheep at 3½c to 4c per lb. The demand for calves was active and prices for all good to choice stock show an advance. One calf weighing 625 lbs., sold for $32, and the others at from $3 to $15 each, as to size and quality. Owing to a more liberal supply of hogs an easier feeling developed in the market and prices declined 12½c to 15c per cwt., but at this reduction the demand was good and an active trade was done, sales of selected lots being made at $7.50 to $7.62½ per cwt., weighed off cars.

Reform League in Belleville.

Belleville, Feb. 11.—A moral league has been formed in this city with the object, it is said, of instituting a local option campaign, the bylaw to be submitted next January. Henry Pringle, defeated Liberal candidate for the Legislature, was elected president; first vice-president, W. P. Hudson, ex-M.P.; second vice-president, J. M. Hurley, ex-M.P., Committees of three from each ward were appointed. Some of the speakers wanted to shelve local option for the present and elect a temperance council before the measure was introduced.

The Riddler.

Why may a beggar wear a very short coat? Because it will be long enough before he gets another.

What is the more valuable, a five dollar gold piece or a five dollar bill? The bill, because when you put it in your pocketbook you double it, and when you take it out you see it increase.

What is the difference between the Prince of Wales and the water in a fountain? The prince is heir to the throne; the other is thrown to the air.

What is the difference between form and ceremony? You sit upon one and stand on the other.

Fruit and Sugar For Horses.

Grain is not the only food on which the horse thrives. In Egypt the khedive's best mares are fed largely on currants, and these animals are noted for their endurance and speed.

Figs during the fig harvest form the food of the horses of Smyrna.

The green tops of the sugar cane are fed to the horses of the West Indies, and for long weeks in many parts of Canada windfall apples form the horse's only food.

In Tasmania peaches and in Arabia dates take the place of the usual hay and oats, corn and bran.

By Way of Experiment.

Not long ago there was a certain salesman in a dry goods shop of an Ohio city who was habitually observing to his fellow clerks that the concern would find it rather difficult to get along without him. These remarks coming to the ear of the senior partner of the firm, he decided to interview his clerk concerning them.

"Mr. Spotts," said the partner, with a grim smile, "although you have not proved to be our most efficient clerk, yet we have appreciated such service as you have condescended to render us during the intervals when you were not expatiating on your own merits. Now we have lately heard it said that if you were to die the business would have some trouble in surviving the loss. This has worried us a good deal for you, like all of us, are liable to drop off at any moment.

"For this reason, therefore, we have concluded, for our peace of mind, to experiment while all of us are in good health in order that we may ascertain whether the firm can bear up under your loss. You will accordingly consider yourself dead for the period of one month, and we will try to see whether we can get along without you for that length of time."—Harper's.

SUCCESS OF INTHON CLASS

Reference in the Christian Guardian to Local Bible Class.

The following reference to the Inthon Bible Class is taken from the last issue of the Christian Guardian:—

The extent to which the Adult Bible Class movement is growing throughout the Province of Ontario was indicated by the large and representative attendance of Sunday School workers at the Adult Bible Class Conference, held in Broadway Tabernacle, Thursday and Friday, Jan. 28 and 29. Delegates were present from a radius of more than a hundred miles around Toronto, and from start to finish the keenest interest was manifested in the proceedings.

Rev. E. A. Pearson, B.A., spoke on "Building Up a Men's Class," drawing largely upon his own experience with the "Inthon" Bible Class of George street Church, Peterborough, which, in a little more than a year, has grown from an attendance of half a dozen to a membership of 150. The class has been fortunate in securing excellent officers, and most of the members are workers. Mr. Pearson recommended extensive advertising as one means of building up a class and membership contests. There is nothing more effective than the personal effort of interested people.

Congregation Of Knox Church Will Erect Large Edifice

Decision Reached at Annual Congregational Meeting—Have Property Selected—Several Handsome Donations Already Received—Splendid Progress Made.

REPORTS WERE PRESENTED

One of the most manifest evidences of the remarkable growth of the congregation of Knox Church is the fact that a new church has been decided upon and authority has been given to purchase the land on the northwest corner of Rubidge and Wolfe streets. This will afford plenty of room if the addition to the edifice should be erected on that property. Mr. Shearer has owned the land, and the price that he had demanded has met with the favour of the congregation, who are determined to commence the new church during the early part of the summer.

This question of providing additional accommodation for the congregation was probably the most important question considered at the annual congregational meeting held last night. There was a large attendance, both of men and women of the church, and great interest was displayed in all the proceedings. The meeting was opened by devotional exercises, led by Rev. Mr. Keith, who presided at the meeting. Mr J. W. Byers was appointed secretary. All the reports showed that splendid progress has been made during the past year, every department showing increased improvement and a present flourishing condition.

Report of Session

The first report presented was that of the session by Mr. J. W. Bennett. It referred to the necessity of appointing two new elders on account of the increased congregation. After a recent purging of the roll 262 names are on the list, 116 of whom have been added in 1908. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered five times. There were four deaths during the year and the rite of baptism was administered to two adults and eleven infants. The report concluded by stating that it was a matter for rejoicing to see the great increase that had been made in all the departments of the church.

Financial Statement

The financial condition of the church and the statement for the year was shown in Mr. Robert Mulligan's report. The current expenses were $1,900.98 and the total receipts amounted to $2,561.21. The balance amounts to $18.00. The receipts are an increase of $500 over 1907.

The Sunday School

Mr. Sheriff Hall presented the report of the Sunday School. A marked increase was noticeable in this department and the school has advanced in proportion to the rest of the church. The increase during 1908 was twenty-three per cent. more than the previous year, the average attendance now being over 200. The total amount collected by the school was $177.66.

Manager's Report

The report of the Board of Managers was presented by Mr. J. W. Byers. This was the second annual report under the ministry of Rev. H. J. Keith. There has been a large increase in the church membership. The finances of the church are in very good condition. The expenditure has been considerably higher but several permanent improvements were completed and the balance on the gallery paid. There were 20 meetings held during the year. Three new managers were added, Messrs H. J. McPherson, Wm. Menzies and H. Shurter. Under the superintendance of Mr. Sheriff Hall, Mr. Morrison and the efficient staff of teachers, the attendance at the Sunday school has increased so much an appeal was recently made to the managers for more accomodation. In conclusion the managers expressed their gratitude to the Ladies' Aid Society, the Session, the Sunday School and various Young Peoples' Societies for their assistance and co-operation.

The Boys' Club

Mr. L. H. Ingram, secretary of the club, in his report mentioned the loss the boys had sustained in Mr. Harry Wilkie's departure. Reference was also made to Mr. Fred Reed's good work as his successor. The total expenditures amounted to $55.90 and the receipts to $67.34, leaving a balance of $11.44 in the bank.

The Ladies' Aid

The report of the Ladies' Aid Society was presented by the secretary, Mrs. J. Pollock. Meetings have been held every month since August on the second Thursday of the month. The average attendance is twenty-five, a decided increase over last year. The supper held on March 16th last resulted in $63 being realized.

Women's Missionary

The first annual report of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary was read by Mrs. Wm. Sherwood, and was very encouraging. During the year the Mission Band was organized, under the direction of Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Keith. The receipts amounted to $81.82 during the year, all of which was expended in missionary work. It is felt there is room for both a senior and junior band. The attendance ranges from twenty-five to fifty. The sum of $6.30 was sent by the band to the Toronto Board.

Young Men's Guild

The report of the Young Men's Guild was presented by Mr. H. McCannon, showing increased membership. The total sum raised during 1908 was $68.07.

Young People's Guild

The report of the Young People's Guild was read by Miss Mamie Menzies, the secretary. The number of members is fifty and the average attendance is thirty-five. The officers number nine. The receipts up to January were $19.24, and expenditure $13.55, leaving a balance of $5.69. The Young People have had splendid meetings and it is one of the best working departments of the church.

Baraca Class

The Baraca Class showed an increase of twenty members during 1908. Total collections amounted to $68.07. A balance of $7.72 was given to the Board of Managers.

The election of managers showed that the congregation has appreciated their work, for all three who were to retire were re-elected. They were Messrs. J. W. Byers, Robert Mulligan and A. McKenzie. The discussion as to the erection of a new church, or rather, a large addition to the present building was then begun. It was unanimously considered that this step should be taken and the property mentioned above will be purchased. The erection of a church was also decided upon, but the design and details was left in the hands of the Session and Managers to suggest plans, visit churches and secure the best ideas for the new building. The announcement was made that several large gifts had already been donated to the work which will be proceeded with as soon as possible.

Refreshments were served by the ladies and the meeting was adjourned to be called again when the session and managers have prepared their report.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

PIANISTS STARVING

It is reported that the average Vienna piano player cannot figure on making more than $2 per week, of which 75c are contributed by the owner of the hall where he performs. For the rest he must hustle among the patrons. The hall proprietor also furnishes the piano player "one goulash and two beers." The meal, drink and wage, however, are available only on Sundays and holidays. On week days the pianist receives nothing from the hall owner and very little "drink money" from his patrons.

The average wage of a pianist then is between $2 and $2.50 per week, one goulash and two beers, resolved the mass meeting. It further resolved that it was inhuman to ask anyone to live on that in Vienna, one of the most expensive cities in the world. At the meeting a number of pianists proved themselves artists of considerable skill by their performances and it was shown that the majority are college bred men and women, while not a few studied under masters at well known conservatories.

According to police reports, 60 per cent. of the Vienna pianists live in the cheapest kind of lodging houses, and only a very few have a decent home. During the past winter a number of pianists were driven to suicide by hunger and exposure.

A preliminary organization of all the pianists was effected.

WHITBY ARE THE DISTRICT CHAMPS

Beat Port Hope in Sudden Death Game at Cobourg Last Night by 6-2—Fifth Straight Victory.

Oshawa, Feb. 10.—The O.H.A. junior championship for this district was decided here to-night, when the Whitby team won from Port Hope by a score of 6 to 2. The large new rink here was packed to its capacity. The play was fast from start to finish, both teams doing brilliant work at times. The Whitby team played the better combination, the stars being Blanchard, Smith and Poquette. The score indicates the relative ability of the two teams. Referee Whitehead of Toronto made the boys play a clean game. The Whitby team brought two bands which furnished music and lots of amusement during the intervals. Port Hope ran a special train up for their crowd, which included a large number of ladies. The teams:

TO-MORROW NIGHT'S CONCERT

The concert in Charlotte street church promises to be one of the treats of the season. Of Edward Barton and the Canada Male Quartette "Musical Canada" has the following to say—

"The Canada Male Quartette were the assisting artists. The first number, 'If the Water's Could Speak' arranged by Edward Barton brought forth a burst of applause that proved appreciation and demanded an encore. 'Lead Kindly Light' was the second number and the vocal blending of the four voices in this difficult piece was most artistic and called for another encore."

Mr. Barton trained in Paris and has on more than one occasion appeared before Royalty. [illegible]

TORONTO SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA COMING

The Announcement Has Been Received With Interest by the Local Music Lovers.

The announcement that the Toronto Symphony Orchestra would give a concert in Peterbroough in the very near future has been received with great interest, as this Orchestra has in three short seasons attained a degree of proficiency which has astonished some of the great conductors of the world. Dr. Coward, after the concerts given by the Sheffield Choir in Toronto, said that the work of the Orchestra was superb, and it was a revelation to many people to find that Toronto had an organization which was capable of such work.

To the general public the playing of the Orchestra has always been a delight and inspiration, which it must be said has been chiefly on account of the very attractive programmes which have been arranged. The music has always compelled interest because of the story it conveyed, and one of the chief features of the Orchestra's last concert was the evident desire of the audience to stay and hear more.

A particularly good programme is being arranged for the concert in Peterborough, which will include some of the Orchestra's most popular pieces, and the Orchestra will be assisted by prominent soloists.

Mr. Walter Stocker has charge of subscriptions to the concert, which already promises to be a great success.

"BILL" CAVANAGH PLAYS GREAT GAME FOR CHICAGO SEVEN

The St. Louis Daily Globe Democrat speaks highly of Bill Cavanah's playing for the Illinois Athletic Club of Chicago in their game with the Auditorium seven of St. Louis, in which the latter went down to defeat by the score of 8 to 5. The game was played in St. Louis last Friday night. In one place the account states that the playing of Peterborough's former star was the feature of the game. "Between West and Cavanah they brought about seven of the goals scored by the winners. Cavanah was in fine form and his rushes together with his caging the puck, could hardly be improved upon." He scored four of the eight goals. The paper contains a good picture of the ex-"Pete," player. Cavanah is playing centre for the I.A.C. team.

WAS KICKED ON HEAD BY HORSE

Otonabee Man Was Victim of a Painful Accident.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Feb. 11.—Mr. Benjamin Kindred, who resides near this village, was the victim of a very painful accident this evening. While unhitching his horse, he was kicked on the head and on the ankle of the left foot, rendering him unconscious for some time. His wife heard the noise and went to his assistance and succeeded in bringing him into the house. Dr. Harrison was called at and attended to his injuries. He is doing nicely now and is not seriously injured.

SCIENCE AND DEATH.

The case of Dr. W. T. Bull, the New York physician, in his heroic fight against cancer and death, has attracted the attention of the whole world. Nevertheless the scientific critic now comes along and tells us that in a fatal malady, after a certain phase has been reached and passed, no real heroism can be attributed to a doomed person. For, according to the London Lancet, the majority of persons who die in their beds cease to feel pain once the disease from which they suffer has travelled to a limit of which the subsequent stage is death. Owing to the comatose state of the mind, the desire to live and the will to do so have deserted them.

There is, it is declared, very little difference between dying — even from what is known as an agonizing death — and being sent to sleep by an anaesthetic before an operation. It is solely because of this liberation of the spirit that the weak of will and the ultra psychical in temperament abandon themselves to the use of drugs like opium and morphine, since the isolation of the mind is sought for.

Accordingly, heroism in dying is not admitted by those medical men who have made a study of what is known as the physiology of death. Even when the moribund is said to be fully conscious and to be preparing his last testament, "despite his great sufferings," as the saying is, the truth is that his fleshly ills have ceased to trouble his mind, a phenomenon common enough even in such minor kinds of suffering as earache or toothache.

The same authorities declare that death by shooting through the brain is the least painful of all deaths, since the passage of a bullet through the brain is far swifter than the action of nerve currents. The centre of feeling in the brain has been destroyed before the pain has had time to register its existence. Again, death that occurs by a fall from a great height is also unfelt by the victim. The respiratory organs cease to work as soon as the fall begins, and the action of the heart is stopped almost at once.

The dramatic deathbed, says the trained physician, is the outcome of the hysterical man's imaginings. The average person "on the day," as Artemus Ward has it, knows nothing at all about his circumstances; nor is it certain that the very great know any more. Napoleon's last words showed that his mind was wanddering. Goethe asked for "more light," although the sun was streaming through his windows. On the other hand, Henry VIII. of England is said to have asked for "Kate," the Emperor Augustus; Charles II. asked for Harry of Monmouth, and apologized for not dying at scheduled time. When Louis XIV. was busy dying his successor, Louis XV., then a boy of three or four years, was seated on a footstool near the bed, playing with a doll. "And what is your name, little prince," inquired a fatherly courtier of the dying man. "Louis fifteen" (meaning Louis Quinze), replied the little heir apparent. "Stay encore, mon enfant, pas encore," cried the dying King — "Not yet, my child, not yet."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

Miss Lusie Little, B.A., National General Secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, was given a very earnest hearing yesterday afternoon as she addressed over a hundred ladies in the bright, drawing room of our Y. M. C. A.

Miss Little talked most interestingly of the expanding work in Canada of this most important organization. There are now twenty-four city and twenty-six student associations. With a membership of over 7,000 in the city associations and about 1,500 or 58 per cent. of the women students of Canada are members of the association.

Miss Little also spoke of the association in other lands — in Europe, Asia and Africa. This rapidly growing work calls for a larger financial constituency, and an opportunity was given the ladies yesterday of expressing their appreciation and interest in both our own city association and the Dominion work in a very practical way. Mrs. Dickson Hall sang very sweetly "O Jesu, Thou art standing beside the fast closed door."

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed in the tea room. Miss Gladman brightened the hour with music.

Mr. A. Mowat's Literary Class will meet to-morrow evening at 7.30, instead of this evening, "Pride and Prejudice," by Jane Austin, will be the study.

The Bible Circle will meet to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. This is the Monthly Missionary Meeting. Africa will be the country studied. A welcome to all.

Band To-night at Jackson Park.

Dr. Coward, after the concerts given by the Sheffield Choir in Toronto, said that the work of the Orchestra was superb, and it was a revelation to many people to find that Toronto had an organization which was capable of such work.

To the general public the playing of the Orchestra has always been a delight and inspiration, which it must be said has been chiefly on account of the very attractive programmes which have been arranged. The music has always compelled interest because of the story it conveyed, and one of the chief features of the Orchestra's last concert was the evident desire on the audience to stay and hear more.

A particularly good programme is being arranged for the concert in Peterborough, which will include some of the Orchestra's most popular pieces, and the Orchestra will be assisted by prominent soloists.

Mr. Walter Stocker has charge of subscriptions to the concert, which already promises to be a great success.

Reader Missed One Issue of Examiner and Also Bargain Notices it Contained.

"I guess you'd better send a boy up the house to-morrow and arrange to bring me the Examiner every night; I'll pay him at the end of the week," remarked a reader who has been in the habit of coming into the office every night for his paper. "The fact is that I missed it several times lately and my wife told me that Mrs. —— got some bargains that she had read about on those nights, and we had missed them. She claimed that the money she could have saved would have paid for a couple of week's papers, so we have to have it regularly after this."

WAS KICKED ON HEAD BY HORSE

Otonabee Man Was Victim of a Painful Accident.

Examiner Special.

Keene, Feb. 11.—Mr. Benjamin Kindred, who resides near this village, was the victim of a very painful accident this evening. While unhitching his horse he was kicked on the head and on the ankle of the left foot, rendering him unconscious for some time. His wife heard the noise and went to his assistance and succeeded in bringing him into the house. Dr. Harrison was called in and attended to his injuries. He is doing nicely now and is not seriously injured.

SCIENCE AND DEATH.

The case of Dr. W. T. Bull, the New York physician, in his heroic fight against cancer and death, has attracted the attention of the whole world. Nevertheless the scientific critic now comes along and tells us that in a fatal malady, after a certain phase has been reached and passed, no heroism can be attributed to a doomed person. For, according to the London Lancet, the majority of persons who die in their beds cease to feel pain once the disease from which they suffer has travelled to a limit of which the subsequent stage is death. Owing to the comatose state of the mind, the desire to live and the will to do so have deserted them.

There is, it is declared, very little difference between dying — even from what is known as an agonizing death — and being sent to sleep by an anaesthetic before an operation. It is solely because of this liberation of the spirit that the weak of will and the ultra psychical in temperament abandon themselves to the use of drugs like opium and morphine, since the isolation of the mind is sought for.

Accordingly, heroism in dying is not admitted by those medical men who have made a study of what is known as the physiology of death. Even when the moribund is said to be fully conscious and to be preparing his last testament, "despite his great sufferings," as the saying is, the truth is that his fleshly ills have ceased to trouble his mind, a phenomenon common enough even in such minor kinds of suffering as earache or toothache.

The same authorities declare that death by shooting through the brain is the least painful of all deaths, since the passage of a bullet through the brain is far swifter than the action of nerve currents. The centre of feeling in the brain has been destroyed before the pain has had time to register its existence. Again, death that occurs by a fall from a great height is also held by the victim. The respiratory organs cease to work as soon as the fall begins, and the action of the heart is stopped almost at once.

The dramatic deathbed, says the Edinburgh physician, is the outcome of the literary man's imaginings. The average person "on the die," as Artemus Ward was it, knows nothing at all about his circumstances; nor is it certain that the very great know any more. Napoleon's last words showed that his mind was wandering. Goethe asked for "more light," although the sun was streaming through his windows. On the other hand, Henry VIII. of England is said to have asked for "Kate," his divorced Aragonese; Charles II. called for Harry of Monmouth and apologized for not dying on scheduled time. When Louis XIV. was busy dying the surgeon, Louis XV., then a child of three years, was seated on a footstool near the bed, playing with a doll. "And what is your name, little prince," inquired a fatherly courtier of the young Louis? Louis replied that he had forgotten, whereupon mon enfant, par exemple," cried the dying King — "Not yet, my child, not yet."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES.

Miss Lusie Little, B.A., National General Secretary of the Young Women's Christian Association, was given a very earnest hearing yesterday afternoon as she addressed over a hundred ladies in the bright drawing room of our Y. M. C. A.

Miss Little talked most interestingly of the expanding work in Canada of this most important organization. There are now twenty-four city and twenty-six student associations. With a membership of over 7,000 in the city associations and about 1,500 or 58 per cent. of the women students of Canada are members of the association.

Miss Little also spoke of the association in other lands — in Europe, Asia and Africa. This rapidly growing work calls for a larger financial constituency, and an opportunity was given the ladies yesterday of expressing their appreciation and interest in both our own city association and the Dominion work in a very practical way. Mrs. Dickson Hall sang very sweetly "O Jesu, Thou art standing beside the fast closed door."

After the meeting a social hour was enjoyed in the tea room. Miss Gladman brightened the hour with music.

Mr. A. Mowat's Literary Class will meet to-morrow evening at 7.30, instead of this evening. "Pride and Prejudice," by Jane Austin, will be the study.

The Bible Circle will meet to-morrow evening at 8 o'clock. This is the Monthly Missionary Meeting. Africa will be the country studied. A welcome to all.

Band To-night at Jackson Park.

BAD FIRE VISITS TOWN OF CHATHAM

Three Stores Suffer a Loss Totalling $75,000.

FOUR PERSONS ARE HURT

Two Citizens Are Severely Burned In Attempt to Extinguish Flames—Firemen Are Overcome by Smoke and One Is Injured In Fall From a Ladder — The Blaze Started In the Ball Block.

Chatham, Feb. 11.—One of the most serious fires that this city has seen in years started yesterday afternoon at a quarter to five o'clock, in the basement of H. W. Ball's dry goods establishment on King street.

The alarm was promptly sounded, but it was not until 7 o'clock that the flames were got under control. Owing to the dense smoke the firemen could not reach the flames. The store was completely gutted and the stock is a complete loss. The firemen were able to keep the fire from spreading to the other buildings, although it looked for a time as if the whole block would have to go.

Three stores were damaged, the two adjoining the Ball establishment suffering from the smoke and water. The Ball stock is valued at $45,000. Nothing is saved. There is about $26,000 insurance.

The stock in G. W. Gowan's shoe store was damaged to the extent of $11,000, fully covered by insurance. The stock in Wm. Somerville's shoe store was damaged to the extent of $9,000, partly covered by insurance. The cellar of Cowan's store alone contained $7,000 worth of stock, and it is filled with water.

The loss on the Ball building, which is owned by Kenneth Urquhart, will be $8,000, fully covered by insurance. The office of W. B. Wells, the division court clerk, was also damaged by water and smoke. The living apartments of E. J. MacIntyre was damaged; loss $1,500.

It is estimated that the total loss will be fully $75,000.

A. Harker, an employe in the Ball store, was the first one to notice the fire. He rushed down to the basement and in trying to extinguish the flames he was very badly burned. He was driven to the street by the smoke. Parnell Welsh, another employe, was also burned in his efforts to assist Harker.

Ball himself was overcome by the smoke and had to be carried to a store across the street.

Arthur Darling and Geo. Pritchard, two firemen, were overcome by the smoke in their desperate fight. Darling, who was on a ladder on the second floor, fell to the street and sustained several serious injuries.

Level Crossing Accident.

Bradford, Feb. 11.—Stephen Sedore and Albert Merrill were run down by a freight train here while driving over a level crossing in a wagon.

The wagon was smashed to pieces, the horses so badly injured that they had to be killed, while Merrill, one of the occupants, was seriously injured. Both legs were broken, and he also is suffering from internal injuries. Sedore escaped with bruises.

The men live near Queensville, and were hauling wood to that place from Bradford. Merrill is said to have a wife and family. His wounds were dressed, and he was taken to the Barrie hospital.

Knox In Quandary.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 11.—Is Senator Knox eligible for appointment as Secretary of State in the incoming administration, or must the President-elect select a new premier for his Cabinet?

This was the question that all official Washington was confronted with yesterday morning. Senator Knox was last elected for a six-year term, which will not expire until March 3, 1911. The constitution prohibits the appointment of a Senator to an office created, or the salary of which has been increased during the term for which he was elected.

Was Bribed to Vamoose.

Moncton, N.B., Feb. 11.—Despite efforts to get Fred Allan, Scott Act informer, out of town, yesterday morning he gave evidence against Archibald Jesly in a Scott Act case. He also said that Daniel Padden, Jesly's employer, bribed him by paying him $10 to make himself scarce.

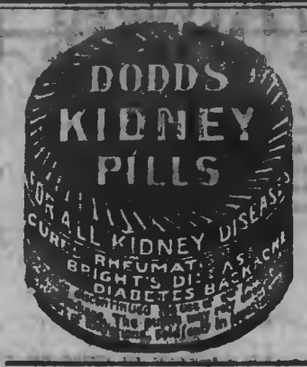
DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

Is without an Equal for COUGHS, COLDS, BRONCHITIS and all Affections of the THROAT and LUNGS.

All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs and the bronchial tubes, are in the beginning but colds or coughs. Too much stress cannot be laid on this fact, and neglect to cure the cold very often caused years of suffering and in the end comes "Consumption." Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup combines all the lung healing virtues of the Norway pine tree with other absorbent, expectorant and soothing medicines of recognized worth, and is absolutely harmless, prompt and safe.

Mr. J. L. Purdy, Millvale, N.S., writes:—"I have been troubled with a hard, dry cough for a long time, especially at night, but after having used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, for a few weeks, I find my cough has left me. To any person, suffering as I did, I can say that this remedy is well worth a trial. I would not be without it in the house."

So great has been the success of this wonderful remedy, it is only natural that numerous persons have tried to imitate it. Don't be humbugged into taking anything but "Dr. Woods." Put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.



CASSELS' REPORT WORKING.

Spain and Fraser Resign Berths In Marine Department.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—Following the report of Mr. Justice Cassels on the Marine Department, Commander Spain, Dominion wreck commissioner, and Mr. J. F. Fraser, commissioner of light, will step out of the Government service. Their resignations are now in the hands of Hon. Mr. Brodeur. Commander Spain will complete his reports with regard to several recent wreck investigations before vacating his office. Mr. Fraser has been under suspension for nearly a year, and his retirement from the service was a foregone conclusion as soon as Justice Cassels' report was presented. It will be remembered that in the case of both these officials Justice Cassels found the charges made against them sustained. In the case of other officials of the Department affected by the report, further action will be taken by the Minister of Marine in the near future.

It is probable that Admiral Kingsmill, head of the fisheries protection service, will succeed Commander Spain as wreck commissioner, combining both offices.

Freight Trains Wrecked.

Bowmanville, Feb. 11.—Singularly contemporaneous were two accidents last night on the Grand Trunk between here and Darlington, three miles to the west. Two freight trains came to grief, one west bound, the other east bound, both through the breakage of trucks. It was about 9.45 when No. 744, westbound, broke down near Darlington station, with Conductor Cleverdon in charge. It is not possible to get full particulars, but it is known here that one car is derailed. The mail and express, eastbound, passed without difficulty, and proceeded from here without detention. Train No. 700, Conductor Young, eastbound, was stalled in the yard here at 10 o'clock by a broken truck and delayed the Montreal express, westbound, some time until the track was cleared. The line is open now and trains are running on a single track between the stations named. No one was injured.

Daring Train Robbery.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 11.—By placing a red danger signal on the tracks of the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad, four robbers Tuesday night held up a freight train on the Mono road, and while the crew was trying to ascertain the trouble, stole $2,000 worth of property. The theft was not discovered until the train reached Hammond, Ind.

Police who were sent to the scene traced the robbers to a barricaded house, where, after an exchange of revolver shots, the men were arrested.

To Save Blythe.

Toronto Feb. 11.—To have the death penalty commuted to life imprisonment is why T. C. Robinette will have all the address of Justice Riddell closely examined to see if there is any way in which a request for a reserved case can be asked for. All the evidence is being extended from the notes to be sent to the Minister of Justice.

Information as to Blythe's insanity is also being asked for from England.

New Police Chief For Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Feb. 11.—Police commissioners on Tuesday appointed Theodore Zeates to the position of chief of police, the appointment to date from March 1.

His application for the position was one of sixty-two considered. He is at present employed as a private detective on the Grand Trunk and was formerly chief of police in Woodstock. He also served for many years on the Hamilton police force.

No Religious Ceremony at Funeral.

Paris, Feb. 11.—M. Catulle-Abraham Mendes, the famous French poet and novelist, who was killed on Monday by stepping out of a train en route to his home, in Saint Germain, before the cars were clear of a tunnel, was buried in this city yesterday with military and civic honors, but without any religious ceremony.

A movement has been started to erect a monument in memory of M. Mendes.

Chicago to Supply Army.

London, Feb. 11.—A Chicago firm has been awarded a contract to supply the British army with corned beef for a period of three years. The first delivery, between 500,000 and 1,000,000 pounds, will be made next July, and further deliveries will be in accordance with the requirements of the army. The meat will be packed in Chicago under the supervision of British army officers.

Alfonso to Meet Manuel.

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 11.—King Alfonso of Spain is expected to arrive in Villa Vicosa on Friday on a two-days' visit to King Manuel. The latter, accompanied by his mother, Queen Amelia, went to Villa Vicosa yesterday.

The meeting between the two sovereigns will be of an absolutely private character.

Another Tunnel Accident.

Windsor, Feb. 11.—Andrew Kolinsky, a tunnel employe, was struck by a heavy door of shaft No. 1 yesterday and died of his injuries a few hours later. The door of No. 1 shaft leading into the compressed air is exceedingly heavy and swings downward. It is thought that Kolinsky neglected to hang on to the door until the air pressure was put on.

There have been about ten fatalities on the Canadian side since operations were started.

A MOVE TO BRING BACK THE FRENCH

Subject of French-Canadian Repatriation Occupies House.

TARIFF CHECKED EXODUS

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Replying to Appeal of Dr. Paquet of L'Islet For Some Action, Says That Emigration of Quebeckers Into States is Stopped—Col. Sam Hughes' Imperialist Resolution.

Ottawa, Feb. 11.—The French members of the Commons appropriated to themselves practically the whole of yesterday's session of the House, and after the first half hour of routine only the French tongue was heard in the Commons' chamber.

Mr. Paquet (L'Islet, Con.), who has taken over the mantle left by Mr. Henri Bourassa as the special champion of the French-Canadian language and interests in Parliament, in the course of a half-hour's speech urged the Government to take more energetic steps to encourage the repatriation of the many thousands of French-Canadians who had gone to the New England States during the time of the exodus some years ago.

Mr. Lemieux, replying, said the Liberals by their tariff had stopped the exodus to the United States, and started the movement of emigration to the Canadian west. The Postmaster-General did not think the priests of the New England States would support a movement to scatter their flocks.

F. D. Monk followed with a criticism of the character of immigration that is pouring into the west. He ridiculed the idea that the tariff had anything to do with the exodus, and claimed that French-Canadians were still leaving the country.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur quoted statistics to show that the French-Canadian population of the New England states was diminishing.

Many other Quebec members took part in the discussion. The resolution was finally adopted.

Before this, however, some questions were answered. Mr. Armstrong was informed by the Postmaster-General that the number of mail and stage routes in Canada on March 31 last was 8,091; the total number of miles traveled in the year being 17,102,214.

Mr. Graham said in answer to Mr. Gervais that the Government had not entered into an agreement with regard to the construction of a branch line between Montreal and the G.T.P., nor was it about to make such an agreement.

Mr. Marshall was informed that in four years the sum of $16,468 had been expended on Port Bruce harbor and the matter of expending money on dock this year was under consideration.

"I am sorry, but my hon. friend will have to wait for the budget speech," said Sir Wilfrid, replying to Mr. Blain, who asked if it was the intention to increase the tariff on hogs coming into Canada from the United States.

Mr. Fisher, replying, to Mr. Perley, said the total expenditure from 1904 to 1908 for animals slaughtered was $1,209,452. There was no compensation for the slaughter of animals on account of bovine tuberculosis.

Major Sharpe (North Ontario) was told by Sir Frederick Borden that no militia officers in Ontario supplied at their own expense armories for storing the property of the Government, but 188 officers were paid an allowance for the credit of arms and they were required to provide accommodation out of that allowance. It was the policy of the Government to supply armories at company's headquarters of infantry regiments, but in carrying out this policy it was necessary to have regard to localities and the militia appropriation.

Col. Sam Hughes gives notice of a resolution declaring "that the best interests of Canada as well as of each component part of the British Empire would be served by a full partnership union of Great Britain and Ireland and the colonies of Canada, New Zealand, Australia, South Africa and India, wherein each retaining under its own control all matters specially concerning it, all would unite on an equable and independent footing, in a full partnership union government, dealing only with intro-imperial, international, imperial fiscal and imperial defence questions."

George Talbot (Bellechasse), will query the Government concerning the address given by Major-General Sir Percy Lake in Toronto on Feb. 4.

Newfoundland Legislature Called.

St. John's, Nfld., Feb. 11.—Public interest in the deadlock in the Newfoundland Legislature is renewed by the action of Governor MacGregor by issuing a proclamation summoning it to meet Feb. 25.

There has been no session since the general elections last November, when Sir Robert Bond, Premier, and Sir Edward Morris, leader of the Opposition, each succeeded in electing eighteen members.

If neither side is able to carry on the Government during the coming session, another general election will probably be ordered.

Assassinated In Court.

Calcutta, Feb. 11.—Ashutosh Biswas, a public prosecutor, was shot yesterday in the court of Alipur, a suburb of Calcutta by a youthful Bengali.

Biswas was the official who prosecuted the recent anarchistic conspiracy case.

This revival of assassination, after a period of comparative quiet, has caused a sensation. The murderer was arrested.

Dies on Wedding Day.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 11.—Within a few hours of the date set for her wedding, Smila Marterfield, 18 years of age, the belle of the Russo-Creek Colony of Duquesne, a suburb, was found with her throat cut in the cellar of her home. She died twenty minutes later without having regained consciousness.

ROYALTY HAS VERY BUSY DAY

King Edward and Queen Alexandra Are Busy Seeing Berlin.

GERMAN PRESS IS SILENT

Papers Have Little Comment to Make on Visit of British Sovereign—Their Majesties Attend Banquet at the British Embassy, Where King Makes Another Speech In Behalf of Peace of Nations.

Berlin, Feb. 11.—King Edward, who arrived here on Tuesday from London and was given a hearty reception by Emperor William and the people of Berlin, yesterday enjoyed the distinction of being the first foreign monarch who ever has been the guest of the Berlin municipality.

Shortly before noon His Majesty, dressed in the uniform of a Prussian general, proceeded in an automobile through the richly decorated streets of the city, to the Town Hall, where Mayor Kirschner and the other members of the city government greeted him at the head of the great stairway.

The King was then escorted to the spacious public reception hall, which was splendidly decorated with evergreens, shrubbery and wreaths and festoons of natural flowers. Here an assemblage of several hundred persons awaited the King.

According to the expressed wish of King Enward, no speeches were made. Herr Kirschner asked the King to accept a drink of honor from the city in a golden cup, and His Majesty, answering in the affirmative, the mayor's daughter handed him the beaker, filled with a rare wine, which King Edward emptied.

His Majesty then proceeded to the British embassy, where the ambassador, Sir William E. Goschen, gave a luncheon in his honor.

Previous to this repast His Majesty received a deputation from the British colony in Berlin, to present him with an address. In reply the King made an important speech, which he read from a manuscript. He said, among other things:

"The hearty and enthusiastic welcome which the Queen and I met with in Berlin will surely find a grateful echo amongst my people on the other shore of the North Sea, and it will conduce to a consolidation of the friendly feelings between them and the German people, for whose culture and progress in the realms of art and music we all have a sincere and warm admiration. You who reside in this fine capital can do much to convince the Germans of the sincerity of our friendship towards them."

Her Majesty the Queen also was present at the luncheon and the guests included Chancellor von Buelow and his wife, Foreign Secretary von Scheon and all the foreign ambassadors in Berlin.

The Berlin press almost unanimously refrain from commenting on King Edward's visit. The slight references in the editorial columns, however, re-echo the peaceful sentiments uttered by the monarchs.

An Army of Empire.

London, Feb. 11.—Speaking at a military dinner in London last night on the role of the territorial army in the various problems of defence against possible invasion, the Rt. Hon. R. B. Haldane, Secretary of State for War, announced that the Government is negotiating with its dominions over the seas with a view to the creation of an army of empire, and not of Great Britain merely.

Secretary Haldane referred also with great satisfaction to the fact, as the outcome of the recent agitation, 3,000 recruits had joined the territorial army and 100 applications had been received for commissions.

Midgets Surprised Peterborough Last Night

Locals Will Run an Excursion To-morrow

Lindsay Midgets Defeat Petes In Great Game By 6 To 5

Visitors Won First of Series of Home-and-Home Games for the District Championship — 2000 People Saw Best Battle of the Year.

TEAMS WERE ABOUT EVEN

That hockey dope is not always reliable is shown by the result of last night's intermediate O.H.A. district championship game at Brock street rink. Beaten here by 5—2 last week, Lindsay came back last night and put the Indian sign on the locals by 6 goals to 5, after about as interesting a struggle as has been seen in the local arena for some years. For a real contest one which makes the red blood course through the veins like a flood tide, the superlative can be justly affixed to last night's game. For the sixty minutes of the actual playing time, there was never a lull. The play was hard and desperate all the way with the men hanging to their task with dogged determination and refusing to give an inch without fighting for it. Three times was the score tied and only on two occasions were the two teams separated by more than a single goal. It was real hockey all the way with both teams battling for everything that was in them, and although the Petes were out-scored the 2000 or more widely excited fans enjoyed every moment of the clash.

The result was somewhat of a surprise to the local enthusiasts, who could see nothing but a victory over the Seugog seven. They figured that Lindsay was beaten somewhat easily here last week and although they realized that the visitors were thoroughly at home on hard ice, it was thought that the Petes were just as fast when the slipping was good. And they were too, at that, for Lindsay had nothing on them in speed. In fact there was little or nothing to choose between the teams. It may sound like a "sore" criticism, but it is a fact that Peterborough had a shade the better of the play, that is, they handled the puck more and had more opportunities than had their opponents. Lack of team work, of system when in close was what lost the game for the locals. They carried the rubber just as well as the r opponents, bored in on the defence all right, but when on top of the nets there was a hitch. Passes were made right across the mouth of the nets, and there was no one there to take them, when nothing was needed but someone to bat the rubber past Newton. True Lindsay had not much on Peterborough in this respect, but they made better use of their opportunities, and that about won for them. Then Dame Fortune did not smile on the Petes so that you could say it from the side lines particularly in the last quarter of an hour. Shots were missing the nets by an inch or striking Newton, and battle as they might the locals could not find the nets although they kept the rubber in Lindsay territory all the time. With an even break in luck the score should at least have been tied, but things did not break that way.

The crowd was about as big as the one which saw last Friday's battle between the two teams, although Lindsay only brought down about 120 rooters last night. When the doors opened shortly after seven o'clock there was a rush of gigantic proportions and the rush seats on the east side were soon submerged beneath an enthusiastic and noisy crowd of fans. Standing room was at a premium when the game commenced. It was a great crowd and they saw a great game of hockey, perhaps not of the highest grade but certainly fast and exciting with an abundance of the kind of work that brings a crowd up on its tip toes.

As has been said the teams are on about an equal footing. Only two goals separate the two on the three games played this season which shows that there is little to choose between them and the Petes have just as good a chance to reverse the score to-morrow night in Lindsay as the Midgets had to win here last night. The forward line that Peterborough sent into the game had never been together before and they will improve a lot as to result of last night's experience. The combination is just very good as last as their legs will stand it but they do not show an improvement in their work to-morrow there will be many disappointed fans in Peterborough. Every man worked his head off but the system which comes with practice was not there. To-morrow night should find them a different team and the Midgets have not got the district clinched yet by any means. Strange things have happened in hockey and the Petes with an even break of luck should wallop that Lindsay team right on their own little ice pond. If they don't the Midgets will at least know that they have been in a game.

Last night's game was not rough although the checking was close and it was a splendid exhibition. Neither team had much combination, the Midgets showing a surprising lack of team work, considering the fact that they have been together for four years. They passed all right, using the long range pass across the rink, but three-quarters of the time there was no one there to take the pass. Peterborough on the other hand used the short passing game and managed to get together nicely many times, although there was generally a foozle when in close. Both defences rushed continuously and the game did not drag for an instant.

There were two changes in the Peterborough line-up from the team that defeated the Lindsay team here last week. Morgan and Parnell were off, their places being filled by Leo Quinn, of Lakefield, and Bill Rose. This made a new forward line and they showed that they had not worked together before by the lack of smoothness in their play. Every man worked for all that was in him, but they were handicapped by their lack of practice together. In addition Charlie Ray was rendered almost helpless by a crack over the hand early in the game, which made it almost impossible for him to hold his stick in his hand. As a result the forward line had to be shifted again at half time, Quinn going to centre and Ray dropping back to rover. The forward line did not check back as well as was expected and several times allowed Lindsay to bear down on their defence unchecked, but on the whole their work was most satisfactory and they will do much better to-morrow night in Lindsay.

LEO DEROCHER,

Dusty was about the pick of local forward line last night and did great work on the boards. He carried the puck down the ice time after time on clever rushes along the side and several goals were scored as the result of his aggressive game on the ice. Had there been anyone in centre many times when he worked in among the Lindsay defence, to take his pass, more goals might have hung up to Peterborough's credit. He played a fearless and aggressive game and was given a great hand by the crowd. Leo Quinn, the star Lakefield cover-point, played his first O.H.A. game last night and made a most successful debut. He worked unceasingly and did a lot of useful checking and rushing, boring in on the defence with long, sweeping strides that carried him away from the Lindsay forward line in amazing fashion. Charlie Ray played his usual effective and brilliant game, although badly handicapped by the injury he received in the first few minutes as the result of a vicious chop over the hand. He never let up and his great checking back was of invaluable assistance to his defence. Rose was always in his place at right wing, although he had hard luck in his shooting missing the nets by inches many times after taking a pass to the right nicely. He had his nose broken in practice on Monday night but that did not prevent him from playing a hard game on the boards.

The defence was as good as usual and Lindsay found them a pretty awkward trio to beat. Moore checked and and rushed splendidly, coming up on the line in the second half and helping out his forwards nicely.

Glover played his usual steady, reliable defence game and got away occasionally for a jaunt that revived the crowd. Derocher, as usual, was cool and reliable between the posts and stopped a score of hard shots nicely. Those that beat him, with the exception of one from Taylor's stick, were from close in. He had hard luck once in the second half, when Randall broke through and bored in on the flags. Derocher dived out and charged the oncoming Lindsayite, bodying him off his feet. Before he could secure the rubber, however, Randall had batted it into the empty nets while lying on the ice. It was the right play at the right time on Derocher's part and in nine cases out of ten he would have got away with it.

A big slice of the credit for Lindsay's victory is due to Ken Randall, who played a magnificent game at centre for the visitors. The little forward did two-thirds of the scoring and about two-thirds of the work for the visitors, and had it not been for his aggressive, never ceasing efforts the long end of the score would have remained in Peterborough. Randall had been switched to centre for the game and the move proved a good one, as he was right at home in the position. Stoddard was fast but not effective. He did not seem anxious to come to close quarters with the Petes. Cotey was not himself and Taylor played hockey only in spots, loafing offside and tripping the rest of the time.

Sullivan did good work at cover point, although he marred his playing by constant tripping, for which he was penalized several times. Koyl played a splendid game on the defence and his rushes, although not very effective, were spectacular, and he showed lots of speed. Newton was there with bells on, especially in the last half, when he got himself mixed up with dozens of shots from close in that looked like causing a flag raising at his end of the arena. The last few minutes there was a terrific onslaught upon Newton, but he was there all the time.

Lindsay opened up with a lead of two goals at the middle of the first half, but Peterborough came back with a pair of counters, evening things up and they remained that way until Taylor for Lindsay got a lucky score shortly before half time.

The Petes came with a rush at the beginning of the second half, when they scored two goals inside of two minutes, but Lindsay retaliated with three in a row and the best that Peterborough could do was to find the nets once in the remaining period.

Roy Thomas, of Barrie, the well known goal keeper of the Varsity Hockey Club, was referee and handled the game most satisfactorily. He was strict but impartial and neither team had a word of complaint against his work. He had the players under control all the way.

The teams lined up as follows:

	PETERBOROUGH.
	Derocher
	Glover
	Moore
	Quinn (Ray)
Rose	Ray (Quinn)	Dusty
Taylor	Randall	Cotey
	Stoddard
	Sullivan
	Koyl
	Newton
	LINDSAY.

The ice was in grand condition when Referee Thomas called the teams together at 8.30 and started the battle. The clip set at the start was fast and furious. Peterborough was first to break away, Quinn getting loose for a nice rush, which Sullivan blocked. Dusty shot down the boards in the first of a series of brilliant rushes and passed to Ray, but Sullivan checked the latter and carried the puck back. Goosie Taylor was given a chance at close range but missed the shot by a yard. Koyl got away nicely but Moore dumped him and was sent to the side lines. Stoddard was soon after put away for tripping. The game was fast and decidedly exciting, with both teams working over time. Randall got in close and bored one right at Derocher, but the local's net custodian was there with a timely stop. Quinn went nearly the length of the rink on a grand rush, and passed to Rose but the play was called back for an offside. Taylor tripped Dusty in one of his jaunts and was given the rest cure for two minutes. Ray had two nice openings, but Newton was on the job and pulled both of the shots out. Koyl went up and scored for Lindsay, but was cross-checked by Glover and the referee's bell saved the goal. The local's point was sent away for two minutes. With him still on the fence Randall checked Moore, when the local's cover point started a jaunt, and bored in on Derocher with no one to interfere with him. The Petes' goalkeeper went out at him but Randall slammed the first goal between the poles in fourteen minutes.

Lindsay 1; Peterborough 0.

Koyl got away nicely for a pretty rush at the beginning of the next game but Dusty checked back splendidly and took the rubber from the big Lindsay man, to the great delight of the crowd. Randall, however, carried the puck back and shooting from outside Glover, beat Derocher with a pretty shot in two minutes.

Lindsay 2; Peterborough 0.

Lindsay 2, Peterborough 0.

Peterborough kept hammering along and began to have the better of the play, although it was some time before they could locate the nets. Finally after five and one half minutes of fast hockey had been put on record the puck was passed out to Rose from the corner and the local right wing pushed one past Newton amid great excitement.

Lindsay 2, Peterborough 1.

Dusty got away nicely and passed to Quinn but the latter's shot was wide. A moment after Quinn was benched for tripping Sullivan although it looked like an accident. Playing six men against seven Peterborough still pressed and there was a wild scene when Dusty with a beautiful shot from quarter way placed the puck in the upper corner of the nets after four minute's play.

Lindsay 2; Peterborough 2

Lindsay managed to now and again before half time. Taylor got the puck and rambled up the wing almost into the corner. The Peterborough team was caught napping when he shot from the boards and made a nice centre pass to Stoddard who had nothing to do but bat the rubber by Derocher at close range.

Lindsay 4; Peterborough 4.

One minute later Randall put Lindsay in the lead once more with a pretty rush skating between Moore and Glover and although Derocher went out and bodied him he managed to bat it in while lying on the ice. It was a pretty play on his part.

Lindsay 5; Peterborough 4.

Sullivan and Dusty came to blows and had a violent set-to with fists being finally separated by Referee Thomas assisted by some of the other players. They were given five minutes each and should have been accompanied by Cotey who chipped into the argument and took a swing at Dusty, which the local boy promptly returned. The go was lively while it lasted.

Randall scored Lindsay's last goal with the pair still on the fence. Moore was checked in bringing the puck out from his own goal and Randall had an opportunity of which he made good use.

Lindsay 6; Peterborough 4.

Glover was sent away for cross checking Cotey, but the latter fell before the local man touched him. Ray was hurt but resumed play a moment after. Taylor got a sentence for loafing and Moore got the same dose for bumping Randall. On his return he got away for a nice rush and shot, beating Newton easily.

Lindsay 6; Peterborough 5.

There was plenty of time left for Peterborough to win out but although the locals worked hard and had the puck near the Lindsay goal until time was called, Lindsay managed to stave off defeat until the bell rang. Newton made some wonderful saves at this period which was about the most exciting time in the whole evening's play.

EXCURSION TO LINDSAY TO-MORROW

LOCALS STILL HAVE A CHANCE

Peterborough is not out of the running yet for the championship of the district as a result of last night's game. True a victory for Lindsay away from home makes them logical favourites but the Petes have an even chance to trim them right in Lindsay to-morrow night if that forward line gets working together better. The locals have played in Lindsay enough to familiarize themselves with their surroundings and Leo Quinn used to the Lakefield rink should be thoroughly at home on the smaller playing surface. The boys are going back at Lindsay with the determination to beat them on their own ice and if they don't do it to-morrow night it won't be because they will not have expended every ounce of energy in them. They are just as fast as Lindsay and feel that last night's luck might swing around with them to-morrow night. At any rate they do not considert hemselves beaten for the district yet and to-morrow's game promises to be the most hotly contested of the four games between the two clubs.

A special train has been arranged for to-morrow night leaving the G. T. R. station at 7 o'clock sharp, and it is certain that a big bunch of fans will accompany the team to Lindsay. The local enthusiasts have the fever now and will turn out in large numbers to-morrow night to cheer the Petes on in their last desperate fight for the district championship. The fare has been placed at $1.05 and the special train will leave Lindsay shortly after the game. It will be a great match and it is certain that there will be many Peterborough people on hand for the contest.

RAY OUT OF TO-MORROW'S GAME

BONE IN HIS HAND WAS BROKEN

The Peterborough Intermediate O. H. A. team will be without the services of Charlie Ray in their return game with the Seugog team in Lindsay to-morrow. The speedy little forward is hors de combat, as the result of a bad slash across the back of his right hand, which rendered him almost helpless last night. The smash came early in the first half and broke the bone in his hand but the plucky youngster, who was the lightest man on the ice, never let up although his hand was swollen so badly that he could not close it on his stick, and it was almost impossible for him to shoot. He stayed in the game until the finish and worked unceasingly. It was not until this morning that it was discovered that the bone was broken. Dr. McPherson examined the hand and found that it was fractured and the result is that Ray will be out of the game to-morrow. He deserves the greatest credit for the pluck and grit he showed in working as he did under the circumstances.

Ray's place at centre to-morrow night will be filled by Herb Long, of Strathcona, which will give the team what they need a goal getter. The line last night was just as fast as Lindsay's but there was no one there to take the passes to centre. Long is big and fast, and above all a great shot, and he camps in front of the nets unceasingly. For the past two years he has been regarded as the best goal getter in the city league, and has scored sixteen goals in four games. He should strengthen the line to-morrow and will certainly score if he is fed by his other forwards.

The team will take a skate at the rink to-night, but will not indulge in any heavy work. They will leave for Lindsay on the 5.38 train to-morrow afternoon.

DIVORCE CASES BEFORE THE SENATE

Ottawa, Feb. 10.— One of the most noticeable features of the legislative bill of fare this session is the long list of divorce applications which await hearing before the Senate — almost as many as were granted in the first twenty sessions after confederation. Perhaps it is because of the rapid increase in population, or perhaps the explanation is to be found in the increased wealth of the people which has brought divorce within the means of many persons who in years gone by were debarred therefrom by reason of the considerable expense that is involved.

In Canada Eight Years ago

According to the last census return there were 337 divorced males and 324 divorced females in Canada eight years ago. But from the records of the Dominion Parliament and of the divorce courts which exist in the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia, it is perfectly clear that a perfectly small proportion of these obtained their divorce in this country. Ontario was credited in the census return with 229 divorced persons, of whom twenty-one made their home in Toronto. But how many of these so-called dissolutions of the marriage tie really confer any right on the parties concerned to contract a second marriage? It was stated in a Parliamentary debate which took place in the year that the census was taken that "there are from forty to fifty persons in Toronto who, if the law were rigidly enforced, would be prosecuted for bigamy." This number was possibly an exaggeration.

THE RING.

New York, Feb. 10.— Hugh McIntosh, who managed the Burns-Johnson mill at Sydney, has arrived in London with the moving pictures of the recent championship mill. He says that Burns will arrive in England in about six weeks and will try to get another match with Johnson, probably at the National Sporting Club of London.

McIntosh insists that Burns can defeat Johnson, and says that when they met in Sydney the feeling was so bitter that he was compelled to restrain the big negro from punching the white man before the battle started.

McIntosh states that he will visit America shortly, and that he stands ready to offer a $50,000 purse to affight between Johnson and Jeffries.

Fred Beell, the Wisconsin whirlwind wrestler, and U.S.A. soldier, is pretty sure to appear here this season.

Raoul de Rouen, the Frenchman, will not be allowed to wrestle in Chicago again, owing to his aggressive tactics against Mahmout.

Siegfried, the German wrestler, now in New York, makes a funny proposition to American wrestlers. He will give $100 to Frank Gotch, Yankee Rogers, Beell, Jenkins, or Yusif Mahmout if they will go on the mat with him and $250 more if they will stay unthrown thirty minutes. The German does not explain who gets the balance of what would surely be a $1,500 gate.

If any Toronto bowler gets the silk hat offered by Manager Ryan, Fritz Mohl will never meet Yankee Rogers on Friday unless the big Yankee visits the General Hospital.

Hockey Jones and Billy Samuels meet in one of the preliminaries to the Yankee Rogers-Fritz Mohl bout at Riverdale Rink Friday. The other will see Young Oleson facing that strong boy, Allan Macdonald.

MISS JEAN A. ROBSON WINNING SUCCESS

Former Organist of Knox Church Singing Well.

The social event of the season at Burnbrae was the concert given under the auspices of St. Andrew's Guild last Wednesday evening, in the auditorium of the church.

The main feature of the evening was the singing of Miss Jean A. Robson, of Norwood, formerly chief choir leader and soloist of Knoox Church, Peterborough, who delighted the audience with her selections and called forth much applause, which required a second number in each instance.

Miss Robson is possessed of a sweet, clear voice and her enunciation is particularly good. Her rendering of "The Swallows," by Cowen, was delightful, and the ease with which she sustained her high notes was excellent. "Sunshine and Rain," "Jerusalem," and "Mary of Argyle" were great favourites. "My Ain Vountree" was very much appreciated, as was natural in an audience so loyally Scotch. Miss Robson may be sure of a warm welcome back to Burnbrae.—Campbellford Herald.

WHITE HOUSE STABLES ALMOST ENTIRELY DESTROYED BY AN EARLY MORNING BLAZE TO-DAY

Origin of the Fire a Mystery—Fire Brigade Had a Hard Fight in Controlling the Blaze.

THE LIVE STOCK SAVED

A fire occurred early this morning, in the rear of the White House, on Charlotte street, which completely destroyed the stables attached to the hotel. How the fire started is a mystery to everybody.

Alarm Sent In

Mr. Michael Levesque, an employee of the Fuel and Cartage Company was the first man to see the fire. He has to get up early to feed the horses and while fulfilling his duties he noticed the blaze. He immediately ran to the scene but not seeing the fire brigade went to the police station thinking that the old system of fire alarm was still in vogue. The police immediately telephoned to the fire hall.

Heavy Losses

The fire did considerable damage which can be summed up as follows—

Stable leased by Mr. Bruce Lee, also hay, cutter, robes, and harness. Sheds refrigerator and a valuable bull dog all owned by Mr. White of the White House. Eighteen hundred pounds of tea the property of Daly Tea Company of Napanee, which is insured. There is also $1200 insurance on the stable. There were in the stables at time nine horses, four pigs and a cow, which were all rescued after a great deal of labour on the part of Mr. White and his assistant.

Firemen Worked Hard

When the firemen arrived on the scene the chief saw that it was a case of working from both sides at once to save the adjoining buildings. Two streams were laid on from the hydrant near the hotel on Charlotte street, but this used up the hose carried on that wagon and they went to the hall and loaded up again, this time laying a stream from the corner of Aylmer and Charlotte streets. One stream was not enough to control the flames which were leaping high into the air, so they had to go back for still another load of hose, this time laying a second stream from the same corner, there being over 3000 feet of hose in use. Again the firemen were crippled by no having sufficient men to handle the hose as it takes three men to each nozzle when the high pressure is on. But after an hour's hard fighting with every coat and helmet a sheet of ice, the fire was at last extinguished. This is the second large fire during the week that the firemen have had to combat; the other being the house at the corner of George and Sherbrooke sts. Saturday last.

Max Fife Makes Splendid Showing In University "Exams"

Mr. W. Maxwell Fife, son of Mr. J. A. Fife, formerly of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute staff, has made a splendid showing in the first term examinations of the Alberta University. Max was a pupil of the Collegiate Institute when the family lived in Peterborough, and his earlier education was secured in the public schools of this city. In every branch of his work he took a high standing, a fact that must be very gratifying to himself and to his teachers. The following report is taken from the Edmonton Bulletin:

The results of the first term examinations of Alberta University were posted yesterday afternoon in the University building. The results show that most of the students have made a good showing in the different subjects. Students in class one are those who have made over 75 per cent., those in class two from 60 to 75 per cent., and those in class three from 35 to 60 per cent.

Max stood first in German, the only Arts subject he is taking, and under Applied Science took first place in English, Algebra, Euclid, Solid Geometry, Physics, Descriptive Geometry, Geometrical Drawing and Lettering.

Was President Of Charitable Society For Past Thirty Years

After a long term of office as President of the Society of St. Vincent de Paul, a charitable organization composed of members of the congregation of St. Peter's Cathedral, Mr. Alexander Vinette has resigned and Mr. Harry Carveth is the present holder of that office. The list of new officers appeared a few days ago, but no mention was made of Mr. Vinette's resignation, or of the vote of thanks which he was tendered for his long service as chairman of the society. He has been president for thirty years, since the time that Rev. Father Lynch was in charge of the parish. The first president was a man named Sheridan. The next year Mr. Vinette was elected and has held the position continuously up to his recent resignation. This society has done a great deal of good in relieving the poor and needy of the parish. Very few outside the officers have any idea of the amount of money and goods that they distribute every year. Mr. Vinette has been active in its work and to his efforts is greatly due the success of the society as a charitable institution.

Men Of St. Paul's Church Consider Ways And Means Of Raising Fund

A meeting of the men of St. Paul's Church was held a few nights ago to consider the question of arranging for raising the pledged six dollars from each man for the Laymen's Missionary movement. At the combined meeting some time ago the laymen of the various churches agreed to assist the movement by each giving six dollars towards the general fund. The following committee of St. Paul's Church was appointed to consider the question, Messrs. J. C. Shook (convenor), D. H. Moore, J. D. Collins and Mr. Harstone.

EXHIBIT OF FOREIGN PICTURES HAS BEEN GREAT SUCCESS

The exhibit of foreign paintings and sculpture in the old Bank of Montreal building under the auspices of the Peterborough Branch of the Women's Art Association has been a great success in every way and has been very largely attended during the week. This is not to be wondered at as the exhibit comprises the largest and finest display of pictures ever seen here. They have attracted wide attention and admiration and the members of the association have been congratulated upon all sides upon the treat they have given the people of Peterborough in securing such an exhibit.

The specimens of the work of Miss Katharine E. Wallis, the clever Peterborough sculptress, have been made the subject of much favourable comment especially the one entitled "Thne Cabbage Baby," while "The Pied Piper of Hamlin" is another that has attracted much attention. Miss Wallis' teacher has also a number of specimens of his work on view that are well worth seeing.

Among the pictures, one that has been universally admired during the week is that by Cadenhead, of Edinburgh, entitled "A Drove Road," in which the treatment of the subject is most successful. Much admiration has also been expressed for Walter Crane's picture "A Flower Wedding."

The Dutch water colours are among the features of the exhibit, and of these two water colours by Clinkenberg, in which the sun light effects are wonderful, have been the most popular; Weiland's life studies have attracted considerable attention, while Arntzenius' street scenes and figures have also had their admirers.

The King's Daughters have served tea during the week.

The exhibit will be open to-night from 7.30 to 10 o'clock, and to-morrow morning from 10 to 12, for the benefit of the school children, and will close to-morrow at 6 o'clock.

CHANCE FOR RESTITUTION.

Mr. Borden leader of the Conservative Opposition ,has been regarded, especially by his followers, as something of a Prince Arthur of politics, and by his admirers as a Bayard, sans peur et, especially, sans reproche. But his relations to the forged telegram incident in the British Columbia elections call for a good deal of explaining. We can believe that the telegram sent by Mr. Borden a day or two before the polling was changed to be made to say what he did not say in so many words—that is that he favoured "complete exclusion of Asiatics." But where the trouble comes in, in connection with Mr. Borden's disingenuous reputation for straightforwardness, is that, after knowing for months that his telegram had been changed and used in such a way as to win him at least one seat, he did not take the trouble to set himself right till he was forced to utter his disclaimer in Parliament. On November 26th. Hon. Mr. Templeman was defeated in the general election for the riding of Victoria, B. C., wrote a letter to Mr. Borden asking the latter if the telegram published in the Colonist on Oct. 25th, which Mr. Borden now says was forged or fraudulently changed, was genuine. He received no answer to his letter, which owing to Mr. Borden's absence in the south, the latter did not receive till the middle of December. Beyond any doubt Mr. Borden knew that the telegram had been forged and had won him the seat for his candidate, Mr. G H Bernard. Yet he took no steps to repudiate the crooked despatch, but accepted without protest a supporter whom he knew to have been elected by the most brazen example of political crookedness ever perpetrated in Canada. Only Mr. Borden and the forger and his confidants in British Columbia knew that the telegram as printed and published was a forgery. Of course the forger would keep silent, and Mr. Borden practised a policy of silence. Would he have continued to keep silence, if the matter had not been brought up in the House, when the first knowledge of the forgery became known to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the interpellant, and other members? Mr. Borden owes it to his reputation as a political purist, to give a satisfactory explanation of his silence. Lacking this the conclusion is forced that he had made up his mind to keep not only silence as to the fraud committed, but also to keep the fruits of the fraud, which were the election of a supporter in the person of Mr. Bernard. Mr. Bernard owes his seat in the House to a forgery, will he cling to his unholy gain? Mr. Borden, under compulsion confessed in effect that he owes a supporter in the House to a forgery. He has repudiated the instrument of a political crime, will he repudiate the fruits? He has repudiated the thief, will he accept the stolen goods? Unless Mr. Borden takes the only consistent action possible, his hyper-zealous condemnation of political corruption will suggest the Queen's comment on the lady in Hamlet's play—"The lady doth protest too much, methinks."

It exposure of wrong doing is 'dirty fighting' what terms will describe a condonation, and acceptance of the fruits of wrong doing?

CONSERVING THE CANADIAN RESOURCES.

The address of Mr. Byron E. Walker, recently delivered on the occasion of the annual dinner of the School of Practical Science, refers to a live subject, one that is now engaging the attention of statesmen of both Canada and the United States—the conservation of national resources in their respective countries. Speaking to the toast of Canada, after impressing upon the young men present, the engineers of the future, the necessity of conserving the resources of Canada from the grasping need of the world, which is growing poor in the iron, timber and other treasures, of which this country has an abundance, he is reported as having said:

"A great trust has fallen upon you, young gentlemen. Do not be proud of Canada because you are Canadians, but because the trust falls upon you to develop and conserve our wealth. We and you shall be judged some day by the use we make of it. We in Canada are in great danger to-day. No other country of only 7,500,000 people has such great resources and has at the same time lying to the south the most profligate user of natural resources in the world, and one which to-day has practically exhausted all that it once possessed. Our problem to-day is not to develop Canada's wealth, but to conserve it. If it is true that in a comparatively few years the iron and timber of the United States will be exhausted, do not think that when that time comes we will be allowed to enjoy our own resources at our leisure. The United States will turn like lightning upon them and devour them as fast as it can. So I say, learn to conserve what we own. If you do, in future centuries Canada will be master of the steel trade and rich in lumber and water powers. All the nations will have to come to her. If you do not, if you cannot awake your own consciences and the conscience of the public to the menace to our timber, our water powers, our fisheries, and our farm lands, which lies in the demands of a profligate age, you will have occasion to glory in being cowards, you will have been false to your trust."

The example and success of conservation measures applied to our sources of water in the watershed of the Trent Valley is an object lesson in the application of a broader and more comprehensive scheme of national conservation.

COMING TO REASON.

The terms of the Franco-Canadian Treaty, whose ratification has "hung fire" so long in the French Senate, testifies to the shrewdness of the bargain made by the Canadian statesmen who negotiated it. If it had been as one-sided as Conservative scoffers were wont to claim, if it had been preponderentingly in favour of France as claimed, the French Senate would not have resisted its ratification so persistently as it has done. The influence of the United States has been as strenuously directed as could be done under the circumstances against the adoption of the treaty. It gives Canada such manifest advantage in the matter of agricultural implements especially, as to give a great stimulus to Canadian activities in these lines and represents a corresponding disadvantage to the United States manufacturers. The advantages of the treaty are so palpable that even the Mail and Empire, to which nothing done by or through a Liberal Government can be right, is even changing its mind in regard to the treaty. After antagonizing it for a year the Mail and Empire brings itself to admitting that "it means factories in the Dominion," that the French tariff will keep out United States goods," that "Canada gets a preference," and that as a result "American manufacturers will have to come to Canada to get minimum rates"—all of which was known, to those who would see, from the beginning.

The government that gave a British preference and won a French preference, has not done at all badly.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Mail and Empire maintains a wonderful dreamer on its correspondence staff at Ottawa.

The "Toronto Academy of Medicine" has taken the city milk supply under its wing and issues a certificate of purity. This must mean that it contains no city water.

According to a municipal assessment, Winnipeg has now a total population of 157,885. This represents a growth of 172,251 in population in seventeen years, the population having been in 1891, only 25,634. In 1907 the buildings erected totalled 2,825, of a value of $6,311,140. The great growth of Winnipeg is only a type of the expansion prevailing in the entire west. If figures, as in the case of Winnipeg, were available, the story they would tell would be as gratifying, if not more so, than those applying to the robust and virile metropolis of the west.

Darkest Africa is emerging from the superlative degree. A federation of self-governing colonies, founded on the Canadian model, as now exists, would have been regarded as a diaphanous dream in the darker days of the South African war. It would have been considered a grotesque probability that, within so short a time, a resourceful and implacable enemy should have been conquered and converted into British subjects, possessing all the rights and privileges involved in that relation by the exercise of a magnanimity, new even to traditional British generosity, in dealing with subjugated peoples.

COMPETITIONS IN FIELD CROPS

Mr. William Collins who returned from the meeting of Farm and Exhibitions held in Toronto, is in favour of the standing crops competitions, and thinks that this idea will continue to spread widely throughout the country. Every place that it has been tried it has proved a success and it is likely that something will be done by the Peterborough Exhibition Board to have competitions during the coming year. This has yet to be considered and decided, but the idea is new, though it has made a great gain and is proving of great interest among the farmers.

"DAISY D." CHEESE FACTORY AFFAIRS

Annual Meeting Held and Arrangements Made for Coming Year.

The annual meeting of the Daisy D. Factory was held on Tuesday Feb. 9. With Reeve Comstock in the chair, one of the largest and most successful meetings we ever had was run off quickly. All the old officers were again returned under the same conditions as last year. Mr. Barton gets 1 1-5c. a lb. for making and boxing the cheese. Mr. Morley gets all the whey at 60c per std. of milk. The bidding on the milk routes was keen and interesting, bringing the drawing of the milk down about a dollar per standard lower than last year. The factory will be much larger this year and the annual meeting will be held in the fall. The meeting closed with three cheers for the King and the Chairman, after which the patrons heaped such a weight of praise on the cheese maker that the cement floor fairly groaned under the laudable ponderous Gilbert Aaron while he cheerfully dismissed the audience. —Norwood Register.

WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT THE BEEF

Hughes Wants to Know Why Britain Neglected Canada.

LANCASTER BILL PASSES

Level Crossings' Measure Gets Third Reading In Commons — Col. Sam Will Propound Query Regarding British Army Contract For Beef Given to Chicago Firm—Mr. Monk Criticizes Prisons.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—E. H. Lewis has given notice that he will move for an export duty on pulpwood.

Col. Sam Hughes will question the Government as to the announcement that the British Government has contracted with foreign firms for large quantities of canned meat for the army and navy.

The colonel's concluding enquiry reads: "Is it the custom of the British Government to favor foreign nations with whom it wishes to cultivate friendship, and persons other than those loyal to Britain and her institutions, to the detriment and exclusion of those loyal and true to Britain and her institutions?"

"Then," said Mr. Foster, "I would like to know if the patronage system is to be abolished from all the Departments?" and Sir Wilfrid said, "I think that is the practice that is being followed in every Department, but to make doubly sure I will reserve my answer till I make further enquiries."

In supply, Hon. Jacques Bureau yesterday had the penitentiaries' estimates to guide through. He declared that when supplies were required for the penitentiaries prices were obtained from all reputable firms.

Explaining a reduction of $40,000 in the amount required for the industries of Kingston Penitentiary, Mr. Bureau said the Department was not buying hemp for the making of twine. There were on hand 320,000 pounds of twine and 210,000 pounds of fibre. The average manufacturing of twine was 400,000 pounds of twine, but last year the sales fell off. Considerable sums were due the Department from farmers, and it had been decided to continue the industry on a cash basis.

Mr. Monk had been informed that 6 pews were manufactured in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary for a church in Ottawa at a cost of $100 or so, and that the pews were worth in the open market $960. Mr. Bureau explained that the lumber was supplied to the inspector of prisons, as is contribution to his own church. There were only 42 pews, and the actual cost of the labor, $106, was paid by the congregation.

"It was done before," said Mr. Bureau, "in Sir John Thompson's time when he paid for stone for a church in Portsmouth, out of his own pocket."

Col. Sam Hughes, however, declared that Sir John Thompson paid for the work so that it wouldn't come out of the people of Canada, and punished the officials responsible.

Mr. Monk said the truth was that there were "serious disorders of that character" at St. Vincent de Paul, and it was remarkable that the inspector had power to order work done for outside parties.

Dr. Barr moved the second reading of his bill to facilitate the crossing of railway tracks by telegraph, telephone, electric or water companies. It gets rid of a $5 payment for the privilege and requires the railway to take the application to the Railway Commission within 15 days if objection is taken.

Mr. Graham said it was a serious matter. Such application should be referred to the Railway Commission and entirely controlled by the body.

The bill went to the railway committee.

W. F. Maclean (South York) on Monday will move for a copy of all orders-in-council in regard to increases in the capital stock of the C.P.R. since 1902, and for an order-in-council passed about 1902; for an immediate reference to the courts to ascertain the capital actually expended in the construction of the C.P.R., described in the original charter of the company.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Maclean asked the Minister of Railways whether he could say after investigation if there had been a reference to the courts, as promised by Mr. Sifton. Mr. Graham promised an answer in a few days.

When the third reading of the Lancaster Level Crossing Bill was called, there was no word from the Minister of Railways as to the desired Mabee opinion, and the bill was declared carried without a protest.

Railway Committee Meets.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—The Railway Committee of the House yesterday reported five bills, three of which were in charge of Alex. Smith, the well-known Ottawa lawyer. The Brandon Transfer Railway Co. have their construction charter renewed five years; the Canadian Western Railway Co. is incorporated to build from the boundary to Calgary via Crow's Nest, and the Collingwood Southern Railway Co. had its charter rights to connect with the C.P.R. extended. Sharpe (Montreal) opposed the bill to renew the charter rights of the Huron & Ontario Railway Co. on the ground that it was a blanket charter being exploited by promoters. Pardee (Lambton) supported it, and it passed.

Sir Andrew Fraser Coming.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—The officers of the Canadian National Missionary Congress announce that a cablegram has just been received from Sir Andrew Fraser, stating that he will be present at the congress March 31 to April 4.

Sir Andrew is the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and attempts to assassinate him have been made twice recently by disaffected residents of India—once while presiding at a great Y.M.C.A. meeting, and another time while on a train.

THE FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

Conference in Toronto is Attended by Governor-General.

MUST CONSERVE RESOURCES

Speakers Urge Steps to Prevent Wholesale Slaughter of Canada's Timber Wealth—Destructive Clearing of Land Lowers Water Levels—Supply is Large But Much of It Is Inaccessible.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—The Canadian Forestry Association opened a two-days' special meeting at Convocation Hall yesterday morning. The opening session was attended by Earl Grey, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. J. M. Gibson, Hon. Mr. Tweedie of New Brunswick, and a number of other leaders in the reforesting movement. President W. B. Snowball was chairman.

His Excellency in opening the convention said:

"For the last 133 years in the United States the principle of individual enterprise for personal benefit with selfish disregard for the public interest, would appear to have been allowed unchecked and unregulated sway. It is now realized that unless the people of the whole continent of North America adopt the principle of subordinating individual interests to the well-being of the community, they must eventually drift into a state of material as well as moral bankruptcy."

Earl Grey suggested that the association should consider the desirability of publishing with illustrations President Roosevelt's message to Congress regarding forest destruction. He hoped that the care of the forests would for a time become the first object of the Canadian people.

Hon. J. M. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor, gave an official welcome to the visitors from other provinces. For three years as Minister of Crown Lands he was at the head of the forests department of the province. When in that position he propounded the policy that areas unfit for agricultural purposes should be set apart as forest areas.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, said he feared the Canadian people traded too much in the vast figures publicly quoted of the forest reserves. A vast proportion of this lay outside the present commercial world. It was because he was going to Washington next week to the convention there that he had left his Parliamentary duties to obtain the benefit of the reports and addresses at this meeting. The general public should have the fact impressed upon them that deforestration has rendered it necessary to deepen several of the Canadian harbors, and is responsible for fluctuations in the depth of the St. Lawrence.

Frank Hawkins, secretary of the Canadian Lumbermen's Association, said that the water in Lake Temiskaming was reported this year as 19 feet lower than ever before. This showed what deforestration meant.

The afternoon session opened with a paper by A. T. Drummond, who is in Europe. It was read by Mr. Campbell of Ottawa. The paper was on "The Practical Side of the Forestry Question," and emphasized the importance of the enforcement of the regulations for the prevention of forest fires. The writer declared the present penalties were too light and the law was ignored. Mr. Drummond urged the convention to call for a penalty of two years' imprisonment without the option of a fine.

President Snowball, in his address, said:

"As an association, we have every reason to feel that we have taken no small part in the awakening of public sentiment regarding forest preservation, along advanced lines. Largely through the instrumentality of our association, the University of Toronto has organized a faculty of forestry, with Dr. Fernow as dean. In my own province, too, we have established a department of forestry in the University of New Brunswick, with Prof. R. B. Miller, M.A., M.F., in charge. Personally, I do not think that any Government should stop with the establishment of forestry schools, but they should also appoint lecturers to visit the forested portions of the different provinces and give practical talks on forestry subjects in language easily understood by those who cannot attend college, but who are anxious to extend their present knowledge of the subject.

No Army of ...

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—Militia headquarters disclaim any knowledge of the reported negotiations of Mr. Haldane, referred to in a London cable, for an army of empire.

It may have referred to the negotiations which have been in progress for some time past for the formation of an imperial general staff.

Fourth Victim of Fire.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—Gertrude Slack, the 19-year-old daughter of W. G. Slack, treasurer of the Bell Telephone Co., died yesterday as the result of injuries sustained three weeks ago when three of her sisters were burned to death.

Gives Himself Up.

Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 12.—Joseph Adams, 26 years old, who claims he is wanted by the authorities of Quebec, Canada, on two charges of false pretenses, has surrendered himself, and is being held pending word from Canada.

According to the young man, his father is mayor of Disraeli, Canada.

Smashes Window; Steals Watches.

Winnipeg, Feb. 12.—A daring robbery was committed early yesterday morning in the department store of Jerry Robinson & Co. Prizes for the big bonspeil now in progress were on exhibition in the window. A thief threw a brick through the plate-glass window and made away with three gold watches.

DID YOU EVER FIGURE THE COST of a single day's baking—the material, fuel, time and labour—and consider that it is all wasted if the baking is a failure?
Results are usually satisfactory or otherwise according to the flour you use. Is it economy, then, to use a flour of uncertain quality when a few cents more will buy a flour that you can depend upon to produce light, criso and wholesome bread or pastry?
Royal Household Flour
Royal Household flour does not vary in quality—does not disappoint. It is made from selected hard wheat, milled by a most modern process which guarantees absolute purity. And purity in flour is a matter of the very greatest importance.

Northcote and Canada.

London, Feb. 12.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—Lord Northcote yesterday acknowledged an address from the municipality of Exeter, his former constituency, referring to the fact that the Canadian flag was flying over the Guildhall, said it must be taken as a compliment to Lady Northcote only, not as a prophecy concerning himself.

Two Perish In Fire.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—Two bodies were recovered yesterday from the ruins of the Wabash railroad warehouse, which was burned on Wednesday night, with a loss of $500,000.

Thomas Malone, a watchman, lost his life in an endeavor to reach the fire alarm box in the building.

The Only Alteration.

Paris, Feb. 12.—The supplementary convention to the Franco-Canadian commercial treaty of 1907, as amended, differs from the original treaty only in the transfer from the French minimum tariff to the general tariff of Canadian cattle fattened for slaughter.

Stole Three Miles of Wire.

SHAKE THIS WELL IN A BOTTLE
A Highly Recommended Prescription For Kidney and Bladder Troubles
IT IS MIXED AT HOME.
There are more cases of kidney trouble here now than ever before, while recent reports show that more people succumb each year to some form of kidney disease than any other cause.
When there is sickness, examine the urine. Rheumatism is only a symptom of kidney trouble. It is nothing more or less than excessive uric acid in the blood, which the sluggish, inactive kidneys have failed to sift out, leaving it to decompose and settle about the joints and muscles, causing intense suffering; frequently resulting in deformity; often reaching the heart, when death ensues.
Pains across the back, frequent painful and suppressed urination and other symptoms of weak bladder are not the only signs of kidney trouble; many cases of stomach disease, headache, pain in the heart, inactive liver, etc., are but symptoms; the cause of which can be traced to feeble, clogged kidneys.
A simple test of the urine is to void a small quantity in a bottle or glass and let it stand over night; next morning, if there is a reddish brick-dust sediment, or white fleecy substance present, either consult some reputable physician or take a good vegetable treatment. The following prescription is highly recommended in these cases, and the sufferer can mix it at home: Compound Kargon, one ounce; Fluid Extract Dandelion, one-half ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well and use in teaspoonful doses after each meal and at bedtime.
Where any of the symptoms enumerated above are present, good results are sure to follow immediately on the use of this simple prescription.

PRESENTATIONS MADE UPON THEIR DEPARTURE FOR LAKEFIELD

The Norwood Register says:—

A merry company, comprising people of both sexes and of all ages, numbering upwards of one hundred and twenty-five gathered on Friday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Webster in the Township of Dummer to spend the evening with them and their daughter prior to their removal to Lakefield. Though unbidden and unexpected they were received by the good man of the house and his esteemed wife and daughter in that hospitable manner so characteristic of them, and which at once allayed any feeling on the part of the company that their visit was considered in any sense an intrusion, and thay were soon in complete possession of the place without the slightest show of resistance.

After all had gathered and Mr. and Mrs. Webster and family had greeted and made their visitors as comfortable as possible, the company made known their mission — a kindly worded address being used as the medium, and which was read by Miss Beatrice Jenkins, while Messrs. Richard Patterson and Ebenezer Jenkins presented Mr. and Mrs. Webster and their daughter Nellie with two very handsome Morris chairs and a purse of money.

Mr. Webster, on behalf of his wife, his daughter and himself, replied in terms of warm appreciation, thanking the company for their gifts and especially for the address accompanying the same. The gifts would serve to remind them of the donors, but they would derive more real pleasure from the words of the address and the fact that they carry with them to their new home the esteem and good wishes of their friends and neighbours among whom they had lived for so many years. As he resumed his seat the strains of "Auld Lang Syne" were caught up by the company and sung with much heartiness by all present.

Short addresses then followed by Mr. F. Kincaid, Rev. H. A. Frost and Councillor Rork Ferguson, after which the ladies brought out from various hiding places numerous baskets filled with the most toothsome viands which they served out until the desire of the most fastidious was fully satisfied.

Music, games and social conversation were then indulged in and the night was far spent before the last of the company sought the shelter of their own homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Webster expect to move very shortly to Lakefield. Their son, Mr. Lorne Webster, will remain on the old homestead.

THE PERMANENT ORCHESTRA AT CONSERVATORY HALL

At the Conservatory of Music Hall last night another mile post, to mark the musical progress of the city, was set up. Peterborough has now a permanent orchestra of which it may justly be proud. The chief feature of the second annual concert of the Peterborough Conservatory of Music was the opening performance of a permanent orchestra which Mr. Gliddon has organized and has had under his skillful training for several months. It consists of about twenty-five capable members. Its instrumentation is well balanced and singularly effective for such a number of members. The orchestra gave a splendid account of itself last night, was enthusiastically received by a critically capable, but not large audience, and in every way justified its existence; and it excellence of work is a condition also warranted the application of the title permanent. It is certainly good enough to last, and it is hoped that it will receive the hearty appreciation and substantial encouragement of the public. It is a splendid beginning and a powerful hint of the possibility of successfully organizing the musical forces of the city along vocal as well as instrumental lines.

Mr. Gliddon certainly set a rather stiff test programme before his orchestra, but it proved equal to the demands made upon its musical, its technical and expressive resources. Its first number, a double one, included a Wagner March and the Pilgrim's Chorus from "I Lombardi." The performance of the opening piece was at once a surprise and a delight. The attack was prompt, the harmony invariably good, the shading and smoothness of progress and retrogression of crescendo and diminuendo were quite artistic. In the Novelette, "American Patrol" the motifs indicating advance and retirement were most delicately worked out. The third orchestral number a march and Verdi's Anvil Chorus, showed, especially the latter, most effective and artistic work, and so aroused the enthusiasm of the audience, as to necessitate repetition. The closing number, several movements from Gounod's "Faust" was a crescendo in the harmonic progression of good performance that marked the orchestra's work. It bristled with little pitfalls of tempo and scoring but the players kept well to the mark, and the grand finale was worked up to a triumphant climax which was very cordially applauded.

Miss Julia Choate, a young violin artiste of excellent proficiency and promise of greater things gave an artistic interpretation of Hubay's "Hagre Kati," in which clarity and smoothness of tone, technical facility and some admirable double-stopping were delightfully in evidence. In response to a hearty recall she gave a charmingly sympathetic performance of "Traumerei."

The crowning artistic distinction given the programme was the splendid singing of Miss Hope Morgan, a quite exquisite Toronto soprano, who delighted a Peterborough audience last night for the first time. Her voice, perfected under the training of the best London masters and the great Marchesi, is a rich, pure, sweet, flexible soprano, used with a method and taste that give the best artistic results. She excels, in, or her selections at least called for, brilliant felicity in dainty cadenzas roulades and trills ,of the florid school as in Meyerbeer's "Nobile Signor" from The Huguenots. At her second appearance a four-group number in their contrasting themes and sentiments, gave opportunity for the charming display of her vocal and interpretative versatility. She was heartily applauded and repeatedly recalled. Her concluding three-group number ended in a decided ovation, and the enthusiasm was not lessened by her delightfully sprightly singing of "Comin' Through the Rye." Miss Hope Morgan can always count upon a warm welcome in Peterborough.

Miss Mabel McCaw, a member of the Conservatory staff, presided at the piano. She furnished the accompaniments for both the orchestra and for Miss Morgan and in both capacities she displayed well judged skill and sympathy.

Taken as a whole the concert, whether regarded as a musical repast or highly successful introduction of the Conservatory permanent orchestra was a most gratifying and encouraging success, except in point of attendance, a feature, however, which is sure to be remedied in the future, for the orchestra showed itself good enough last night to deserve and command, public recognition.

Farmer Wanted Helper To Pay His Board And Do The Regular Farm Work

A young Englishman, who had been working as helper on a farm, wrote a letter to the Examiner a few days ago, in which he stated that he had been engaged by the farmer and was offered only two dollars a month for his services, which included tasks of almost every description around the barn yard. Another has written stating his experience, which is better than the other man, as he was asked to pay the farmer two dollars a week for board, although he was doing regular helping work.

His letter is as follows:

Mr. Editor,—I saw your paragraph in the Evening Examiner of February 9th, relating the experience of an immigrant who was asked to do many tasks for $2 per month. I can tell you an absolutely true story which beats that, and it occurred in an adjoining township. I hired in June at $15 a month till the end of October, and a promise of work for the winter. At the end of October the man was very anxious for me to go, and suggested I should go away for say a couple of weeks and look for a job, and if I couldn't get one I was to go back. I failed to find a job and went back, and the farmer said he couldn't possibly find me work (as promised), but made the following princely offer. I was to clean out the cow stable, 30 head; horse stable, 7 horses; and pig pen, 17 pigs; and to pay him $2 a week for board. That, of course, I would not take in, but was obliged to stay and work for my board, doing all the chores, as the farmer and his son were always away, drawing wood, etc. I was up often at 5 and was not supposed to begin feeding up for the night till 8 p. m. I was sent out to load up wood, get in ice and to sawing bees. This latter business was the greatest "gall" of all, as not only was I not getting wages, but it cost me money, as I wore out two pair of mitts, which there was no offer to replace. I think this is a record, especially the suggestion that I should do all the dirty work, and in addition, pay the farmer $2 a month for board. Surely that's "the limit," and then farmers complain of the difficulty of the "help" question.

Plea For Preservation Of Some Of Canada's Historical Spots

Splendid Address by Mr. Barlow Cumberland Before the Historical Society—The Attack on Fort York Vividly Told in Detail—An Example to Young Canadians.

IMPORTANT RESOLUTION.

New feelings of national pride, a deeper sense of respect and reverence for our forefathers, who were struggling in this country one hundred years ago, and a stronger idea of the heritage that is ours, were the sentiments which were evoked by Mr. Barlow Cumberland's address last night before the Historical Society, on the interesting subject of "The Attack on Fort York." The minutest detail of this incident of the campaign of 1813, in the War of 1812-14 was told in a graphic and eloquent manner. The struggle of the hardy Canadians, weak in number and in equipment, in the face of a formidable armament is one of the events of our history which Mr. Cumberland with others is striving to have commemorated by the restoration of the old fort, as one of the monuments of our advance during the two centuries of Canada's existence as a nation. It is now in disrepair and in a condition even worse than ruin. The speaker spoke of it as a breeder of disease, a dumping ground for refuse, a standing monument of disgrace to the city of Toronto, which years ago undertook to repair, restore and beautify it.

The Speaker

Mr. Cumberland is president of the Ontario Historical Society, which has opposed Toronto's apathy and neglect in this regard, and Mr. Cumberland himself has been active to see this old memorial restored to stand as a rallying point for Canadian sons and daughters, teaching them the duty they owe in defence of their native land, and as a monument to the brave days of old.

Everyone of us who has studied in the fourth book remembers with pride and elation the War of 1812. The sturdy struggles of the Canadians of Upper and Lower Canada who were aided by their loyal Indian allies, withstood and drove back the forces of the United States, at a time when England could lend but scant assistance to her colony in America. The war crushed the aspirations of the new country to the south of us, putting England's then greatest stronghold in North America, and many of our former fellow-citizens rent by the losses of fathers and sons who heroically gave up their lives for the interests they held most dear, and for the young nation they were battling up with great toil and hardship.

The general facts of the campaign of 1813 are already well known. The United States forces were to attack the west, the Niagara frontier in the Canada at three points, at Detroit on centre and at Montreal in the east.

Fort York

Fort York, Toronto of the present day, was weakly provided with defences. General Dearborn who lead the invading forces in the centre was vastly superior in his equipment of ships, men and guns.

In the spring of 1813 at four o'clock in the afternoon of April 26 the United States fleet was sighted approaching York. A long watch was kept by the Canadians that night but the enemy did not land. Tuesday morning a fresh breeze carried the ships into Humber Bay, where they anchored in the eastern end. That day's events as told by Mr. Cumberland, happened too quickly and were too numerous for this report. The invaders advanced towards the Fort, their numbers and equipment proving too formidable for the small Canadian band. In the afternoon the magazine within the palisade was blown up causing great loss of life to the enemy and about forty Canadians were killed. Of the former the gallant General Pike the young and dashing leader of the land forces was fatally injured dying shortly afterwards.

Mr. Cumberland's address was a strong appeal to the patriotic spirit to preserve our historic places. It is not amiss, he said, to recall the stories of one of the early days, when our country was but in its beginning, so that we may learn to cherish the peace by which we are now surrounded."

Mr. T. A. S. Hay, President of the Peterborough Historical Society was chairman of the evening and introduced the lesturer in a few appropriate words.

At the conclusion, Mr. Cumberland was extended a hearty vote of thanks on motion of Sheriff Hall and Col J. Z. Rogers both of whom expressed the pleasure and profit they had derived from Mr. Cumberland's splendid address. Mr. A. P. Poussette stated that the lecture had been very instructive and entertaining. He was much in favour of having historical locations preserved. Mr. H. Walker, Mr. J. H. Burnham, Mr. A. Mowat and Mr. H. K. H. Kenner expressed their sympathy with the movement of restoring Fort George and of commemorating other historical events which Mr. Cumberland had mentioned.

At the close of the address the following resolution was adopted—

Moved by Dr. Morrison and seconded by Mr. A. P. Poussette and resolved 'That the Peterborough Historical Society and this assembly are of opinion and strongly urge that the old Fort of Toronto should for all time be preserved in its integrity as a fitting monument to the valour of our ancestors who so ably defended our country against the encroachment of the foe.

And further that it would be worse than vandalism to permit the identity of that historic site to be in any way impaired, but rather that it should as much as possible be restored to and maintained in its antiquity.'

STEEL STOCK HAS SOARED

Privy Council Gives Company Victory in Big Lawsuit.

COAL COMPANY IS LIABLE

Dominion Coal Co. Must Keep to Its Contract to Supply Coal to Dominion Iron & Steel Co. For $1.24 Per Ton For Ninety Years—Must Pay Damages For Repudiating Their Agreement.

London, Feb. 12.—The Judicial Committee of the Privy Council gave decision yesterday in favor of the Dominion Iron & Steel Co., directing that the Dominion Coal Co. must pay damages for the repudiation of its 90-year contract to supply coal at $1.24 per ton. Thus the most important suit from a monetary standpoint in the history of Canada is won by the Steel Company.

The following is the last paragraph of the Privy Council's finding: "The judgment orders that the case be remitted to the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia to have the damages for repudiation of contract, and in respect of the breaches committed before the repudiation, namely, to Oct. 31, 1908, assessed. The appellants are ordered to pay the costs of the principal appeal, but no order is made regarding the costs of the cross-appeal, so both parties will have to pay their own costs in that regard."

Lord Atkinson, consequent upon the death of Lord Robertson, read the judgment. After a lengthy resume of the facts of the case, their lordships declared it was not a case wherein it was necessary to import by implication words into the contract in order to effectuate the common intention of the parties to it. The strenuous contention of the Coal Company that the phrase "reasonably free from stone and shale," which appeared in the contract, implied that the coal to be supplied to the Steel Company should be only as free from stone and shale as reasonable and proper picking could make it, apart from impurities in the laminae permeating the coal, cannot be sustained. The words meant that the coal must be reasonably free in fact.

Effect In Canada.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—The announcement of the decision was the prominent factor at the Toronto Stock Exchange. Brokers and clients collaborated and endeavored to get enlightenment from one another in regard to what the decision really meant, but at the close of the day no distinct opinion was held as to the actual influence which the two involved stocks should show from the announcement:

With the decision in favor of the Steel Company and the estimate that the Coal Company may have to pay the Steel Company untold millions in settlement, the pool in the Steel shares advanced their specialty many points. Steel common ran up 4 points, Steel preferred almost 20 points, and the bonds 5 points.

Dominion Coal shareholders were naturally depressed with the decision. Some frightened holders of stock sought to get out before the actual result of the verdict was announced, but be it said to the credit of local holders of the Coal shares only 150 shares represented the total transactions, although the decline was nearly 15 points below last Saturday's price.

At the close of the market the confidence in the belief the Coal Company would succumb under the decision of the Privy Council was not so pronounced.

Detriment to Navigation.

Ottawa, Feb. 12.—The Dominion Marine Association yesterday afternoon appointed a committte to oppose before the Waterways Commission the power development on navigable streams, as being detrimental to navigation.

An amendment compelling all passenger vessels to register and become liable under the Shipping Act will be asked of the Government.

These officers were elected: President, C. J. Smith, Montreal; vice-presidents, H. H. Gildersleeve, Collingwood, and F. Plummer, Toronto.

Against Franchise For Women.

Dublin, Feb. 12.—The Irish National Convention defeated by a large majority h motion that the Parliamentary franchise be extended to Irish women on the same terms as the men.

A WOMAN'S BACK WAS NOT MADE TO ACHE.

Thousands of Women Suffer Untold Misery Every Day With Aching Backs That Really Have No Business To Ache.

Under ordinary conditions it ought to be strong and ready to bear the burdens of life.

It is hard to do housework with an aching back. Backaches come from sick kidneys, and what a lot of trouble sick kidneys cause,

But they can't help it. If more work is put on them than they can stand it is not to be wondered that they get out of order.

Backache is simply a warning from the kidneys and should be attended to immediately so as to avoid years of terrible suffering from kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills will cure you in the same way as they have cured thousands of others.

SEVERE PAINS IN BACK.

Mrs. O. Warren, Radisson, Sask., writes: "I was troubled with very severe pains in my back for years. I tried everything I could think of but they did me no good. A friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills and after taking two boxes, I have not been troubled since."

Price 50 cents per box, or 2 for $1.25, all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

When ordering specify "Doan's."

SORE THROAT, COLDS ON THE CHEST, & CATARRH.

DID YOU KNOW THIS?

That Zam-Buk is now used as the leading family balm throughout four continents, and that the majority of the population of the globe use it, and prefer it! Surely, to gain this eminence, it must have unusual merit! That unusual excellence lies in the fact that it is nothing more nor less than Nature's own healer. Compounded as it is of pure herbal extracts and juices, it may be said to be independent of human knowledge. The human element in Zam-Buk is merely the putting together of the component parts. Nature merely provides the curative properties. The proprietors of Zam-Buk merely hand them out in concentrated handy form. In using Zam-Buk, therefore, you are "going back to mother Nature"—the kindest, wisest, and the only "never-failing nurse" in creation.

Wherever there is soreness, irritation, inflammation, Zam-Buk will give you ease. In cases of sore throat it is without equal. Place a layer of Zam-Buk on the sides of the throat as near the seat of pain as possible, and then gently rub it well in. Don't press too hard, but rub with a circular motion of the fingers. The healing essences will sink into the tissues, become absorbed, and then commences at once a soothing, healing process. Next, spread on a piece of undyed flannel another layer of Zam-Buk and wrap this round the throat, taking care that while it "sits" well on the neck it is not too tight.

Mothers who do this as soon as the children complain of sore throat, will be amply repaid for their trouble. The little ones get ease very speedily, and generally when this treatment is followed at night, by next morning the sore throat is pretty nearly cured. In stubborn cases two or three applications of Zam-Buk should be made.

In cases of colds on the chest, "tightness," and difficulty of breathing, rub Zam-Buk well into the skin of the chest.

For Catarrh also, Zam-Buk is a perfect cure, as the following cases illustrate. Every home should have its box of Zam-Buk always handy for there is nothing like it for the diseases of and injuries to the skin and subjectal tissue.

ZAM-BUK IS A SURE CURE FOR CATARRH.

The following are but a few out of thousands of similar statements made by grateful patients who have tested the merits of Zam-Buk in cases of catarrh, colds on the chest, etc.

Mrs. B. Gorie, 76, Berkeley St., Toronto, writes:—"I cannot speak too highly of Zam-Buk. I have used it for some time and find it an excellent remedy for colds in the throat, chest, and rheumatism in the limbs. A few weeks ago I was suffering from a bad cold, which had settled in my throat, chest, and limbs. I tried all kinds of remedies, new and old, but yet found very little relief until I used Zam-Buk. On rubbing some well into my throat and chest I found such ease and relief from the tightness and soreness, that I determined to use only Zam-Buk. I also rubbed this balm on my limbs whenever I felt the rheumatic pains to which I was subject. In 3 days from the time I first began applying Zam-Buk I was free from the cold in throat and chest, and afterwards the rheumatism was driven by it from my limbs. I have the greatest faith in Zam-Buk and will always use it to prevent colds getting deep-seated."

Miss Ruth V. Carr, of Grantley (Ont.), says:—"Recently I had a sore on the inside of my nostril, and at the same time was suffering with catarrh. I put some Zam-Buk inside my nose to cure the sore, and was surprised how the evaporating healing essences gave me ease from the catarrh."

WHAT ZAM-BUK CURES.

Zam-Buk is a certain cure for piles, festering sores, blood poisoning, cuts, burns, bruises, ulcers, scalds, chapped hands, cold cracks, eczema, scalp sores, ringworm, bad leg, and all skin injuries and diseases. Rubbed well into the parts affected it cures sciatica, rheumatism, and sciatica. All druggists and stores sell it, 50c. box; three for $1.25, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

Voices from many Homes.

Here are a few expressions from homes in various parts of the dominion showing how universal is the adoption of Zam-Buk, and how wide its uses. Keep a box always handy!

"My hand was crushed by a heavy mould falling on to it, and for some days I could not use it. We bandaged it in Zam-Buk, which reduced the swelling and healed the serious wounds." So says Mr. Wm. Burdett, of 198, Simcoe Street, Hamilton (Ont.)

Mr. E. Jasper, of Hartney (Man.), says:—"I had some very troublesome cold-sores, which defied all ordinary treatment. Zam-Buk healed them."

Mrs. Plastow, of High River (Alta.), says:—"Zam-Buk healed my hands, which were frost-bitten and covered with cold-cracks." Similar testimony is borne by Mr. A. Redmond, of Kimberley (B.C.)

Mr. J. Parkinson, of East Clifton (Que.), says:—"I had an ulcerated leg for six years. All the remedies I tried during that period proved unable to heal the sore, but I am delighted to say that Zam-Buk proved successful."

Mr. Alf Hy. Orth, of Shipley (Ont.), ran a rusty nail into his finger. Blood poisoning ensued, and he had a frightfully bad hand. "I was told nothing would do me good but Zam-Buk," he said "so tried this balm. The advice was sound enough, and in a week my hand was quite cured. I think Zam-Buk a really wonderful healer."

SWYRYDA EXECUTED.

Murderer of Okula Linteck Protests Innocence to the Last.

Brampton, Feb. 12.—Proclaiming his innocence, Steffan Swyryda stepped on to the gallows 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and without a tremor, allowed Radcliffe to send him into eternity.

After a sleepless night, spent entirely in meditation and prayer, he refused breakfast and was ready to meet his spiritual adviser and father confessors with a clean eye and pronounly earnest face before 5 a.m. His confession was completed before Rev. Father Morrow of Orangeville, and Rev. Father B. Jasiak, Polish priest of West Toronto, at 7.55. At the conclusion he eagerly seized the crucifix and smothered the sacred emblem on all sides with kisses. Then, reverently kissing the hands of both priests, he turned to gaze upon the county officials and reporters who were ushered into the execution corridor by Jailer Wilson. Catching sight of Interpreter Ignatius Kolaszynski, he grasped both his hands, kissed them, then kissed him on each cheek and the mouth.

"I want to speak with the people," he said, in a voice husky with emotion, and as Radcliffe and the priests stepped aside he raised his hands and unfalteringly proclaimed: "Well, people, I'm no guilty. Please, I'm no guilty. Only guilty before the people; no guilty before God."

Swyryda was also much attached to Guard James Young, who did death watch duty. To Young the condemned man on Wednesday declared: "I no go to hell; but go to heaven, because I no kill that boy."

Interpreter Kolaszynski says that Swyryda told him last week that it was "not me, but Mike took the boy away; but me no say Mike killed him."

Suicides In Church.

Chicago, Feb. 12.—A room filled with gas in the rear of the church in which he had been financial secretary, a letter of farewell written on the back of a map of the Holy Land which hung on the wall—this was the setting of the closing scene of the life of Annel de Pue, who, despite the spelling of his name, claimed to be a distant relative of Senator M. Depew.

De Pue was financial secretary for the Rosedand Central Presbyterian Church. The widow testified yesterday that her husband had told her that he had been systematically blackmailed since his boyhood, but he never told her the details. Recently the trustees of the church accused the financial secretary of a shortage of several hundred dollars. After insisting on his innocence, De Pue promised to return the money last Monday night. In this he failed.

Distinction For Berlin.

Berlin, Ont., Feb. 12.—Big things are ahead of St. Jerome's College of this town, the school having been appointed headquarters of the noted order of Fathers of the Resurrection for North America. The Most Rev. Archbishop Weber, who resigned the position of Archbishop of Lemberge, in Austria, has just arrived from Rome, where he was appointed by Pope Pius a consulter of the index, and Archbishop Weber will have charge of the novitiate of the order, for the accommodation of which a large new block will be erected at the Duke and Yonge street corners of St. Jerome's square.

Another large new addition to be erected this year, side facing College street, will be a modern gymnasium and assembly hall. It will compare favorably with any gymnasium in the province.

Rink Can't Draw Color Line.

London, Feb. 12.—An attempt to draw the color line met with signal failure yesterday at Birmingham, where an effort was made to exclude a negro student of the university from the local skating rink.

The students took up the negro's cause and hired a lawyer to oppose the renewal of the rink's license. The management of the rink apologized in court.

BLYTHE FACES GALLOWS.

Agincourt Wife-Beater Is Sentenced to Hang on May 13.

Toronto, Feb. 12.—Walter Blythe was yesterday sentenced to be hanged May 13 for beating his wife to death with a poker at Agincourt early in January. He took the sentence quietly, in the presence of a crowded courtroom.

Justice Riddell, addressing Blythe, said the evidence had been convincing and clear. His life and fate should be a warning to others.

"There is much that is good in you, and much that is good may, and should be said of you," said his lordship. "A hard-working man, a faithful servant, thrifty and careful, gladly thinking and, perhaps, modestly boasting of the small savings which you were able to make, you did not squander your earnings in unnecessary luxuries or debasing debauch. It would seem that your little home was kept well supplied with all that was necessary, and that you did not skimp your wife or child, or deny them proper food or clothing."

Justice Riddell attributed the final murderous assault to the influence of drink. There could be no plea of insanity—"Your temper was up," said his lordship. The law gave him no prerogative. "My prayer is that, having paid the penalty demanded by the human law, you may, with the guilt of sin washed away, meet your dead wife and, wholly forgiven and reconciled, pass with her an eternity of peace," he concluded.

Before entering the court-room, Blythe spoke to a friend, pitifully, as to his two children, and added that, in spite of appearances, he had loved his wife and she had loved him.

Goes to Asylum.

Orangeville, Feb. 12.—Geo. Stewart, the maniacal murderer confined in the jail here, decided yesterday to take nourishment and eat a good dinner and supper. He was pretty restless on Tuesday night, and raged around in his cell like a caged lion.

PETERBOROS HAVE NOT GIVEN UP HOPE OF BEATING LINDSAY TO-NIGHT MANY LOCAL FANS ARE GOING UP

From all indications there will be a great bunch of rooters with the Peterborough Intermediate O.H.A. team in Lindsay to-night, to see the local boys make their last desperate effort to wrest the district championship from Lindsay. A large number have signified their intention of accompanying the team on the special train which leaves the Grand Trunk Station at 7 o'clock to-night. The fans have not lost hope yet by any means. They figure that there is nothing between the two teams, and that the locals have just as much chance as Lindsay has to win to-night's game. The team should work together better to-night, and they will go into the game determined to fight until the final bell rings. It should be a great battle, about the best of the four between the two teams this season, and the seven that wins will not have a large margin. Luck was with Lindsay here on Wednesday, and it is just possible that it might swing round Peterborough's way in to-night's contest. In any event it will be a game that will be well worth going to Lindsay to see, and that is the way the Peterborough fans are looking at it. If the team is defeated they want to see the last game of the season, and if they win they want to be on hand to share in the celebration. They figure out that they cannot afford to miss the game which ever way the score goes.

The fare is $1.05.

LINDSAY'S COMMENTS ON WEDNESDAY'S GREAT BATTLE WITH THE PETES

The Lindsay Post says of Wednesday's game.

Peterborough hockey championship aspirations received a huge jolt last evening when the Lindsay Midgets took the electric city septette into camp to the tune of 6-5, and demonstrated their superiority over their opponents.

The Post contended that on keen ice the locals would beat the Quaker City boys to a frazzle, and that contention was satisfactorily borne out last evening.

The ice was in perfect condition and suited the Midgets nicely, and their supporters expressed themselves as being confident that the boys would do the trick under such favourable conditions.

It was a magnificent contest, spectacular, sensational, and full of excitement up to the last minute. Many phenomenal stunts characterized the contest, which ever and anon brought the spectators to their feet. Many shouted with wild delight when their favourites would perform deeds of valour, while others uttered a stifled groan when a phenomenal rush or a dangerous shot would be blocked.

Lindsay's victory was not due to luck. The struggle was a contest of merit and the team possessed of the greater amount of skill in general hockey left the ice the undisputed champions. Pulling out a victory on Peterborough ice was a rather stiff proposition, and the Midgets are entitled to all praise for the splendid victory.

Drocher in the nets played a good game, but the shots came in thick and fast for him, and he naturally became bewildered. Glover at point, and Moore at cover, both dished up a splendid quality of hockey and their work prevented the score from going up into big figures. Quinn, the much tooted Lakefield star, did not shine as brilliantly as was expected. He is a sensational and spectacular player but did not figure very effectively in last night's game. Ray is the star of the Peterborough team, and played a brilliant game last night. Dusty and Rose are also deserving of special mention, both being speedy and reliable. The septette, however, was up against a speedier bunch.

The Free Press says: Peterborough saw their finish last evening on their own ice before a crowded building of both Lindsayites and Peterborough rooters who constantly roared out their different team yells, but nothing to be compared with the Lindsay yells while going and leaving. The score was 6—5.

The hockey special left town sharp at 7 o'clock, arriving in Peterborough about 7.50, calling at Omemee by the way, and after entering the Quaker town, a mad rush was made for the rink to secure seats, which were so hard to procure, as the Peterborough team supporters had already filled every vacant seat from the gallery to the floor, even up in the steel rafters of the building the Peterborough youngsters were perched. The ice was in the pink of condition, the kind the Lindsay Midgets like to play on, it being hard and without a speck of snow on it.

Referee Roy Thomas, of Barrie, opened the game at 8.28 and held the teams very satisfactorily, giving each player a square trial before receiving the boards, and all through the game ekpt his eye on the rubber for offsides and rough work.

The stars of the Peterborough line-up were Ray, Quinn and Dusty, while on the other hand each Midget showed up excellently, making pretty rushes and nice scoring, Cote, Randall, Stoddard and Taylor playing fine hockey on the forward.

BEAT DUNDAS CLUB IN SEMI-FINALS OF GOVERNOR-GENERAL'S EVENT

A dispatch says:—

Toronto, Feb. 19.— In the Governor-General's match in the morning Guelph Royal City defeated Harriston by five shots, being up on both rinks. Peterborough had the better of Dundas throughout, and won by fifteen shots. The Tankard losers of the morning were Hamilton Thistles and Orillia, but they did not play off in the afternoon, the Thistles defaulting. This left Orillia to go into the final this morning against Peterborough, who won from Guelph Royal City after the hardest kind of a struggle in their afternoon meeting. At the close of the eighteenth end the score was a tie, and another end was played. Mahoney added one to Guelph's total, but on the other rink Davidson did likewise for Peterborough. A twentieth end was now necessary, and here Peterborough tallied on both rinks, winning the match by two shots. Giroux and Mahoney each had a five-end in their string, and their thirteenth was no count, after a measure. The scores of the day:—

TORONTO BANKERS TO PLAY HERE

Will Meet a Picked Team of Lindsay and Peterboro Bankers at Brock Street.

An interesting game of hockey will be seen here to-morrow night, when the Toronto branch of the Bank of Montreal will play a team composed of Peterborough and Lindsay bankers. It is likely that Koyl, Sylvester and Green, of Lindsay, will be on the Peterborough line-up, which will include Len Giroux, of the Peterborough O. H. A. team and other well known local hockey men. The game should be well worth seeing, as the Toronto team have a fast, well balanced team, who will take a lot of beating. The game will be pulled off at the Brock Street Rink and no doubt a big crowd of fans will be on hand to see the contest.

Skating at Brock Street Rink to-night, 57th Band.

RETURNS OF GAME AT THE ORIENTAL

The returns of to-night's game in Lindsay will be received at the Oriental as the goals are scored, and no doubt a large number of people who are interested in the result, but who are unable to go to Lindsay with the team to-night, will take advantage of the opportunity to hear the returns.

EXAMINER B'S BEAT THE MIDGETS

The Examiner B team got off to a good start in the second round of the Peterborough Bowling League at the P. S. C. alleys yesterday afternoon, by taking two out of three games from the Midgets. The newspaper men landed the first two games somewhat easily, although both teams were off colour and the rolling was bad. The Midgets annexed the third, mainly due to Giroux's grand rolling. The latter succeeded in putting on the magnificent score of 246—one of the best single games in the league to date. He started off with five straight strikes and didn't have a blow all the way. Sheffield rolled his first league game with the Midgets yesterday and was bothered by the foul line rule. Following are the scores:

As before stated it appeared for about twenty minutes, after which it was lost to view.

Two local sports, who took in the hockey match in Peterborough, on Friday night, happened with a misfortune on their return trip. Whilst driving through the swamp the horse became unmanageable and threw both young men into the ditch, after which it made a bold dash towards the village. After picking themselves up they started in hot pursuit, but, however, they could not find the horse that night. It was discovered the next day pasturing on Mr. Matthew's lawn, at his summer cottage.

The high winds on Saturday played havoc around the school grounds. The porch over one of the doors was blown some fifty feet from the school.

A number of village residents drove down to Lakevale tea on Monday evening, which was held at the Temperance Hall. Among them we noticed Mr. and Mrs. Percy Udy, Garbutt, Mann, Gordon Robinson; Miss Woods, Miss Ball and several others.

During the fine weather last week some thought spring had arrived, as Mr. A. Jobe had his horse out to pasture and Mr. J. N. Telford had his cow out and Mr. P. Udy had his storm door off ready for spring.

Rev. Cruickshanks preached at the Methodist Church on Sunday morning, it being quarterly services. The choir provided special music, assisted by Miss Lizzie Leon, of Peterborough, who sang in her usual sweet voice.

THE GROUCH.

Just go round a-lookin' mean,
Mouth with corners all drawed down,
Eyebrows puckered in a frown,
'Bout the worst you ever seen,
Glummest feller in the town.

Never knowed to take a joke.
No one never seen him smile.
Suthin' seems to make him bile
When a pleasant word is spoke.
He's just that way all the while.

Rugged, too, when I get sick.
Don't have no good appetite.
Innards air—seelin' right.
Back is achin, with a crick.
I get mad enough to bite.

He's well fixed as any one;
Got some money to invest,
Notes that's payin' interest.
He could have no end of fun,
Have his choosin', work or rest.

What's the reason? Don't ask me.
Guess that's suthin' he don't know.
I'm right sorry for him, though.
Only way for him to be
If the good Lord made him so.

Delays Liner 12 Hours.

Windsor, Feb. 12.—John Curry, a prominent real estate agent and former banker here, held up the steamer Deutschland at New York, and delayed her departure for 12 hours.

Finding his train was late, Mr. Curry telegraphed to hold the steamer fifteen minutes, which was sufficient to start the steamer away on falling tide, with Curry not on board. The steamer ran aground in the harbor, and Curry hired a tug and managed to reach the vessel, after all.

The Most Intense Heat.

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 12.—A torch operated by oxygen and acetylene, radiating a heat of 6,300 degrees, said to be the most terrific known to science, has been invented here.

By means of this torch, it is possible, it is declared, to weld aluminum, heretofore regarded as an impossibility. The torch makes a flame that will cut through two inches of solid steel in less than a minute, and pierce a 12-inch piece of the hardest steel in less than ten minutes. It will take a saw almost 80 hours to do the work.

He Forged.

Trotter—When young Biffkins left college a few years ago, he declared he was going to forge his way to the front. Did he make good? Homer—As a forger—yes. He's now occupying a front row cell in the penitentiary.—Chicago News.

LYNX ARE NUMEROUS IN VICINITY OF DUMMER

Warsaw seems to be the happy hunting ground for the variety of animal called the lynx. Two very large animals were trapped and brought into town this morning. These are some of the largest specimens that have ever been seen in this part of the country and were trapped by Mr. A Henry, of Warsaw. There are very few other places where these animals have be taken outside of Warsaw, and these eastern village men are getting the lion's share this year.

WOMAN WINS HER DAUGHTER'S HUSBAND

Her Son-in-Law Had Been Divorced by the Daughter.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 13.— Mrs. Eva Gordon, of Laconia, N.H., who eloped here and lived with Fred Sargent, the divorced husband of her daughter, was fined $50 and costs in Judge Simmons's court.

Clarence Sargent, the three year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sargent, who, Mrs. Sargent alleges, was stolen from her after he had been awarded her by the court, and on whose account she sought and prosecuted her mother and former husband, will be given to his mother here.

FALL TURNED HER HAIR GRAY

Cleveland Woman Therefore Asks Damages for $20,700

Cleveland, Ohio, Feb. 13.— Mrs. Anna Brean, the Ellington, Superior avenue, and East Ninth, has begun suit against Charles L. Bradley, owner, for $20,700 damages for injuries which she says she sustained in an elevator accident in the Ellington, March 10, 1907.

Her left foot was so badly injured that it will always be stiff, and the shock made her hair turn grey, she says.

Bradley is one of the M. A. Bradley firm, millionaire ship owners.

"The accident," said Mrs. Brean, "was due to the carelessness in assigning a man to run the elevator when he didn't know how. He was relieving the regular boy.

"As I got in he ran out to answer a telephone. He had not stopped the elevator properly and I was thrown down with my left foot caught between the floor of the elevator and the iron work. My instep was broken."

WANTS BAN PUT ON LONG HAT PINS

Oregon Lawmaker Has Plan to Make Travelling Safe—Not Longer Than Ten Inches.

Salem, Ore., Feb. 13.— Hatpins more than ten inches long are not liked by Representative Farrell, of Multnomah County, and he has introduced a bill making it a misdemeanour for any one to sell or have in his or her possession such an article and providing a fine of from $10 to $100 or imprisonment for from ten days to three months. Representative Farrell states that women are in the habit of wearing extra long hatpins, which are especially offensive to passengers in crowded street cars and places of amusement, and he desires to eliminate this evil. Farrell also introduced a bill which, if passed, will make all stockholders of savings banks liable for double the amount of their stock in the event of failure of the bank.

OTONABEE NAVIGATION COMPANY HAS ADDED TWO NEW STEAMERS TO ITS ALREADY MODERN FLEET

Service Will Extend From Rice Lake Points to Lake Simcoe—The Otonabee May go on Northern Route—New Steel Boat Will be Built.

STEAMER MANITA BOUGHT.

With the progress of the Trent Valley Canal development, the popularization of the Kawartha Lakes as a summer resort and e tourists rendesvous, the Otonabee Navigation Co. is reaching out and embracing a greater territory in which to do business and also to provide accommodation for the thousands of people desiring to traverse by steamer the Trent Valley waterway. It is only three years ago that the Otonabee Navigation Co. made its bow to the public with the steamer Otonabee. That season was a good one and those behind the enterprise saw a favorable opportunity to develop a large and important transportation company, and they began at once to follow up their advantage gained in the first year and each season since has seen new boats added until now the company has a fleet of steamers to be proud of.

The first season the Otonabee Navigation Co. ran their steamers only to Rice Lake ports, but last year they launched out and made a bid for the Stony Lake traffic with fair success. Next season they will have a line of steamers running from Rice Lake through this city and up to Stony Lake and then around to Burleigh and on to Chemong Park, and Bobcaygeon, while a bus line will connect at the Park to convey passengers to the city. There is also a possibility of the steamer Otonabee being sent to the Lake Simcoe route. This would make a passenger and freight service complete with the exception of one link, from one end of the Trent Canal to the other, so far as it is navigatable. Such was the idea of the company in the beginning, and as rapidly as the canal is completed just so rapidly will new steamers be added to the fleet until this company will run boats from the Georgian Bay to Lake Ontario.

Marine Superintendent of Otonabee Navigation Company.

navigation company which has been catering to the trade of the city and the cottagers and campers at Stony Lake and Rice Lake for the past year or two, is the steamer Manita. This boat was the property of the Trent Valley Navigation Co., of Bobcaygeon, and ran from Burleigh Falls to Chemong Park and Bobcaygeon. It will be left on the same route, but will connect with the steamer Water Lily at Burleigh for Peterborough and intermediate points. This completes the service of the Otonabee Navigation Co., from Peterborough to the north and north-west.

New Steel Boat.

In addition to the purchase of the Manita the Otonabee Navigation has purchased and have in their shipyards in Ashburnham a steel frame for an entirely new steamer. This boat will be by all odds the fastest craft on the entire Trent waterway. It will be 90 feet long with a charter to carry about 300 passengers and it will have a speed of from 15 to 18 miles an hour. The work of constructing this ship will be started immediately the weather permits so that it will be ready for this season's work. It will be a very handsome steamer and fitted up with every convenience for the comfort of the thousands who will avail themselves of the opportunity afforded by the new boat to spend the day on the Kawartha lakes.

Steamer Monarch.

The Steamer Monarch will again ply between the city and Rice Lake points as last year, while the new steamer may be placed on the Otonabee's old route and that big steamer sent to lake Simcoe, where she will run between Orillia, Barrie, Jackson's Point (connecting with the electric road to Toronto) and Gamebridge. Later on a daily service will be started from Bobcaygeon to Gamebridge, thus connecting the entire navigatable waters of the Kawartha Lakes.

When the above plans are carried out the service will be so thorough and reliable that the Kawartha Lakes, with Peterborough as the headquarters, will be one of the greatest resorts for tourists and cottagers in the Dominion. The scenery, and the atmosphere, the fishing and boating and the lakes themselves cannot be surpassed, while a convenient transportation service will make them exceedingly popular. It is safe to predict that next summer will see several thousand more visitors to this region than ever was here before and the traffic will continue to rapidly increase year by year.

Time Table.

The time table of the Otonabee Navigation Co. will this year be a very comprehensive one, and will be made up to suit the citizens of Peterborough as well as outsiders. Tourists and excursionists will be afforded every opportunity to enjoy the beauties of the lakes and rivers and to stop over at any point desired. It will be possible to leave here in the morning and spend the day at Gore's Landing and

MR. HARRY PHELAN,
General Manager Otonabee Navigation Company.

Idyl Wyld, returning in the evening. Another line will permit the public leaving the city wharf in the morning and spend the day on Stony Lake, going over the Lift Lock and through the canal and river to Lakefield and then on to Stony Lake, and return the same evening. Or, if preferred, citizens or tourists can leave here in the morning, make a circuit of the lakes to Burleigh Falls and there transfer to the Steamer Manita and proceed to Chemong Park passing through the romantic waters of Clear Lake, Lovesick Lake, and Chemong Lake. At the park a bus line will connect with the boats and bring the passengers into the city the same evening.

This bus service will also permit of tourists leaving here in the morning for Chemong and take the Manita to Burleigh Falls and connect with the Water Lily and return home the same evening.

The steamer Otonabee will be put on her regular trips on Thursdays and Saturdays leaving the city at noon for Idyl Wyld and return about 9 o'clock the same evening.

The Officers.

The officers of the Otonabee Navigation Company are as follows:—

Marine Superintendent—Capt. W. H. White.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON QUESTIONS

Suggestive Questions on the Sunday School Lesson by Rev. Dr. Linscott for the International Newspaper Bible Study Club.

February 14th, 1909.

The Apostles Imprisoned. — Acts 5, 17-42.

Golden Text — Blessed are they which are persecuted for righteousness' sake; for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. Matt. v: 10.

Verses 17-18 — If a child of God finds himself in prison which is the better thing to do: fret and worry about it, or be glad and rejoice?

If a good man is in prison, is that the best place for him at the time?

Can an enemy, or circumstances, or his ignorance, or any other power, other than personal sin, put a Christian in a position where his highest interests are not being served to the utmost possible? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.).

Verse 19—By what method did God release the Apostles from prison?

Does God in these days ever adopt similar methods to release his servants from prison and did he always adopt that miraculous method in those days? (See case of Jesus and John the Baptist.)

May a Christian in prison to-day be absolutely sure of his release if that is necessary for the accomplishment of his work?

Verses 20-21 — Does God now give us direct and specific instructions as to our duty when that is necessary?

Should a Christian always testify in God's Temple when he has the opportunity, or should he wait for special instructions from God?

Verses 22-25—Is it at all possible that any power can prevail against God, or those in the care of God?

Does God sometimes require us to run the risk of our lives as those apostles were doing?

Verses 26-28 — From the time of Jesus until now, which class of men have most opposed the advance of supernatural Christianity, the people or the priests?

What were the priests afraid would result from the teaching of the Apostles?

Will a true man of God, preacher, or layman, ever be angry at the teaching of any sincere religious teacher, no matter what the doctrine taught?

What is the proper attitude to take to all religious teachers?

Verse 28 — Is the voice of the church the voice of God, or has it ever been so?

What, or who in the last analysis, is the final authority to a human soul?

Verses 30-32 — Is there any power, or authority or threat, which can prevent a man who is indwelt of God from boldly witnessing for God?

What is the witness to Christians to-day of the reality of Christ's death, resurrection and ascension, and of the forgiveness of sins and life everlasting?

Verse 33 — When the holy (?) heretic persecutors get evidence that their victims are right, and that they are wrong, are they glad or mad?

What was it that "cut" these priests "to the heart," when it should have made their hearts jump for joy?

Verses 34-40 — What is the better way to treat heresy, to let it alone, or to oppose it?

Is it not true that the heretics of one generation have been the saints of the next?

Who and what was this man Gamaliel?

How would you characterize Gamaliel's great defence of the Apostles?

Verses 41-42—Is it as wise for us as it was for the Apostles to rejoice when we suffer for Jesus' sake?

What is the daily duty and privilege of a Christian?

Lesson for Sunday, Feb. 21st, 1909 — Stephen, the First Christian Martyr, Acts 7: 1 to 8: 2.

This woman says that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound saved her life.

Mme. Emma Chatel, Valleyfield, Beauharnois, Quebec, writes to Mrs. Pinkham:

"I want to tell you that without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I would not be alive. For months I suffered with painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the feminine organs. Doctors could do nothing for me, and said I must submit to an operation as I had a tumor. One of my cousins advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it had cured her.

"I did so and now I have no pain and am entirely cured. Your remedy is deserving of great praise."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

Sophy of Kravonia

ANTHONY HOPE

Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"

Marie might well amuse the easy going, yet observant and curious young man. He loved to watch his fellow creatures under the stress of feelings from which he himself was free and found in the opportunities afforded him in this line the chief interest both of his life and of his profession.

But Marie had gradually risen to a high, nervous tension. She was no puritan. Puritans were not common in Kravonia nor had Paris grafted such a slip on to her nature. Had she thought as the men in the palace thought when they smiled, had she thought that and no more, it is scarcely likely that she would have thus disturbed herself. After all, such cases are generally treated as in some sense outside the common rules. Exceptional allowances are, in fact, whether properly or not, made for exceptional situations. Another feeling was in her mind, an obsession which had come almost wholly to possess her. The fateful foreboding which had attacked her from the first had now full dominion over her. Its rule was riveted more closely on her spirit day by day as day by day the prince and Sophy drew closer together. Even that Sophy had once saved his life could now no longer shake Marie's doleful prepossession. Unusual and unlooked for things take color from the mind of the spectator. The strange train of events which had brought Sophy to Praslok borrowed ominous shadows from a nervous, apprehensive temperament.

No such gloom brooded over Sophy. She gave herself up to the hour—the past forgotten, the future never thought of. It was the great time of her life. Her feelings, while not less spontaneous and fresh, were more mature and more fully satisfied than when Casimir de Savres poured his love at her feet. A cry of happiness almost lyrical runs through her scanty record of these days. There was little leisure for diary or letters.

Winter was melting into spring, snow dwelled only on the hilltops, Lake Taiti was unbound and sparkled in the sun. The days grew longer, yet were far too short. To ride with him to Volseni, to hear the cheers, to see the love they bore him, to watch him at work, to seem to share the labor and the love—then to shake off the kindly clinging friends and take to a mountain path or wander, the reins on the horses' necks, by the margin of the lake and come home through the late dusk, talking often, silent often, always together in thought as in bodily presence—was not this enough? "If I had to die in a month I should owe life a tremendous debt already." That is her own summing up. It is pleasant to remember.

It would be enough to say—love; enough with a nature ardent as hers. Yet with love much else conspired. There was the thought of what she had done, of the things to which she was a party. There was the sense of power, the satisfaction of ambition, a promise of more things. There was the applause of Volseni as well as the devotion of the prince. There was, too—it persisted all through her life—the funny, half childish and, to a severe eye, urchinlike pleasure in the feeling that these were fine doings for Sophy Grouch of Morpingham, in Essex! "Fancy me!" is the indefensibly primitive form in which this delight shows in one of the few letters bearing date from the castle of Praslok.

Yet it is possible to find this simple, gracious surprise at fortune's fancies worthy of love. Her own courage, her own catching at fortune's forelock, seemed to have been always unconscious and instinctive. These she never hints at nor even begins to analyze. Of her love for the prince she speaks once or twice and once in reference to what she had felt for Casimir. "I loved him most when he left me and when he died," she writes. "I love him not less now because I love monseigneur, but I can love monseigneur more for having loved Casimir. God bade the dear dead die, but he bade me live, and death helped to teach me how to do it." Again she reflects, "How wonderfully everything is worth while—even sorrows!" Following which reflection in the very next line—she is writing to Julia Robins—comes the naive outburst: "I look just splendid in my sheepskin tunic, and he's given me the sweetest toy of a revolver. That's in case they ever charge and try and cut us up behind our guns!" She is laughing at herself, but the laugh is charged with an infectious enjoyment. So she lived, loved and laughed through those unequaled days, trying to soothe Marie Zerkovitch, bantering Max von Hollbrandt, giving her masculine mind and her feminine soul wholly to her prince. "She was like a singularly able and energetic sunbeam," Max says quaintly, himself obviously not untouched by her attractions.

The prince's mind was simple. He was quite sincere about his guns. He had no wish to go on his travels until they had arrived and he could deliver them into the safe custody of his trained and trusty Volsenians and of Lukovitch, their captain. Less than that was not safety with Stenovics in office and Colonel Stafnits on duty at the capital. But Marie Zerkovitch was right, too, even though overexacting, as Max had told her. The letter to the king held but half the truth, and that half not the more significant. He could not go from Sophy's side to seek a wife. The desire of his heart and the delight of his eyes—she was here in Praslok.

Her charm was not only for his heart and eyes, her fascination not solely for his passion. On his intellect also she laid her powerful hold, opening the narrow confines of his mind to broader views and softening the rigor of his ideals. He had seen himself only as the stern master, the just chastiser of a turbulent capital and an unruly soldiery. But was there not a higher aim? Might he not be loved in the plains as on the hills, at Slavna as at Volseni?

By himself he could not achieve that. His pride—nay, his obstinacy—forbade the first step. But what his sensitive dignity rejected for himself he could see her sunny graciousness accomplish without loss of self respect, naturally, all spontaneously. He was a soldier. Here were the powers of peace, of that instinctive statesmanship of the emotions by which hearts are won and kingdoms knit together by a tie stronger than the sword. Because in his mind's eye he saw her doing this, the idea at which the men in the palace had smiled and which even Marie Zerkovitch would have accepted as the lesser evil, never came into his head. In the future years she was to be openly at his side, doing these things for him and for the land of his love and labor. Would she not be a better partner than some stranger, to whom he must go cap in hand, to whom his country would be a place of exile and his countrymen seem half barbarians, whose life with him would be one long tale of forced and unwilling condescension? A pride more subtle than his father's rose in revolt.

If he could make the king see that! There stood the difficulty. Right in the way of his daring hope was the one thing on which the king insisted. The pride of family—the great alliance—the single point whereon the easy king was an obstacle so formidable! Yet had he despaired he would have been no such lover as he was.

His answer had gone to the king. There was no news of its reception yet, but on the next day in the evening great tidings came from Slavna, forwarded by Zerkovitch, who was in charge of the prince's affairs there. The prince burst eagerly into the dining room in the tower of Praslok, where Sophy sat alone. He seemed full of triumphant excitement, almost boyish in his glee. It is at such moments that hesitations are forgotten and the last reserves broken down.

"My guns!" he cried. "My guns!"

"My guns!" he cried. "My guns! They've started on their way. They're due in Slavna in a month!"

"In a month!" she murmured softly. "Ah, then"—

"Our company will be ready too. We'll march down to Slavna and meet the guns!" He laughed. "Oh, I'll be very pleasant to Slavna now, just as you advise me. We'll meet them with smiles on our faces.' He came up to her and laid his hand on hers. "You've done this for me," he said, smiling still, yet growing more grave.

"It'll be the end of this wonderful time, of this our time together!"

"Of our time at Praslok—not of our time together. What! Won't Lieutenant Baroness Dobrava march with her battery?"

She smiled doubtfully, gently shaking her head. "Perhaps. But when we get to Slavna— Oh, I'm sorry that this time's so nearly done!"

He looked at her gravely for a few moments, making perhaps a last quick calculation—undergoing perhaps a last short struggle. But the red star glowed against the pallor of her face. Her eyes were gleaming beacons.

"Neither the guns nor the men nor Slavna—no, nor the crown, when that time comes—without you!" he said.

She rose slowly, tremblingly, from her chair and stretched out her hands in an instinctive protest, "Monseigneur!" Then she clasped her hands, setting her eyes on his and whispering again, yet lower, "Monseigneur!"

"Marie Zerkovitch says fate sent you to Kravonia. I think she's right. Fate did—my fate. I think it's fated that we are to be together to the end, Sophy."

A step creaked on the old stairs. Marie Zerkovitch was coming down from her room on the floor above. The door of the dining room stood open, but neither of them heard the step. They were engrossed, and the sound passed unheeded.

Standing there, with hands still clasped and eyes still bound to his, she spoke again, and Marie Zerkovitch stood by the door and heard the quick yet clear words, herself fascinated, unable to move or speak.

"I've meant nothing of it. I've thought nothing of it. I seem to have done nothing toward it. It has just come to me." Her tone took on a touch of entreaty, whether it were to him or to some unseen power which ruled her life and to which she might have to render an account.

"Yet it is welcome?" he asked quietly. She was long in answering. He waited without impatience, in a confidence devoid of doubt. She seemed to seek for the whole truth and to give it to him in gravest, fullest words.

"It is life, monseigneur," she said. "I can't see life without it now."

He held out his hands, and very slowly she laid hers in them.

"It is enough, and nothing else could have been enough from you to me and from me to you," he said gently. "Unless we live it together I think it can be no life for us now."

The chain which had held Marie Zerkovitch motionless suddenly snapped. She rushed into the room and, forgetful of everything in her agitation, seized the prince by the arm.

"What do you mean?" she cried. "What do you mean? Are you mad?"

He was very fond of little Marie. He looked down at her now, with an affectionate, indulgent smile.

"Come, you've heard what I said, I suppose, though it wasn't meant for your ears, you know! Well, then, I mean just what I said, Marie."

"But what do you mean by it?" she persisted in a feverish, almost childish, excitement. She turned on Sophy too. "And what do you mean by it, Sophy?" she cried.

Sophy passed a hand over her brow. A slow smile relieved the enchanted tension of her face. She seemed to smile in a whimsical surprise at herself. Her answer to Marie came vague and almost dreamy. "I—I thought of nothing, dear Marie," she said. Then, with a sudden low murmur of delighted laughter, she laid her hands in the prince's again. She had thought of nothing but of that life together and their love.

"She'll share my life, Marie, and, when the time comes, my throne," the prince said softly. He tried to persuade and soothe her with his gentle tones.

Marie Zerkovitch would not have it. Possessed by her old fear, her old foreboding, she flung away the arm she held, with an angry gesture. "It's ruin!" she cried. "Ruin! Ruin!" Her voice rang out through the old room and seemed to fill all the castle of Praslok with its dirgeful note.

"No," said he firmly. "Ruin will not come through me nor through her. It may be that ruin—what you call ruin—will come. It may be that I shall lose my life or my throne." He smiled a little. "Such changes and chances come as nothing new to a Stefanovitch. I have clever and bold men against me. Let them try! We'll try too! But ruin will not be by her fault nor through this. And if it were, don't I owe her my life already? Should I refuse to risk for her the life she has given?" He dropped his voice to homelier, more familiar tones and ended, with a half laugh: "Come, little friend, you mustn't try to frighten Sergius Stefanovitch. It's better the house should end than live on in a coward, you know."

The plea was not perfect. There was wisdom as well as courage in question. Yet he would have maintained himself to be right in point of wisdom, too, had Marie pressed him on it. But her force was spent, her violence ended, and with it her expostulations. But not her terror and dismay. She threw herself into a chair and covered her face with her hands, sobbing bitterly.

The prince gently caressed her shaking shoulder, but he raised his eyes to Sophy, who had stood quiet through the scene.

"Are you ready for what comes, Sophy?" he asked.

"Monseigneur, I am ready," she said, with head erect and her face set, but the next instant she broke into a low, yet rich and ringing laugh. It mingled strangely with Marie's sobs, which were gradually dying away, yet sounded still, an undertone of discord with Sophy's mirth. She stretched out her hands toward him again, whispering in an amused pity, "Poor child, she thought that we should be afraid!"

Out of the dusk of the quiet evening came suddenly the blare of a trumpet, blown from Volseni by a favoring breeze. It sounded every evening at nightfall to warn the herdsmen in the hills of the closing of the gates and had so sounded from time beyond man's memory.

The prince raised his hand to bid her listen.

"In good Volseni there is watch and ward for us!"

The echoes of the blast rang for an instant around the hills.

"And there is watch and ward and the glad sound of a trumpet in my heart, monseigneur," she said.

The sobs were still, laughter was hushed, the echoes died away. In utter silence their hands and their eyes met. Only in their hearts love's clarion rang indomitable and marvelously glad.

Chapter Twenty

OFTEN there are clever brains about us of whose workings we care nothing save so far as they serve to the defter moving of our dishes or the more scientific brushing and folding of our clothes. Humorists and philosophers have described or conjectured or caricatured the world of those who wait on us, inviting us to consider how we may appear to the inward gaze of the eyes which are so obediently cast down before ours or so dutifully alert to anticipate our orders. As a rule, we decline the invitation. The task seems at once difficult and unnecessary. Enough to remember that the owners of the eyes have ears and mouths also! A small leak left unstanched will empty the largest cask at last. It is well to keep that in mind both in private concerns and in affairs of public magnitude.

The king's body servant, Emile Lepage, had been set a-thinking. This was the result of the various and profuse scoldings which he had undergone for calling young Count Alexis "prince." The King's brief, sharp words at the conference had been elaborated into a reproof both longer and sterner than his majesty was wont to trouble himself to administer. He had been very strong on the utter folly of putting such ideas into the boy's head. Lepage was pretty clear that the idea had come from the boy's head into his, but he said nothing more of that. The boy himself scolded Lepage, first for having been overheard, second, and, as Lepage guessed, after being scolded himself very roundly, for using the offending title at all. Meekly Lepage bore this cross also, indeed, with some amusement and a certain touch of pity for young Alexis, who was not a prince and obviously could not make out why. In the books a king's sons were always princes, even though there were, as in those glorious days there often were, fifty or threescore of them.

Then Countess Ellenburg scolded him. The king's "It's absurd!" was rankling sorely in her mind. Her scolding was in her heaviest manner, very religious. She called Heaven to witness that never by word or deed had she done anything to give her boy such a notion. The days are gone by when Heaven makes overt present answer. Nothing happened. She roundly charged Lepage with fostering the idea for his own purposes. He wanted to set the Prince of Slavna against his little brother, she supposed, and to curry favor with the rising sun at the poor child's cost.

She was very effective, but she angered Lepage almost beyond endurance. By disposition he was thoroughly good natured if sardonic and impassive. He could not suffer the accusation of having injured the pretty boy for his own ends. It was both odious and absurd. He snapped back smartly at her, "I hope nobody will do more to put wrong ideas in his head than I have done, Mme. la Comtesse." In a fury she drove him from the room, but she had started ever so slightly. Lepage's alert brain jumped at the signal.

Finally Stenovics himself had a lecture for poor, much lectured Lepage. It was one of the miscalculations to which an overcautious cunning is prone. Stenovics was gentle and considerate, but he was very urgent—urgent above all that nothing should be said about the episode, neither about it nor about the other reprimands. Silence, silence, silence was his burden. Lepage thought more and more. It is better to put up with gossip than to give the idea that the least gossip would be a serious offense. People gossip without thinking. It's easy come and gone, easy speaking and easy forgetting, but stringent injunctions not to talk are apt to make men think. References to the rising sun also may breed reflection in the satellites of a setting orb. Neither Countess Ellenburg nor General Stenovics had been as well advised as usual in this essentially trumpery matter.

To Produce Best Results Flour Must Be Properly Aged

MILLS with insufficient storage capacity are forced to ship their flour before it is properly aged. Underaged flour requires expert handling in order to secure even fair results. In our big warehouses in six different cities we have storage capacity for 370,000 (98-pound) bags. We are thus able to store "Purity" Flour until it is properly aged.

You can never get underaged flour if you always specify "Purity."

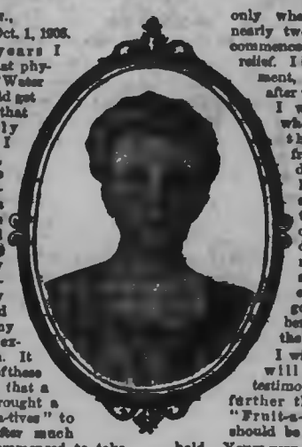
AT DEATH'S DOOR

Doctors had to give her Morphine to ease the pain

Five boxes of "Fruit-a-tives" Cured Her



Enterprise, Ont., Oct. 1, 1908.

For seven years I suffered with what physicians called a "Water Tumor". I would get so bad at times that I could hardly endure the pain. I could neither sit, stand, nor lie down. Hypodermics of Morphin had to be given me or I could never have borne the pain. Many physicians treated me, but my sure seemed hopeless, and my friends hourly expected my death. It was during one of these very bad spells that a family friend brought a box of "Fruit-a-tives" to the house. After much persuasion I commenced to take them, but I was so bad that it was only when I had taken nearly two boxes that I commenced to experience relief. I kept up the treatment, however, and after taking five boxes I was cured, and when I appeared on the street my friends said, "The dead has come to life." And this seemed literally true because I certainly was at death's door. But now I can work almost as well as ever I could, and go camping and berry-picking with the girls.

I will be glad if you will publish this testimonial, if it will farther the interests of "Fruit-a-tives." They should be in every household. Yours very truly,

Mrs. JAMES FENWICK.

Through the whole country around Enterprise, Ont., people are talking about this wonderful cure. By their marvellous action on the Kidneys, "Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when the doctors said she could not be operated on and was doomed to die.

"Fruit-a-tives" cured Mrs. Fenwick when all else failed. Try them for your trouble. 25c. and 50c. a box, at dealers or sent postpaid on receipt of price. Fruit-a-tives Limited, Ottawa.

MARIA MONTESSORI.

One of the most interesting among the many intellectual Italian women of the present day is Maria Montessori, who holds an appointment as lecturer in the University of Rome. Her rare gifts of personality and eloquence make her a fascinating speaker and lecturer.

But she is no less widely known for her philanthropic work among the poor of Rome, especially for her original method of teaching children to read and write by ingenious playthings, instead of by the usual laborious methods. This system she has introduced in the Casa dei Bambini (the children's house), the quarters especially set apart for children in the model dwellings of the poor. Here the children have their home. They play and learn almost unconsciously at the same time the various rudiments of knowledge. Wonderful is the way in which the art of writing comes to them under Signora Montessori's system, almost as the art of walking comes. Milan, the "intellectual capital" of Italy, has just started a children's house on the same lines in the fine new workmen's dwellings built under the auspices of the Umanitaria. The ideas of Signora Montessori have been carried out here under her own genial supervision, and the Casa dei Bambini promises to be a happy place for the little ones.

A Need of Business Women.

"My earnings amount to $36 a week, and I have named my trade visiting housekeeper to business women," said a young New York widow who has the support and education of four small children to look out for. "It was a question of putting my children in an institution or finding some way by which I could earn a living at home.

"There are several business women who live in the same uptown flathouse with me. None of them feels that she is able to keep a regular servant, and the cleaning woman who came to them weekly never did what they wanted.

"They were always envying my neat rooms. One day the thought struck me, and I offered to do their weekly cleaning and mending. My charges were $2 a week for cleaning and 50 cents for mending. To the cleaning woman who always accompanies me I pay $1 a day, besides giving her three meals.

"This woman comes in at 8 a. m. and after eating her breakfast helps me to get the children off to school. Then we set my own little flat to rights. After this is properly accomplished we begin the real work of the day, making the flats of my patrons shine like new.

"While my woman scrubs, cleans, airs and makes the beds I mend and prepare the clothes, house linen and personal apparel for the laundry. I see that the curtains are kept fresh and clean, that the china and glass are washed and polished. I clean the silver and knives and do the thousand and one little things necessary to make a flat look homelike.

"On Monday we do the four flats which are in the same house with me. On other days we can only do two a day, because they are some distance away. Of course, if I didn't have to be back at home in the middle of the day to give my children their lunch and make sure that all was going well with them I might take several more flats. It is my children who are behind all this work, and my first thought must always be for them."

The Luncheon Club.

Why not have a luncheon club? It is not an especially new idea, but it's a good one, and the wonder is that there are not more of them in existence. The principal object of a luncheon club is obviously enough the serving of luncheon. This may be with a purely social end in view, but it isn't half so entertaining this way as when a certain educational motive is included in the reasons for the club's existence. If the club exists for the purpose of trying new dishes and experimenting in cookery it is not only more fun, but decidedly more instructive as well, and in such a club the members take turns in entertaining the other members at luncheon, and each one makes an effort to serve as many new dishes as possible.

To be ideal such a club should be a neighborhood affair, so that if large two of the members could entertain together, thus making the task of serving luncheon to so many less burdensome.

A club which does not enforce strict rules limiting its menu to a certain number of courses will be almost sure to prove a failure, as there are few women who can withstand the temptation to strive to outdo their sisters in matters of his kind, and without such limiting rules a club of this kind will soon become a burden. One such club has an ironclad rule that salad and dessert shall not be served at the same meal.

The charm of a club where new dishes are studied and cooking problems discussed is its informality. The women who belong to it come together with a common end in view, that of learning something. Besides this, there is always the added value which comes from meeting with other women and exchanging views and experiences. It keeps the busy housewife from getting into a rut in her housework, and it takes away a little of the element of drudgery from the round of household tasks. If two members entertain together as many as ten may belong to such a club, but if one hostess entertains alone the club should not number more than six.

If there isn't a luncheon club in your neighborhood, why not start one? Why not manage to discover an entertaining aspect to the old tiresome question of "What shall we have to eat?"

Cleaning the Sewing Machine.

Women who do not thoroughly understand the sewing machine often blame the manufacturer when the fault of stiff running can be traced to not keeping the machine clean.

Most persons think that liberal doses of oil are all that is necessary. Too much oiling is injurious, and oil where there has not been careful dusting is worse than none at all.

It is not enough to give a surface dusting. The cracks and crevices must be kept clean. This cannot be done with a cloth. Instead use a coarse silk thread to draw back and forth through cracks to get out fine dirt that cannot otherwise be removed.

The work of cleaning a machine is lessened if a small bellows is kept in one of the drawers and the fine lint, threads and ravelings are blown out of the crevices. This should be done every day that the machine is in use.

Care should also be taken that pins and needles do not slip into the shuttle part of the machine, as often they clog it and the cause cannot be discovered for some time.

It is a mistake to use a cheap oil, as it cakes and makes the parts sticky.

Never let the machine stand uncovered when not in use and guard carefully from dampness.

Rubbing the running strap occasionally with a little vaseline or oil will make the leather wear longer.

First Woman Rhodes Scholar.

The first woman Rhodes scholar has arrived in London in connection with the scheme for founding scholarships for women on the lines of the scholarships for men founded by Cecil Rhodes.

The scheme was formulated in 1905 by Mme. Thayer, then chairman of the education committee of the Society of American Women in London, who is devoting her life to carrying out its development.

Miss Clara Howard, the scholar in question, who was entered for a year of postgraduate study at Girton, is from Columbia university, and her scholarship was raised by the Society of American Women in London, the nucleus being subscribed by the education committee during Mme. Thayer's chairmanship.

Miss Howard arrives in America with a brilliant record. The woman Rhodes scholars will in future be chosen by competitive examinations. There was hardly time for this, however, in this case, and thus Miss Howard was chosen on the recommendation of Mrs. Whitelaw Reid, the wife of the American ambassador in London, and of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia university.

One Way to Appear Young.

A wise young woman gives as her reason for having learned the vertical writing: "This form of writing has been used for but a few years in some schools. When I have occasion to write to people they are very apt to conclude from my handwriting that I have been out of school but a few years, and accordingly I will be considered a real young woman.

"This does not count for so much at present, for I am only twenty-three years, but it may count a great deal in getting me a start in the friendship of a man later. I will not, of course, lie about my age, but I will get a more favorable start."

A Dresden Shepherdess Debutante.

Naturally, with so many "buds" blooming in social centers, "bud" gowns are coming from Paris and elsewhere. Young Mrs. Joseph Leiter has a pretty young sister among the debutantes of Washington. The girl is Dorothy Williams. One of the gowns that Mrs. Joe brought over for her sister is so pretty that other girls may feel justified in using it for a hint. The skirt is of flowered net over the palest sort of soft silk, the shade known as peachbloom, and the lines are long and clinging. Around the decollete bodice is a trimming of pink satin formed into tiny moss rosebuds placed closely together. The same motive is seen on the high satin girdle. At the end of the streamers are loops or rosebuds hanging after the manner of lilies of the valley in bridal bouquets. Satin buds for the hair, pink satin slippers and a great fan made of rosebud satin make the girl who wears the costume look as if she had stepped out of a group of Dresden shepherdesses.

Shun the "Misunderstood" Man.

To be a soul mate means to feel the highest and purest kind of love—a love all unselfish and free from all that is base. But there is nothing high or pure in the friendship of the man who urges you to defy the laws of convention.

Never listen to the man who comes whining to you that you "understand him so much better than his wife does."

The chances are that his unfortunate wife understands him only too well and has a thorough contempt for him.

Somewhere in the world you probably have a soul mate, and it is to be hoped that he will find you, but if he comes in the guise of a married man send him about his business. Do not allow yourself to become "friends" with him. Such friendship is never desirable.

Young Woman a Leading Economist.

At twenty-four years Anna Pritchett of Louisville will have the distinction of occupying the chair of economics in Wellesley. She went to Wellesley last fall and is the youngest professor in the history of the college. She also ranks with the youngest successful scholars who ever have held so important a post, and leading experts in economics class her as a brilliant woman. She has surpassed all students with whom she has studied. Her election to the chair in Wellesley is due to merit alone and is another proof that in the realm of higher scholarship women have the ability to stand on a common footing with men.

Successful Tea Room.

The first tea room in Los Angeles was opened something less than a year ago by two young college women, Miss Mildred Morris of Columbia and Miss Harriet Morris of Smith. In the first six months they had more than 15,000 paying customers. They have had to enlarge their quarters and have added to their business in several ways.

Lightning Change Attachments.

Modern matrons and maids are not worried by "tiresome fidelity," but make lightning change attachments in a way to make slow persons sit up and take notice.

"Its Only a Cold, A Trifling Cough."

Thousands have said this when they caught cold. Thousands have neglected to cure the cold. Thousands have filled a Consumptive grave through neglect. Never neglect a cough or cold. It can have but one result. It leaves the throat or lungs, both, affected. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the medicine you need. It strikes at the very foundation of all throat or lung complaints, relieving or curing Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Sore Throat, and preventing Pneumonia and Consumption.

It has stood the test for many years, and is now more generally used than ever. It contains all the lung healing virtues of the pine tree combined with Wild Cherry Bark and other pectoral remedies. It stimulates the weakened bronchial organs, allays irritation and subdues inflammation, soothes and heals the irritated parts, loosens the phlegm and mucous, and aids nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulations. Don't be humbugged into accepting an imitation of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and price 25 cents.

"Mrs. J. Brewster, Grafton, N.S., writes:—"Two winters ago I suffered severely with a very bad cold and asthma. I was so bad I could not get my breath, and very often thought I would choke. My husband became very much frightened, and got me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and it gave me almost instant relief. I can recommend it to anyone having the least kind of a cold."

TRUE DETECTIVE STORIES

THE CLEW OF THE 'CROOKED "W"

BY WILL IRWIN

(Copyright, 1909, by the New York Herald Co. All Rights Reserved.)

FLORENCE CAMPBELL was a professional nurse in the New York State Hospital for the Insane on Ward's Island, New York city. At the time when her case came to the attention of the New York Police Department she was assistant to Mrs. Jestly, the matron. She had been at this hospital about two years, and she brought a record for twelve years of excellent work.

Miss Campbell went on her annual vacation last September, returning on October 3. One morning a week after she was talking with the pharmacist, Mr. King, in the hospital dispensary, when an orderly brought her a package of mail. On top was a square parcel.

"Some one has been sending you some candy," said King.

"Oh, I guess not," said Miss Campbell. She opened the parcel nevertheless; found that it was indeed a box of candy bearing the mark of the Boston Candy Stores, New York. She held out the box to King as if to offer him a piece.

"Why, there's something wrong with that stuff!" he exclaimed. They examined it. The candy—gum drops, as it happened—was dusted over with a fine, white powder. Some of the pieces, too, were broken, as if to let the powder penetrate.

"It looks queer to me," said King. "Say, you want to be careful with candy that comes through the mails. You had better let me analyze some of that powder before you eat it." Miss Campbell laughed at his caution; but King was in earnest. She finally left the box, and the pharmacist proceeded with his analysis. He found that the white powder was arsenic.

When he made this discovery King became suddenly cautious. Evidently, here was a crime: he wanted to keep himself out of it. He returned the box to Miss Campbell, therefore, saying only that the candy looked suspicious and that she should certainly have an analysis made before she ate any of it. She handed it over to one of the resident physicians. He found arsenic; and as in duty bound he reported the fact to Dr. Maybon, the superintendent. Dr. Maybon, remembering certain anonymous letters which had been received in the summer by both Miss Campbell and himself, reported the case to the District Attorney's office. So, by the regular city routine, it came to the Central Detective Bureau; and Lieutenant Carey, an experienced man in poisoning cases, was assigned to the case.

"I went to Miss Campbell the first thing," said Carey, "and I put in a whole afternoon with her. She was a tall woman, in her thirties, nice spoken and sharp as a whip. I asked her who might be her enemies. She could think of no one who would want to kill her, but finally she did admit, after I had grilled her the whole afternoon, that Mrs. Jestly, the matron, and a Mrs. Thorpe, another nurse on the island, had not been exactly friendly to her. They had shown no particular animosity, she said, but Mrs. Thorpe had just stopped speaking to her. Dr. Maybon had told me about the anonymous letters. She had received five of them—three in typewriting and two in handwriting. But she hadn't thought much about it at the time and had destroyed them. I asked who her friends and associates were. She named four different women, living in Manhattan. Three of them don't matter. The one to keep your eye on is Mrs. Jessie Morrow, who lived at No. 118 West Eighty-fourth street.

"All the time Miss Campbell seemed a little frightened. I got the impression that she was trying to shield some one, and made up my mind that we couldn't expect much help from her. In fact, she asked me once if I couldn't drop the case, seeing that no harm was done."

Having taken Miss Campbell's statement, Carey turned his attention to that important piece of evidence, the candy box. It bore the brand of the Boston Candy Stores, a firm having two branches, one in Fourteenth street, the other in Third avenue, near Twenty-third street, New York city. The wrapper was a plain piece of manila paper. The address, which was in handwriting, was scratched on a separate piece of notepaper and fastened on by the twelve two cent stamps which had carried the package through the United States mails.

Carey spent some time with this address. The hand was plainly disguised. From every one who might be suspected he took samples of handwriting. The result was puzzling. Any one of three different persons might have written that address. The handwriting experts, called into court in important cases, are always cocksure of angles and speeds; the practical detectives know that this kind of expert testimony is characteristically unreliable. The most careful inspection of the handwriting only limited the field of suspicion.

The candy was what is known in the trade as royal gum drops. This in itself had a bearing on the case, for that was Miss Campbell's favorite candy. Plainly the sender knew her habits. Carey visited the Boston Candy Stores and discovered that the royal gum drops were sold only at the Twenty-third street shop. Further the wrapping paper was of the kind used in this branch. The package had been mailed in the Madison square station of the Post Office Department, only two blocks away. One part of the transaction, therefore, became plain as day. Either the sender lived near Twenty-third street and Sixth avenue or he had done his work in a great hurry.

The next thing that specially claimed Carey's attention was one of the anonymous letters received by Dr. Maybon—he had kept only this one—a scurrilous attack upon him and his methods. It was typewritten, and it was mailed on August 4 from Station W, Manhattan. The writer, evidently unschooled in the cautions of crime, had made three slips. In the first place the paper had been an ordinary letter size sheet, carrying a letterhead. The writer to avoid detection had torn off the letterhead, but he had incautiously left the printed date line. There it was, and in singular black face type:—"New York, ——— ——— 190—." He had forgotten, too, to tear off the part bearing the water mark, which read "Victor." Further, he had used a very old typewriter, slightly out of alignment and showing certain peculiarities in the worn letters. Most conspicuous of these was the capital "W," repeated several times in the Maybon letter. From this the upper left hand corner was torn away. Typewriter experts, called into consultation, said that it was the work of a very old, worn-out Remington.

But that letterhead—Carey started there one of those elaborate, fine tooth investigations of the thorough city detective. He found first the jobbers who handled the paper water marked "Victor." It is the product of the Victor mills. These jobbers reported that they sold such paper to about three hundred printers in New York. There opened before the detectives a chase of appalling magnitude—to see every one of those printers and to find who, using Victor paper for his letterhead orders, used also that peculiar black type. Carey had half a dozen plain clothes men on this tedious search, when the developments in another line caused him suddenly to drop it.

"BUT GIVE ME THAT PAPER," SAID HALL.

The anonymous letter, as I have said, was mailed from Station W, Manhattan. This is at Eighty-fourth street and Columbus avenue. One evening, going over the notes he had taken from Miss Campbell, Carey suddenly stumbled on the address, "Mrs. Jessie Morrow, No. 118 West Eighty-fourth street," only a half block from Station W. He saw Miss Campbell again on some pretext or other and wedged in among a hundred impertinent questions some inquiries about Mrs. Morrow. She was a bosom friend to Miss Campbell, it appeared. On the nurse's day off the two women usually went to the theatre together. Carey went to No. 118 West Eighty-fourth street to see what he could see.

But Mrs. Morrow, the janitress said, had moved away from that house in August. She had gone somewhere up the Hudson. Carey stopped to chat with this janitress, an intelligent Irish woman. Mrs. Morrow had lived in the house about a year. She had some kind of work at home—writing and attending to accounts for an old gentleman who came to that house sometimes.

"I suppose that she was at her typewriter most of the time," said Carey offhand.

"Yes," said the janitress, "she was always typewriting."

"A good Smith Premier typewriter is a great help," said Carey.

"I don't know nothing about typewriters," said the janitress.

She could not remember just when Mrs. Morrow moved. The real estate agents who rented that house could tell. And, having satisfied myself that Mrs. Morrow owned a typewriter—although he had failed to establish that it was a Remington—Carey saw the agents. Mrs. Morrow had moved on August 8, four days after Station W, at the corner, had stamped that anonymous letter.

The agents furnished another fact, a great deal more pertinent. Some of the correspondence regarding the rent had been conducted by William H. Hall, and William H. Hall wrote on a sheet of note paper water marked "Victor," and the date line on his notehead was in the same identical type as the date line on the anonymous letter to Dr. Maybon. Only the size of the paper differed. The anonymous letter was on letter size paper. Evidently it was the larger brother of the notepaper which Mr. Hall had used in his correspondence with the real estate agents.

The next day the Central Office detectives started on two new scents. While half of the men looked up the antecedents of William H. Hall, Carey and two assistants went to Mamaroneck, to which town, he learned from the Post Office, Mrs. Morrow had moved.

The Manhattan squad found that Hall was a rich and retired fur dealer who had started life in the hat business. For future use they patched together a pretty accurate story of his life.

Carey found that Mrs. Morrow was living in a cottage on the outskirts of Mamaroneck. After looking over the ground he sent one of his detectives to the real estate men who owned that cottage with a tentative offer to buy it. The agents were willing, and the detective was shown through the house. There, in the front room, stood an old, battered Remington typewriter. The detective tried to get rid of Mrs. Morrow for a few moments while he took samples of a capital "W"; but she stuck to him like the bark to a tree. Neither could he get sight of any William H. Hall letterheads. He pretended to take measurements and asked Mrs. Morrow for a sheet of paper to note down his figures. She produced a plain piece of notepaper, and the policeman was baffled again.

Two days later, while Carey was still watching the house and meditating new plans, Mrs. Morrow suddenly began making preparations to move. Carey found from the transfer company that she was going to the neighboring town of Peekskill, a haul so short that she intended to take her goods by wagon instead of by train. The detectives watched the case of that typewriter go into the van at Mamaroneck; watched it taken out at the new house in Peekskill. Two days afterward, when she was getting settled, they saw Hall, with whose face they had got acquainted, walk up the front path, ring the doorbell and enter the house.

The psychological moment had come. Carey sprang his mine. Accompanied by MacConeaghy, a detective, who can use a typewriter, he called on Mrs. Morrow and stated the whole case plainly to her.

"And the best thing you can do," said Carey, "is to let me look at all your letter paper and give me samples from that typewriter." Mrs. Morrow became a volcano of wrath, then an iceberg of angry reserve. The police might do as they pleased, she said; she knew nothing of any poisoned candy; they had no rights outside of New York; she would thank him to leave the house at once. As Carey stood at the door, "jollying her," he says, Hall entered the room. Carey, who had been waiting for this, stepped up and slapped Hall on the shoulder.

"Why, Mr. Hall," he said, "don't you know me? I used to know you when you were in the hat business on Beaver street. Remember?" And Carey rattled off a string of reminiscences of Hall's early life.

Hall started like a man caught in the act. Carey pressed his advantage. Mrs. Morrow was in a very unfortunate position. It would be best for her to be frank, else the New York police would have to use other methods.

Hall turned to Mrs. Morrow.

"I think you had better let them see everything," he said.

"Then show me all the paper you have in the house," said Carey.

They went from room to room, Mrs. Morrow overlooking all the places where paper might be kept until Carey pointed them out to her. In a bureau drawer at the top of the house he found a pad, letter size, with the letterhead of William H. Hall. Tearing off a sample, Carey hustled Mrs. Morrow into the parlor and asked her to open the typewriter.

"It is locked," said she.

"That's easily remedied," said Carey, and he tore off the hasp. Before either she or the hesitating and troubled Hall could get breath MacConeaghy was seated and was running off capital W's. By a gesture Mrs. Morrow invited Hall outside. Carey immediately drew out the Maybon letter and dictated its text to his assistant. When MacConeaghy had finished it, Carey sat down to the typewriter and began to stab the keys, imitating with unpractised hand the sound of the machine at work. At the same moment he winked at MacConeaghy. The latter, taking the cue, stepped to the door and listened. And he heard Mrs. Morrow say:—

"Quick! Don't you know that it will be used in court?"

A minute later Hall, evidently lashed to courage, burst in and ordered the detectives out.

"Oh, very well," said Carey, carelessly.

"But give me that paper!" said Hall, snatching at the typewritten sample. Carey evaded him, thrust the paper in his pocket, and hurried out to the nearest telephone. On the way he compared the sample with the Maybon letter. The resemblance in the broken W's and the faulty alignment was perfect. Any one could see that they came from one and the same typewriter.

And here I begin to spring the solution. Arrived at the telephone, Carey called up the hospital on Ward's Island, got Dr. Maybon, and asked him not to let Miss Campbell leave the island nor get to a telephone.

For Miss Campbell, not Mrs. Morrow nor yet Mr. Hall, had been his suspect from the very first.

Probably you are surprised at this. I hope that you are, because I have been doing my best to conceal it. The writer of the Sherlock Holmes school always omits one strong psychological factor—intuition—and one practical factor—experience.

The intuition of Carey told him, as soon as he had talked half an hour with Miss Campbell, that her attitude wasn't straight; that she was concealing something. His experience had taught him that in three-quarters of such cases the victim is also the criminal. One who has never done police work as detective or reporter does not know how many hysterical women and girls accuse others of desperate attempts at crime which they have "planted" themselves. When it is reported that this or that young girl has been found lying unconscious in a shed, exhausted from her struggle with bandits who have held her captive, the experienced police captain never looks for the bandits until he has put the girl through the third degree. The anonymous letters, the crudely poisoned candy—all, to an experienced policeman, pointed to Miss Campbell as the sole perpetrator of this attempt at crime. Besides, I have purposely omitted one fact which came out late in the investigation.

On August 4, the day when the anonymous letter to Dr. Maybon was mailed, Miss Campbell was off the island on leave.

Carey proceeded at once to Ward's Island and called on Miss Campbell. She came down in a fresh evening dress, to sit through three hours of the third degree. Slowly Carey wormed it out of her. She admitted the letter first. She had written it surreptitiously on Mrs Morrow's typewriter. Stage by stage she admitted buying the candy. But never would she say, "I did it." He got her over to the Detective Bureau the next afternoon. There they sat from four to nine before she said the word. Even then she gave few details. She had got the arsenic from the hospital dispensary "to poison rats." She had taken the candy, just after she bought it, to the women's room of a department store, unwrapped it, sprinkled it with arsenic and wrapped it up again. There was a writing desk "for the convenience of patrons" near at hand. She had written the address on a piece of store paper, cut it out and fastened it on with the stamps.

"But why did you do it?" asked Carey.

"I don't know," said Miss Campbell. "I just don't know."

And although Carey has his own explanation for it this is probably a better reason than any that he gives. They never do know

NOT SO BLOOD AND THUNDERY NOW

"YOU can't commit so many merry little murders nowadays as you could a few years back; the boys don't care so much for this form of violence," said the man in charge of the detective output of the biggest New York publishing house given over to cheap weekly literature. "The tendency is toward the unravelling of crimes by scientific methods. In the days of Old Broadbrim, Old Sleuth and Old Cap Collier you couldn't get out a successful detective story unless you had an average of one kill to every three pages, but this is being gradually done away with.

"The half dozen men who write detective stories for the weekly libraries—and by the way, these are nickel novels, not dime novels, though I suppose the older term always will cling to them—are appreciating the fact that the schoolboy of to-day is an intellectual advancement over his daddy, and, consequently, you couldn't hold his interest by introducing the gun, the knife and the poison bottle whenever you run short of a sensible plot.

"The boys want mystery stories, and the detective who can solve these mysteries quickest and most effectively is the sleuth the youngsters will remember with their five cent pieces on publication day. Why, it has got so that in one of the recent detective stories, which centres around the doings of the present day favorite, the boss ferreter worked out the entire problem without leaving his office, getting at the truth by the question and answer process and applying his deductions until they fitted the facts. This is a good deal healthier, for the boy reader—and, incidentally, the change has resulted in attracting to the detective story another class of readers made up of lawyers and professional men, who find plenty of mental relaxation in following the fortunes of the thief takers who hold the public attention to-day.

"The nickel novel is now got up in more attractive form than was its predecessor. For one thing, there is a colored cover in place of the old black and white wood cut that was for long such an artistic horror. The publishing houses pay a good deal of attention to externals, and it pays to give the boys something neat and tasty, for they are a very important part of the reading public, and their support of a nickel library is not to be sneered at by the business office."

"Who is writing the detective stories of to-day?"

"We have one man who does nothing else. His mind has been trained along these peculiar lines, and he has acquired a style that the boys seem to delight in. We keep him about a dozen numbers ahead of actual publication, for we can't afford to slip up in our weekly output. Sometimes, when he is indisposed, we assign the job to another member of the staff, but as a rule it is one man who does the work.

"The detective story, however, is not the one that heads the list of popular productions for young fellows. As a matter of fact, the library that sells best is one that exploits the doings of a boy. That is what the boys like most to read about—something another boy just like themselves has done. Of course they are filled with admiration for the achievements of the great detectives of fiction, but they always feel that they'll have to wait until they grow up before they can successfully emulate those heroes. In the case of the boy hero it is different. Every young reader feels he can duplicate the performances of this youthful paragon, and that is why the weekly sales of the library are enormous."

"What does this boy hero do?"

"Everything a healthy boy ought to do. He is the champion baseball player and the best football player and the most satisfactory all round athlete his country can produce. He is the sort of a lad Jack Harkaway was, and there never was a more popular chap than that same Jack of glorious memory. He has all sorts of adventures at the school at Fardale, Conn.—an imaginary institution—and later when he goes to Yale."

"How long has he been thrilling the boy public?"

"For eleven years."

"And can you successfully hold him at the boy age for an indefinite period? Is he a sort of five cent Peter Pan?"

"Oh, no; he grows up just like other boys. He grows up naturally, and each week he is a week older than he was in the previous number. You couldn't appeal to the boys in any other way."

"But won't he reach an age limit in time, when he can no longer take part in purely juvenile experiences?"

"Of course."

"Then what will you do—stop your library?"

"Oh, no, we'll dig up a younger brother and take him along a route similar to the one the present favorite has travelled. It's the usual thing. Don't you remember how Sir Conan Doyle gracefully brought on Mycroft, a brother of Sherlock Holmes, when he had about exhausted the adventures of Sherlock? That gives the author an opening. You watch out for some Mycroft Holmes stories some of these days."

"What kind of a man writes these stories that are so well thought of by the boys?"

"A boy's man. He lives in Maine and spends most of his time with the younger generation. He enters into all their sports and is as enthusiastic in boat building or baseball playing as any youngster of fifteen. He understands his people, and so his people understand him. Incidentally, he has made a very good thing out of his books, in a money way, and could afford to live for the rest of his life without writing a single line or doing a stroke of work. But he isn't that kind. He wants to talk each week to his great boy audience, and I think he'll continue being a boy himself till his hair turns white."

Popping the Question

"To-night I speak to your father, dearest. What had I better say?"

"Well, hadn't you better first call his attention to the penalties for [illegible] manslaughter and murder?"

COME WEST, BLISS CARMAN.

Bliss Carman, you'd better come west;
You say you're tired of the things you do,
The streets you walk, and the songs you sing,
And your soul's in need of a dry shampoo.

You've said that you ache for elbow-room,
For a look at the stars at least;
You've said you're tired of the poppy-cock
And pink tea air of the east.

Come out where the plains go rolling west
From the lakes to the Rockies' peaks,
Where the soul of the wheatland sings at dusk,
And the voice of the prairie speaks.

Come out where there's song to be sung again,
Where Youth and To-day rejoice;
You need the wine of the West in you—
And the West, it needs a voice.

A GENEROUS ARTIFICE.

How Late H. C. Hammond Gave Without Too Much Parade.

A characteristic action of the late Mr. Hammond occurred some two or three years ago when he first actively took up the cause of the Free Hospital for Consumptives. Subscriptions were not coming in very fast, and one Sunday night he paid a visit to the city editors of the morning newspapers with a suggestion. He wished to give $10,000 to the fund for the hospital, but at the same time he wished to conceal the fact that he was doing so because he thought it would arouse more public attention and stimulate subscriptions in a greater degree if it appeared that a larger number of persons had subscribed the sum in various amounts. He had therefore figured out a list of subscriptions ranging from $10 to $1,000, reading something like "J.S. $15," "Sympathizer $500," and so on. He offered to pay for the insertion of this list, if necessary, but only one newspaper, and that one very far from being the poorest in Toronto, would accept his money. Thus the public read of the sudden access of funds to the philanthropic institution and never for one moment suspected that the supposedly numerous donations were in reality one modest man's contributions to get the fund going.

The manner in which he took hold of the E. F. Clarke memorial fund and pushed it through to an adequate figure is also a matter of record, and owing to his great popularity it became truly non-partizan in its character.

Etheromanes.

"They are ether balls," said the psychologist. "They are composed of gelatin, like the capsuloids you swallow for indigestion, and inside them is just enough ether to make you happy without putting you to sleep. Etheromania continues to increase, and etheromanes keep devising novel ways of taking the baneful narcotic. The ether ball is a new and popular way. A group of ethomanes, lying together on silk divans, break under one another's nostrils these bright balls. The sweet, subtle fumes of the ether are inhaled, and the ether drunkards dream their strange ether dreams. I cure many of them by means of hypnotism."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Sailors Educated at Sea.

The writing of letters and the reading of good books in the battleship libraries is a source of valuable information to seamen in the United States navy, officers at the recruiting station say.

"When I enlisted," a gunner's mate said, "I couldn't write very well, and my ideas of literature were uncultivated. After a few months of painful scribbling to the 'folks at home' and to a certain young woman I began to be proud of my handwriting. To make my letters sound smooth I asked questions of the officers and read books on grammar and composition. Now, I believe, I am a first class correspondent. The libraries on board the battleships contain books by the standard authors. There are many hours every day that a sailor can devote to reading."—Kansas City Star.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP.

There is many a man and woman tossing night after night upon a sleepless bed. Their eyes do not close in the sweet and refreshing repose that comes to those whose heart and nerves are right. Some constitutional disturbance, worry or disease has so debilitated and irritated the nervous system, that it cannot be quieted.

Or again, you have, a sinking sensation, a feeling you are going to die; or perhaps, you wake in your sleep feeling as though you were about to choke or smother, and rest leaves you for the night. If you allow these conditions to continue for a short period even, you will begin to feel your health declining. It is the nerves and heart not acting rightly, and they can only be set right by the use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They soon induce healthful, refreshing sleep, not by deadening the nerves, but by restoring them to healthy action.

Mrs. E. Nutt, St. Mary's, Ont., writes:—"I can gladly recommend your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills as I was greatly troubled with my nerves. I was so bad I could not sleep at night without the lamp burning, but after taking four boxes of the pills I became all right again."

Price, 50 cents per box; 3 boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WORK AND WORRY WEAKENS WOMEN

New Health and Strength Can be Had Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

It is useless to tell a hard working woman to take life easily and not to worry. But it is the duty of every woman to save her strength as much as possible; to take her cares as lightly as may be and to build up her system to meet any unusual demands. It is her duty to herself and to her family, for her future health depends upon it.

To guard against a complete breakdown in health the blood must be kept rich and red and pure. No other medicine does this so well as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. This medicine actually makes new, red blood, strengthens the nerves, restores the appetite and keeps every organ healthily toned up. Women cannot always rest when they should, but they can keep their strength and keep disease away by the occasional use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which have done more to lighten the cares of weak women than any other medicine.

Mrs. James H Ward, Lord's Cove, N.B., says:—"About two years ago I suffered so much from nervous prostration that I was little better than a helpless wreck. I suffered from headaches and a constant feeling of dizziness. The least unusual move would startle me and set my heart palpitating violently. I had little or no appetite and grew so weak that I was hardly able to drag myself about, and could not do my housework. In every way I was in a deplorable condition. As the medicines I had been taking seemed to do me no good, my husband got a supply of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I had only been taking the Pills for a couple of weeks when I seemed to feel somewhat better and this encouraged me to continue the treatment. From that on my strength gradually but surely returned, and in the course of a few more weeks I was once more a well woman, able to do my own housework, and feeling better than I had done for years. I have since remained well and I feel that I owe my good health to the healing power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Every other weak, sickly, worn out woman should follow the example of Mrs. Ward and give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial. These Pills will send new blood coursing through the veins and bring brightness and energy to the weak and despondent.

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Electric Smelting a Success.

Dr. Eugene Maanel, director of mines, has returned to Ottawa from Dunnarfvet, Sweden, thoroughly convinced that the process of electric smelting is a complete success, and reports to the Government that the enormous supplies of iron ores in both Ontario and Quebec can be profitably developed by means of the magnificent water powers with which those provinces are endowed.

He also investigated power development from gas producer engines and as a result a number of experiments in connection with such engines will be conducted in Ottawa.

A model plant is being built in the southern part of that city and the machinery is now en route from Europe.

The Dunnarfvet works have invented a steel furnace in which a three-phased current and two electrodoes are used, the bottom of the furnace furnishing the third electrode. The special advantage of this is that the three-phase current produces a rotation of the bath in a vertical plane, thus bringing new material continually into the slag line for purification. Dr. Maanel also conducted important investigations into three new zinc reduction processes.

Laymen's Program.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement has just announced the program for the National Missionary Congress to be held in Toronto, March 31 to April 4. It opens with a meeting for clergymen and theological students; to be addressed by Robert Speer of New York, and other leaders, and the regular sessions of the congress begin with an evening meeting and an address on "The World's Debt to the Missionary."

The themes for the different sessions are such as: "The Victorious Progress of Missions"; "The Place of the Church in the Making of the Nation"; "How to Lead the Church to its Highest Missionary Efficiency," and "Canada's National Missionary Policy."

Besides prominent missionary leaders from Canada and the United States, and prominent returned missionaries, there will be addresses by a commission of laymen who recently visited mission fields, and some representative laymen from Great Britain.

Canadian Coasting Trade.

With regard to a recent announcement citing the terms of an order restricting the coasting trade of Canada to British vessels from Jan. 1, 1909, we are officially informed that applications have been made to allow the ships and vessels of certain foreign countries to participate in the Canadian coasting trade to a limited extent and for a temporary period, pending the acquisition of suitable British ships. The Governor-General has consequently ordered that the order be amended in such manner as to permit steamships of not less than 1,500 tons gross tonnage each, of Italy, Germany, the Netherlands, Sweden, Norway, Austria-Hungary, Denmark, Belgium, the Argentine Republic, and Japan to engage in the coasting trade of Canada in the carrying of goods and passengers coastwise between any port in the province of Nova Scotia and any port in the province of Quebec and vice versa on the same terms and conditions as are applicable to Canadian vessels until Dec. 31 1911.

BARONETS IN POVERTY.

Two Are Cabmen, One an Insurance and One a Tobacconist.

So far as baronetcies are concerned, being lower in grade than a peerage, there are a number of men who have successfully made good their claims, but still have to work for their living. For instance, says an English publication, Sir Thomas Tyrrell of Burton-on-Trent, who traces his descent from the Sir Walter Tyrrell whose arrow killed William Rufus in the New forest, is a cabman.

There is also a cabman at Hobart, in Tasmania, who rejoices in the name of Sir George Augustus Jervis Meredyth, eleventh baronet. Burke's Peerage recognizes him, and that is half the battle. But there is no property.

Sir Harry Yelverton Goring may be found any day in the week serving halfpenny packets of workingmen's tobacco over a little counter at Tamworth, in the pottery district, and Sir Henry Echlin is the landlord of the Rose and Crown inn at Woodburn Green, in Buckinghamshire.

Before Sir Henry took to serving beer he was a footman, although he has descended from an ancient Irish family whose estates have been dissipated, as so many Irish estates have been before now, leaving him nothing but the barren title, which occasionally attracts to the Rose and Crown idle curiosity seekers who wish to see a real baronet serving bitter beer to laborers. The superintendent of the Whitby Union poorhouse is Sir John Lawson, whose ancestors were made baronets some hundreds of years ago.

A Clock That Stutters.

Gerund, who stuttered badly, returned home at 4 a. m. in a blissful mood from an "evening" at the club. On entering the house he was greeted from above by Mrs. Gerund, and the following dialogue ensued:

"Is that you, John?" asked Mrs. Gerund from the landing.

"Y-y-yes, m'dear; that's m-me," delightedly answered Gerund.

"What do you mean, sir," thundered his wife, "by coming home at 4 o'clock?"

"F-four o'c-clock!" echoed Gerund in a gently surprised and hurt tone. "Why, it's j-j-jus' 1 o'clock."

"Sir," came the frigid voice from above, "the clock has just struck 4!"

When Gerund replied it was in a subdued, almost hopeless, tone, but with absolute conviction. "D-do you know, my d-d-dear, that infernal clock is st-t-tuttering again?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

Canalboats in France.

Comparatively little of the traffic in the longer French canals is moved otherwise than by horses. There are a few steam freighters, which carry half a million tons a year, most of it between Paris and Rouen, and one some canals are regularly organized towing systems. But the great part of the hauling is done by horses and with so much economy on the part of the barge owners that the government has had to provide by regulation that every barge must have "power" enough not unnecessarily to block traffic. Every barge also must have a crew of two, "one of whom must be a man." So runs the regulation. So nearly every French barge is the home of a more or less happy couple, whose charcoal fire pot scents up the air along the waterways with the preparation of the endless meals.—Boston Transcript.

Woman.

Woman, the gentlest of all creatures, is apt to become masterful and even tyrannical, this because she is a creature in whose composition emotion dominates, and emotion when highly stimulated becomes passion, and passion spurns all reasonable limitation and becomes tyrannical. Besides, there are women with more than ordinary firm will and persistent purpose. These when winged by the passion which is natural to the sex become intolerant, masterful and more tyrannical than men. Qualification to the intense action of the impassioned soul is treachery, and contradiction is treason. Like a stormy wind, they will have their sweep and ignore all contraries. And from this predominance of the emotional element it seems plain that, though woman may try many things and succeed in most, she is, with her normal outfit, materially incapacitated from being a statesman or a judge.—Daybook of John Stuart Blackie.

The State and the Individual.

The state may make it easy for a man to acquire a small holding, but it cannot give the man the energy, the industry, which are necessary if the boon is to be an abiding blessing to him. The state may help men over bad times, but it cannot give men the moral character which enables those who possess it by their energy, determination, industry, to place themselves beyond the reach of temporary disaster.—London Strand Magazine.

Partly So.

"Confess," he thundered, "you are another's!"

She shivered.

"Partially," she faltered. "This hair"—she pressed her hand to her brow—"and the upper teeth I wear are borrowed; the rest—yours."

The Feminine Paradox.

The uneducated woman has often the quickest perception, the finest tact, the most vivid sensibility. She will feel without speaking; she understands your inmost thoughts; she knows without being told.—London Black and White.

A Good Reason.

"Pa's a great admirer of the secret ballot system."

"Why?"

"Because it affords him a great chance to say afterward that he voted for all the winners."—Judge.

FINGER RIPPED OPEN

Mr. Daniel McDougall, 124 Creighton St., Halifax, N.S., says:—"I was pulling a piece of meat off a hang nail when I received a nasty wound. One of my fingers got caught in the hook and the flesh ripped open to the first joint. I suffered much pain, and try how I would could not get it healed, or prevent the flesh from peeling off. Just at this time I received a sample of CUROL. It stopped the pain at once and the next morning the wound looked nice, so I continued using this wonderful Salve until the finger was healed completely. I cannot praise CUROL too highly for it did wonders for me."

Accidents will happen in every path of life and once the tissues are lacerated it is an easy matter for disease germs to make entry into the blood. Once they are permitted to do this (for the air is full of microbes all too ready to enter the body) they commence their deadly work and develop ugly sores and very often blood poison. The deadly effect of the latter is apparent to everyone—every mother, wife or sister should therefore protect the lives of their families by keeping on hand a Box of CUROL, the greatest antiseptic healing and soothing Salve the world has known. The timely use of Curol prevents festering and blood poison for no microbe or disease germ can live where Curol is. As a pain lever it is a marvel and never fails to soothe and then heal.

Savage Australian Eagle Hawk.

Perhaps the deadliest foe of the Australian sheep farmer is the eagle hawk, and many and wonderful are the contrivances invented for his destruction or capture.

A correspondent at Singleton says it it no uncommon thing for a farmer with a run of quite an average extent to lose a hundred sheep in a season through the depredations of these carnivorous birds. "Their strength," he writes, "is so abnormal that it is practically impossible for the sheep on which one pounces to resist the attack, and their appetite for live mutton appears to be insatiable. They are occasionally caught by means of a trap attached to the carcass of a sheep and sometimes poisoned, but their numbers are nevertheless continually increasing."—London Standard.

Him Was It.

Foxhall Keene, at a hunt breakfast on Long Island, talked of the Quorn pack.

"The last time I hunted with the Quornites," he said, "I crossed a turnip patch side by side with a red faced, white whiskered old man on a big gray.

"'We'd best go carefully here,' I said to the old fellow. 'They tell me these turnips belong to an old curmudgeon who raises the very deuce if the hunt hurts his crops.'

"'Well, bein' as him's me,' said gray whiskers, 'I guess he won't mind today.'"

Pocketed the Ball.

The lord chief justice, now on circuit at Birmingham, had a curious experience while playing golf over the Edgbaston course with Walter Whiting, the local professional. At the second hole his lordship drove into a bunker, the ball lying badly under the bank. Taking his niblick, he hit hard. The ball jumped into the air and dropped into his right hand jacket pocket.—London Chronicle.

LOSS OF THE "STORK."

She Was Famous Among Mariners as a Quaint Old Craft.

The news of the total loss of the Hudson Bay Company's famous sailing ship, "Stork," a few week's ago, on Lisbon Shoals, Hudson Bay, has caused no little grief among the shareholders and the factors and other officers of the company in the Northwest, whose salaries depend very much on the value of the cargo of furs she was carrying to London, England. According to Hudson Bay Co.'s official reports at the time of the wreck the "Stork" had on board a cargo of furs valued at about $130,000, the annual catch of the previous year, and which it is feared is totally loss. Lloyd's agent at Moose Factory, H.B., reports the crew all saved, and the captain on his way to London in another ship, while the crew marched leisurely overland from Moose Factory to Montreal on snowshoes. The sailors on the Hudson Bay Co.'s ships are, as a rule, recruited from the Orkneys, and enter when young lads. The captains are chosen for their splendid abilities as seamen.

The "Stork" has probably the most remarkable record of any modern sailing ship. At Lloyd's she was known among the marine insurance speculative brokers and others as the "Spectre Ship." In the course of nearly thirty years' service the stout old ship has been the cause of many exciting incidents at Lloyd's. Perhaps her most notable achievement was last year, when she had an unusually large cargo of valuable furs, and was many months overdue.

According to Lloyd's the reinsurance rates jumped seventy-five guineas per cent., and just after this sudden rise the vessel was reported as passing up the Channel. Insurance speculators were badly hit, as the rates at once went down, but again for several weeks nothing was seen or heard of her at any port along the English or French coast.

The company's officials made enquiries off Land's End, and found that the look-out had sighted, through the blinding drift a vessel answering the description of the mysterious "Stork," having on her bows the letters "St—R." Still the "spectre" did not reappear in the Channel. The insurance rates jumped up once more and the "scare" gave large holders of Hudson Bay stock a very bad twist, and money was lost on all sides, except Lloyd's, who seemed to feel no great anxiety over the safety of the much-looked-for "Stork." A few days following the sharp, acute pang of the shareholders, the "Stork" calmly sailed into the Channel with a fair wind, and was again reported from Land's End.

Some four or five years ago the "Stork" arrived in dock twelve months behind time, having got jammed in the ice in James' Bay through sailing from Moose Factory too late. All hope of ever seeing her again was abandoned, and the re-insurance rates rose to ninety guineas per cent. On the whole the Hudson Bay Co. have been very lucky in the safe landing of their fur cargoes in their centuries of existence.

Red Hat For Canada.

A letter from Rome, published in The Dundas Banner and signed by Mgr. Sattuto, contains the following reference:

"When this reaches the Dominion, the date of the next Consistory will probably be settled, although the names of those to be raised to the purple will not be public, or even, perhaps, decided upon. That a Canadian will be included is doubtful, although it is a pressing question. There are now fourteen vacant hats, which is a large number, but present indications do not point towards either a Canadian or American cardinal, although that honor was half promised to the former during the Quebec festivities. The Pontiff is firm in his stand that the red hat shall never be a reward for anything, is conferred for higher reasons and thus if he gave a cardinal to Canada just at this moment it would be said that it was a reward for the Quebec centennial. [illegible] Bourne, Archbishop [illegible] the cardinalate just at this moment, so soon after the Eucharistic Congress, but the discontent of the English Catholics, at what they consider neglect of their interests, has risen to such a point that Pius X. will probably give way. However, Canada has been very patient in this matter, having waited eleven years, and it is quite within the bounds of possibility, I cannot say probability, that the Pontiff will concede to them also their desire, and the presence in Rome of Archbishop Bruchesi at this moment may contribute to this result."

Doubted Premier's Check.

Two Mattawa men who came to Ottawa recently to show Sir Wilfrid Laurier a work of woodsmen's art in the shape of hand-carving had the unfortunate experience of being jailed in Hull for a few hours owing to suspicions aroused when they attempted to pass a check for $25 bearing the Premier's signature. The two shantymen, by name Lecompte and Nault, were kindly received by the Premier, who proved himself a true patron of art by giving them a check for $25 in exchange for the result of their long hours of labor as self-taught woodcarvers. But when they came to cash the check at a Hull butcher store the police were communicated with and the innocent neophytes in art were locked up on a charge of forging the name of the Prime Minister to the check. Explanations followed two hours later from Sir Wilfrid, and the men were released.

FAKE PICTURES.

There Are, It Is Said, Few Honest Art Dealers In Europe.

I was talking the other evening with M. Henri Rochefort, the most brilliant authority in Paris on art matters.

"There is no doubt," he said, "that the chances today of an American millionaire in the European art market are shockingly bad. The demand for fine pictures is enormous; it has far surpassed the supply and is steadily increasing. Every one who can afford it wants his private gallery; even people of modest fortune have an old masterpiece or so, as they have an automobile. Consequently the prices of pictures have risen, risen, risen, until the temptation to fraud has become irresistible. There is no longer such a thing as an honest art dealer, or if some exceptional dealer happens to be honest he is sure to be incompetent."

"And the art experts?" I asked.

"Worse than the dealers," he declared. "Why should they know anything about art? They are stable boys today, art experts tomorrow. One of the most successful art experts in Paris was a billposter a few years ago. Any one may be an art expert who chooses to put up a sign. There are no qualifications, no diploma. A man simply calls himself an art expert and that settles it. And these are the fellows you rich Americans deal with. Quel malheur!"

"You think our American millionaires buy a good many fake pictures?"

M. Rochefort laughed. "It's pitiful! It's shameful! But what can they expect? It's their own fault for buying pictures as they buy lumber or steel rails—according to specifications. I'll never forget the last pictures I was asked to look at by a rich American. He was so proud of them; so convinced that they were masterpieces! There were forty in all, and they had cost him 800,000 francs. It was a bargain all right if they had been genuine, for there were great names in the lot; several old masters, a Diaz, a Theodore Rousseau, a Daubigny and several Corots—the usual millionaire assortment.

"'Well,' he said as I studied them

"'Some of them are well done,' I admitted.

"'Ah!' he purred.

"'But they're not genuine.'

"'What! You mean you've found a counterfeit?'

"'My dear sir, I'm sorry, but—they're all counterfeits'"—Cleveland Moffett in Success Magazine.

The Ethics of Kissing.

A Vienna magistrate has been called upon to decide whether kissing in the street is an offense against public morality.

Arnold Schmidt, a university student, was taking a fond leave of his sweetheart at the door of her house. This so shocked a clerk who saw the embrace that he complained to the police, and Schmidt was arrested for a breach of the public morals. He pleaded in court that his kiss was a token of respect to the maiden. An elderly spinster living in the house opposite, who had been an involuntary witness of the scene, told the magistrate amid much laughter that she indignantly withdrew from the window at once, because, she said, "kissing was not aesthetic."

The court, after much deliberation, dismissed the case, holding that kissing was no transgression of common morals.

"Billycocks."

C. A. Phillips, who died recently, was a principal in a well known firm of Nuneaton hatmakers. The business was established about two centuries ago at Atherstone and subsequently passed by purchase into the hands of a Joseph Willday, whose family conducted it for more than a hundred years. As early as 1745 the round hats made of soft felt, then known as "Atherstone cocks," were not only sold largely in Great Britain, but sent to the American plantations. Mr. Willday so increased the manufacture of these cheap felt hats that they became known as "Willday cocks," from which arose the term "billycocks." The English armies which fought in America, India and at Waterloo were supplied with hats from Willday's factory.—London Express.

Dropped Into the Sea.

Mount McCulloch, a peak 300 feet high west of Unalaska, has dropped into the sea following a volcanic eruption, according to information brought to San Francisco by the revenue cutter McCulloch. Officers of the government vessel say that instead of the mountain there is now a landlocked bay three miles wide, into which the cutter sailed and in which she made soundings. The water showed a depth of from eight fathoms at the edges to twenty-five fathoms in the center. Mount McCulloch was first seen a year ago, when the cutter after which it is named arrived off the coast.—San

JEWEL WEARING AN ART.

Diamonds Becoming to Few Women. Brunettes Can Wear Them.

Jewel wearing is an art few women understand. Women should choose gems becoming to their beauty and complexion.

On dull eyed days the eyes will appear duller with diamonds in the ears, and the sad, pale woman will appear livid wearing pearls.

Diamonds are becoming to few women. There are brunettes who can wear them in the ears and appear well. The pale blond also looks pretty with diamonds in her ears, but the average woman should wear her diamonds elsewhere.

Some wear topas and other yellow stones who dare not venture to wear brilliant colors. They take to all shades of yellow, from amber to the pale shades of tortoise shell and gold.

The amber loving woman has a creamy complexion. Her skin is clear, and a faint red shows in the cheeks. There is the topas beauty also, whose skin is creamy, with a touch of olive in it. She looks lovely with rubies in her ears, but pearls are not for her.

Lucky the woman who can wear coral. A coral skinned beauty's cheeks must be as bright as the reddest coral, with shadings of delicate pink. It is a good plan to rub the cheeks with a rough towel, to massage them with good creams and use plenty of water, not forgetting an occasional milk bath.

Turquoises are difficult to wear to advantage. The stones bring out the pallor. A baby face with eyes of clear, shining blue looks well with turquoises near it. The black eyed woman and the woman with brownish eyes should not attempt to wear them, for the stones are too bright. The woman with turquoise eyes can wear a string of blue around her neck advantageously and can put turquoises in her ears.

ALL INDIGESTION WILL VANISH PROMPTLY

Five Minutes After Taking Diapepsin You Are Relieved of Misery.

There would not be a case of indigestion here if readers who are subject to Stomachic trouble knew the tremendous digestive virtue contained in Diapepsin. This harmless preparation will digest a heavy meal without the slightest fuss or discomfort, and relieve the sourest, acid stomach in five minutes besides overcoming all foul, nauseous odors from the breath.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on each 50 cent case of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily understand why this promptly cures indigestion and removes such symptoms as Heartburn, a feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, Belching of Gas and Eructations of undigested food, water brash, Nausea, Headaches, Biliousness and many other bad symptoms; and, besides, you will not need laxatives to keep your stomach and intestines clean and fresh.

If your Stomach is sour or your food doesn't digest, and your meals don't tempt you, why not get a 50 cent case to-day from your druggist and make life worth living! Absolute relief from stomach misery and perfect digestion of anything you eat is sure to follow five minutes after, and, besides, one case is often sufficient to cure a whole family of such trouble.

Surely, a harmless, inexpensive preparation like Diapepsin, which will always, either at daytime or during night, relieve your stomach misery and digest your meals, is about as handy and valuable a thing as you could have in the house.

A Nursing Congress.

The Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario is in receipt of a despatch covering a copy of a letter addressed to the High Commissioner for Canada by the secretary of a committee of the Liverpool Queen Victoria District Nursing Association, stating that the congress is to commemorate the jubilee of the founding of district nursing by the late William Rathbone, in 1859, will take place in Liverpool during the first half of next May.

Invitations to send delegates to the congress will be sent to nursing associations, etc., and it is the hope of the committee that the invitation be made known to all interested in charitable nursing and to transmit to such as may come within its scope a cordial invitation to be present.

It is expected that Her Majesty the Queen, or a member of the royal family, will attend the opening meeting. The Lord Mayor of Liverpool is president of the congress committee.

Full Beards For Farmers.

The protection of farmers and others who are exposed to the heat a great deal is a serious and difficult matter. Cancer is on the increase, and farmers furnish a large proportion of the cases, many of them being due to the direct effects of sunlight on the face and hands. A full beard for the farmer is most desirable for his protection.—North American Journal of Homeopathy.

Partridge at $7 a Plate.

In the grill room of the Plaza hotel, Lattard, head waiter, has devised a new dish which is scheduled at $7 a plate. It is "partridge Napoleon I." and is prepared by roasting four birds on a bed of sliced grapes, apples and pineapple, over which a quart of champagne has been poured. The fruit simply gives flavor to the birds and is not served.—New York Herald.

Homestead Entries.

Figures compiled by the Interior Department show that during the first ten months of 1908, 31,578 homestead entries were recorded in the west, an increase of 6,273 over the same period in 1907. Americans headed the list with 1,435 entries and English came second with 725.

One pound of learning requires ten pounds of common sense to apply it.—Persian Proverb.

CANADIAN POETS.

Canada Now Has Quite Respectable List of Forgetten Bards.

Until quite recently, it used to be a joke among editors that one in every ten of the pupils turned out of the high school in the average Canadian town was a poet. In very truth the spread of education has produced verse-writers innumerable, most of whom, however, succumb early to the inevitable and accept more humdrum pursuits. But it cannot be said that the number of Canadian poets has increased in ratio to the population. Rather is the reverse true.

Comparatively few readers of the present generation are aware that the late Rev. Dr. Dewart, who passed away but two or three years ago, as long ago as 1864 published an anthology entitled "Selections from Canadian Poets, with Occasional Critical and Biographical Notes, an Introductory Essay on Canadian Poetry. By Edward Hartley Dewart." This volume was published by John Lovell, 81 Nicholas street, Montreal, and is now rather scarce, although its circulation was considerable.

Now, in 1864 the population of Canada was much less than it is to-day, yet the volume covers 305 pages, and one counts over eighty contributors. Moreover, in making his selections, the young Mr. Dewart of that day was careful to choose the work of verse-writers who paid heed to the laws of rhyme and metre.

These verses are not of the type that appeared in the poet's corner of the old-fashioned country weekly by any means. Some of the names that figure in the anthology are still familiar, even to the young Canadian of the twentieth century — those of D'Arcy Magee, Wm. McLachlan, John Reade, Charles Sangster, and Charles Heavy Sage, to cite a few instances.

Of the many young ladies whose names figure in the list, one cannot help wondering what became of them—whether they continued to write poetry after they got married. No doubt in many a Canadian household of to-day there is a cherished copy of this old volume, precious because it contains in clear print verses "that grandma wrote when she was a young girl."

It will be seen, also, that the poets of half a century ago were by no means backward in seeking the fame that book-covers are supposed to bestow, for in many cases the selection presented is credited to some already published volume of the poet's complete works. In fact, it is obvious that in that day, when literature in the United States was practically confined to what is known as "the New England school," there was a local impulse toward verse-writing and a local market for its output.

About the Members.

In the last Parliament there were 200 native-born Canadians; in the new House the native-born number 204.

There are six English-born, as compared with four in the last House.

Ireland sent four sons to the old House, but there are only two members who were born in Ireland in the new House.

In each House the membership included three men who were born in the United States.

Scotland had three representatives in the last House; now it has only two.

The new House also includes one member who was born in South America.

By religion the figures are equally interesting.

The Roman Catholics are of exactly the same force as in the old House, the figure in each case being 70.

The Presbyterians number 46 in the new House; last year they had 47.

The Methodist Church is represented by 50 in the new House, as against 40 in the last Parliament.

The Church of England has 41, against 42 last time.

The Baptists numbered eight in the former House; in this they are six.

An addition to the religions is a Universalist. The Congregationalists are two, the same as last year. And there is one Lutheran and one Farringdon Independent, just as there were in the last House.

Sixty Years In Civil Service.

A. G. D. Taylor, clerk of the English journals House of Commons staff, the oldest servant of the crown in the capital, was honored recently by being sent for by His Excellency Earl Grey, who congratulated him on the completion of sixty years in the public service, he having joined the service on Jan. 18, 1849.

Students of history will recall this as the year the Parliament Buildings were burned down by an angry Montreal mob, who pelted Lord Elgin, then Governor-General, with stones. Taylor was an eye-witnesses of these and other stirring events which marked the introduction of constitutional government in Canada.

In June last Mr. Taylor received the Imperial Service Order decoration, in recognition of his long service to the country.

A Klondike Pioneer.

Alexander McDonald, once one of the richest men in the Klondike, dropped dead recently at Dawson. He was dredging property near Clear Creek in the Stewart river country.

The temperature was 50 degrees below zero when he went out to split wood for his cabin fire. While getting the wood he died of heart failure.

McDonald went to the Klondike during the first rush. He quickly acquired many claims, securing several of the best groups in the camp. A London syndicate offered $11,000,000 but McDonald held his claims at $30,000,000. After encountering many mining reverses he lost most of his property.

His latest venture in dredging property in the Stewart district has not as yet amounted to much. He hoped to realize good returns.

The Old Speckled Hen.

By M. QUAD.

Copyright, 1908, by T. C. McClure.

The Thompsons and the Browns, farmers, had been neighbors for ten years, when in the same year Abel Thompson was left a widower and Aunt Martha Brown a widow. Plenty of people said it would be only natural for the two to marry after a year or so, but what the principals in the case thought of it did not come out for over two years. The farmer and the widow saw each other every day during this time. She continued to run her farm by the help of a hired man, but he was more or less interested. They sat together of evenings and talked of everything but what other people were talking about.

It was one evening in winter after the farmer had imbibed a quart of cider and eaten three or four apples and realized the loneliness of his own home that he hitched around on his chair for awhile and then said:

"Widder, there was a windmill man along today. He wants to put up a mill for me in the spring."

"Yes, windmill men come long about once in so often," she replied.

"He 'pears to have a purty good mill."

"Yes?"

"And the price is purty reasonable."

"Yes?"

"We wasn't talkin' about windmills all the time," continued Abel as he motioned for another glass of cider. "We was talkin' about other things."

"They are great folks to gab. I've known 'em to hang around all day and do nothin' but talk."

"That windmill man said folks was wonderin' why I didn't git married ag'in."

"What impudence!"

"He said folks was a-sayin' that it was my duty to."

"Humph!"

"And he said folks was wonderin' why you didn't git married ag'in."

"Just as if it was anybody's business!" snapped Aunt Martha.

"He said folks said it was your duty."

"Well, if folks will attend to their own business I'll attend to my duty. I'll tell 'em so if they come talkin' to me. I hope you didn't encourage him to keep on gabbin'!"

"N-o-o. I hadn't much to say, though after he'd gone I did considerable thinkin'. I'm a lonely man, Aunt Martha."

"You orter git a fiddle and learn to play on it."

"Sho! I hain't talkin' about fiddles. I'm a lonely man, and if I had a wife around the house things would be different. Just another swaller of that cider, please. I'm thinkin' you've got the best cider in the neighborhood. Yes, Aunt Martha, things would be different."

"Well, why don't you go and git married then?"

"Gosh hang it, I will. That's what I come over here this evenin' for. Aunt Martha, we have known each other a long time. I know you are a mighty good woman, and you know I'm a purty good man. Our farms jine, and I can run two farms as well as one. You must be lonesome too. There must be times when you'd like to have a man around the house to manage things. You've got twenty-eight hogs, and if the cholera breaks out among 'em what on earth you goin' to do? I was a-thinkin' to myself last night"—

"Abel, stop right there," said the widow, kindly, but emphatically. "I know you to be a good man, but I daunt in love with you. You haven't teched my heart yet. Until you do I don't want to talk about marriage. You jest go right along bein' good and feelin' lonesome, and if I find my love bein' aroused I'll tell you so."

"That's only fair," said the suitor as he rose up to go. "I hain't one to drive a woman into marriage as one drives hogs. I'll keep right on and take your word for it, and if you find you can't love me I'll stay single all the rest of my days. I'm kinder sot on you, you see, and I don't want nobody else."

During the next month things went along as usual, and there was no further reference to matrimony. Then Abel was sent for, and as he reached the widow's house she said:

"Abel, my sister, over at Tompkinsville, is sick and has sent for me. I'm goin' over and may be gone three or four days."

"Well, I'll run things the best I can while you're gone," he replied.

"What I want you to look out for in particular is that old speckled hen. You know I've had her for the last ten years, and I've learned to think a good deal of her. She hain't well 'tall jest now, and I hate to go away and leave her. She's got signs of the pip, and if I should come back and find her dead it would almost break my heart. Abel, I want you to be kind to her. I want you to sympathize with her. I want you to doctor and nurse her."

"I'll do it, Aunt Martha. I'll jest put in all my time nursin' her up. I'll be jest as kind to her as I would be to a baby."

"That's good of you. She's only a critter, but when one gits use to a critter he can even love an old speckled hen. She ain't laid an egg for these five years past, but she's got a hold on my affections for the eggs she used to lay. Why, she's laid over a hundred with double yolks, and one time she fit and licked a chicken hawk."

"You go right on, widder, and leave it all to me," said the farmer. "I'll do jest as much for that old hen as I would for a brother. I hain't sot up a night for the last twenty years, but if she's taken bad I shan't close my eyes till you git back."

The widow departed, and half an hour later Abel was carrying the old hen home under his arm. The three days went past, and the widow returned. She had only entered her house when the farmer appeared with the hen in a basket. He had her wrapped in red woolen cloths. She smelled of camphor and various liniments. Her toes had been trimmed and greased, and he had applied salve to her comb. With proud deliberateness he removed wrap after wrap and finally reached the last end and set the hen down on the floor with:

"There she is, Aunt Martha, and jest as good as she was five years ago. I've worked over her for three days, and I'm tellin' you there hain't a hen in the hull county can come up to her."

"How splendid of you, Abel—how splendid!" gasped the widow, and as if to corroborate her words the hen raised her head, swelled out her breast and tried to give utterance to a crow.

"See that—hear that, widder?" asked Abel.

"Yes, I do, and, oh, Abel"—

"Is your heart teched, widder?"

"It is, and—and"—

"And you'll be mine?"

That was in March, and they were married in May, and the old speckled hen was alive at last accounts and making efforts to return to her duty.

The First War Correspondents.

In a sense Julius Caesar was a war correspondent, only he did not send his "Commentaries" piecemeal from the "theater of war," but indited them at his leisure in the subsequent peace time. The old Swedish Intelligencer of the Gustavus Adolphus period was genuine war correspondence, published, indeed, tardily compared with our news of today, but nevertheless fresh from the scene of action, full of distinctiveness, quaint and racy beyond compare. The first modern war correspondent professionally commissioned and paid by a newspaper was the late G. L. Gruneisen, a well known literary man, who was sent to Spain by the London Post with the Spanish legion which Sir de Lacy Evans commanded in 1837 in the service of the queen of Spain. But this new departure was not followed up, and no English paper was represented in the great battles of the first and second Punjab wars.

Accidents to Work People.

Industrial accidents occurring to 273 individual work people in Canada during the month of December, 1908, were reported to the Department of Labor at Ottawa. Of these, 86 were fatal and 188 resulted in serious injuries.

In the preceding month there were 124 fatal and 198 non-fatal accidents reported, a total of 322, and in December, 1907, there were 92 fatal and 196 non-fatal accidents, a total of 288.

WONDERS OF THE WEST.

Peace River Man Expatiates Upon Wealth of His District.

The wonderful resources, magnificent distances and future possibilities of the Peace River country were recounted to a Winnipeg Free Press reporter one day recently by an enthusiast in the person of J. K. Cornwall, who has spent the last twelve years there. He is not only impressed with the development under way in the vast country northwest of Edmonton, but is using every endeavor to educate the outside public to the riches lying there unexploited.

"People," he said, "are gradually becoming cognisant of the tremendous wealth that lies buried in the fertile northland, but it is really hard to properly impress the public with the extent of the navigable streams, the wonderful productiveness of the soil, the possibilities for cattle ranching, and with what is of most immediate importance, the necessity for development of the lumber, fishing and mining industries.

"There are 3,500 miles of navigable streams in the Mackenzie watershed," said Mr. Cornwall. "Can you appreciate that? and they are in better shape for development to-day than is the mighty Mississippi with all its tributaries, and after the United States has spent hundreds of millions on them for improvements. These waters will serve the purpose of opening up the fine new country to the north, the same as the Mississippi, the Missouri, and the Red did for the middle west in the early days. At present there is an actual money investment on these streams of $225,000 and the Hudson Bay Co. has just completed a new steel steamer to run between the Arctic and the lower Mackensie. It is equipped with electric lights, baths and other modern improvements.

"There are practically only two breaks in the navigable waters of which I speak. One of these is what is known as the Vermilion chutes on the Peace river, about 50 miles below Vermilion. These are a series of rapids and waterfalls about one and one-half miles in extent. The other is on the Great Slave river, 100 miles south of Lake Chippewayan, where there are 16 miles of falls and rapids, affording, by the way, tremendous water power.

"The erroneous idea prevails that costly wagon roads are necessary for opening up the country, and until this is accomplished progress will be slow. Such an idea is absurd. All that is necessary to tap the country and ensure rapid development are two short lines of railway to connect with the waterways. One of these should run northeast about 250 or 275 miles to the Athabasca river, and the other northwest about 400 miles to the Peace river. That would do the trick. It will not be long before these lines are completed."

McBride Fooled 'Em.

An ex-member of the Canadian House of Commons at the Windsor Hotel in Montreal recently told a very interesting story touching the first, or preliminary, negotiations between the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway and the Government of British Columbia.

It appears that a leading Conservative from the east was traveling in a C.P.R. sleeper going to the coast and on the safe train were four well-known gentlemen who were on an important mission to the British Columbia Ministry then, as at the present, headed by Hon. Richard McBride. Day after day these gentlemen would come in from the smoker and discuss ways and means for bringing their mission to a successful close, and some of the methods talked of whereby the Prime Minister of British Columbia, who apparently was unknown to most of the party, was to be worked, would sound better in a parlor car than if put into print in the columns of a newspaper.

It happened, however, that in the next seat was a strong Conservative, who all this time had been taking notes and this gentleman at once wrote to Premier McBride, telling him of the coming delegation and relating almost every word that had passed between the four. The G.T.P. delegation remained over one day in Vancouver, while the tell-tale letter went ahead of them into Victoria."

One after another of the theories concocted so cleverly on the railway train was met by Mr. McBride in such a manner as to convince the astonished delegates from the east that the Premier was truly a wonderful man.

FLOWER CUPS FOR ICES.

Charming Table Decorations For Bridge and Puzzle Parties.

With bridge and puzzle parties in full swing the hostess finds herself again confronted with the problem of offering attractive favors and decorations for her luncheon, dinner or tea guests. Fancy paper ornaments are always a satisfactory investment for the reason that they are effective, inexpensive and generally novel in shape or idea.

American Beauty rose cups are truly charming. One style is made with the large curling petals resting on the table, and in the heart of each gloriously tinted flower is placed a small ice cup made of finely plaited paper held together at the rim by a band of "Beauty" crape paper twisted into a cord and tied at one side. The petals of the rose curl up around the cup so that very little of it shows. It is not essential to have leaves and stems with this kind of cup. Another style is more true to nature, however, and it represents a half blown La France rose standing three or four inches above the table. The flower is mounted on a green stem which is twisted spirally so that the blossom sways as though touched by summer zephyrs. Branching from the thick thorn decorated stem are realistic looking rose leaves fashioned of green crape paper; then the base of the stem is curled around a green paper covered disk.

For a more elaborate ornament one might have a cluster of cups instead of serving individual ones. A spray of blossoms with leaves looked charming in the center of a luncheon table whose decorations were pink. The flowers were La France roses, six large beauties nestling in foliage. Each rose heart was an ice cup, and the spray was laid on a mirror which was surrounded by more rose foliage.

Golden hearted flowers holding small receptacles for orange ice or an ice cream tinted to match the flower petals make a novel and pleasing decoration. These come in a variety of colors and shades.

Commander Dubois Phillips, secretary of the Liverpool Geographical Society, believes that the North Pole will eventually be reached by the aeroplane.

I plead guilty to poverty only, said a woman charged at Willesden with neglecting her children.—The Clerk: You cannot plead guilty to that. Poverty is no crime.

Thirteen inmates of the Albion Hotel Margate, were rescued with the greatest difficulty from the upper part of the building, the ground floor of which was discovered in flames.

Making a complaint against her husband at Leeds County Court, a woman said, "He folded up his trousers and placed them under his pillow, so that I could not go through his pockets."

In accordance with their policy of collecting income-tax as soon as possible after January 1, on the 21st inst., a peremptory demand for payment was issued by the authorities.

IRELAND

Sir Robert Anderson has been re-elected Lord Mayor of Belfast.

An Irishman told the Halifax magistrates that his wife sometimes "flew at him like a saint."

Returns of Irish trade show that Ireland suplies Britain with more live stock and poultry than any other country. The export value of pigs and pig produce in 1907 was £5,000,000; of eggs and poultry, £3,830,648; and of butter, £4,008,220.

Among Irish pensioners is Patrick M'Cart, the oldest inhabitant of Strabane. He was born in Ballintra, County Donegal, in the year 1799, which leaves him now 110 years. He has been the father of five children, the youngest of which is now 70 years old.

A burning accident occurred at Newtowncunningham, Donegal, which resulted in serious injuries to two little girls; one of whom has since died. The children, aged 7 and 5, were standing at the fire in their bedroom when the younger girl's clothing caught fire.

The Right Hon. T. W. Russell, M.P., vice-president of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction, addressed a large meeting in the King's Hall of Ye Olde Castle Restaurant, Belfast, under the auspices of the Ulster Liberal Association. R. G. Glendinning, M.P., presided.

When the thaw set in all the low lying towns in the northwest of Ireland were severely flooded. Strabane was four feet under water, and boats had to be used on the principal streets. Much damage was done. Hundreds of sheep and cattle were drowned, and railway traffic was suspended.

The London Board of Trade authorities are about to take action on the question of the unprotected condition of Mizen Head. It is expected that a sub-committee will be appointed to investigate the matter, and in well informed quarters it is believed that the investigation will take a much wider range and deal with the question of Irish lights generally.

STOMACH COMFORT

When the Stomach Rebels, Headache, Indigestion and Nerve Pain Follows—Mi-o-na Brings Relief.

Just as soon as you are done eating the healthy stomach commences to churn the food around and mixes it thoroughly with the juices of the stomach.

If the food is not churned it lays heavily in your stomach, turns sour and causes all kinds of distressing symptoms, such as headache, indigestion, stomach pain and dyspepsia. Mi-o-na helps the stomach to properly mix the food.

John S. May, of Isabella street Belleville, Ont., says, "For over seven months I was in constan agony with a case of nervous dyspepsia and indigestion that medical skill could not relieve. I was weak and had lost much weight through loss of appetite and suffering. My meals would fill me with gas and a feeling of oppression across the stomach and all up the left side, left me in a miserable condition I was restless at night and as tired and unrefreshed in the morning as on going to bed. A cooking sensation in my throat was always constant when lying down, and my heart seemed to flutter and pound as though it were coming through my side. I was benefited from the first two days' use of Mi-o-na I began to feel like myself again, my appetite returned and the depressive feeling left me. I can enjoy my meals without the least worry of after suffering I have gained in weight and can sleep the night through in comfort.

Go to Wm Madill, the druggist and get a 50 cent box of Mi-o-na Tablets. Money back if Mi-o-na does not cure.

Making It Last.

A young man was lately leaving his aunt's house after a visit when, finding it was beginning to rain, he caught up an umbrella that was snugly placed in a corner and was proceeding to open it when the old lady, who for the first time observed his movements, sprang toward him, exclaiming: "No, no; that you never shall! I've had that umbrella twenty-three years, and it has never been wet yet, and I am sure it shan't be wetted now!"—London Express.

An Annoying Error.

That was a very annoying typographical error that crept into the papers the other day, telling how a prominent society man had been held up by highwaymen and "robbed of his watch and other vegetables." The editor has come out with an explanation that the last word was not vegetables, but valuables.—Judge.

BUS DRIVER WHO WAS GIVEN $5 BILL TO GET CHANGED TOOK THE MONEY AND JUMPED THE JOB

Local Legal Gentleman Had a Novel Experience the Other Day —Driver Left Bus at the Station

THE CASE IS UNUSUAL.

A story has just come to light in which is shown that Peterborough is not yet free of the slim gentry, even if they do pose under the cloak of hotel bus drivers. A certain gentleman related to an Examiner reporter a funny experience which he had lately. He said that while coming from Toronto a few days ago, en route to Millbrook, "I travelled on the C. P. R. to this city and jumped into a certain local hotel bus to be transferred to the G. T. R. station. Having no change I handed the driver a five dollar bill, telling him to have it changed and that I would wait for him there. He went into the station and I waited outside until I got rather impatient and then I started to look for him, but I could not find him anywhere. The only thing I learned was that he had left the bus in the hands of a youngster who was loafing around the station. I next started for the hotel to report it and there investigation proved that the man had come back, packed his turkey and skipped out."

This was a true experience and the man's word can be relied on, because he is connected with the legal profession in the city, and such a departure from the rigid principles of honesty was naturally quite a shock to him.

SMALLER MARKET THIS MORNING

Prices About the Same as Quoted Last Week.

The market this morning took a step downwards in size, very few coming in except those who lived close to town. The reason for this was that there was no snow for sleighing and the roads were not the best for wheels. Produce went up a little in price if anything.

Following are the prices:

Baled hay, $12 to $14; loose hay, $11 to $14; oats, 40c to 42c; live hogs, $6.85; dressed hogs, $8.75 to $9.50; beef, 5c to 6c; pork, 10c to 11c; turkeys, $2.00 to $2.50; chickens, 80c per pair; ducks, 60c each; butter, 28c to 30c; eggs, 28c to 32c; potatoes, 60c per bag; hides, f and b, 7 1-2c to 8 1-2c.

UNDERTAKER KNOCKED DOWN BY CORPSE

Arm Shot Out When It Was Relaxed After Moving Body.

Youngstown, Ohio, Feb. 13.— Struck squarely on the point of the chin, Don McVean, embalmer for Gillen and McVean, undertakers, was knocked out by a corpse.

McVean was preparing for burial the body of an iron worker, when, as he shifted its position, the muscles of the right arm relaxed.

The fist shot out like that of a pugilist, and the undertaker went down dazed.

When he recovered he rushed out of the morgue and left an assistant to finish the job.

HORSES MUST WEAR BELLS IN WINTER TIME

Chief Roszel has issued orders to his men that they are to keep a sharp look-out for sleighs and cutters without bells. There have been numerous complaints from various sources that many people were driving without the required bells. This is contrary to the statutory law, and beginning on Monday, all offenders want to pile their noiseless cutters away from the haunts of the police, or it will mean an appearance in Police Court for those who are apprehended.

The Chief says that a word to the wise is sufficient, and there will be no repetition of that word.

THE HOCKEY SITUATION.

The Peterborough intermediate O. H. A. team is down and out for the season, last night's defeat at Lindsay having settled the district championship. However, the team has given a good account of itself this season and have done much better in the O. H. A. race than was expected at the first of the season. In fact at one time it looked very doubtful whether there would be a team or not. To the Lindsay for the championship of their district was most creditable. They have given the fans good hockey, the season has been a success financially and the interest aroused shows that the people of Peterborough are still anxious to have a good team. Above all the year has been a bright one inasmuch as it has developed material that will be heard from again, and next year it will be possible to put a team on the ice that will take a lot of beating. On the whole the outlook is very bright. Watch for the Petes next season.

NO POLICE COURT.

No police court! The regular rail-birds had a week of disappointment. Not as much as an unfortunate "drag" necessitated the opening of the street door and the consequent dash for the places of vantage hanging over the rail in the court room. Down stairs the cells remained empty, their heavy iron grated doors hanging peacefully open. Peace and quietness were supreme in the vicinity of the police court, although Chief Roszel's stalwarts were on the lookout for offenders against the peace.

Recollections Of The Days When G. T. R. Engines Carried Wood In Tender For Fuel

When the average citizen purchases a load of hardwood to-day, almost invariably it is cut at the wood yard and delivered ready for the stove. Thirty or forty years ago, yes and even less than that, it was piled at his shed door and only by muscular power could it be prepared for burning. The varied uses of electricity have included the circular saw, which is now found in every wood yard, and the work that in the days of our grandfathers provided employment during the winter for labourers of the city has now practically disappeared.

Many of the patriarchs of the city can look back to the times when they were among those who started out on a winter's morning with their saw and "horse" on one shoulder, prepared for a day of hard labour, and now they recall almost with pride the fact that they sawed their way through five or six cords of hard wood before the gathering gloom announced the close of the day. A keen rivalry existed for the reputation of being the fastest performer, and among those who were dependent upon this work for their winter's livelihood are many who can recall, to-day, the names of those who were conceded the best sawers.

The men who could claim to be knights of the saw were strong and vigorous, and their stout muscles adapted them and fitted them for the work. There were no gymnasiums, but it is a matter of doubt if there are any of the young men of to-day who could go out and saw five cords of hard wood as they did. Of course the four foot sticks were generally cut but once, and if two cuts were necessary, that counted as two cords.

Record Work

A reporter, speaking to one old gentleman, who in his declining years recalls his former strength and the feats it enabled him to perform, told of having cut a cord of wood in fifty minutes. On another occasion a George street merchant told him he had a cord of wood he wanted sawed as it was piled in front of his store, and it could not be left on the street over night. The man promised to do it that day, but did not call until ten minutes to six o'clock in the evening, much to the disappointment of the merchant. This was quickly relieved as he said there was plenty of time and he need not feel worried. Within an hour the wood was sawed and in the cellar, having been thrown down the grate opening on the sidewalk. These cases are not fiction, neither is the fact that five and six cords could be sawed in a day by an industrious man with a good saw.

Engines Burned Wood

The price paid was twenty-five and thirty cents a cord, which in those days constituted a fair day's wage to the labouring man. This octogenarian recalled the days when the G. T. R. engines burned wood instead of coal as at present. It had to be sawed in two pieces and piled in the tender, and one man did all the sawing in the local yard. To-day there are very few who saw wood for a living. The electric saw has eliminated that industry, and the price, too, has soared to from sixty to seventy-five cents and even a dollar.

And thus, changes slowly but surely take place. In a few years, perhaps, wood will not be used at all as a fuel, no one can tell, and in a generation the old time wood cutters will be forgotten and the children of that age will grow up never to have heard of them!

Children Raised To Be Sacrificed By The People Of West Africa At Present Day

London, Feb. 13.— Human sacrifice is practised to-day in West Africa, as well as in the Philippines, according to Mr. Northcote Wilson, who last year made a 1,000 mile trip down the Ivory and Gold Coasts to study the fetish religion, and who has lectured here on her experiences.

"The Gold Coast native," says Mrs. Wilson, "is a fatalist, who has no conception of the value of life. Having a vague belief in reincarnation, he is willing to sacrifice himself for his religion. Children are brought up for the express purpose of being sacrificed. "When the child comes to manhood he is shaved and anointed and everything he desires is given to him. Wild revels are held in the heart of the forest, the man for sacrifice and scented and then worshipped for two days. On the third day there is an indescribable scene of debauchery, when the doomed man is put into a split tree and killed.

"These sacrificial rites are performed not through a lust for blood, but rather because of a desire to make atonement and placate the gods. Even the President of Liberia, whom I met, believes in fetishism, and possesses a 'ju-ju,' although he is an exceptionally intelligent man and a Harvard graduate."

Night Watchman Finnie Sent In The Alarm Of Recent Fire

It has been learned that Mr. Ed. Finnie, night watchman, discovered the fire which almost obliterated the White House stables early on Friday morning. Coming down George street he had noticed the smoke blowing towards the east, but could not find any trace of the fire. A party returning from a dance (at about 4.30 o'clock) passed along Charlotte street on the south side, and did not notice the smoke. Mr. Finnie phoned from Jacobi Bros.' restaurant as soon as he discovered the location of the blaze.

FUTURE SPEAKERS

Canadian Club Has Secured Prominent Men for Coming Addresses — Importance of Mr. Ewart's Lecture.

CREDIT TO THE OFFICERS

Mr. Daniel O'Connell, President of the Canadian Club announced a number of speakers who will give lectures here in the near future. Among the most prominent are Col. George T. Denison of Toronto who will give an address on "Imperialism", Prof. Adam Shortt, of the Civil Service Commission will speak on "Canadian Foreign Trade Relations"; Prof. E. J. Kylie on March 10th will lecture on the "Menace of Socialism" and the Hon. R. S. Sutherland, ex-speaker of the House of Commons will also speak before the club.

The Canadian Club deserves credit and congratulations for their successful efforts in securing these prominent men. That Mr. Ewart's address last night was an important one is manifested by the fact that the Toronto Globe gave it first page prominence in a three column article sent from Peterborough. The officers of the club are to be complimented on their aggressiveness and for the interest they have displayed in the club's affairs.

HAD COLD BATH IN LITTLE LAKE

Mr. Charles Collins, Romaine street, while cutting ice on the lake yesterday had the unpleasant experience of breaking through the ice and getting a rather cold reward for his labours. When he disappeared from sight the other men working with him dropped their tools and started a search party out to look for him, but before they had thought of where to look his head appeared above the surface of the lake. He was immediately pulled out and without a word started off on the run for warmer apparel. The men say that the rate he travelled at would beat Shrubb in a half-mile dash, let alone Longboat.

ALEXANDER & MILLER'S PROSPEROUS SEASON

Completion of Some Recent Contracts in a Satisfactory Manner.

It is always gratifying to be able to chronicle the prosperous condition of trade in any of our local trade or factories or workshops, more particularly during a season when more or less complaints are heard of the dullness of business in certain branches. It is a pleasure, therefore, to state that Messrs. Alexander & Miller, the electrical contractors, Brock street, have had a splendid season's business, with constant work for all their employees. They have just completed their important contract for the Bank of Montreal, namely the lighting of the new bank at Stirling, and also at Trenton, for which they had the contract for wiring and fixtures. Both contracts have passed all necessary inspection by the fire underwriters' inspector. They have also just completed the lighting of the new Knox Co. store on George street, and St. James Church in the southern part of the city. Alexander & White have been favoured with quite a good proportion of the principal contracts carried out in Peterborough. Besides these numerous ones others are to their credit outside the city which speaks well for their reputation as competent and reliable electricians.

POST CARD COLUMN.

Editor Post Card Column.

Dear Sir,—Is it considered in good taste for a teacher in a Normal School, where a considerable percentage of the students are Catholics, to associate himself prominently with an extremely anti-Catholic Society, and at a public meeting of such society, to praise particularly the grand work done by the society paper, a paper notorious for its bitter and insulting references to the Catholic Church, its clergy and members? I have never known this spirit to be shown before, even in our public schools, where the students were purely non-Catholic.

Yours,
TOLERANCE.

Fine New Home Of Fruitlets And Spearmint Required To Meet The Increased Demand

Fruitlets and Spearmint, the gum that is making a name for itself, has required a new home to meet the great demands that have been crowding in. Almost phenomenal has been the growth of this business and the reporter who had visited them when they commenced operations last year in the little shop on Reid street, was surprised at the enlarged space that has been procured, at the new machinery that has been installed and at the consequent increased output. The new premises are located in the building opposite the Grand Opera House and two floors are occupied. Three large coating pans are among the new machinery besides a powerful motor that is required. Modern equipment is found in every department and extreme care is taken in the manufacture of both Fruitlets and Spearmint. Purity of ingredients and cleanliness are outstanding features, just as when the business was begun. The three flavours of Fruitlets are Blood Orange, Pineapple and Wintergreen, all of which are in popular demand and there is another special flavour which has not yet been given a name, but should appeal to lovers of Fruitlets. Although all the machinery has been conveniently arranged and with a view to rapid work, but even with the increased room the new building is not large enough and those in charge consider that it is only a matter of time when they will occupy a large factory which will be necessary, judging from the rapid strides with which the business has been advancing.

KAISER AND HURTUBISE MEET HERE ON TUESDAY NIGHT NEXT

The big event in sporting circles now that the Lindsay-Peterborough deadlock is at last settled, is the wrestling match between Charlie Kaiser, of Oswego, N. Y., and Eugene Hurtubise, of Peterborough, which takes place in the Auditorium Roller Rink on Tuesday night of next week. Great interest is being taken in the match, the conditions of which are that Kaiser is to throw the local grappler twice in an hour. He succeeded in beating Gene at Hamilton last fall, but the Peterborough man is confident that he will not be able to accomplish the task this time. Kaiser, who has won three matches this week, is in good shape and has no doubt as to the outcome. The rink will be heated and will be made comfortable for the spectators. The rink side seats are on sale at the Oriental Hotel and there promises to be a big crowd.

In addition to the main bout there will be a preliminary that should be brimful of excitement, in which Hobby Chandler, the 115 pound champion of Toronto, will meet Geo. Lillie, of Peterborough, the latter weighing in at 122 pounds. The two will go six rounds for a decision and it should prove a lively go as both men are in good shape and should make things interesting for each other. Lillie has never had a chance to show what he could do, as he has never been matched with a man in his bouts here who could make him extend. Chandler is one of the cleverest boys in Toronto and a good two handed boxer, who will give Lillie six lively rounds, if he lives up to his advance notices.

FOOT CRUSHED BY ROLLING LOGS MAY HAVE TO GO

Mr. Edward Thibadeau met with a severe accident on Wednesday morning, while at work in the woods at Windover's Camp, Harvey. His foot got caught in some rolling logs and was terribly crushed. He was conveyed to Bobcaygeon for medical assistance, and an effort is being made to save the foot from amputation, which will depend upon further progress.

FIRE DESTROYS FARM HOUSE

On Saturday afternoon, when a mighty gale of wind was abroad, fire broke out in the residence of Mr. S. Stinson on a farm about 4 miles north west of here. The fire originated from the chimney or pipes inside the house and hopes of saving the building were abandoned but most of the contents were carried to safety. The dwelling was owned by Mr. George Morrison and is insured. The loss of a home at this season of the year, is a decided disadvantage to Mr. Stinson whose misfortune is deplored by all.—Millbrook and Omemee Mirror.

LEVEL CROSSINGS.

The Railway Commission has ordered the Grand Trunk Railway to erect and maintain gates at the fatal level crossing at Grimsby. The railway to bear eighty per cent. of the cost of operation of the gates, the balance to be provided by the adjoining municipalities. There seems to be justice in requiring municipalities to bear a share of the expense of their own protection. A district served by a railway enjoys advantages whose importance and value can only be appreciated by their removal. Take away our railways and all they represent, and the whole country would fall back in the way of progress a hundred years. It would be a nice question to decide which derives the more substantial advantage, the district served by a railway or the railway itself. If the railway paid its full proportion of local taxation, would there not be a case in requiring municipalities to bear a larger proportion than twenty per cent. of the cost of maintaining gates, especially as public carelessness and indifference to the danger of level crossings constitute no small part of the responsibility for accidents.

Does it not seem that the idea of paternalism—the doing by government what the people can as may do for themselves, the extreme socialistic idea—is gaining too great a vogue?

THE COURAGE OF CONFIDENCE.

We are informed that near Regina, Alberta, wheat has yielded 30 bushels per acre and oats 90 bushels per acre. Those of us whose memory goes back half a century can remember the begrimed outline maps of North America that decorated the school walls and upon which the region now embracing Regina was represented by a blank and labelled 'The Great American Desert.' This should lead one to forbear forming hasty judgment of the value of regions in Canada unknown or unexplored, or only partially explored. The manner in which former estimates, based on ignorance or imperfect knowledge have been triumphantly discredited, strengthens the contention, frequently advanced by the Examiner, that there is not a single square mile of Canadian area, which does not contain resources of value under proper means of development. The splendid optimism that conceived and constructed the Canadian Pacific Railway, has had magnificent justification, one consisting in the fact stated above showing the fertility of lands opened and brought under cultivation by the railway, which were, a few years ago regarded as merely an arid and inutile expanse. The same splendid optimism inspired the exploration and opening of New Ontario by a railway and it has had the same magnificent justification. The Grand Trunk Pacific and Transcontinental railway, conceived in the same spirit and going forward under the impulse of a similar spirit of enterprise, and the Hudson Bay Railway come into the same class of justifiable national enterprises.

Aggressive national enterprise contains more things than are dreamed of in the philosophy of the pessimist, the fearsome doubter and the little Canadian.

PETERBOROUGH MARKET.

There is said to be an inclination in some quarters to revert to the old system of leasing the privilege of collecting market tolls by tender. This may seem a small matter, but the two systems involve considerations more important than a mere matter of revenue. It is extremely desirable and indispensable in the matter of the relations of the city with the farmers who frequent the market, that the utmost possible mutual good feeling should exist. The old system was productive of more or less friction, and more or less hostility to the Peterborough market on the part of farmers. The several lessees, as was their right, had to be exacting in the collection of tolls; to make a profit they were compelled to insist on their "pound of flesh," and this—justifiably or unjustifiably—created friction and ill-feeling. Under the present system there has been a cessation of friction, and the city has benefitted by the better feeling existing between the city and the rural districts. There may not be as large a contribution to the city treasury under the present system, but the loss of a few dollars or revenue compared to the other advantage is a trifling matter. The good will of the farmers of the district, their good opinion of the Peterborough market, and a general friendly attitude towards the city, are far more important to our merchants and business men—mean more in increased trade and money—than a few dollars gained or lost in market tolls. In this case it would appear that a slight diminution in market tolls receipts is very effectively offset by the gain arising from improved feeling and increased business intercourse existing between the city people and the residents of the townships.

There are more ways than one of killing "the goose that lays the golden eggs."

EAT OUR OWN FISH.

The immense expanse of Canadian territory and the extended range of population are the principal features that tend to militate against the success of confederation, in the sense limiting the commercial and social intercourse, necessary to develop the sentiment of community, interest and homogeniety of population. Anything that will promote trade relations, will also promote solidarity of sentiment and tend to make the bond of confederation a real tie of union. In this view the announcement of Hon. L P Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, that he has renewed the arrangement with the express companies had by his department last year, by virtue of which reduced rates were given fish shipments to the western provinces, Ontario, especially, is a matter of congratulation. It is a matter of importance to both producer and consumer—the Maritime Province fishermen and the fish consuming people of this province. Such an arrangement will help to remove the anomaly of Central Canada taking its supply of fish caught in Canadian waters, second-hand—shipped to Boston and New York and re-shipped to Ontario.

Mr. Brodeur's arrangement, which has the active countenance of the Department of Trade and Commerce, needs to make it most largely effective the co-operation of the merchants of Ontario cities and towns, as represented by the provision of accommodations necessary to maintain the fish shipments in proper condition and facilitate trade. With proper attention to the trade it can be very largely developed. The public will do their share if the merchants will take measures to give effect to the Government arrangement for facilities of shipment. We shall then be consuming Canadian fish sent direct from the source of capture at a gain both in quality and price—we shall not be paying the toll levied by the foreign middlemen as involved in shipping to Boston or New York and re-shipment to Central and Western Canada.

Apart from the advantages of direct shipment and the improvement of inter-provincial trade relations, there is a distinct advantage in the matter of diet. There is little doubt that we in Central Canada eat too little fish in proportion to other varieties of food. Fish is regarded as a brain food, and a proof of the correctness of this claim, even if half jocularity made, is furnished by the fact that the Maritime Provinces are noted for the high quality of the brains of their people. They have furnished and continue to furnish more than their proportion, according to numbers, of men of mind, who take places of, not only distinction, but of preeminence, in the ranks of statesmanship and scholarship.

The season of Lent will soon be upon us and it those concerned take advantage of the opportunity provided by the arrangement of Mr. Brodeur, we can have upon our tables the splendid fish of the Maritime Provinces — Canadian fish — shipped straight to Peterborough from the nets of the fishermen instead of coming, increased in price and stale in condition, by the round about way of Boston.

The output value of the fisheries of Canada is between twenty-five and thirty millions a year, and they employ an army of more than 755,000 men.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Chief Justice Sir William Meredith did not lay aside his gallantry nor shut his eyes to the charms of beauty when he ascended the bench. The other day he told a girl to whom he gave $400 damages for breach of promise of marriage, that a girl of her beauty "was lucky not to marry such a man" — he was the one to claim damages."

A lady teacher in Maidstone township near Windsor, dismissed her classes the other day because the trustees had neglected to clean the school rooms in a satisfactory manner. The trustees met and discharged the teacher of spotless instincts, and she will likely carry the case to the courts. If cleanliness, as John Wesley declared, is next to godliness, the sympathy of the clean and good, especially of the gentler sex, will go with the dismissed teacher in her fight for clean surroundings. School trustees are not noted for reckless methods in the expenditure of the ratepayers' money even for legitimate purposes, not to speak of soap and water and scrub brushes.

A MOST PROSPEROUS YEAR

Annual Meeting of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited.

The twelfth annual general meeting of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, was held at the head offices, 43 and 45 King street west, Toronto, on Thursday last. A most satisfactory report was presented by the President, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P, that in a year J. R. Stratton, M.P. That, in a year which has proved so trying to all financial and industrial institutions and establishments, such excellent results should have been met, is extremely creditable to the management and must be satisfactory to all concerned, there being a substantial improvement in every department of the companys' operations.

The net profits of the company amounted to $89,729.60, which permitted the application of $68,470 to the payment of two dividends, at the rate of six per cent. per annum, and the strengthening of the profit and loss account by $21,259.60, making a total credit balance of $181,871.70. The report states that profits might have increased but for the policy of maintaining strong cash reserves to meet possible conditions arising out of the financial stringency of the past year. It is to be noted that public confidence in the soundness of the company and its good management is demonstrated by the very substantial increase in the permanent or fixed date deposits, and the increase of more than a million in the amount of trust funds placed. There was a substantial increase in the volume of assets, the figures now standing at $5,883,677.38.

The company has now two branch offices — at Brantford and Calgary. Both are doing good business, the western investments of the company showing healthy growth and satisfactory condition, both in the matter of interest earnings and payments and security. Altogether the company has had a most prosperous year, all its interests showing satisfactory growth in substance and public confidence.

After the meeting the new board re-elected Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P, President, and Mr. D. W. Karn, Woodstock, and Mr. O. Kloepfer, Guelph, Vice-Presidents.—Toronto Globe.

'ROUND THE STORES.

You owe it to your own town to buy your goods from your own home merchants, and stand by its business men. You can always find the announcements of representative business men in the Examiner, men who will stand back of every statement and price they make. It is becoming one of the duties of a live daily newspaper to aid in influencing its readers to answer advertisements and respond to the business announcements. It is largely because of the merchants' direct appeal to the economic instincts of our readers that they have been so successful.

Have you ever sat down and reviewed the change of the grocer in relation to his customers during the past twenty years? Formerly the down town merchant sold many families everything in the grocery line and supplied them with all the edibles required. All that is altered now. The family grocer gets us the staples, another supplies the tea, another the vegetables, another the fruit, another the flour. The corner store has become patronized too, for many of the housekeepers' needs, especially those living farther out in the residential districts. These smaller stores are increasing in number and size all over the suburbs of the city. In many cases they are doing a good trade, because with smaller expenses the same price prices are maintained as those of the leading George street dealers.

"Ladies' coats at half-price," still holds a leading attraction at some of the big stores. To-day, at Hall's, there were offered a number of this season's semi-fitting swell styles for $12.50 and $7.50, just one-half former prices. Many other instances of small markings might be repeated.

The men have been having a harvest of specially good values during the mid-winter sales. At LeBrun's the chances have been worth snapping at in the ordered tailoring department. The firm's large stock of cloths has been re-marked so low that seldom have such attractive offerings in suits and overcoats been heard of. The result has been that the firm has had to call in all their men who had gone off for vacation after the holidays, and now his cutters and tailors are kept busy turning out the orders — quite an unusual thing at this time of the year.

The Warne Drug Co. had another Saturday bargain day offering which attracted. The regular Shell Brand Castile soap, which sells for 15c per lb., was offered to-day for only 7c. See the advt.

INTERESTING LETTER ON DRAINAGE

From Farm and Dairy.

Ed., Farm and Dairy:—A brief summary of the drainage work being done by the Department of Physics, at the O. A. C., may be of interest to your readers.

Some years ago, as the staff of this department were engaged in farmers' institute work during a wet spring, going about the province from place to place, they saw thousands of acres of land on which the crops were very severely "drowned out," and they were impressed with the immense areas that were in urgent need of drainage. Representations were made to the minister of agriculture that steps should be taken to encourage underdrainage on a large scale, and accordingly he authorized this department to undertake the work. Before doing so we enquired why this phase of agriculture was so generally neglected, and we came to the conclusion that the cause lay in the lack of comprehensive knowledge of extensive drainage operations. Many men could put in a few drains by the eye or by some crude method of leveling, but when it came to planning a general system for 50 or 100 acres, a system composed of several miles of drains, every part of which must fit in with every other part, the grades of which must be sufficient for effective drainage and yet not require too deep digging, the depths of which must be great enough to protect the tile from the frost, and yet varied enough in different parts to secure proper grades, and the outlet for which must be ample and free—when it came to the planning of such a system, many of which are imperative if proper drainage is to be secured, very few farmers were equal to the task. And so the method for the department of physics to pursue was plain: We must assist in the surveying and planning of these general systems, we must take our surveying outfits and go right into the field and survey the farms, where the owners wish us to, and make out plans showing the drains with their grades, depth and size of tile. At first we stopped there, but now, in addition to this, we hold a public meeting in the field at the conclusion of each survey to illustrate and discuss the various principles and methods of drainage, from the preliminary survey to the installed and completed system of drains.

From the outset this assistance was very much appreciated by those directly benefited, and now that its practical results are in evidence in many localities the applications for aid are becoming more numerous and urgent. The following table will show the progress of the work:

GROWTH OF THE DEMAND

Year.	Applications.	Surveys made. (Number)	Area Surveyed. (Acres)	Drains planned. (Miles)
1906	15	15	500	45
1908	166	100	5000	510

It will be noted that in 1906 we were able to respond to all applications. During the next year, however, only a shade over half were attended to. For 1908 the staff was increased and still we were unable to assist all who applied, although we surveyed over 500 miles of drains. In the last three years, the work has increased somewhat over ten-fold.

During 1908 we had applications from every county west of Peterboro and from a few east, making 30 in all, and we have made surveys and held demonstrations in 25 of these.

The drains are being put in as fast as men can be got to dig them. The value of this work can be best shown by an illustration: In 1907 the Horticultural Experiment Station Farm at Jordan Harbor, in the Niagara Peninsula, was underdrained. Last year the part that was formerly the wettest and heaviest and which usually grew crops that were scarcely worth the cutting, produced a bumper crop of oats—65 bushels to the acre, despite the exceedingly wet spring and subsequent severe drought! Land will soon pay for its own drainage at that rate. For years that farm has been notorious for wetness and poor crops. To-day its transformation wrought by drainage is a marvel to the neighborhood. A few examples like this in the low-lying counties of Ontario will produce profits that can be measured only in millions.—Wm. H. Day.

PRESERVING OUR FORESTS A DUTY

Governor-General's Address to Delegates at Banquet.

IS MATTER OF MORALITY

Children Should Be Taught Their Obligation to Preserve the Forest Heritage of Canadians Not as a Question of Profit, But of Right —Convention Will Send Memorials to Governments.

Toronto, Feb. 13.—Two hundred guests applauded Earl Grey, Governor-General of Canada, at the National Club last evening as His Excellency dwelt with great earnestness on the importance of forest preservation. The banquet was given by the Toronto Board of Trade to delegates of the Canadian Forestry Association. J. P. Watson presided.

The addresses at the convention just concluded had, said His Excellency, demonstrated that the permanent prosperity of the nation was dependent upon the conservation of the forests at the head waters of the rivers. As Hon. Mr. Fisher had pointed out, a neglect of this might shake the position of Montreal as the chief commercial port.

In the United States the forest destruction is three and one-half times greater than its growth. The loss to the farmers of that country aggregates a thousand million dollars per annum as a direct and indirect loss. Wanton and criminal neglect of the forests meant the transforming of a heaven into a hell.

When the relative per capita wealth of Canada in undeveloped resources is made known the people of the whole United States would want to come to make their home in the Dominion to have a share in the vast unspent fortune.

"What we have to do—I have been so long among you that I say we—(Applause.) "We," he repeated, "have a great duty, to teach the children to have a patriotic regard for the resources of Canada. It is difficult to make people brought up on farms in an atmosphere where the tree has been regarded as an enemy, to make them feel that a tree is their best friend."

The children of Canada should be taught a feeling of reverence for the greatness of their country and to conserve its resources.

He entirely agreed with the association that forestry was not only an economic but also a moral question. This made it necessary to teach the children that they share a duty to others as well as to themselves.

A certain class of Canadians were said to be animated by the thought of "what can Canada do for me?" while the true ideal was what could they do for Canada? It is because of this great principle that forestry was a moral question. He trusted the gentlemen of influence present would do their utmost to co-operate with the Forestry Association in their efforts for the conservation of Canada's magnificent national heritage.

W. J. Gage proposed the toast to Hon. J. M. Gibson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, to which his honor made a short response.

R. S. Gourlay proposed the toast of Canada, to which Sir James P. Whitney, Premier of Ontario, replied.

The convention of the Canadian Forestry Association was concluded yesterday afternoon, when a resolution was passed asking that the various Provincial Governments withdraw all lands from settlement unsuitable for farming and reserve from settlement all lands with less than 50 per cent. fit for agriculture.

The association suggested the publication of farmers' bulletins, also for the instruction of city and rural school pupils, the publication of forestry text-books for the high schools, and the preparation of plans and lantern slides for lectures.

The association expressed satisfaction at the improvements in the fire protection services and approved the appointment of a special committee by the Dominion Parliament, but urged upon the Government the importance of appointing a royal commission to investigate the whole question of forestry.

The Dominion and Provincial Governments were urged to restore all forest lands at head waters.

Wharfage Rates Go Up.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—It was announced yesterday morning that wharfage rates for the Montreal Harbor are to be raised from 100 to 250 per cent., bringing them practically back to the schedule of 1896. Staple articles, including coal, coke, grain, and apples, are unchanged.

The chief changes is in foodstuffs. The car charges are increased from $2 to $2.50.

Killed by Unknown Autoist.

New York, Feb. 13.—The police of Manhattan are bending every effort to ascertain the identity of a party of automobilists, who are believed to have run down and killed Mrs. Edwin Stanton McCook, 69 years old, of Chicago, the widow of Gen. Edwin E. McCook of the famous "Fighting McCook" family, at some point between West 68th street and West 75th street.

Eleven Millions For Defence.

Copenhagen, Feb. 13.—Bills providing for better sea and land defence for Copenhagen and the coast of Zeeland were introduced to the Folkething yesterday by the Minister of National Defence.

The contemplated fortifications involved an expenditure of something over $11,000,000, and the construction of a score of torpedo boats and half a dozen submarines also is contemplated.

Fired Him Out.

Dublin, Feb. 13.—Laurence Ginnell, member of Parliament from the north division of Westmouth, was forcibly ejected from a meeting of the Irish Parliamentary party after persistently demanding an open discussion of the party finances, which the chairman ruled to be out of order.

AMERICAN OFFICERS OF HIGH RANK AND OTHERS ENDORSE PE-RU-NA.

Prominent People Recommend the Remedy, Pe-ru-na.

Dr. Hartman's World Renowned Catarrh Medicine.

A Remedy for the Grip.

Gen. W. H. Parsons, 925 H St., N. W., Washington, D. C., writes as follows:

"Upon the recommendation of personal friends and many strong testimonials to the efficacy of Peruna in the treatment of the numerous symptoms of the grip with which I have been afflicted for four months past, I have been induced to undergo a treatment of this justly celebrated formula.

"I feel a decided change for the better by its use for one week only, especially in toning up the stomach, and a consequent decided effect upon my appetite.

"I therefore feel much encouraged that I am on the road to complete restoration.

"My numerous friends in Texas, where I have had the honor to command a brigade of her veteran cavalry in a four-year war, may accept this voluntary testimonial to the merit of Peruna from a sense of obligation for its wonderful efficacy."

Pe-ru-na a Good Tonic.

Gen. M. C. Butler, of South Carolina, writes from Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble.

"I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved.

"It is indeed a wonderful medicine, and besides a good tonic."

Colds in the Head and Throat.

Chas. W. Bowman, 1st Lieut. and Adjt. 4th M. S. M. Cav. Vols., writes from Lanham, Md., as follows:

"Though somewhat averse to patent medicines, and still more averse to becoming a professional affidavit man, it seems only a plain duty in the present instance to add my experience to the columns already written concerning the curative powers of Peruna.

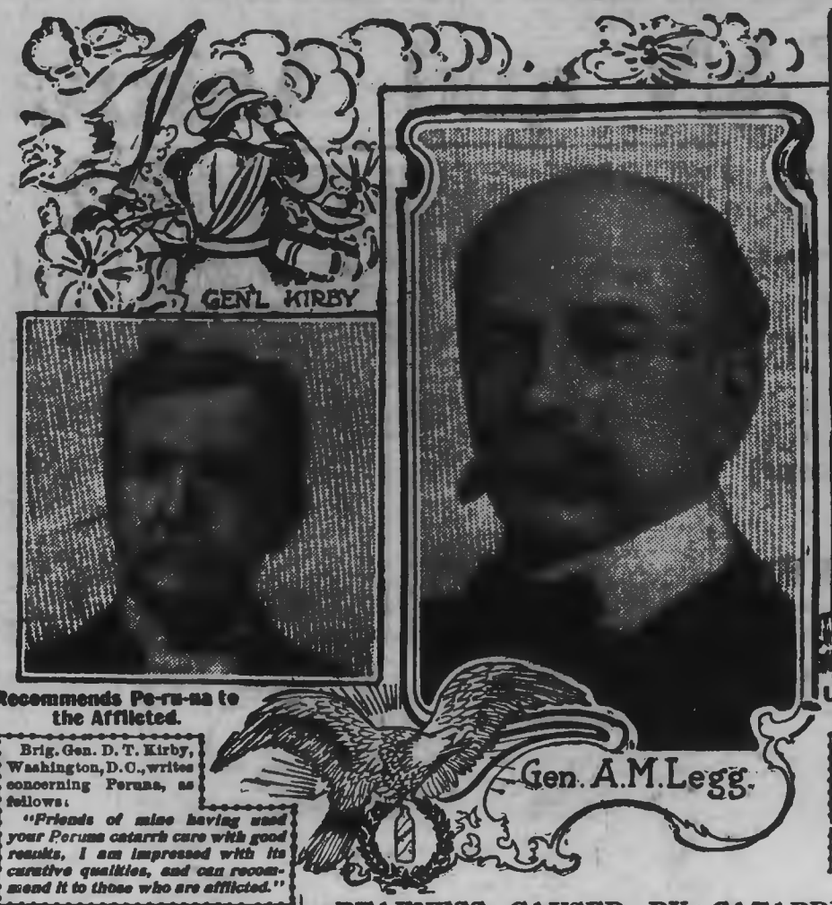
"I have been particularly benefited by its use for colds in the head and throat.

"I have been able to fully cure myself of a most severe attack in forty-eight hours by its use according to directions.

"I use it as a preventive whenever threatened with an attack.

"Members of my family also use it for like ailments.

"We are recommending it to our friends."



Recommends Pe-ru-na to the Afflicted.

Brig. Gen. D. T. Kirby, Washington, D. C., writes concerning Peruna, as follows:

"Friends of mine having used your Peruna catarrh cure with good results, I am impressed with its curative qualities, and can recommend it to those who are afflicted."

Usefulness of Pe-ru-na.

Peruna brings to the home the combined knowledge of several schools of medicine in the treatment of catarrhal diseases, the scientific skill and knowledge of the pharmacist, and the vast and varied experience of Dr. Hartman himself in the use of catarrhal remedies.

For Catarrh of the Stomach.

Gen. W. W. Duffield, Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna in my family and have found it a valuable medicine and take pleasure in recommending it to all who suffer from catarrh of the stomach or who require a tonic of prompt efficacy."

Used Pe-ru-na—Satisfied as to its Merits —Recommends it to All Sufferers.

Gen. S. S. Yoder, 203 Md. Ave., N. E., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I desire to say that I have found Peruna to be a wonderful remedy. I only used it for a short time and am thoroughly satisfied as to its merits. I shall gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

DEAFNESS CAUSED BY CATARRH— RELIEVED BY PE-RU-NA.

Gen. A. M. Legg writes from the Savings Bank Building, Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I take pleasure in endorsing the many recommendations I have heard and read of Peruna, because of having had knowledge of the truth of so many of them.

"We always tell our sick and ailing friends of the remedies that we have learned, from experience, were good for us when ailing in the same way, and we do it as a duty we feel that we owe them.

"Why is it any the less our duty to advise all the people we can when we know of a good and comparatively inexpensive remedy that makes many cures, and benefits in almost all cases?

"My own little personal experience of being relieved of deafness, caused by a siege of catarrh, warrants me in advising all the afflicted to just try Peruna."

For Kidney Trouble, Coughs, Colds and Catarrh.

Gen. A. F. Hawley, 1236 35th St., N W., Washington, D. C., writes:

"I have used Peruna and find it very beneficial for kidney trouble, and especially good for coughs, colds and catarrhal trouble."

Indigestion and Nervousness.

Gen. George B. Williams, whose Washington address is 2121 Bancroft Place, writes: "I have been for many years a great friend of Peruna. It has always helped me wonderfully. I can recommend it for indigestion and nervousness without any qualifications. I am always in possession of a supply of this medicine, and, when required, freely use it."

When Other Remedies Failed Pe-ru-na Proved Efficacious.

Hon. Geo. W. Maney, National Chaplain, U. V. U., Ex-Chaplain 4th Wisconsin Cavalry, Ex-Treas. State of Wisconsin and Ex-Quartermaster General State of Texas G. A. R., writes from 1760 First street, N. E., Washington, D. C., as follows:

"I cannot too highly recommend your preparation for the relief of catarrhal troubles in their various forms.

"Some members of our own family have used it with most gratifying results.

When other remedies failed, Peruna proved most efficacious and I cheerfully certify to its curative excellence."

Pe-ru-na a Standard Treatment for Catarrhal Diseases.

Mr. John C. Nelson, Dayton, Texas., geologist and mining engineer, while a Captain in the Federal Army during the Civil War, contracted a case of rheumatism. This malady was constant and persistent, inducing the development of other ailments, which also became chronic. After taking a course of Peruna, Captain Nelson writes:

"Having been painfully afflicted with chronic rheumatism and the adjunctive complications for many years, and after having received many general and special treatments with only temporary relief, I read your scientific treatise on catarrhal diseases.

"At my request you prescribed a special course of the Peruna remedies, which I closely followed, and am happy to report that my rheumatism and complicated ailments are subdued, and I feel young again at the age of 60 years.

"Reason will accept your classification of catarrhal diseases as scientific and true, and the Peruna remedies as a standard treatment for them. I thank you heartily for your skilled and logical advice."

Regained Health and Strength.

Mr. Fred P. Allen, Special Agent for Fidelity & Casualty Co., 309 Hibernia Bank Building, New Orleans, La., writes:

"About two years ago I was troubled with bronchitic asthma, and was treated by the best physicians in our city, but receiving no benefit from them, I began to despair lest I should not recover.

"I wrote to Dr. Hartman and he prescribed for me. By faithfully following his directions, in six months I was cured of the asthma and the cough had disappeared entirely. I regained my health and strength, and the twenty-five pounds which I had lost, and am thankful to say that I am as well as ever."

Against the Repeal.

Helena, Mont., Feb. 13.—A memorial to Congress, praying against the repeal of the Asiatic Exclusion Act, was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Norton, who moved that it be referred to the committee on labor.

No one deserves to be praised for goodness unless he has strength to be bad. All other goodness is most often only sloth or weakness of will.—La Rochefoucauld.

Crisis at Liberia.

Washington, Feb. 13.—Cable advices received at the U. S. State Department yesterday indicate that a climax has been reached in the Liberian situation.

Conditions, according to the information at hand, are very grave and great alarm is felt by foreign officials in Liberian employ. A British gunboat has arrived to afford protection to foreign interests, and a company of soldiers has been sent from Sierra Leone to the capital at Monrovia.

Set Himself on Fire.

New York, Feb. 13.—The charred body of a man was found yesterday on the remnants of a burnt-out fire on the grounds of the Hazel avenue Public School in West Orange, N.J.

Nearby was a can which had evidently contained kerosene, and circumstances pointed to the man's having chosen to commit suicide by saturating his clothing with the oil, lying down on a prepared pile of inflammable material and setting fire to the mass.

Celebrated the Alliance.

Tokio, Feb. 13.—At the official residence of Count Komura last night, there occurred the annual dinner celebrating the formation of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

In his address Count Komura dwelt particularly upon Japanese appreciation of the benefits derived from the alliance between the two countries. Sir Claude MacDonald, the British ambassador, replied in terms equally felicitous.

An Awful Liar.

Sir Archibald Geikie, the distinguished geologist, tells a good story in his capital book of "Scottish Reminiscences." "I was quite sure you had been in our neighborhood," a friend said to Sir Archibald. "I met the old farmer of G., who had a strange tale to tell me, 'Dod, Mr. Caithcart,' he began, 'I ran across the queerest body the ither day. As I was coming by the head of the cleugh I thocht I heard a wheen tinkers quarrelin', but whan I lookit doon there was se wee stoot man. A very enterteenin' body, Mr. Caithcart, but—an awfu', awfu' leear."—London Tit-Bits.

Daylight Robbery.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—A daring attack on a young lady cashier and robbery were committed yesterday in broad daylight in the furniture store of H. A. Wilder, St. James street.

The thief entered the place alone. The cashier, a slim young French girl, Miss Damour, was found on the floor, near her desk, with two notes for $5 and $2 clutched in her grasp. She was dishevelled and there was a mark on her head to show that she had been struck.

Miss Damour was making up her cash, preparatory to making the daily bank deposit. The single clerk on duty had taken two customers to an upper floor.

Trainmen Go to Trial.

Guelph, Feb. 13.—On the charge of manslaughter arising out of the fatal collision near Harriston on Jan. 14, Conrad Kennedy and Matthew Fleming were yesterday committed for trial by Magistrate Saunders.

They will now appear at the Spring Assizes opening on the 22nd of the present month. The men were released on bail.

Guilty of Usury.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—Mrs. Arabella Lahaise was found guilty of usury and will be sentenced next Wednesday. Neil H. McKinnon was discharged, a crown witness not making an appearance and being fined $5 for contempt of court. Another charge will probably be laid against McKinnon.

A. L. Forbes is ill and his case was postponed. Walter Hatch has returned to the city and will be summoned.

Tariff Commission Needed.

New York, Feb. 13.—Andrew Carnegie yesterday declared that Congress is incapable of fixing a just tariff schedule, and that a permanent bipartisan commission of experts is the only solution of the ever-troublesome tariff problem.

The Army at Empire.

London, Feb. 13.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—On Wednesday night Hon. Mr. Haldane, speaking at the dinner of the London brigade of Royal Field Artillery, said, according to a report published in The Daily News: "We are in negotiation with the dominions overseas, with a view to the creation and constitution of an army of the empire (cheers), and not of this country merely. I am a believer in the policy of keeping up to the necessary standard of the day, whether that be in matters military or in matters naval."

Further on Mr. Haldane said: "An overseas army, which is the very essence of the military life of the Empire, can only be got on a voluntary basis, and it must be recruited from men who come voluntarily, who come moved by enthusiasm with what I might call a virgin mind from a military point of view."

Italian Murdered at Soo.

Sault Ste. Marie, Feb. 13.—Giovanni Ciotti, an Italian, aged 35, known more familiarly as John Shortie, was murdered in the Italian settlement yesterday.

The body was found at daylight lying on the street in front of Pietro Manzo's butcher shop. The front of the shop was covered with blood, and the dead man had a deep knife wound on the left side of the neck.

Four men who saw the dead man after he had been stabbed have been arrested as witnesses.

Robbery was not the motive for the crime, as his watch and about $25 in cash were found on the body.

Ciotti was a witness in an assault case a few days ago, in which an Italian named Parisa, a storekeeper, was fined for assaulting Judy Ginsuti.

Politician Suicides.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—Alderman Jos. F. Kohout, long a Democratic leader in the City Council, committed suicide yesterday by shooting himself in the head in the basement of his home, 787 Douglas boulevard. His wife found the body.

Alderman Kohout was a candidate for re-election. He was a participant in a spirited contest to obtain the nomination. Disappointment over the failure of his ward club Thursday night to indorse him for renomination is supposed to have prompted the suicide.

Showman Goes Free.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—Some weeks ago the Sparrow Amusement Co. started Sunday performances in the Academy of Music and the Theatre Francais as a protest against allowing moving picture shows to operate on Sundays.

W. A. Edwards, the manager, was arrested on a charge of violating the civic bylaws. Yesterday Recorder Weir dismissed the charge on the ground that the civic bylaw did not apply in the present instance and that the information was not properly laid.

Girl's Awful Death.

Belleville, Feb. 13.—Mabel Blanche Bates, the two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bates of Roslin, fell into a pail of boiling water her mother had placed upon the floor.

JOHNNY'S VACATION.

Why He Wanted to Cut It Short and Returns Home.

Johnny astonished the family in the country one day by announcing that he wanted to go home.

"What's that?" demanded his father.

"Want to go home?"

"Yep," maintained the boy.

"Well, that's very funny. It wasn't two days ago that you were begging us to stay up on this farm until October. Are you sick?"

"Nope."

"Got the blues?"

"Nope."

"Toothache?"

"Nope."

"Mad because your mother won't let you go swimming?"

"Nope."

"Ah! I think I understand," said his father, with a chuckle. "I happened to hear you sassing that farmer's boy yesterday out back of the barn, and I also happened to see him flop you on your back. Did it hurt much?"

"N-nope."

"Well, cheer up, my boy. We all have our ups and downs in this world. What good would it do you to go home?"

"If I was only home, pop," replied the boy, with a longing sigh, "I could knock the stuffin' out of Sammy Green, and then I'd feel better."—A. B. Lewis in Bohemian Magazine.

He Got In Ahead.

In Basin, Wyo., a few years ago there was a plot hatched to hold up the Basin bank. In some way the story leaked out, and the plan fell through, but one day, after it had been abandoned, the principal who had planned the holdup stood outside with two of his friends looking wistfully through the window at the cashier. After a time he said mournfully to his pals:

"It wouldn't have been no use, no-how', boys. He's got it all."—Lippincott's Magazine.

The Emperor's Style of Dust.

There is a good story told of a German driving an English friend from Frankfort to Homburg, when a motor car passed at a terrific pace, raising a cloud of dust.

"Ah!" said the German. "There goes our emperor."

"How do you know?" inquired the Englishman.

"Do you suppose anybody else could raise a dust like that?" was the reply.—Yorkshire Post.

Grant's Little Story.

General Fred Grant shows in a little story how a willing but prejudiced witness may confound himself. "Any commanding officer" was the answer, making one morning a personal inspection. "Yes, sir. Taste that, sir," said the corporal promptly. The colonel put the liquid to his lips. "Why," he said, "that the best soup I ever tasted!" "Yes, sir," said the corporal, "and the cook wants to call it coffee."

"Body crackers? Yes'm," said the country storekeeper. "I got 'em. I'll—er—send 'em up to you."

"Yes'm; but, you see, Bill Bruser he's a-dosin' on top o' the bar'l jest now, an' he ain't in the best o' humor today."—Philadelphia Press.

Canada's Relations To Great Britain Resulting From Monroe Doctrine

An Important Address on This Momentous Question Given at Canadian Club's Meeting by Mr. John S. Ewart, K. C. — What Might Happen.

A SPLENDID LECTURE.

The Canadian Club's meeting in the National Hotel last night afforded its members a splendid opportunity of becoming acquainted with the celebrated Munroe Doctrine which is asserted and maintained by the United States, but of the exact nature of which there is a great deal of error among persons who imagine that they are acquainted with its clauses and its regulations. A large number of the members took advantage of the opportunity to hear Mr. John S. Ewart, K.C., of Ottawa, in his lecture on this subject, and they were not disappointed by the manner in which he presented his ideas of it. He displayed a thorough knowledge of its inception and of its influence to-day on the countries and colonies on the American continent. Mr. Ewart led up to the causes of its declaration and clearly carried his audience into his subsequent thoughts. Many points regarding the relations between Canada, Great Britain and the United States were brought out, and by their nature provided food for thought by Canadians as to their own affairs in regard to the Mother Country and the ambitious neighbour to the south.

The lecture was delivered after supper, which was served in the spacious dining room of the hotel. The repast was in keeping with the high standard which Mr. Dennison has set and is maintaining.

Mr Ewart's Address.

In his early remarks Mr. Ewart stated that the Munroe Doctrine, in his opinion, was one of the most beneficial of all international regulations. It has proved a great benefit to Canada, and if any European power should venture to get a footing in any of the countries in North or South America, the United States would unite against the invader to assert and maintain this doctrine.

Its real author, however, was not President Munroe. It was Canning, the British Foreign Secretary, who originated it and suggested it to the United States, through Mr. Rush, their minister in London at that time. It might therefore be called the Canning policy for the Americans.

Reasons For It

After the French revolution the kings of England retained to a large extent the fear which Napoleon had aroused in them, but with his downfall they regained their thrones and to prevent attempts by the people of forming popular and liberal governments they formed a trust—Russia, Austria and Prussia being the leaders—known as the Holy Alliance. They were considering a plan of crushing the Spanish-American colonies and of dividing them among themselves, when Canning saw the danger thus presented. In an interview with Mr. Rush he suggested that the United States and Great Britain oppose this movement. The clauses of the doctrine were that the United States would not interfere in European politics, that Europe should not interfere in American politics, whether in North or South America, and lastly that any attempt on the part of a foreign power to extend its system to any portion of the hemisphere was dangerous to the United States and could only be received as a manifestation of an unfriendly disposition to the United States. This declaration was made in Munroe's seventh annual message to Congress, December 2nd, 1828.

Nothing was said about defending the American countries from foreign invasion. This would make the United States responsible for their good behaviour. It said "You must not establish your system." By this every country between United States and Cape Horn was permitted to work out its own destiny. There had been many foolish revolutions, but compared with European history it reads as a peaceable romance. If the various powers owned Costa Rica, Chili, Peru, Venezuela and the other small countries, it would be impossible for Canada to devote her resources to her own development. The old fortresses now standing in ruins in the country comprising the Isthmus of Panama were grim reminders of former days before they acquired their independence.

If any European power tried to take any of the American countries all America would unite against it. If Germany, in a war with Great Britain, landed on the Nova Scotian peninsula the United States would come to our assistance. If the Japanese tried to gain Alaska, Canada would unite against the Orientals. This was simply maintaining a balance of power as is done in Europe.

Neutrality Policy.

When France appealed to the United States, it was Hamilton who was responsible for the neutrality of the United States. He got Washington, then president, to agree to it, while Munroe and others were opposed to it and called Hamilton an Anglomaniac. What is Canada's position in this respect? Plainly one is associated with the British Empire, but does the nature of that relationship necessitate a policy different to other countries. It would be good for her in any war in which Britain was not engaged. But it was not what she would do as what is her duty. The peculiar features of the British Empire had to be considered in this connection. First, there was the lack of common citizenship. If an American became a Canadian subject he still had the status of a British subject. Then there was no union for purposes of war. There was no arrangement with the mother country in case of war.

If Great Britain were at war with France Canada ought to be neutral. Mr. Ewart had respect for the love the French had for their own land. If the United Kingdom and Japan were fighting the United States, Canada should be neutral. She should decline to risk her political position for the benefit of the Japanese. Mr. Ewart did not think that if Canada were called upon to furnish men and money for the Empire's quarrels that she should do so without exercising her own discretion. It was not a fact that the United Kingdom had done more for us than we had done for the motherland. There was never a man who fought in a Canadian war, but Canada had repelled two invasions which had been the result of England's relations with the United States and home powers. She had moreover sent men to help England in several of her wars.

Are we content to leave all discussions as to peace and war to Mr. Asquith and his colleagues, without any voice of our own in the question? Are we willing to pledge ourselves for men and money if called upon? It is immaterial to us whom the war is against? These were some of the pertinent questions Mr. Ewart asked. Canadian interests must be considered by Canadian statesmen and the Canadian people. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's declaration at the colonial conference in 1892 that Canada would not pledge herself had never been questioned. Should there be some arrangement between the parts of the Empire in case of war, and if so, what are they?

At the conclusion of the address a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Ewart, on motion of Messrs. A. P. Poussette and J. H. Larmonth, which was conveyed to him by the president of the club, Mr. Daniel O'Connell, who was chairman of the evening.

AT HASTINGS ENTERTAINMENT

Miss Julia Choate and Mr. George Lynch Pleased Large Audience at Church Concert.

REFERENCE TO REV. POGUE

The Hastings Star in a report of the celebration of the fifty-first anniversary of the village Presbyterian Church, speaks as follows of Rev. Robt. Pogue, who conducted the services last Sunday:

Large audiences enjoyed the services of the Rev. Robt. Pogue, of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, on Sunday. Mr. Pogue is one of the most eloquent, pointed and practical preachers of the church. His services are greatly in demand and Hastings may congratulate itself in having the privilege of hearing him.

On Monday evening a concert was held, at which Peterborough people took part. "Miss Choate, of Peterborough, made her second appearance before a Hastings audience this season and fully sustained her high reputation as a violiniste. All her selections were good, but her rendering of Home, Sweet Home,' by request deserves special mention. She was encored in every number.

'Mr. George Lynch, of Peterborough, is a host in himself. He is an inimitable mimic and a versatile entertainer. Among the many pieces rendered may be mentioned, 'The Black Sheep of the Family,' 'The Duke's Soliloquy,' and 'Little Baptiste.' His selections are of a good moral tone. This is Mr. Lynch's first appearance and we are sure it will not be his last."

OBITUARY.

MRS. W. J. ROBERTS

Mr. and Mrs. F. Ferguson have returned from Toronto, whither they went to attend the funeral of their daughter, Mary, wife of Mr. W. J. Roberts, who died on Saturday, Feb. 6th. The deceased, who was only 28 years of age, passed away very suddenly, her death being due to blood poisoning.

The news came as a great shock to her father and mother, who, of course, had had no previous intimation of her illness.

Mrs. Roberts was a general favourite with all who knew her. This was abundantly testified by the many expressions of sorrow evoked by her death, and the number of flowers received from sympathizing friends. She leaves to mourn her loss besides her husband and parents, two brothers, George and Perry of Peterborough, and two sisters, Annie and Florence, of New York.

The funeral took place on Monday, Feb. 8th, at 2 p. m., at Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Toronto.

That's What Antoine Cottenoire Says of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They Cured His Diabetes After the Doctors Had Failed to Give Him Relief—What Dodd's Kidney Pills Do and Why.

St. Pie de Guire, Yamaska Co. Que Feb. 12, Special—That there is one sure cure for deadly Diabetes, and that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills is proved once more in the case of Mr. Antoine Cottenoire, a well known resident of this place.

"I am thankful I ever heard of Dodd's Kidney Pills," Mr. Cottenoire states. "They cured me of Diabetes. I suffered with backache. I always felt drowsy. I had awful headaches and my limbs would cramp. I had a dizzy feeling and felt tired in the region of the kidneys, with a draggy heavy sensation across the loins.

"I was treated by the doctors, but got no benefit from them. Then I heard of cures made by Dodd's Kidney Pills and made up my mind to try them. I took in all three dozen boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills. To-day I am free from Kidney trouble of all kinds.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills also cured me of stomach trouble from which I suffered for twenty-five years."

Diabetes is one of the most deadly forms of Kidney Disease. But Dodd's Kidney Pills cure any form of Kidney Disease. They do so by curing the Kidneys cure all those diseases that come from disordered Kidneys, such as Rheumatism, Lumbago and Heart Disease

"A BAILEYISM"

"The insanity plea may be discredited by the frequency with which it is raised in murder cases, and yet the question of sanity and insanity must be faced. There should be a better means of dealing with doubtful cases. There should be a better means of dealing with the class that may be described as the criminal insane, so that even if they escape the gallows they shall be forever prevented from endangering the lives of their fellow creatures."

Peterborough, Feb. 12, 1909.

Sir,—The above from an editorial in last night's Star should be questioned. I have studied this subject and have come to the conclusion, in agreement with leading medical authorities, that there is no such thing as insanity.

Yours, etc.,
W. A. BAILEY.

CHATS ABOUT FAMOUS BOOKS AND THEIR AUTHORS

By F. M. D.

"So many men, so many minds," is a very old and a very trite saying, and nowhere is it better exemplified than in the varying estimates of critics on the work of the poet and dramatist, Ben Jonson. In the opinion of some he occupies a place second only to Shakespeare, as a playright; in the opinion of others, he is a "ripe scholar," "a vigorous thinker"—nothing more. A man who unlike Shakespeare, wrote not "for all time," but "for an age" only. One merit, however, every critic allows him, and that is that he showed the finest perception of the true principles of dramatic art, and gave a fairer characterisation of human nature than any of his coeval brethren of the pen, excepting only Shakespeare. His plays will never commend themselves to the taste of the general public, for they appeal more particularly to the scholar and the man of literary culture, but what does interest and much interest all who love to read the lives of eminent men of bygone days is the character of the man himself.

Parentage of Ben Jonson

Jonson, a man of Scotch descent, was born in the city of London in the year 1573. His father had died about a month before his birth, and nothing much is known of him, save that in the latter year of his life, he "turned minister."

Two years after her husband's death, Jonson's mother married again, her choice being a master bricklayer, living near Westminster, under whose guidance Jonson was initiated into the mysteries of bricklaying. His stepfather does not seem to have been a harsh man, for he allowed Jonson to obtain a good schooling at Westminster, where he in due time reached the highest form. It is said that on leaving Westminster he proceeded to Cambridge, but there is no satisfactory evidence on this point. Seeing no alluring pleasure in carrying a hod, Jonson cut adrift from home, and went off soldiering in the Netherlands, but in 1597 he was back in London, taking minor parts on the stage. Within a year afterwards he produced one of his most memorable plays, "Every Man in His Humour."

Kills a Brother Actor in a Duel

The publication and presentation of this play is rendered doubly interesting from the fact that Shakespeare was one of the actors. The play was successful, but Jonson's dramatic flight was cut short for a time by his incarceration in jail on the charge of killing a brother actor in a duel. In durance vile he met a priest, by whom he was converted to the Roman Catholic faith, in which communion he remained for twelve years. His imprisonment was a short one. On his release he entered into collaboration with Dekker and Chettle and "another gentleman," but a bitter quarrel started up amongst them, in which Marston, a brother playright, was also mixed up, owing to the contemptuous manner in which Jonson had alluded to their works in a masque called "Cynthias' Revels." Jonson was undoubtedly to blame in the matter, and he found to his cost that rasping tongue and vitriolic pen, as he possessed, his whilom friend Dekker, was quite his equal at cruel and vigorous invective. The following is a sample of Dekker's abusiveness from his "Satiromastix." It gives a pen picture of Jonson which shows him to have been anything but an Adonis.

"That same Horace (Jonson) has the most ungodly face, by my fane; it looks for all the world like a rotten russet apple when 'tis bruised," etc.

"Look in the sweet face of Horace! Look! He has his face puncht full of eye-let holes, like the cover of a warming pan."

Jonson, it may be mentioned, was pock-marked.

It is pleasant to chronicle the fact that these warring bards afterwards became friends again. During the reign of Elizabeth, Jonson was engaged for the most part in concocting masques and similar entertainments, which won for him the patronage of the queen and nobility, in whose houses they were performed. He succeeded better as a poet than a dramatist.

The greatest men of the day became his intimates, and one of the most interesting pictures which have been handed down to us is that of the burly, bibulous poet, seated at the Mermaid Club, engaged in sallies of wit, with Raleigh, its founder, and Shakespeare, and others of his brother dramatists and author friends, Selden, Dr. Donne, Beaumont, Fletcher, Carew, Cotton and Herrick. Keats has immortalized that famous rendezvous in the well known lines:

"Souls of poets dead and gone,
What Elysium have ye known,
Happy field or mossy cavern,
Choicer than the Mermaid Tavern?"

There Ben Jonson, like his famous namesake of one hundred and fifty years later at the Turk's Head, ruled the roost and was the acknowledged head of every gathering.

Ben Jonson's Characteristics

We have it on very excellent authority from various sources, that Jonson was a man, to put it mildly, of great convivial powers. Whilst acting as tutor to Sir Walter Raleigh's son, in 1613, we are told that he had on one occasion to be sent home in a basket, a somewhat favourite mode of conveying drunken men home in those days, and Drummond of Hawthornden, to whom Jonson paid a visit on his Scottish trip in 1618, has left on record the statement that "Drink was the element in which he lived." It is quite probable that this unfortunate propensity of the poet caused the entrangement between himself and his wife, for they were parted for many years. The vice of heavy drinking is said to have been brought to England from the Netherlands. At any rate that country has the credit of it, and at a later period the twin habit of cursing is said to have received a great vogue in England by the versatile volubility gained by the army in Flanders. Ben had been a soldier, and no doubt his coarseness of utterance and enlarged thirst were, on that score, overlooked by his more refined associates. Although he was honoured by the great of the land and by King James, who created him poet-laureate with a life pension of a hundred marks, and although he had amongst his patrons, powerful nobles, not all their kindness could suffice to sustain Ben Jonson in comfort. His ear was ever open to the call of the unfortunate. Whenever he had money his friends shared it. His rugged honesty was proof against writing to carry favour. When he felt it his duty to condemn, it mattered not whether it was friend or foe, Catholic or Protestant, the censure was forthcoming with all the vigour at his command. King James was anxious to knight him, but he evaded the honour. A title was an empty thing to a sterling manhood like Jonson's. Towards the close of his life, when sickness came upon him, and his popularity had declined, he fell into great poverty. Other scribblers in the fashion of those days would have crawled and cringed, in order to get help from a patron; not so with Jonson; this is how he wrote to the Duke of Newcastle:

"My noblest Lord and best Patron:

"I send no borrowing epistle to provoke your lordship, for I have neither fortune to repay nor security to engage that will be taken; but I make a most humble petition to your lordship's bounty to succour my present necessities this good time of Easter, and it shall conclude all begging requests hereafter on the behalf of your truest Beadsman and most humble servant."

In 1625 he took to play-making again, but without great results. On the failure of his latest comedy, "The New Inn," Charles I, who had heard of the poet's distress, sent him a present of £100 and a butt of Canary, besides increasing his laureate's pension to the same sum as his present.

On the 6th August 1637 Ben Jonson died. His remains were accorded a resting place in Westminster Abbey, and there in an upright position, he was buried. It is stated that a visitor to his tomb noticing no inscription on the gravestone prevailed on a stonemason who happened to be passing by to carve on it for the sum of eighteen pence the words "O rare Ben Jonson". The words remarkable for their simplicity and for the wealth of meaning embodied in them, will be as immortal as the fame of Jonson himself. No warrior record could have been devised. It was in keeping with the ruggedness and worthiness of his character and with the quality of his genius.

JAMES J. WARREN,
Managing Director.

The President, Hon. J. R. Stratton, M.P., in moving the adoption of the report, said:—

"Gentlemen,—It is a pleasure to me, as it must be to the Management of The Trusts and Guarantee Company, and to shareholders generally, to be able to present at the Twelfth Annual Meeting so satisfactory a statement, which shows a splendid advance in every department of the Company's interests.

"The report is of a character to amply justify warm congratulations to the shareholders and all more or less directly concerned in the prosperity of this Company.

"While the gross earnings and net profits have, under the conditions that have prevailed during the past year or so, been satisfactory, they might have been made greater if the Management of the Company had not pursued the conservative and prudential policy of maintaining exceptionally strong cash reserves, during a period of financial strengency, to meet any emergency that might demand effective financial resources, readily available.

"It would perhaps be unreasonable, in consideration of all the circumstances, to demand a better showing than that we have to submit.

"The gross receipts of the Company for the year ending December 31, 1908, under the items of interest, commission and rental of vaults, aggregate $166 349.11, equivalent to 14.4 per cent. of earnings on the paid-up Capital Stock.

"The expenses and payments in connection with these receipts being deducted, make the net profits on the operations of the Company $89,729.60.

"Of this sum, $68,470.00 was apportioned to the payment of two semi-annual dividends, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, leaving the handsome sum of $21 259.60 to be placed to the credit of Profit and Loss Account.

"This addition brings the total at the credit of this account to $181,871.70, as against $160,612.10 at the end of 1907.

"A clearer idea may be formed of the satisfactory operations of the Company in the past year by instituting a comparison. The permanent or fixed date deposits show an increase of $552,956.42 over the figures of 1907, an indication of the growing confidence of the public in the effective Management and sound condition of the Company.

"A similar comment is suggested by the splendid increase in the Trust Funds confided to the custody of the Company.

"At the close of 1907, these funds amounted to $2,636,434.68; at a corresponding date in 1908 the total stood at $3,667,322.79. This indicates that the public, as their knowledge of the careful and successful manner in which the affairs of the Company are administered becomes greater, manifest an increased confidence in its fiduciary responsibility.

"The growth of the assets of the Company furnishes another ground of confidence, the increase being about 25 per cent. over the total of last year, the then total of $4,830,482.13 having advanced this year to $5,883,677.58, an increase of $1,053,195.45, a showing in this respect unsurpassed in the history of the Company.

"Another form in which the growing confidence of the public in the Company is demonstrated consists in the increasing volume of appointments, as shown by the records of the past year.

"The growth of the Estates Department—that is to say, the department concerned with the administration of estates, under Will or Trust Appointment, has been remarkable, showing a corresponding development of public satisfaction attending administration by a Company combining the elements of permanency and financial strength.

"A similar condition, but even to a much greater degree, marks the development of the corporate Share Transfer business of the Company, whose promptitude and accuracy are recognized by those having business of that character to be transacted.

"Another important feature of its functions, to which the Company has devoted special attention, is that of Assignee and Liquidator. The Company has acted in the capacity of Assignee for the benefit of Creditors in a manner most satisfactory to its clients. The elimination of the individual element, with its palpable disadvantages, limits the adjustment of affairs to business considerations. The Company has given equal satisfaction as Liquidator of Companies requiring liquidation or requiring administrative assistance.

"The Branch Offices of the Company, established at Calgary and Brantford, are becoming adjuncts in the expansion of the Company's business.

"The investments in the West, under the direction of a local Advisory Board, now amount to more than a quarter of a million dollars, the interest rate being such as to yield a good profit, with payments promptly made, and investments made with the greatest care.

"In the West The Trusts and Guarantee Company has been appointed Public Administrator by the Government of Alberta for several of the districts in that Province.

"During the past year the centrally situated Head Office Building of the Company, 43 and 45 King street west, Toronto, has been subjected to important improvements. To increase the rental power of the building, a fifth story has been added and an electric elevator plant installed.

"The report, taken as a whole, tells the story of one of the most prosperous and satisfactory years in the history of the Company, a record achieved in perhaps the most difficult financial year of the past decade. The feeling of satisfaction over these conditions is modified by remembering that while other branches of national industry have languished, the farming community have had the advantage of good harvests and good prices.

"With the foundation industry of the country enjoying prosperity; with the cloud of financial depression lifting; with the rapid development of the immense resources of the country; ith large capital being employed in great railway and allied enterprises; with a growing confidence of the public in the permanency, security and economy of the administration of estates and other trusts; with a continuation of the effective management that has marked the successful life of the Trusts and Guarantee Company, there can be little room for doubt that an increasingly prosperous future lies before it.

"It should be reassuring to the shareholders and all concerned to know that all the Officers of the Company have during the year performed their duties with fidelity and efficiency.

"I have much pleasure in moving that the report be adopted."

Mr. D. W. Karn, of Woodstock, Vice-President, in seconding the motion for the adoption of the report, said:—

"Having been identified with the Company since its organization, and having had on many occasions to perform the duty of seconding the motion for the adoption of the Annual Report, I am glad to be justified in saying that I have never done so with more satisfaction than on the present occasion. The statement in every sense is a correct and gratifying exposition of the standing and operations of perhaps the best year in the improving years of the past of the Company. Wherever I have heard The Trusts and Guarantee Company spoken of, I have heard the efficiency of the Management especially commended.

"The members of the legal profession throughout the Province, who are so largely interested in the legal management of estates matters, are showing a growing appreciation of the promptitude, economy and safety associated with the management of estates by The Trusts and Guarantee Company, and it is a pleasure to note that this Company enjoys a large share of this appreciation.

"I have very great pleasure in seconding the motion for the adoption of the report."

Rev. Dr. Williamson, Hamilton, said:—

"I do not like to be the first to speak, but the report seems to me to be a most satisfactory one, and I think that to every one of the shareholders it cannot be otherwise than eminently gratifying, and we cannot but be satisfied with the Management of The Trusts and Guarantee Company, Limited, and their administration of its affairs during the past year."

After several other shareholders had spoken expressing their satisfaction the report was unanimously adopted.

A vote of thanks to the Directors, Advisory Board for the Alberta Branch, Officers and staff of the Company was passed.

Subsequently the following were elected Directors of the Company for the ensuing year:—Hon. J. R. Stratton, Toronto; D. W. Karn, Woodstock; C. Kloepfer, Guelph; Hon. Senator McMillan, Alexandria; A. F. MacLaren, Stratford; W. J. Shepard, Waubaushene; T. H. Purdom, K.C., London; W. Thoburn, M. P., Almonte; J. H. Adams, Toronto; Henry New, Hamilton; W. A. Dowler, K. C., Tillsonburg; Matthew Wilson, K.C., Chathom; Lloyd Harris, M. P., Brantford; James J. Warren, Toronto.

The following gentlemen were elected members of the Advisory Board for the Alberta Branch:—Daniel W. Marsh, P. Turner Bone and William Pearce, all of Calgary, Alberta.

Among those present were:—Ald. J. H. Adams, Rev. J. S. Williamson, D.D., George Kellam, W. D. Bell, Dr. Rutherford, E. P. Beattie, F. M. Holland, Hon. J. R. Stratton, J. F. McLaren, B. Jull, Hon. Senator McMillan, D. W. Karn, W. J. Boland, Dr. Hoig, A. E. C. Naftel, C. Kloepfer, T. W. Jull, Thomas Allison, A. W. Connor.

At a subsequent meeting of the Board of Directors, the Honorable J. R. Stratton was re-elected President of the Company, and Messrs, D. W. Karn and C. Kloepfer, Vice-Presidents.

CANADIAN AT THE CENTENARY

Editor of Toro to Globe Is Chief Speaker at Chicago.

GIVES A CANADIAN'S VIEW

Rev. J. A. Macdonald In Powerful Address on "Significance of Lincoln" Tells of Great President's Work For Democracy—Eighteen Thousand Canadian Died For Union—Memorial Started.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 13.—Patriotic ardor swept over Chicago yesterday in a grand climax of Lincoln centennial celebration, and found vivid expression in a demonstration at the Seventh Regiment armory, where thousands gathered. Rev. J. A. Macdonald, editor of The Toronto Globe, was the principal speaker, and his fervid utterances were received with great enthusiasm.

Hundreds of school children sang the national anthem.

The interior was appropriately decorated with bunting and flags and portraits and busts of Lincoln were prominently placed. Coupon seat holders held an indignation meeting in the corridors because they could not gain admittance because of the throng piling through doors when they were opened.

Mr. Macdonald chose to speak on "The Significance of Lincoln," first to demonstrate in America; second, for Anglo-Saxon civilization; third, his world significance. His Canadian point of view and the exposition of democratic principles under the Union Jack was a feature of the address. He spoke as follows:

"Among the men born of American women there has not arisen a greater than Abraham Lincoln. It is fitting that throughout this republic, from the capitol to the remotest pioneer hamlet, his name should this day be lifted high in loving memory. The honor of that name is the priceless heritage of every state in this great union, whose integrity he maintained and whose flag he saved from shame.

REV. J. A. MACDONALD,
Principal Speaker at the Chicago Lincoln Celebration.

"And, sir, it is significant, as well as gracious, that in this centennial celebration in Lincoln's own state there should be not only a blending of voices from all states, South as well as North, and a joining of all parties and creeds and races composing this great republic, but also that the Union Jack should salute the Stars and Stripes, and that the spokesman of this hour should be, by the blood of four generations, a native-born Canadian. I am quite sure that round about me on this platform and in this audience are not a few whose relations were with the South, and who suffered loss in themselves and in their families for the ill-fated confederate cause. They are here to-day, loyal and sincere as any among us in the tribute they pay to the memory of Abraham Lincoln. And I, too, a citizen of Canada, give place to no man among you in reverence for the name of Lincoln, even though I am of the breed and bear the name of my great-grandsire, a clansman in the 84th Highland Regiment, who fought under Cornwallis in Virginia for King George."

Turning to Canada he pointed out the indirect services of Lincoln to the Dominion: The significance of the Canadian situation could not be understood without remembering that the seed of the cavalier of King Charles had grown into class privilege in Canada and "ripened into an autocracy as exclusive and insolent as anything southern aristocracy or old world Toryism could show."

"In Canada the conflict came a generation earlier than in the United States. It was in 1837, the first year of the reign of Queen Victoria, that the seething discontent of the people against injustice and tyranny found expression in the rebellion of Louis Papineau in Lower Canada, and of William Lyon Mackenzie in Upper Canada. That rebellion was suppressed with little bloodshed, but the power of the oligarchy was broken. The rights for which the people fought were abundantly granted in 1840, when Canada was given, not merely representative government directly and immediately responsible to Parliament. What [illegible] for Democracy in the United States on the battlefields of the revolution, and more truly in the Civil War, was secured for Democracy in Canada in the Parliament of the nation. But at the bottom the struggle was the same."

"In a book by a professor of Harvard University, published only a few months ago," said Mr. Macdonald. "I read the statement that, 'feeling in the United States was greatly incensed because of the sympathy of Canada with the south in the Civil War.' My comment on that statement is that more than 48,000 Canadians fought in the armies of the north, and 18,000 of them died for the Union cause. They were in the Army of the Potomac, in the Army of the James, in the Army of the Cumberland, in the Army of the Tennessee, and in the Army of the Rio Grande. They were with Thomas at Chickamauga. They were with Custer in the west. They were with Meade at Gettysburg. They went through the Shenandoah with Sheridan. They marched with Sherman to the sea. On every great battlefield between the Mississippi and the Potomac the sons of Canada stood shoulders together with the men of the Union. They languished in the Libby Prison. They died in the Andersonville Camp. They answered your Lincoln's call; they followed your Stars and Stripes; they died for your country's honor; but, in death and in life, the flag of their hearts was the Union Jack."

Memorial Is Begun.

Hedgenville, Ky., Feb. 13.—Henceforth the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln is to be marked by a pile of stone. The emancipator of a race, and the liberator of the negroes of a nation, builded his own monument in the heart of the world, and appropriated the physical structure which has now found a beginning at the place where Lincoln first saw the light, takes the simpler name of a memorial. It is to be a simple, classic building of granite, and it is hoped that it may be completed some time next fall, when the then President will officiate in dedicating it as the present President, Theodore Roosevelt, yesterday officiated in laying its foundation stone.

AUTOISTS MAY BE RESTRICTED

E. N. Lewis, M.P., Would Increase the Penalties.

CIVIL SERVICE SALARIES

Mr. Borden Says Reclassification Was a Daviation From the Law—Mr. Lewis Would Impose Jail Sentence For Reckless Motorists—The Sudbury-Soo Line—Indian Education Discussed.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—The civil service salary increase and the estimates for the Indian Department kept the Commons busy most of yesterday afternoon.

E. N. Lewis had some trouble finding a seconder for his bill to amend the criminal code respecting injuries to persons due to motor vehicles. Major Beatty and Mr. Owens refused. "I'll second it," said Haughton Lennox; "just to get it before the House."

Lewis explained that the present restrictions were insufficient. A farmer sprawling in a ditch, he said, would be too busy with a fractious animal to discover the number of an automobile. Besides, even in Toronto, the auto was getting to be a menace.

The bill provides that persons carelessly operating automobiles and thereby causing accidents, shall be liable under the criminal code and subject to imprisonment for two years.

The civil service salary and resolution was then taken up. Mr. Foster took the ground that the appropriation should be so designated that Parliament would not be deprived of its prerogative of voting the $150 increase in individual cases. A supplementary estimate should have been submitted, covering the increase.

Mr. Fisher's explanation was that the method adopted had been decided upon with a view to expedite the payment of the money.

Mr. Foster criticized the re-classification. He had not been able, after examination, to discover that any uniform principle had been adopted. In the same Departments, hundreds of outsiders had been drafted in at salaries higher than those paid to men of long service.

Mr. Borden pointed out that in making the re-classification there had a distinct departure from the act, which required that there should be a definition of each individual member of service. The only Minister who had quite fulfilled conditions was the Minister of Inland Revenue and of Mines.

Mr. Fisher stated that in the past five years $1,490,000 had been paid in increases of salaries to officers of the outside service.

W. R. Smith (East Algoma) stated that the Ontario Government was building a trunk road from Sudbury to the Soo, and he asked if it was the intention to secure right of way through Indian lands.

Mr. Oliver replied that his Department was waiting for the surveys, when the matter would be taken up with the Indians.

There was considerable discussion on the item of Indian education, which was passed.

Claude Macdonnel of South Toronto has given notice of a series of questions in regard to the boundaries, as follows:

"Has the Government decided upon the boundary lines between Manitoba and Ontario on the one side, and Ontario and Quebec on the other, under the resolution adopted last year, with reference to the boundaries of these provinces?

"(2) If so, when will the bill giving effect to such resolutions be submitted to the House?

"(3) Will such bill be submitted to the Government of the Province of Ontario before it is introduced into this House?

"(4) Does the Government intend to include a harbor, or harbors on the Hudson Bay, in the portion to be allotted to the Province of Ontario?"

Girl Sent Down For 10 Years.

Calgary, Alba., Feb. 13.—Judge Harvey morning sentenced Florence Driscoll, aged 19, High River, to 10 years for arson.

Her father, Michael, and a brother, were charged with her with burning the barn and attempting to burn the house in which was Mrs. Demiers, four children and a hired man. The judge criticized the verdict of not guilty brought in for the father and son.

First Wife Kicked Him Out.

Chatham, Feb. 13.—Brigham Sprague, charged with bigamy, was given a preliminary hearing before Judge Houston yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was committed for trial at the Spring Assizes.

Sprague claims that wife No. 1, whom he married in 1901, was cruel to him and kicked him out, after which he married No. 2.

Both wives were present at the trial.

Bonds at $30,000 a Mile.

Ottawa, Feb. 13.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Branch Lines Co. is coming to Parliament again this session for an extension of its authority to build branch lines, principally in the Peace River District and in the district south of Calgary.

Power is sought to bond these new branch lines at $30,000 per mile.

Fatal Fight Over Dog.

New York, Feb. 13.—James Kiernan, aged 36, a saloon-keeper, and Charles Winters, aged 25, a driver, were shot and perhaps mortally wounded yesterday at Stapleton, Staten Island, in a quarrel over a dog owned by Winters. Frederick Warner is under arrest, but asserts he fired the shots in self-defence.

Five More Dreadnoughts.

London, Feb. 13.—The Daily Mail learns that the Government has decided to lay down five battleships of the improved Dreadnought type the coming year.

Application will be made to Parliament this session to incorporate the Imperial Fire Insurance Co., with a capital of $3,000,000.

The Quebec and New Brunswick Railway is seeking for an extension of time of construction and for an increase of its bonding powers to $35,000 per mile.

The Bank of British North America declares a dividend of thirty shillings and bonus of ten shillings per share, making 7 per cent. for the year. Twenty thousand pounds is transferred to the reserve fund and £15,000 carried forward.

TRUTH ABOUT MINER.

B. C. Official Declares That Bond Theft Story Was a Fake.

Vancouver, Feb. 13.—An official who is in a position to speak authoritatively on Bill Miner's escape yesterday morning made the following statement for publication:

"At the time of the investigation into the escape made by Inspector Dawson, I could have told, if I had been called to testify, that Bill Miner did not escape from prison by crawling through that hole, for two good reasons, first, the hole was not large enough; second, because the hole was made for the purpose of covering up the letting out of Miner.

"No bonds were ever stolen. Miner's friends conducted fake negotiations for his so-called escape and the securing of a "cached" money. Certain persons made it possible for him to escape on the understanding that he would divide up on the booty."

Advocates Military Training.

Montreal, Feb. 13.—An interesting address was made yesterday at the Women's and Men's Canadian Clubs of Montreal by Brigadier-General Sir Henry Seymour Rowlinson, C.B., C.V.O.

His address was on Lord Roberts' proposal in England of national military training. He is an ardent supporter of this program and urged the necessity for training all citizens.

Dead at 111.

Belleville, Feb. 13.—There passed away in the House of Refuge yesterday morning Julian Terrian, born in the city of Quebec 111 years ago, but who for the greater part of his life lived at Marmora village.

Up till his death he retained all his faculties. He never used glasses, was a great smoker and was a bachelor.

Harry Thaw's Birthday.

Matteawan, N.Y., Feb. 13.—The rule prohibiting the visiting of prisoners confined in the Matteawan State Hospital on holidays, was suspended yesterday to permit Mrs. William Thaw to visit her son, Harry Kendall Thaw, this being the occasion of his 37th birthday anniversary.

Gift of 200 Acres.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 13.—An Admiralty reserve of 200 acres on Burrard Inlet, near Barnet, has been granted to the city by the Imperial Government. It will be used for a quarry to secure rock for city streets, and a location of the police court convict labor detention house.

Danger From Lunatics.

Shelburne, Ont., Feb. 13.—"There are at least 20 persons in Dufferin County who should not be at large," said Crown Attorney W. J. L. McKay yesterday. He estimated that in Ontario there are from three to five thousand persons mentally deranged, who should be locked up.

Peterboro O. H. A. Team are Out of the Running
Kaiser and Hurtubise "Go" Here on Tuesday

PETERBOROS WERE DECISIVELY BEATEN IN LINDSAY LAST NIGHT

Lost by 9 Goals to 1 After a Listless, Uninteresting Game—The Team Was Off Colour and Never Got Working Right.

QUINN WAS A STAR.

Lindsay 9; Peterborough 1.

This represents in tabloid form last night's Intermediate O. H. A. game at Lindsay. The figures do not indicate the play, but they show that Peterborough were outplayed all the way, as indeed it must be admitted that they were. The Lindsay team showed unexpected speed on their own ice, and with Stoddard playing as he always does when at home, and the other players all on edge, they had little difficulty in standing off the Petes. It was not a brilliant exhibition of hockey. In fact, after the first fifteen minutes it degenerated into what might almost be termed shinny. The ice, hard at first, soon became sticky and before half time it was pretty hard travelling, the skaters commencing to skate over the puck, while combination became a matter of difficulty.

When it is stated that the Peterborough team did not play up to their usual standard no disparagement of the players is meant. They worked hard all the way, but did not seem to be able to get going as usual. They held Lindsay pretty well in the early stages of the battle, but after the Midgets once started they began to pile up the goals until they were ahead 6—1 at half time, and they had no trouble in holding their lead and even increasing it in the second half. It was, as a matter of fact, the worst game of the four that have been played between the two teams this season, and at times was decidedly listless, while the hockey was never of championship calibre at any stage. As long as Peterborough held the Midgets it was exciting, but afterwards the game became monotonous and uninteresting, especially from a Peterborough standpoint. The result was a big disappointment to the Peterborough fans, who, while they did not expect a victory, thought at least that they would give Lindsay a hard battle. The shake up in the team did not work as well as was expected, and although every player on the team did his best it must be admitted that they did not look like winners at any stage last night, outside of the first few minutes. They lacked combination and speed, as well, and the Lindsay line came back so fast that they had little chance of working in on the defence. It took Lindsay six minutes to score the first goal, and it was not until thirteen minutes after that they found the nets again. Then when Morgan slipped one past Newton in thirty seconds Peterborough's chances began to look rather bright. Lindsay, however, scored again in a minute and from that point on the Midgets began to score pretty rapidly, while the Peterboroughs only found the nets once afterwards and was on an offside.

The second half was very listless. Both teams seemed tired and the pace was slow, with only an occasional flash of hockey to vary the monotony. Brilliant rushes by Quinn for Peterborough, and Koyl for Lindsay were the only bright features of the dying moments of the game and both players uncorked some spectacular runs that brought the crowd to its feet.

Peterborough had another new line out, Long of the Stratheonas being at centre, with Harry Morgan at rover, Moore at right wing and Quinn at cover point. The absence of Charlie Ray was sadly felt, especially in the matter of checking back, and the team was weakened by the loss of the speedy little rover who watched the game from the press box.

The team was switched around in the second half by sending Moore back to cover point, putting Quinn at rover and Morgan at right wing, and the new combination seemed to work better, although they did not succeed in scoring.

The long expected Hancock, he of the corpulent figure, was on hand this time to referee the battle and did not prove a brilliant success in the position of official arbitrator, although his decisions had no effect upon the result. He missed many offsides and some of his decisions in regard to penalties were wierd. And then again, every Lindsay rooter seemed to know him by his first name and that is no good way to play house.

Derocher, who has been playing a remarkable game in goal for the Petes this season, had an off night last night and was beaten by several long and easy shots, which ordinarily he would have picked off like cherries. Only in the last few minutes did he show his real form when he went out several times and blocked shots in his characteristic fashion.

The same lack of form characterized the playing of the whole team, with the exception of Quinn, who in the second half played great hockey. He rushed repeatedly, just as if he was hammering along in the City League, and showed splendid speed and stick handling ability. The other forwards worked hard and did everything in their power to pull out a victory, but they simply could not get going long enough to score goals. Glover and Moore did good work on the defence.

Koyl, Cotey and Stoddard were Lindsay's stars last night. Randall did not show up nearly as well as in Peterborough, but Cotey showed speed and splendid shooting ability at right wing, and played a grand game all the way. Stoddard, inclined to back up away from home, is good on his own ice, and his speedy rushes last night were effective. Koyl played his characteristic defence game, while his rushes were generally dangerous. Taylor did little but loaf.

The line-up was:

LINDSAY.

Newton
Koyl
Sullivan
Stoddard
Cotey — Randall — Taylor

Dusty — Long Moore (Morgan)
Morgan (Quinn)
Quinn (Moore)
Glover
Derocher

PETERBOROUGH.

It was 8.35 when the players were lined up and the big game started with a rush, both teams working hard. It was rush and counter rush for a while, with the forward lines checking back so closely that it was almost impossible to get a shot on goal. This was the only exciting period of the game, and the crowd rooted incessantly, the Peterborough rooters making themselves heard. Morgan slashed Stoddard and was penalized, and soon after Moore went off for the same offence in connection with Koyl. Taylor was the next to fall into disfavour and was banished for two minutes for tripping. Stoddard got the puck at centre and with a nice rush, shot one past Derocher from outside Glover in six minutes.

Lindsay 1; Peterborough 0.

Moore bodied Sullivan in one of his rushes and was banished to the side lines, and was followed by Long for slashing. Cotey slashed and got two minutes, and a little later Randall got the same penalty for slashing Dusty, and then Stoddard got his for tripping Quinn. Peterborough tried hard but could not score even with the Lindsay men on the fence, although they had many openings. Dusty was exiled for slashing and while he was on the fence Cotey increased Lindsay's lead by a shot from well out, in thirteen minutes.

Lindsay 2; Peterborough 0.

It only took thirty seconds for Peterborough to get that one back. The rubber travelled towards the Lindsay goal from the face, and Morgan with a pretty shot from quarter way, beat Newton.

Lindsay 2; Peterborough 1.

Things looked promising for Peterborough, but Lindsay came right back and began to have the better of the play from that period on. Taylor scored for Lindsay in one minute on a neat shot.

Lindsay 3; Peterborough 1.

Long was penalized again this time for tripping Koyl. Peterborough were working hard, and Morgan slammed one past Newton, but the play was called back because he kicked the puck. Dusty was penalized, although just why, was hard to see. Randall rushed nicely and passed to Stoddard in front of the nets and the Lindsay rover had nothing to do but score, in three minutes.

Lindsay 4; Peterborough 1.

One minute after Taylor got Lindsay's fifth goal in easy fashion, and score was,

Lindsay 5; Peterborough 1.

Morgan got four minutes for telling Referee Hancock that Cotey had kicked the puck. Dusty was also penalized for slashing, and with the two on the fence Cotey scored Lindsay's sixth goal just before half time, on a long easy shot from near the centre of the rink which Derocher apparently did not see.

Lindsay 6; Peterborough 1.

The second half started with Morgan and Dusty still on the fence, and Cotey got his a moment or two after for mixing it up with Moore. The penalties at this time were four minutes in duration. Long tripped Koyl and was sent away, Cotey got back in time for a nice rush down the wing and a pretty shot from the boards which fooled Derocher.

Lindsay 7; Peterborough 1.

Sullivan and Morgan mixed it up and got four minutes each. Lindsay rushed and Taylor slid one past Derocher in easy manner in one minute, the puck sliding along the ice into the corner.

Lindsay 8; Peterborough 1.

Long tripped Randall and was sent away, and Randall went off soon after for the same offence. Stoddard scored for Lindsay on a pass from Cotey in four minutes, leaving the score as it remained until the finish.

Lindsay 9; Peterborough 1.

Moore was penalized for dumping Koyl, and Glover followed him for slashing Sullivan, but Lindsay were tired and could not score again, even with the defence men on the boards. Derocher began to show his real form and made some pretty stops. The feature of the second half, however, was Quinn's great rushing. The Lakefield boy doing some great stick handling, although he received a slash across the back of the hand almost the same as the one that incapacitated Ray. Cotey and Randall were both penalized before time was up, the first for mixing it up with Derocher, and the second for tripping Morgan.

The summary follows:

1 Lindsay, Stoddard, 6 min.
2 Lindsay, Cotey, 13 min.
3 Peterborough, Morgan, 21 sec.
4 Lindsay, Taylor, 1 min.
5 Lindsay, Stoddard, 3 min.
6 Lindsay, Taylor, 1 min.
7 Lindsay, Cotey, 4 min.
Half time.
8 Lindsay, Cotey, 4 min.
9 Lindsay, Taylor, 1 min.
10 Lindsay, Stoddard, 4 min.

Penalties, first half — Morgan, Moore, Taylor, Moore, Long, Cotey, Randall, Stoddard, Dusty, Long, Dusty, Morgan, Dusty.—Total 13.

Second half—Cotey, Long, Sullivan, Morgan, Long, Randall, Moore, Glover, Cotey, Randall—10.

Peterborough penalties—14.
Lindsay penalties—9.

GAME PLAYED BY LOCAL CURLERS

Friday night's Telegram contains the following account of the games played by Peterborough curlers on Thursday—

In the morning Peterborough gently but firmly put Dundas away, and the latter, fully satisfied at having beaten Lindsay, were all ready to go home with Hamilton Thistles, who after getting walloped in the Tankard decided that they had enough of curling for the noose and defaulted their Governor General game to Orillia. In this game Dr. Bertram, got bumped, as he was down to Davidson's Peterboroughs 21 to 12. And that is something that doesn't often happen to the sharp-shooting doctor.

• • • •

But Peterborough had their work cut out for them in the afternoon to beat Guelph Royals. Those chaps from up near the Model Farm have been knocking at the door for years, and yesterday it just about opened to receive them. When the eighteen ends were finished the score was a tie, Giroux being five up on Mahoney, while Davidson was five down to Dillon. On the first extra end Davidson counted one, and so did Mahoney. Davidson counted again on the next, Mahoney failed, and it was all off with the Royals.

• • • •

This morning Orillia and Peterborough are finishing out the final for the Governor General, and if things continue to run to form, the vice-regal silverware should go east to Peterborough. They're curling pretty well, those chaps from the Hillocks, and if they hadn't fallen a victim to a mixture of Scarboro' Leafs and soft ice in the primary, might have cut a considerable figure in the Tankard finals.

EUGENE HURTUBISE, THE PETERBORO' WRESTLER.

THE RING.

Montreal, Feb. 10.— Billy Allan, featherweight champion of Canada, and Babe Cullen, the New York State champion, met in what was to have been a fifteen round bout last night, but Allan won in the eighth round after an exciting contest.

• • • •

Boston, Mass., Feb. 10. — Owen Moran, the English light weight, defeated Matty Baldwin, of Charlestown, in 12 rounds of a one sided boxing match at the Armoury Athletic Association last night. Baldwin had no chance to win at any time.

• • • •

CURLING.

In the report of the curling match in Toronto yesterday, in the Governor-General's competition, the Toronto correspondent of the Examiner made the error of saying that Mr. Giroux's rink was down. On the other hand Mr. Giroux was eight up, while Mr. Davidson was sixteen down, the cup therefore going to Orillia by eight shots.

MAPLE SUGAR AND SYRUP CLASSED AS LUXURIES

From Farm and Dairy.

In earlier days maple sugar and syrup were classed as necessities. Today they rank as luxuries. In former times hap-hazard methods of manufacturing these products answered very well. Now, if one would make sugar and syrup of the highest grade, old time methods must be abandoned. In many cases the equipment of sugar makers is inferior, and the buckets are often rusty, as are also the pans.

The demand for high-class maple products far exceeds the supply. If one is to be in the business at all he should make a "gilt-edged" product. To do this, requires the installing of first-class utensils and modern means of handling the sap. Covers for the buckets that will not blow off are one of the commonest lacks in the average sugar camp, yet those who have them vouch for their value in keeping twigs and other dirt out of the buckets and in shedding rain water.

The sugar making season will soon be here. It will be well to order supplies early and make such installments of equipment as we deem advisable before the season opens.

VERY ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING WAS HELD

From Farm and Dairy.

The fifth annual convention of the C. S. G. A., held in Ottawa last week was well represented by delegates from the various provinces except the western ones. The report of Mr. L. H. Newman, secretary-treasurer of the association showed that the work of the last year had been a prosperous one. A number of meetings had been held in some of the provinces in connection with the winter fairs. It was recommended to make these meetings annual ones in their capacity, and to do business in connection with the association peculiar to their local conditions.

It was thought that some recognition should be given to grain produced from selected plants such as are derived from the work carried on at the experimental stations, and might be carried on even by any member. It was recommended that the Hon. Minister of Agriculture be again asked for sufficient funds to carry on the work another year and to print the annual report; that a resolution of thanks be tendered the railway authorities for their kindness in allowing cheap rates to the secretary-treasurer of the association; that the experimental stations should try more experiments to determine whether or not garden and vegetable seeds could be grown in Canada profitably. These recommendations were taken up one by one and adopted except the one referring to grain from selected plants which was left over for further discussion at a later date in the meeting. In this discussion it was explained that a good plant with fixed characteristics was a surer way to get permanent improvement in crops than to select the best heads from plants as was the general practice of the association.

Senator Perley asked if it had been found by the work of the association that crops had been increased in yield and weight, for he had noticed that in late years the percentage of No. 1 northern wheat had been growing less in the west instead of greater. It was pointed out that there were a number of causes which might contribute to that state of things, such as weed seeds, frost, etc.; but that the amount of good vital seed in the West was increasing steadily every year and was in such demand that the supplies were inadequate to meet that demand. Mr. Donald Innes, Tobique River, N. S., claimed that as a result of selection during the last six or seven years his oats, which, formerly weighed 38 lbs. a bus. after cleaning, now weighed 42 lbs., as they came from the machine.

A summary of the season's work was given by the secretary-treasurer. During the last season there were 101 who had reported good work done, 71 of whom were old members and 30 were eligible for membership. The total number of crop applications were 688, but as some applicants operated with more than one kind of crop there were in all only 459 members and applicants. Of this number 71 returned satisfactory reports, 30 were quite satisfactory, 49 unsatisfactory and 10 had dropped out altogether. The remainder were still considered applicants; 74 new applications were recorded during the year. The total number who asked that the inspectors visit them were 139. A summary of the work by provinces showed that wheat was still the most popular crop for the Dominion, while the oat crop was a close second. More had tried corn in Ontario than any other single crop.

Quite a large amount of registered seed had changed hands but this did not represent by any means the amount of good seed used from these various sources, as much of it was sold by members without getting the certificates.

Messrs. Raynor, Cote and Moore, inspectors for Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces, respectively gave short reports of their work. Mr. McKillican, also sent a report from Alberta and British Columbia. The inspectors reported that a number of the members were getting a better grasp of the work and were enjoying larger, and quite satisfactory markets. A member of the association remarked in the discussion that at one time in his locality, "Any kind of seed was good enough, but now the best seed was none too good." Some representatives from the large seed firms of Toronto were present as well as others nearer by and expressed themselves as being in sympathy with the association's work.

Thirty new applicants, eligible for membership were received. The various papers were then taken up. All the papers presented were of a high order and their publication in the next annual report will be worthy of perusal. An unfortunate feature was that there was very little time for discussion on any of the papers.

The president's address on Thursday evening in the Council Chamber of the Senate, House of Commons, was a splendid synopsis of the work of the association, and its possibilities, while the Hon. Mr. Fisher's address on the "Agricultural Convention in Rome," and Mr. Peter H. McKenzie's address were of great interest to all who were privileged to attend.

The election of officers resulted in installing the same body for another year. Dr. Robertson, president; L. H. Newman, secretary-treasurer. Ten of the 20 directors who are appointed by the elected directors at the meeting, are to be selected at some future date. The convention marks another milestone in the cause of the promotion of good vital seed.—T. G. Raynor.

VALUE OF A WELL KEPT GARDEN

From Farm and Dairy.

It is common for us to neglect to supply ourselves with a sufficient variety of raw fruit and vegetables. In these latter days of shortage of help and the rush for the "almighty" dollar, the family garden has been sorely neglected. Few seem to realize the value of a well kept garden. The carefully planned garden properly managed will provide a large proportion of the family diet at a very nominal cost. In addition it will do much towards insuring health.

To have a garden worth while it must be planned early. Do not wait until the spring time comes. Procure catalogues from one or more of the well-known seed firms now and make the purchase of the seeds from one of these reliable sources rather than delay this matter until spring when you must take anything that the country grocer may offer. Much of the neglect and the unfruitfulness of the kitchen garden in recent years may be attributed to the lack of the proper selection of seeds from a reliable seed house.

LOCAL OPTION CAMPAIGN PROGRESSING.

The matter appearing in this space from time to time is furnished by the Temperance and Moral Reform League of this City, who have arranged for its Publication.

RATEPAYERS HAVE SIGNED READILY.

The work of securing signatures to the petition to the city council, asking for the taking of a vote next January on Local Option, is practically completed. The law requires that the petition must be signed by one-fourth of the ratepayers of the city to make it compulsory on the city council to submit the by-law to the people. Already the temperance workers have secured 50 per cent. more than the required number of names. In order that ratepayers who have not signed the petition and who may desire to sign it may do so, it has been decided to leave the petition in the following four stores and offices, where they may be signed, on and after Monday, February 15th, until farther notice: A. Brown, real estate office, 392 Water St.; Soden's Book Store, George St.; A. J. Warne's grocery store, corner Park and Charlotte Sts., and J. T. Braund's general store, corner Smith and George Sts.

Now that the work of securing signatures to the petition is about completed, a special committee of temperance workers is arranging to carefully check every name on the petition to see that the names are those of ratepayers qualified to vote. The committee will be prepared to vouch for every name on the petition. Every precaution is being taken to see that the liquor interests shall not have an opportunity to have the petition thrown out through a technicality. It will be presented to the city council at as early a date as possible. Thus, even should the petition be referred back to the temperance workers, they will have plenty of time to correct any errors it may contain.

THE SCOTT ACT AND LOCAL OPTION

In the present campaign, temperance workers are constantly being met with the argument that Local Option is simply the Scott Act over again and will be a failure just as it was. Or the question is frequently asked by advocates of both sides whether or not there is any real difference and, if so, what.

The Dunkin Act and the Scott Act were both passed some years ago when the question of temperance legislation had not received that attention it has got during recent years. The experience gained under them, and in many other ways has been made use of in framing the present law. Nevertheless, to say that the Scott Act was a failure is to assert what is very far from the truth. Just to mention one fact in proof of this will be sufficient here. Taking into account all the territory in which the Act was in operation in Ontario including the County of Peterborough, and considering three equal periods of time, one before it came into operation, a second while it was in force, and a third after it was repealed, the convictions for drunkenness in these three periods were respectively 2,144, 967, and 1,531. This shows conclusively that it had a marked effect in decreasing drunkenness.

Our purpose here, however, is not to defend the Scott Act so much as to show some of the many ways in which the present Local Option law is superior to it. A few of the most important difference are as follows:

MAIN DIFFERENCES

1. The fundamental difference lies in the fact that the Scott Act was a Dominion Law, and applied to county areas, and it repealed the Provincial license laws where it came into operation, so that new and distinct provisions had to be made for its enforcement. Local Option, on the other hand, is a part of the license law and makes use of all machinery of that law for its enforcement.

AREAS AFFECTED

2. The Scott Act was voted on in counties, which frequently contained large towns in which there were considerable majorities against it, but the strong temperance sentiment in the adjoining townships forced it on them. These centres of population, in which the adverse feeling was strong, became sources of discredit to the law on account of the difficulty in enforcing it. Local Option affects a municipality only and so, wherever it comes into operation, must be backed up by public opinion.

SECURING CONVICTIONS

3. Under the Scott Act, great difficulty was experienced in securing convictions. The fact that liquor had been consumed on a premises was not sufficient. There had to be proof of a sale. This was often impossible or at least a matter of great difficulty. Consumption of liquor, or intended consumption on premises where liquor is sold is sufficient to secure a conviction in Local Option territory, where all the machinery for enforcement and all the rules concerning evidence that have developed under the license law are available.

LEASING BARS

4. It was a common thing where the Scott Act was in operation for the proprietor of a hotel to lease his bar to some irresponsible person who promptly moved away when trouble was in sight, bearing away with him, like the scapegoat of old, the sins of his employer. The license law under which Local Option operates, makes the occupant of the premises responsible for all that takes place thereon, no matter whether the bar be run in his name or not. n addition to this, the owner or lessee of the premises is made responsible for what takes place even if not in possession, and is punished as if he were the actual offender.

PENALTIES

5. In the matter of penalties, there is a great difference. Not only is it easier to secure convictions and harder for violators of the law to evade punishment, but the penalties are more severe. Under the Scott Act, the penalty for a first offence was a fine of not less than fifty dollars, for second, one hundred dollars, and for a third, imprisonment for not more than two months. The convicting justice had power to consider any offence as a first and inflict the minimum penalty, so that as a matter of fact there were few convictions for anything but first offences. The penalty for a first offence under Local Option is a fine of from fifty to one hundred dollars, and in default of payment, imprisonment at hard labor for three months. For second and third offences, the penalties are imprisonment at hard labor for four and six months respectively. There can be but one conviction for a first offence.

FUNDS FOR ENFORCEMENT

6. Fines collected under the Scott Act were payable to the treasurers of the county and could only be withdrawn by resolution of the county council. As a result, there was often great difficulty in securing sufficient funds for enforcement. Under Local Option, all fines are paid to the license officers and are immediately available to meet the cost of enforcement. Besides special appropriations have been made by the Legislature for this purpose.

REPEALS

7. The Scott Act was repealed in every county in Ontario in which it was enacted and in most cases on the first opportunity. Local Option has not yet been repealed in any territory in which it had a majority of votes when enacted, though there have been almost 250 opportunities for repeal in the past six or seven years.

These are but a few of the radical differences between the two laws, but they are sufficient to show that anyone who asserts that they are the same is either dishonest or uninformed and in either case, his statement is valueless.

2000 BAR ROOMS ABOLISHED

In Ontario we are elated because last January we voted to do away with about 100 bar rooms in the province. In the United States they do things on a much larger scale. The net result of Local Option campaigning in the State of Ohio during the year 1908, was the bringing of 57 counties under total prohibition and the closing up of 2,000 bar-rooms. Sixty-two of the 88 counties are now dry, and more than half the population of the State is freed from the temptation of the open saloon. We will have a chance to put the 23 bar rooms in Peterborough out of existence next January.

CAMPAIGN NOTES

Peterborough temperance workers will be represented next week at the annual convention of the Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance which will meet in Toronto, March 3rd and 4th, where it is expected that pointers and suggestion- will be obtained that will be of value in the local campaign. The convention, it is expected, will be largely attended.

The temperance meeting at the Crystal, to-morrow afternoon, will be addressed by Rev. Mr. Riddiford, of the Park St. Baptist Church.

At a county convention in Brantford last week, it was decided to carry on a campaign this year with the purpose of bringing the whole county, as well as the City of Brantford, under Local Option. If this succeeds, as it is likely to, it will mean the cutting off of over 40 licenses, and Brant will have the distinction of being the first Ontario County to go dry. In Peterborough County, the City of Peterborough is the only wet spot in the adjoining townships.

ARE YOU FAT?

You know you can not stay fat, don't you? That is, you can not be fat and be in style. The day when a fat woman was tolerated is passed. Nowadays all women must be in proportion or be ridiculous. This does not mean you should become skinny, however. You should not get below the hard flesh line. All you ought to lose is the bulky fat. That done you will find yourself to be a well formed and therefore handsome woman.

Now, how can this be done? By exercising and dieting? Yes, and no. These two means will bring so ne results, but not easily nor soon. One is very hard work; the other is torture. Besides, neither can be depended on to cause a uniform reduction. They may take of a fleshy shoulder, for example, and leave the double chin untouched. What you need, you see, is something pleasant to take that without injury to your health will take the fat off uniformly and quickly, say at the rate of a pound a day or so, until it is all gone where you want it to go.

For this purpose nothing is less expensive, safer or simpler than Marmola Prescription Tablets. In expensive because one large case, costing 75 cents only, will produce results; safe because they cause no wrinkles or stomach trouble, but rather improve the health and complexion, if anything; and simple, because they do all the work without asking thought or effort on the part of the taker. In short, they are the Answer if you are fat and wish to be thinner. If your druggist is of the better kind he will have them. If not, write the licensees, The Marmola Company, Detroit, Mich.

MARKETING POULTRY.

From Farm and Dairy.

There are thousands of poultry keepers in hundreds of localities throughout America who would be directly benefited if they would co-operate in marketing their products. In many farming communities it is customary for farmers to help each other with work of various kinds, such as haying, harvesting, threshing, pig killing, etc.; it being found to their mutual advantage to apply their united efforts to the work on each place in turn, rather than for each to attempt his work unaided, or with the assistance of such help as could be obtained for the emergency.

A few years ago, in one of the western states, a poultry association was formed for the purpose of handling the poultry produce of its members. Its failure was said to be due to lack of capital. Lack of management would have been more correct, for no capital is needed for such an enterprise. Ten, fifteen, twenty, or more farmers or farmers' wives or daughters in a community might associate in shipping their eggs and poultry, the shipments being made by one of their number who should receive a moderate percentage on the goods of the others for the responsibility and extra work put upon him.

By combining their produce they would be able to grade their stuff much better than individual shippers generally do. Shipping to a reliable house they would get returns promptly. In the case of failure to which we allude, the trouble seemed to be that all the other members wanted the few in control to pay them cash on delivery for their eggs and poultry. The plan we suggest, says a correspondent, simply makes one member the agent of the others, to receive and ship their stuff and pay to each his share of the returns. This would mean that the members must wait a short time for their money, not a great hardship when the better prices to be thus obtained are considered. The idea is worth investigating.—F. C. E.

What do we have to depend upon to be successful in the rearing of poultry? Common sense. No matter what the circumstances are, surely one can form some opinion after a little thought, whether his poultry has too much of this or too little of that, or enough, taking it all in all. If he can not do this he has no business with poultry. We are given a talent, so let's rely on common sense.

We can make money at most anything if we only use our brains. And this truth is as applicable to poultry as to any other industry. The poultryman who uses his brains the most—in thinking how best to breed, care for and sell his poultry, is the one who will in the end make the most of it. There is money in poultry, but you cannot make it unless you copiously use common sense.—F. C. E.

ABOUT NEW ZEALAND CHEESE.

From Farm and Dairy.

The report of the Dairy Division for New Zealand for the year ending March 31st, 1908, has just been received. In view of the fact that New Zealand cheese has become a more important factor in the market the matter contained in this report is of interest to Canadians. Climatic conditions have interfered with the production of dairy products there as well as in Canada. One is surprised to find that they have severe winters there. The following extract has a familiar ring about it:

"A severe winter left the cows in a condition which was not the best for starting the spring's work. With many cows calving while in poor condition at the beginning of the season this important result (maximum production) was largely lost to a number of farmers. The cold, wet spring was unfavorable for the early regaining of depleted strength and vitality, and, as a consequence, cows were a long time in becoming capable of their best work."

The high prices current during the earlier half of the year under review were the means of influencing many creameries to make cheese instead of butter. Provided cheese prices keep in advance of butter more cheese will continue to be made. During the season butter prices advanced to a high point for about a week, which tended to create a feeling that the change to cheese had been ill-advised. But the price of butter returned to the former level and this feeling has subsided. We gather from the trend of this report that so long as conditions as to the values of cheese and butter remain as they were during 1907-1908 New Zealand will continue to convert a large share of her milk products into cheese rather than into butter.

The total quantity of butter exported for the year was 259,959 cwt. valued at £1,449,271, a decrease of 49,360½ cwt. in quantity and £212,032 in value compared with the year previous. The exports of cheese amounted to 291,617 cwt. valued at £908,873, an increase of 115,238 cwt. in quantity and £345,930 in value over the year previous. Taking the two together, New Zealand's dairy exports increased in value, £133,898 over the year ending March 31st, 1907. There were 41 new registrations of cheese-factories during the year.

GLASSES ARE PLENTIFUL

But it is almost a certainty that they would be even more common still if everybody wore them who should. You find people doing without them just as long as they possibly can, which is a very wrong thing to do, indeed, every day makes the case harder to deal with. If you, Reader, have the slightest cause to believe that your eyes need the attention of an Optician, we shall be pleased to advise you if you need glasses, and if glasses are not necessary we will tell you so. We invite you to call and ask us about your eyes.

TORONTO EVANGELIST WHO RESCUED ERRING WOMAN IS WELL KNOWN IN THIS CITY

Gained a Fortune—Story Reads Like an Extract From a Romantic Novel—Big Home to be Established in Toronto.

A VERY UNUSUAL CASE.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Because he went, Bible in hand, into a "dive" in Chicago and rescued a beautiful young Australian woman from the life of shame which she was leading, David S. Kidd, of 17 Lennox avenue, this city, is to receive a fortune, and the City of Toronto a home for fallen women, to be called the Burn Memorial. An option has already been taken on a piece of property on College street, and Architect Rattray is at work on the plans for one of the most beautiful rescue homes on the continent.

David Kidd, the lame tea salesman, has been widely known throughout the city for many years. Particularly in evangelistic circles is he a familiar figure, and for a long time he has been one of the strong men of the gospel movements.

It was two years ago that he fell upon the adventure which has made his fortune and given Toronto a notable benefaction. Kidd had gone to Chicago to visit his brother, Arthur S. Kidd, and after spending a few days in the city he started down town to see the sights. As he was roaming about the city, it occurred to him to look into the Chicago headquarters of the Order of Chosen Friends. He is a member of the Canadian section. He started for a directory and first sought out Siegel Cooper's departmental store. After an exasperating quarter of an hour seeking the office where he might find the desired book, he turned to the street door determined to look elsewhere. Just across Congress street, in the corner of State street, stood a fine looking building, for all the world like a real estate broker's office. Taking it for something of the sort, he crossed the street and went in. It proved to be Bowes and Manning's saloon, still a somewhat notorious resort in Chicago. The barkeeper directed him to an inner room where he would find the book he wanted. Entering, Kidd found himself in the palm garden of the saloon.

The Turning of a Life

At a table sat a girl of twenty-two or thereabouts dressed in all the glaring finery of her class. She turned to him wearily.

"Are you going to buy a drink?" she asked.

Kidd looked at her for a moment; then he quoted the words of Christ to the woman of Samaria:

"Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again; but whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life."

Drawing from his pocket the testament which he always carries wherever he goes, Kidd sat down at the table and read to the girl the 24th chapter of Luke.

In the hour that followed she told him something of her life, while Kidd read and talked to her. Finally they went away together to a restaurant, where he bought her a dinner.

"My dear girl," he said, when they had finished, "where is your mother?"

She started to cry, and bit by bit he succeeded in piecing out her story. Her name was Lucy Burn, and her parents lived in Australia, where her father was quite wealthy. She had an aunt in Pittsburg, and there she promised to go that very night. The missioner gave her his card and said good-bye, never expecting to hear from her again.

Favoured by Millionaire's Will

That was in the summer of 1907. That fall he heard from her. Her father had come to America on business and found his daughter in Pittsburg, dying of consumption. He made a fruitless trip with the girl to Florida in the hope of saving her life, but she died last July. The father went back to Australia a few weeks later and in September he died.

He was twice a millionaire, and in his will was the sum of a quarter of a million dollars for the founding and support of a home for women, and a handsome bequest to David S. Kidd.

Letters have come telling of the last hours of Lucy Burn, and the gratitude her whole family owed to the man who had rescued her. The mother and brother are living in Australia at the present time and they are continually writing to Kidd. The will is to be probated in a few weeks and full financial arrangements made for the building of the memorial home.

Mr. Kidd, the hero of the above story, is well known in Peterborough, having visited Mr. "Daddy" Taylor several times. He was born near Baltimore, and has many friends in that district.

CENTENARY OF HORATIUS BONAR

Will Likely be Celebrated in all the Churches Next Sunday.

Next Sunday is the centenary of the birth of Horatius Bonar, one of the celebrated hymn writers of the middle years of the past century, and a movement is on foot to celebrate the occasion by special song service next Sunday night. Rev. H. J. Keith has made the announcement that a special service will be held at Knox Church in honour of the anniversary, and it is believed that other churches will do likewise, and make the arrangement general throughout the city churches.

ALBERTA GUIDE FOUND SKELETONS OF HIS BROTHERS IN THE SNOW

They Had Been Killed for Their Gold According to the Generally Accepted Theory—A Wonderful Story From Edmonton.

A GHASTLY DISCOVERY.

Edmonton, Feb. 13.— Charles McLeod an Edmonton man, who, while guiding a party of prospectors through northern wilds in the vicinity of Nahanna River, accidentally stumbled over the skeletons of his two murdered brothers, has arrived here.

The finding of the bones as told by the brother, reads like a book of fiction. McLeod, one evening, after making camp, discovered beside the tree under which he was, the remains of a camp fire. Curious as to who might have preceded him he scraped away the ashes and discovered an inscription on the tree and the date "May 1905," and the initials of the two brothers. Later on one of the party cut his foot and the rest pushed on a few miles to make camp. When the injured man's wounds were dressed he caught up and reported that in the brush under a large tree he had found the skeletons of two men.

McLeod's fears were aroused. He hastened back, and in an hour came on the remains. Investigation revealed the fact that the heads of the two men had been cut off and removed. The clothing had completely rotted away, the bones only being left. In the vicinity he found his brother Frank's watch and ring. In looking over the camp he found another blazed tree on which very little carving was legible, but it showed that the men had been killed at least three years.

One of the skeletons had its breastbone shattered, the appearance indicating that the man had been shot with a rifle while reclining on a pile of blankets. Near the base of the tree were carved words which would mean a fortune if deciphered. These words related to the location of valuables, but the murderers not only had taken care to remove every article from the victim's clothes, but also felled and blazed the trees in such a manner as to make most of the carving unintelligible. Near by McLeod found a small shaft from which Indians of late had taken gold. The Indians, however, claimed they had opened this themselves. Weir, the companion of the two men, is still unaccounted for. Mounted police are investigating, and will be sent north.

Wolves Are Plentiful Near Apsley Have Been Killing Off The Deer

Examiner Special.

Apsley, Feb. 15th—Wolves are very plentiful in the vicinity of Lake and Serpentine Lakes, more so than for many years past and are frequently heard from the village at night. They are making havoc with the deer which have wintered in considerable numbers in this neighbourhood. Many of our hunters are trying to poison them but they do not seem to take bait when they can get so much fresh warm meat. An old woodsman told me he believed they had killed more deer in a circle of 10 miles of Apsley than all the hunters put together did last fall, and the end of winter is yet a long way off. Mr. Gery Coones poisoned one a few days ago and Mr. Neil Whitmore shot a large one last week.

Three Accidents Of Similar Nature In The Townships To The North

Examiner Special.

Apsley, Feb. 15—The slippery condition of every place since the late thaw and frost has been responsible for a number of accidents. Last week Mr. D. C. Breen of Chandos, while unloading logs, slipped and fell striking against the end of a log and fracturing one of his ribs. On Tuesday Mr. Si McFadden fell on the ice at Eels Lake and fractured two ribs and the same evening Mr. Jos Roberts while taking his horses to water fell and fractured his left arm above the wrist.

YOUNG MILLBROOK WOMAN IS DEAD

Mrs. John Clark Passed Away on Friday Afternoon—Funeral To-day.

An esteemed resident of the vicinity of Millbrook passed away on Friday afternoon at four o'clock in the person of Emmaline Clark, wife of Mr. John McKnight. Last spring the deceased contracted a cold which developed tubercular trouble. About two weeks ago Mrs. McKnight caught a severe cold which resulted in her death.

The family is one of the most highly respected in Cavan and general sympathy has been extended by a large number of friends. Mr. John Clark is the father of the deceased, but her mother has preceded her to the grave.

Thirteen years ago Mr. McKnight celebrated his marriage and at the time of her death his wife was 33 years of age. One child, a boy, named Fred, blessed the marriage. Rev. Robt. McKnight, a former minister of Peterborough, but now of the Northwest, is a brother of Mr. John McKnight. The funeral was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, two miles north of Millbrook to the Presbyterian Cemetery.

Story From the Gladman Party of an Exciting Experience.

Treed by a moose is the news contained in a letter received by Mr. William Snowden from Mr. Arthur Blade who is with the Gladman party in the Gowganda district. Not very many details are given of the affair by Mr. Blade, but the impression is conveyed that the experience was quite a novel one.

The party have gone out to prospect and the first reports are quite favourable.

THE ISOLATION HOSPITAL.

Our city authorities may be called upon to justify their neglect to build or provide an isolation hospital. The conditions created by their failure to act are becoming intolerable. In every large population centre contagious diseases are present the year round, with a decided increase of prevalence in the autumn and winter months. This is the condition obtaining now. We have had a few cases of diphtheria; and scarlet fever exists in a sporadic, if not epidemic, form. And the latter is more or less likely to become the case, owing to imperfect provisions for isolation, the only effective means of prevent- the spread of an infectious disease. Not only is there danger of the spread of the disease, with possible fatalities, but the inconvenience to which citizens are subjected, is to be seriously considered. There is no isolation hospitals to which to send patients—the general hospitals properly closing their doors to such cases. If the patient is treated at home the home is subjected to a long quarantine, and the bread winner or winners, become prisoners or are compelled to leave their homes and lodge elsewhere, or they are debarred from following their usual occupations. In these days of general employment, several members of the household may be bread winners, The situation created is most vexatious, and if a contagious disease becomes widely epidemic, may result in grave business loss, as it certainly imposes loss and inconvenience upon the households affected. Much, if not nearly all, of this loss and inconvenience, not to speak of the spread of the disease, certain suffering and possible death would be removed if we had an isolation hospital in operation. What are our city fathers thinking about?

The only effective way of doing things is to do them. Trusting to luck is, in some cases, criminal weakness.

FOREST INFLUENCES.

The subject of conserving national resources is taking on a continental aspect which tends to give deepened emphasis to the importance of the subject. In Great Britain it necessarily becomes varied or rather restricted to one of the phases of the question which attach to it in Canada—reforestation. If we adopt conservation measures in regard to our forest growth and at the same time devote the proper degree of attention to reforesting, we shall in the immediate, as well as distant future reap abundant reward in many ways—climatic modification, more equable rainfall, steadier water flow, and last but perhaps not least, the aesthetic advantages in the beautifying effect of forest growths and tree areas of lesser density, lending a charm to the landscape and contributing an element of beauty afforded by nothing else. One result of the destruction of forest growth is its effect on water supply. The removal of the forest reservoirs, from which the water resulting from rainfalls can filter out slowly, maintaining a steady flow during the dry months leads, as is well known, to wasteful and sometimes destructive floods in which the water that should be stored, rushes out in spring to the sea, leaving water dearth at the season, when under natural or restored conditions of conservation there would be a regular and uniform flow. This waste of water can only be remedied in two ways—one is the slower way of reforestation and conservation of forest growth, the other is by the more speedy, but expensive way of preservation by the erection of artificial reservoirs. In this district this matter is under the jurisdiction of the Dominion Government which, by arrangement with the province, has assumed control of the waters in the Trent Valley Watershed. Elsewhere in Ontario the waters are under Provincial jurisdiction, and to the Province naturally falls the duty of making such provisions—artificial and forestaric. Not only because it has the authority but it is in a sense in duty bound to do so. The removal of the forest growth in course of lumbering operations is largely responsible for the conditions demanding artificial conservation. The Provincial treasury has profited to the extent of between forty and fifty millions by the exploitation of our timber resources. It thus becomes the duty, one would think, of the Provincial authorities to give compensation for the injury to our water flow by which it has so largely profited and by which industrial and navigation interests are suffering and are likely to suffer. The past season of exceptional drouth, with no natural reservoirs to hold back and slowly distribute water, our industries have languished, factories have had to close down, men have been thrown out of employment and consequently merchants and business men and all commercial interests have correspondingly suffered. The low level of water in our lakes has made necessary the expenditure of large sums for dredging operations, and by the Government which has not reaped revenue from the destruction of forest growth which has made such expenditures obligatory. Any one who will think will easily see how the destruction of forest growth brings in its wake a long train of disasters, creates loss and compels the expenditure of money to remedy conditions of which nature, but for man's interference would have prevented the creation. Our Governments, both Dominion and Provincial, should take to heart the lessons thrust upon us daily, and emphasized by the recent Forestry Conference in Toronto. Academic discussion is well enough in its way, but it doesn't plant trees and cover with beneficent growth our waste places. A beginning should be made and something practical be inaugurated on a scale not merely experimental but commensurate with the importance of the national interests involved. We should have better education on the subject of the sacredness of tree life, and of its value in all its wide-spreading aspects. It should be taught in our schools, preached from our pulpits. This is all the more necessary because we are still under the influence of a generation which, in its battle with the forest, to clear their lands for cultivation, came to regard trees as enemies to be ruthlessly destroyed. This sentiment which still exists to some extent, must be combatted and crushed if we would save the country from becoming a desert, as it will become in proportion as our forest growth is destroyed and unrestored.

Mr. Aubrey White, Deputy Minister of Lands and Forests, says the Province of Ontario has had a revenue of about fifty millions from its forests and mines.

CONSERVATION OF NATIONAL RESOURCES.

Earl Grey showed his sympathy with the objects for the consideration of which the special convention of the Canadian Forestry Association has been called, by attending in person to declare it open. The Governor-general has always been keenly alive to the necessity of conserving the national resources of the Dominion, and of subjecting private to public interests. This in theory every one is ready to admit. The difficulty has been and is to get the responsible authorities to make it a cardinal rule of their administration. Earl Grey noted that for the last 133 years the principle of uncontrolled individual enterprise had prevailed with selfish disregard to the public interest. "It is realized," he remarked, "that unless the people of the whole continent of North America adopt the principle of subjecting individual interests to those of the communuity, they must drift into a state of material as well as moral bankruptcy."

This is absolutely true, yet year after year passes without parliament or the legislature taking any electoral steps towards the establishment of a clear, well-established policy in the management of our great Canadian heritage. This is not due to any lack of knowledge. Expert opinion is practically a unit in declaring that the forest problem is grave and immediate, and that the nations are within measurable distance of a timber famine, which only the application of proper scientific methods will relieve and remove. And the fault is not so much the condition of public opinion as the apathy and indifference of the members of the Federal and Provincial Governments and Legislatures towards our national resources, and in many cases their direct connivance in aid of individual exploitation.

Properly regarded, wise and prudent regulation in the public interest offers no check to legitimate individual enterprise, rather does it encourage and stimulate it. Under the existing wasteful and improvident systems opportunities are afforded for making large speculative profits, to the detriment of genuine and productive industry. In matters of this kind public men should be in advance of popular opinion, and courageous enough to give effect to the principles they profess when themselves appealing for support to that opinion. More especially is it the duty of our Governments, Federal and Provincial, to take up seriously this great question of the conservation of our national resources in forests, minerals, water powers or whatever they may be. By pursuing a policy of foresight, guarded entirely by the public interest, the Dominion can be made the envy of the older nations. To continue the spendthrift and wasteful methods that have hitherto prevailed, is national suicide.—Toronto Star.

WHAT BEAUTIFUL HAIR!

How often do we hear that exclamation of a certain woman's hair or a certain man's hair.

A prominent scientist and hair specialist emphatically states, and has proven, that any man or woman can have luxuriant, lustrous hair, by using a famous prescription called Parisian Sage.

Parisian Sage is now made and sold in Canada. Wm. Madill, the druggist, is the agent in Peterborough, and th readers of the Examiner can buy from him for only 50 cents a large bottle.

Wm. Madill knows that Parisian Sage will beautify the hair, cure dandruff and stop falling hair, and that reason he sells it under a guarantee to cure or money back.

If you cannot obtain Parisian Sage where you live, you can get a bottle for 50 cents from Giroux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont., express charges prepaid.

PRESENTATION WAS MADE TO MISS MELVILLE

Lady Employees at R. Fair & Co. Said Farewell to One of Their Number

An interesting event took place in the R. Fair and Company's store on Saturday night when the young ladies of the down stair department took advantage of the opportunity to say farewell to Miss Hattie Melville who is leaving for the west, and to express to her the esteem in which she is held by them, in a tangible form. Miss Melville has been connected with the staff of the store for a long time and has always been most popular with her fellow employees. The five ladies who took part in the presentation were—Miss Thompson, Miss Mollie Laplante, Miss Whaley and Miss Logan.

Miss Melville was presented with a cross and chain and the following address,—

Dear Miss Melville,—

Having learned with the utmost regret of your intention to leave Peterborough and take up your residence in the West, we take this opportunity of showing you, in however slight a form our appreciation of your many lovable qualities, and of the pleasure which we have experienced in being associated with you so closely in our daily employment.

We are genuinely sorry that you are leaving us and leaving Peterborough, and are sure that in this feeling your many friends will heartily concur.

As a token of our affection and good will, we ask you to accept this cross and chain.

May it be a reminder to you in your Western home of the many friends whom you have left behind you, and in conjunction with whom you may rest assured we shall always carry in our hearts the kindest memories of yourself.

WOMAN'S POWER

The healthy woman; strong mentally and physically, whose ambition and magnetic influence urge men to deeds of grandeur and heroism; such women are all-powerful.

Weak, sick and ailing women have little ambition; their own troubles occupy all their thoughts. They dwell upon their pains, suffer from nervousness and headaches; often are extremely melancholy, and avoid society. For thirty years has been saving women from this awful condition.

Mrs. John Scott, 489 Grand Trunk St., Montreal, writes Mrs. Pinkham:

"I was very much run down in health from a female trouble, was thin, nervous, very weak, and suffered from bearing down pains. Indeed I did not care whether I lived or died.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me of all my troubles. I gained in flesh, and am free from backache, female trouble, sick headaches, and nervousness.

"I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all women's ailments."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.

For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Why don't you try it?

Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice.

LORD BERESFORD IS RETIRING

Admiral Steps Down and Channel Fleet Is Reorganized.

CONNAUGHT FOR IRELAND

King's Brother Is, According to Rumor, About to Take Over the Lord Lieutenancy — Winston Churchill Said to Be Anxious to Become First Governor-General of the South African Confederacy.

London, Feb. 15.—An interesting announcement was issued by the Admiralty last night.

Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, commander-in-chief of the channel fleet, will vacate this command March 24, when this fleet will disappear as the chief fighting unit of the first line of Great Britain's naval force. Henceforth the most important vessels of the channel fleet, under the command of Vice-Admiral Archibald Berkeley Milne, who is now second in command in the channel fleet, will form the second division of the main fleet under supreme command of Vice-Admiral Sir Wm. H. May, second sea lord of the Admiralty.

It is understood that this means the practical retirement of Admiral Lord Charles Beresford, and that he will be placed on half-pay. Lord Charles would have held the channel command for another year, retiring under the age limit in 1911, but the Government desired to group all the newest and best ships under Vice-Admiral May's command for home defence.

The most interesting rumor current on the eve of the session credits Winston Spencer Churchill with an eager desire to become the first Governor-General of the new federation in South Africa. If he succeeds Lord Selborne he will have a lucrative and showy office while the Liberal party is recruiting its exhausted energies against the Opposition benches. A war correspondent who escaped from a Boer prison will be a picturesque figure as the Governor-General of Confederated South Africa under the British crown. Those close to the Prime Minister assert that the appointment will probably be made in due time.

King Edward, after opening Parliament, is not likely to remain in England more than three weeks. A visit to Biarritz will be followed by a cruise in the Mediterranean.

Connaught For Ireland?

Dublin, Feb. 15.—The appointment of the Duke of Connaught to the Lord Lieutenancy of Ireland is the latest rumor in political circles. The Government is considering the advisability of this step, and it is known that the duke has intimated his willingness to accept the office if it is tendered him.

Up to now the office has been considered a political one, carrying with it a seat in the Cabinet, but it is urged that there is no sound reason why this policy should be continued and why it should not be on the same footing as the Governor-Generals of the self-governing colonies.

The Duke of Connaught has a considerable knowledge of Ireland and its affairs, having been commander-in-chief there for some years. Should the step be taken the Chief Secretary for Ireland would act as the chief representative in political affairs and the duties of the Lord Lieutenant would be almost entirely remodelled, being made purely of a formal and ceremonial character.

In addition the step would be a satisfactory one from the point of view of settling the vexed question of what to do with the duke. His position in the army as commander of Malta is one that the King does not think entirely befitting his brother, and in this view the duke himself joins.

KIDNEY DISEASE

COMES ON QUIETLY.

Perhaps no organs work harder than the kidneys to ... the general health of the body ... people are troubled with some kidney Complaint, but do not suspect ... may have been in the system for ... e. There may have been backaches, ... welling of the feet and ankles, disturbance ... of the urinary organs, such as brick dust deposit in the urine, highly colored scanty or cloudy urine, bladder pains, frequent or supressed urination, burning sensation when urinating, etc.

Do not neglect any of these symptoms, for, if neglected they will eventually lead to Bright's Disease, Dropsy and Diabetes.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of trouble, strengthen the kidneys and help them to filter the blood properly and flush off all the impurities which cause kidney trouble.

Miss Albertha B. Clarke, Stony Creek, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with kidney trouble for several years; my back was weak, I had such terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night and tried everything without any benefit. Meantime a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills, so I got four boxes and they completely cured me. I now feel as well as I ever did and would advise everyone suffering from Kidney Disease to try them."

Another Quake In Italy.

Messina, Feb. 15.—A severe earth shock, lasting six seconds, was felt here Saturday morning. It was preceded by loud subterranean roaring, causing the people to flee from their huts and houses. The panic was accentuated by falling walls of previously wrecked houses.

The shock was felt throughout eastern Sicily and along the northern coast, including Palermo.

Undertaker Spoils Suicide.

New York, Feb. 15.—The prompt appearance of the undertaker upset the plans of Frank Stevenson, a cloak salesman, to commit suicide.

The undertaker received a note from Stevenson to call for the body, and when he reached the apartment the salesman was found unconscious lying in bed with a gas tube in his mouth. Stevenson was taken to the hospital, where it was said he may recover.

A New Pneumonia.

Chicago, Feb. 15.—A new phase of pneumonia has attracted the attention of the Health Department recently. It attacks the nose and throat in a manner similar to diphtheria. It is not a new disease, but its nature and effects are becoming more fully recognized by physicians.

In Icy Waters Three Hours.

Port Simpson, B.C., Feb. 15.—With a companion, Arthur Flewin, 15, upset from a boat on Saturday morning. Walter Buentenzen held Flewin to the boat for three hours before they drifted ashore, but Flewin died from exposure.

Smuggling Opium.

New York, Feb. 15.—Three stewards of the steamship Kron Prinzessin Cecilie were arrested and locked up yesterday at Hoboken and more than $2,000 worth of opium and cocaine were seized and put in the custom house vaults.

Chauffeur Surrenders.

New York, Feb. 15.—The mystery surrounding the accident in which Mrs. Edwin S. McCook, wife of Gen. Edwin McCook, was knocked down by an automobile and fatally hurt, was cleared up when Walter Schurman, a chauffeur, surrendered himself to the police.

He declared he had accidentally run down Mrs. McCook, who had stepped in front of the machine. He had taken her to the home of Gen. McCook, and gave himself up when he learned of the seriousness of the accident.

Murder In Chili; Trial In Germany.

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 15.—The feeling against Chancellor Beckert of the German legation, who was arrested at Chilian on the charge of murdering a servant of the legation and afterwards setting fire to the building to hide the crime, is intense in Santiago, and an attempt may be made to lynch him.

Baron Von Bodeman, the German Minister, may exercise the right of sending Beckert to Germany for trial on the ground that the alleged crime was committed on German territory.

Situation In Liberia.

Washington, D.C., Feb. 15.—The State Department is considering the question of despatching an American war vessel to Liberia, where alarm is felt for the safety of British and French citizens employed in the customs service of the republic.

Already the British Government has despatched a war vessel to Monrovia and also a company of soldiers.

The present situation, according to official advices, may result in the passing of its 40,000 miles of territory into alien hands.

Moral Plays In England.

London, Feb. 15.—A noteworthy dramatic movement seems under way in villages and towns in England.

In a number of instances village folk and even country rustics have taken in hand the production of moral or Shakespearean plays. The inspiration of the movement probably is found in numerous pageants which have become the vogue.

Blew His Head Off.

Edmonton, Alba., Feb. 15.—Turning down the blankets of the bed, which he had been using and substituting his own, also, his own pillow, Alfred Edward Battliff, well dressed man about fifty-six years of age, placed the muzzle of a revolver in his mouth, and blew his head completely off.

Got Used the Lamp.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—Saturday night about 10 o'clock fire broke out in the upper part of the Webster Building, occupied by James Fisher and family, the occupants losing all. The lower part was rented by Wm. Gillespie as a grocery store. It is reported that a cat upstairs upset the lamp on a table.

Two Farmers Are Thrown From Cutter Near Brockville.

ONE ASLEEP; OTHER DEAD

Michael O'Connell and Henry Roswell of Kitsley Township Are Upset From Sleigh and One Falls on Top of the Other In Snowdrift—Roswell Was Asleep on O'Connell When Found.

Brockville, Feb. 15.—A fatality occurred yesterday in the Township of Kitley near Jasper. The victim was Michael O'Connell, aged 61, a prosperous farmer of that township.

He spent the evening in Jasper, leaving for home about 10 o'clock in the company of Henry Roswell. They were driving a single horse attached to a cutter and it is thought the horse shied, upsetting the cutter. Both men were thrown out, O'Connell being pushed face downwards into the snow, which at that point is quite deep, and the other man was lying on top of him. This is the supposition, for when Wm. Ferguson, a young man returning home from a party, discovered the mishap, such were the positions of the bodies. The horse was found lying in the ditch uninjured.

It was found that Roswell was asleep and O'Connell was dead. An examination of the body by Dr. Anderson, coroner of the district, showed that O'Connell had died of suffocation. There was no evidence of foul play and an inquest was deemed unnecessary. In the pockets of the deceased was found $41 in cash, a gold watch and a revolver. He lived alone and owned one of the best farms in Kitley.

Chinamen Hidden In Car.

Windsor, Feb. 15.—Workmen in the Grand Trunk yards discovered two Chinamen in a bonded car, attention being drawn to the fact that the seal was broken. The celestials were arrested and appeared in court on a charge of entering the car. They were allowed to go on suspended sentence, after paying $14 costs. United States immigration officers and local authorities declare this discovery proves that Windsor smugglers are in collusion with a band around Niagara Falls and Fort Erie. Certain it is, that a well organized gang is directing the operations of the "underground railway" at present.

Carrie Nation's Hope.

London, Feb. 15.—Before she shakes the dust of London from her elastic-sided boots, Mrs. Carrie Nation is going to try to see the Lord Mayor and she wants to visit Holloway Prison, though how that is to assist her in her campaign against whisky and cigarettes is hard to see. She has a great desire to see the King, but if she means by that a personal interview her wish is not likely to be gratified.

Then she announces that she is going "to have a try at the House of Lords."

Family's Misfortunes.

Port Arthur, Feb. 15.—Alfred Stohr left his home on Dawson road on Jan. 3 with three days' provisions to explore for land and has not been seen since. It is believed he became lost in the woods and perished.

Stohr was a highly educated Frenchman, having once been professor in a French college, and was fluent in five languages. Misfortune followed him from the time of the San Francisco earthquake, in which he lost practically all his means. He leaves a wife and three children destitute.

To Banquet Old-Timers.

Ottawa, Feb. 15.—The sixth annual banquet of the Canadian Club will be given in honor of surviving Senators and members of the first Parliament of the Dominion, including Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Sir Charles Tupper, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. Edward Blake, Sir John Carling, Hon. John Costigan, Hon. Senator William Miller, Hon. Senator William Ross, Hon. A. R. McClellan, Hon. James Young and Sir James Grant.

Enthuses Women.

London, Feb. 15.—One outcome of the play "An Englishman's Home," which all London is discussing, is an attempt to form a corps of territorial nurses. It is suggested that young society women tear a few hours away from bridge, learn the elements of nursing and form themselves into companies as part of a volunteer corps to be manned by their brothers and sweethearts. The idea is meeting with considerable encouragement.

FOR SICK CHILDREN

Mrs. Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Who Has Done So Much Good Among Sick Children of New York, Recommends Vinol.

"In my work among the destitute sick I give Vinol in many cases where it would be impossible to give cod liver oil in any other form, on account of the extreme weakness of the patient's stomach. I have known Vinol to restore appetite and infuse new life in many cases of sick women and children when everything else failed. Little children seem to delight in taking Vinol."

The reason Vinol is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions is because it contains all the medicinal, body building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers with the disagreeable oil eliminated and tonic iron added.

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, weak women, delicate children, after sickness and for all pulmonary troubles, Vinol is recommended by over 5,000 of the leading druggists of the United States. Your money will be returned on demand if Vinol fails to benefit. McDermid and Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte sts. also Payne's Drug Store, corner of George and Simcoe sts.

Annual Banquet Of Printers Was Very Successful Affair

Held on Saturday Night at Jacobi Bros. New Restaurant—Visiting Printers From Mail and Empire Were Guests—The Post Prandial Speeches and Music.

MR. CHAS. REID PRESIDED

The annual banquet of the Peterborough Typographical Union was held on Saturday evening at Jacobi Bros. new restaurant, and although informal it was one of the most enjoyable that the printers have ever assembled at. The occasion was of double importance. Besides being the gathering at the annual spread, a most cordial welcome was extended to the members of the visiting Bowling Club representing the Mail and Empire of Toronto. It has been truly said that whatever the printers undertake, it is bound to be a success. Their picnic in the summer is the envy of all the others and their banquet enjoys a corresponding measure of success. About sixty of the members of the craft sat down to Jacobi Bros' first banquet in Peterborough, and in their first week in the city. The courses provided exceedingly pleasant surprises, and many complimentary remarks have since been passed in reference to the excellence of the food, the care in its preparation and the effective manner in which it was served. The new firm's first efforts surpassed expectations and will assure a large share of the future affairs of this kind.

At the conclusion of Part 1. of the programme, the satisfying of the demands of the inner man, a toast list interspersed with songs and stories was thoroughly enjoyed. Mr. Chas. Reid, President of the Union, was chairman, and met the various requirements of that position in a capable manner. The toast to the King was honoured in the usual manner. Mr. Reid on behalf of the Printers welcomed the members of the Mail team to the city, expressing the hope that they would enjoy their visit.

The toast to the Craft was proposed by the chairman and responded to by Mr. Chas. Brownlee who in a few appropriate words reviewed the progress made in printing and dwelt on its condition at the present time.

Mr. J H Burnham and Chas. Sawle replied to the toast to the scribes.

The Visitors, was a popular toast and was heartily drunk. It was responded to by Messrs. Hanson, Walker and McDonald, of the Mail and Empire Bowling team, each of whom was loud in his expressions of appreciations of the hospitality of Peterborough's printers. The day had been a most pleasant one and the banquet almost overwhelmed them. They hoped to have the opportunity of, at some time, returning the favour and thus cementing the fraternal ties that should exist, thereby increasing the potency of the unions.

Sister Organizations, had coupled with it the name of Mr. Burton, of Toronto, organizer of the Brass Workers' Union. He had a few compliments for the typos on the strength and progressiveness of their union, and was pleased to have been invited to the banquet.

The committee who arranged the banquet was next honoured. Messrs. D. Dobbin, Geo. Cairns and Ernie Bartlett were responsible for the success of the banquet and responded to the toast in appropriate remarks.

Our Employers, was one of the toasts which was respectfully drunk. Mr. F Dobbin made a humorous reply in his characteristic style.

The toast to the Ladies was proposed by Mr. Reid and responded to by Mr. Burnham.

Mr. Jacobi made a grateful reply to the toast of Our Host. He hoped that the service had met with approval and that he might be called upon again at the next annual function.

Songs and piano music were supplied during the evening and added greatly to the success of the affair. Those contributing were Mr. Jas. Browne, Mr. Myland, Mr. Galbraith, Mr. R Robertson and Harry Theobald. Mr. Geo. Schneider played the accompaniments.

Gospel Temperance Meeting In The Crystal On Sunday

The interest taken in the local option contest in Peterborough was shown yesterday afternoon by the fact that in spite of the stormy weather the temperance meeting, held in the Crystal, was well attended.

Unspoken Statements

"When men like our chairman," said Rev. Mr. Riddiford, of the Park Street Baptist Church, "come forward and take a stand on this question, it is a sign that the liquor traffic is doomed. All we need is the assistance of influential men, men controlling the financial institutions of the country, to drive it out. The truest and highest sentiments men can follow are those that come from the seat of the affections. When the liquor sellers take our brothers and cast them down into the gutter I say that it is time for us to take steps to save our brothers by banishing that which is the cause of their downfall."

After Money Only

"If we could take the twenty-one men in Peterborough who sell liquor," continued Rev. Mr. Riddiford, "and stand them up here in a row, and were we to ask them why they are in the business they would tell us that they sell liquor for the sake of the money there is in it.

"Local option is a success, but the men who do not want it won't see it and there are none so blind as those who will not see. In spite of all that has been said to the contrary it is proving a success in Owen Sound. Every consistent church member in Owen Sound is in favour of it.

The Threefifths Vote

"The government in Toronto, I believe, is doing its best to enforce the liquor law. Nevertheless, it made a mistake when it enacted that legislation which requires a threefifths majority to carry local option. It is an unjust restriction and as British subjects we should object to it. When the deputation, composed of liquor men men from all parts of the province, waited on the government to ask for favourable legislation, they should have sung the song, 'See the Hosts of Sin Advancing, Satan Leading On.'

Should Defend Themselves

"I would like to see the hotel keepers of Peterborough come here to defend themselves. (When I was at the Peterborough Fair last fall I did not see any exhibit by the hotel keepers, although there were exhibits there by our merchants and farmers. The hotel keepers did not make an exhibit of their products at the St. Louis Exposition. They are ashamed of it. They try to keep it out of sight. Those who see the products of the saloons are the wives and children who wait at home for their drunken fathers and husbands to come staggering, or perhaps, falling, in. There are hotels in Peterborough where wives have gone and pleaded with the proprietors for permission take their drunken husbands home.

Intimidating the Milkmen

"Already we hear that some of the milkmen have been told by hotel keepers that they won't buy their milk if they support local option. A cause that cannot win without resorting to intimidation does not deserve to win. It is not fair play for one man to try to force another to vote for him. Men who have any spirit will resist such attempts to gain their support.

The Christian's Duty

"Every man who believes in Jesus Christ believes in temperance. He must or he does not believe in Christian principles. How many here believe that Jesus Christ would conduct a bar room? How many believe that Christ would support the liquor traffic and all the misery that follows in its train? If we are Christians we must go out with Christian principles and not be afraid to show our colours on such a question as this for fear of losing a few business dollars. The Bible tells us to seek first the Kingdom of God and that if we do all things will be added unto us. If every Christian voter in Peterborough will go to the poll and cast his vote right we will drive the bar out of Peterborough.

Pulling us Down

"Too long we have allowed the liquor interests to drag us down to their level by claiming that if we vote to do away with the bars we will lose the money that is derived from them, or that our business will suffer. We must not lower our Christian principles by listening to such arguments. If we will only live up to our Christian principles we will never allow such considerations to affect us and we will take our stand on the question as Christians should.

Liquor Statistics

"If you will look up the liquor statistics for last year you will see why the liquor traffic should be driven out of Peterborough. This is a matter in which our Lord, like Nelson of old, expects every Christian to do his duty. From the youngest to the oldest we must do our best to drive the saloons out of this city. (Applause).

Women Will Have Charge

Next Sunday afternoon the service will be in charge of the ladies. Mrs. Dr. Scott will preside. Five minute addresses will be given by ladies representing the different churches. All women having votes are to be especially invited to attend. There will be an orchestra in attendance. At the meeting yesterday afternoon a duet was rendered by Messrs. F. and J. Miller.

READ A PAPER ON RICHARD SHIEL

Rev. Father Galvin Delighted the Members of the T. A. S. Ladies' Literary Society.

AN ENJOYABLE MEETING.

A literary treat was given the members of the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T.A.S., on Friday evening, when Rev. Father Galvin gave them an exceptionally interesting address on the life and, incidentally, the times of Richard Lalor Shiell, one of the greatest Irish orators of the 19th century. He was not the greatest man of his time, as he lived in the days of the famous Daniel O'Connell, but he was a politician of the very first rank, and his labours in behalf of the Irish people place him as one of the greatest of Irish patriots. He was born on the 16th of August in the year 1791, the year which is marked by the organization of The United Irishman, a society whose aim was the bettering of the conditions of the Irish people. Shell's early education was received from a French priest who had been forced to flee from his country during the French Revolution, but later attended a school at Kensington, then entered Stonyhurst College, where he decided to study law. In 1807, when 16 years of age, he entered Trinity College, Dublin, to begin his law studies but before he graduated his father failed and he was forced to rely upon himself for an education, and for some time followed up literature. He wrote dramas which were considered great successes and won for him a considerable sum of money — £2,000.

In 1814 he was admitted to the bar, but was soon attracted to the political arena, and strange to say, for years after he entered it he opposed the great O'Connell. However, O'Connell was opposed for a number of years by the best part of the Irish nation; they did not oppose the objects he had in view, but his method of obtaining them. In 1832 a change was effected, and Shell and O'Connell joined forces. Such was the impression produced by Mr. Shell that he was selected in 1825, conjointly with Mr. O'Connell, to attend at the bar of the House of Commons to plead against the Bill for the suppression of the Catholic Association. Just at this time the Duke of York, who was then heir to the English throne, declared in the House of Lords that if he became King of England, he would never consent to the emancipation of the Irish people. At this, Shell became indignant and his fierce assault on the Duke of York was very prejudicial to himself, but it afforded strong evidence of the violent resentment which the conduct of the Duke of York had created in Ireland, and was, so far, of public use. When, however, the death of the young Duke was hourly expected, Mr. Shell made a speech in which he expressed his sorrow that he had been betrayed into language so reprehensible as that which he had employed.

In 1831 Shell was elected representative for the borough of Milbourne Port and delivered his first speech in the House of Commons on the Reform Bill. In 1832 he was returned for the County of Tipperary, and made himself famous by his speeches against the Coercion Bill. In 1841 he changed the constituency which he represented and presented himself as candidate for Dungarvan, which he represented until retiring from Parliament in 1850. During these years he delivered his most eloquent speeches — his speech upon the Income Tax being regarded as eminently successful. He pleaded the cause of Ireland in strong terms and succeeded in winning valuable concessions for the Irish people. In 1851 Mr. Shell was appointed Plenipotentiary at the Court of Tuscany, but died rather suddenly at Florence on the 25th of May, and was buried in the Church of San Michele. Richard Lalor Shell's speeches were masterpieces and in all the qualities which go to make up a true patriot, he was not deficient.

During the evening Miss Kate M. McGrath occupied the chair and presented the following musical programme:—

1. Instrumental Duet, Misses H. Miller and V. Fraser.
2. Solo, Miss Gertie Holmes.
3. Vocal Solo, Miss V. Devlin.

God save the King.

The next paper will be read by Miss Mamie Theobald on February 26th.

MR. MILLER'S SOLO WAS ENJOYED

Last night the congregation of George street Methodist church enjoyed a rare musical treat. Mr. Beverley Miller, the well known local 'Tenor Robusto' rendered Dudley Buck's musical setting of 'Fear Not O Israel' at the special service. The singer, Mr. Miller, is possessed of a splendid vibrant tenor voice which he showed to great advantage. It was particularly effective in the recitative passage which he declaimed with true dramatic force. It is generally hoped that Mr. Miller may make arrangements whereby he may become a permanent resident of the city, and incidentally a continued addition to Peterborough musical circles.

HAS TAKEN PROCEEDINGS TO UPSET THE ELECTION IN DOURO

Ex-Reeve Moloney Has Taken an Affidavit and Judge Weller Issues a Fiat in the Matter.

HEARD ON FEBRUARY 25.

Ex-Reeve D. Moloney, of Douro, began steps on Saturday to upset the election of present Reeve Moher, and the case is arousing some discussion especially among the people of the township affected. Mr. Moher defeated Mr. Moloney at the January election by a comparatively small majority.

The protest entered charges that bribery was used in the fight and Mr. Moloney and his friends claim to have several cases which, if proven, they state will be sufficient not only to unseat, but also disqualify Mr. Moher.

The procedure in such a case differs from that in a protest in the Dominion, or Provincial election. The complainant has to take an affidavit as to the charges and also has to furnish bonds. Then application is made to the county judge to issue a fiat and a notice of motion is made and served on the defendant. After eight days have elapsed the case may be tried and in this instance His Honour Judge Weller has named February 25th, as the date for hearing the case in the county court.

Mr. Moloney has entered the protest and Judge Weller issued his fiat on Saturday while Mr. Moher will be served with the notice at once.

REV. J. J. WRIGHT GOES TO GOWGANDA DISTRICT TO ESTABLISH CHURCH

Rev. J. J. Wright, B A., son of Mr. Stewart Wright, Hunter street, east, left to-day for Elk City to establish the work of the Presbyterian church in the new silver district. His duties will be to look over the field with a view to choosing the best place for location, this matter being left at his own discretion. He reports that there are some 7000 miners in that section and he will settle at the most thickly populated place but will devote his attention to both Elk City and Gowganda. It will be remembered that Mr. Wright was a missionary to the Yukon some years ago, where he spent five years during which he established a very strong church at Dawson City. He was called home owing to the illness of his father, and during the past three years has represented the Queen's University Endowment fund. Mention was made at St. Andrew's church last night by Rev. J. G. Potter in regard to Rev. Mr. Wright's departure and his efforts in the New Ontario region will be watched with interest by his many Peterborough friends.

New Catholic Church In The South End To Be Ready By August

The Church of the Sacred Heart, the new Catholic Church in the south end, will be ready for service by the first of August, according to the statement of one of the contractors. It will be rushed to completion in order that this may be accomplished, and even now the work is well advanced. The new church will seat about one thousand and will be be almost as large as St. Peter's.

There has been some discussion among the people of the south end as to what priest will be placed in charge of the new parish, but it is not known what Bishop O'Connor's intentions are in this respect. When the church is occupied there will then be two parishes within the city's limits. It is understood that a house will be provided for the priest who will have charge of the south end parish and will be built on the same lot as the church. These latter details have yet to be determined.

THE CUCUMBER ORANGE WONDER

New Vegetable the Result of Several Years work—Possesses Qualities of Fruit and Vegetable.

HOW IT WAS SECURED.

Boston, Feb. 13.— Outdoing the wizard Burbank, a New England man has produced a vegetable which is a cross between a cucumber and an orange.

The new cucumber is fine grained, delicious in taste and of a perfect yellow colour, and it was produced by crossing the blossom of a cucumber and an orange, by Howard S. Hill, of Gardiner.

"I had an orange and a cucumber one day and without thought mixed together some of the pulp of the two," tells Mr. Hill. "The product was mostly cucumber, but the orange gave it a most delectable flavour.

"Instantly the idea came to mind to blend the two into one growth. Then I began my experiments. The first year the product of my cucumber vine changed slightly in colour. The second year they took on the almost round shape of the orange. It was a navel plant with which I was conducting my experiments, and the navel showed perfectly the third year, at which time the cucumber took the perfect round shape; the spines, or little prickles dropped off and the cucumber had the unmistakable orange flavour.

"I picked the cucumber-orange ten weeks after planting. From a single vine I had five perfect ones.

"The cucumber-orange is of goodly size, even larger than an orange. On the inside of it, nearest the skin, it is mostly orange, and has the little cells similar to that fruit. The centre of the orange-cucumber is the same as that of a cucumber, but the seeds are not like either an orange or a cucumber.

"At the present time, at the end of the third year, I have upward of sixty seeds, and propose to raise all these when I put my next crop into the ground. I hope soon to raise seedless cucumber-oranges.

"Some time ago I made experiments along this line and did produce a seedless cucumber, but at the end of the year, when I had to take up my crop, I found myself at the point where I started, for there were no seeds to plant. It was a contingency I had not reckoned with, and I thought the joke was rather on me.

"My cucumber-orange has a sweet taste not unlike that of a fully ripe orange.

"The ordinary cucumber matures in about eight weeks; it took my cucumber-orange from ten to twelve weeks to grow fully."

WALKING ON BED OF NIAGARA RIVER

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Feb. 15.—Only a tiny rivulet, not deep nor swift enough to carry a pulp log over the brink, is flowing over the American side of Niagara Falls. A strong northeast wind which has blown since Friday has driven back the water and allowed the ice to gain a foothold. Two employees of the American reservation walked from Prospect Point nearly to Bath Island yesterday morning. They did not complete the trip merely because they did not care to get their feet wet, a stream at one place being a few inches above the tops of their boots.

A great wall of ice runs from the head of Goat Island to the American mainland, through which only tiny streams are able to trickle. This wall has even encroached on the Canadian channel, extending out some 200 feet beyond the third Sister Island, and greatly diminishing the flow over the horseshoe. Only the very apex of the Canadian Falls is left, and that is robbed of half its flow.

The gorge below is choked and the rapids have lost their fury, while the whirlpool is barely in motion.

This is only the third time that this combination of wind and ice has thus affected the falls since the white man came here. The other occasions were March 29, 1848, and March 22, 1903.

A New Deep Channel.

Washington, Feb. 15.—A deep water channel from Chicago to Buffalo vis the Soo, is in contemplation. In a few days a measure will be introduced in Congress providing, in brief, for the complete survey and perhaps for the construction of such a waterway.

Behind the project are practically all of the shipping, manufacturing and laboring interests on the great lakes.

Contracts already have been let for the construction of a lock at the "Soo," which will accommodate three of the largest vessels on the lakes at one time. The depth of water over the sills of the new lock will be 26 feet and the cost of the project will be approximately $7,000,000.

Hon. Mr. Templeman Busy.

Vancouver, B.C., Feb. 15.—Hon. Wm. Templeman, who returned yesterday from Prince Rupert, declared that public improvements in the north would be taken up without delay.

After obtaining the views of Canadians in the fishing industry, he stated that he was quite alive to the necessity of a more adequate fisheries protection in northern waters. He promised his hearty support to any scheme tending to make Vancouver one of the best and safest ports on the Pacific, and urges the sending of a deputation to Ottawa. He advocates the establishment of harbor commission.

Quakes to Continue Two Years.

Reggio, Feb. 15.—Earth shocks, more or less severe, have been experienced here throughout the day.

Saturday evening Prof. Alfani, the director of the Florence observatory, while just about to step into a train for Naples was thrown violently to the ground by what seemed to be an unusually severe shock. Peasants rushed to assist him to his feet and they anxiously enquired concerning the dangers of further earthquakes, and he replied:

"Be calm, my children, that was a 'quake of the fifth degree. You must not be frightened by these shocks, for we will have them for two years more."

Censor For Phonographs.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 15. The censorship in Russia has been extended to phonograph records, which must be submitted for examination before being placed on sale.

The step was entailed by the importation of a large number of records bearing the prohibited Russian revolutionary funeral hymn and other seditious songs and speeches, many being prepared in America. These, the police discovered, were being played generally in the lower class beer and tea halls, most of which have instruments for the entertainment of their patrons.

Mr. Fielding Arrives.

...wa, Feb. 15.—Hon. W. S ... ing reached Halifax from Europe yesterday. He will probably not be in Ottawa until Wednesday.

A ROYAL MATCH.

Manuel of Portugal May Marry the Princess Beatrice.

Villa Viscosa, Portugal, Feb. 15.—The visit of King Alfonso of Spain to King Manuel came to a close yesterday afternoon. The only incident to mar the pleasant stay was the precautionary arrest by the police of two suspects, to which, however, no importance attaches.

Before his departure King Alfonso conferred upon King Manuel the order of Charles III. He received in turn from his host the collar of the order of the Tower and Sword.

Although not yet conferred in official quarters, the entire press of Portugal states that the royal interview between King Alfonso and King Manuel related chiefly to the projected marriage of King Manuel to Princess Beatrice, daughter of the late Duke of Edinburgh and niece of King Edward. Such a marriage is favorably commented upon by the whole country, the opinion being that it would greatly strengthen the bonds of friendship between Great Britain and Portugal and consolidate British influence in the whole peninsula.

Great interest has been aroused in the banquet and ball to be given on Feb. 17, by Sir Francis H. Villiers, the British Minister to Portugal, in honor of King Manuel.

Toronto, Feb. 15.—The storm yesterday came from the southwest. It originated in New Mexico, passed eastward from Arizona on Saturday over the middle States and entered Canada at Lake Erie. The wind increased in violence during the day, and made unfortunate pedestrians feel the stinging lash of ice crystals. Snow was general throughout Ontario, and at a late hour was extending into Quebec.

FRIDAY'S HOCKEY GAME AS IT WAS VIEWED THROUGH LINDSAY EYES

The Lindsay Warder says of Friday's game:

The Peterborough Intermediate hockey team made their exit from the O. H. A. stage for this season, at least, last night, the Midgets nailing the lid on their coffin with nine long spikes. Score, 9—1, and on the round 15—6 Half score 5—1.

If the early victories over Belleville and Cobourg, and Lindsay's subsequent fall down in Peterborough had raised the hopes of the followers of the Petes the said hopes fell flat last night. The visitors were utterly outclassed and Lindsay's superiority in the hockey world has to be recognized by our eastern neighbours for another year.

Nine go 'to one. Just think of it! The sporting element in Peterborough will resort to playing checkers of an evening until the baseball season comes, surely, with a defeat like that rankling in their breasts.

Rollie Glover, Harry Morgan and Company will again issue little "positively last appearance" notices.

While interesting, play wasn't exceptionally fast and both teams let up towards the finish. The Midgets were never in great danger and always had the upper hand.

Petes Were Weaker

Another shake-up had the effect of weakening the Petes. Ray was off with a bad hand, and Long, a city leaguer, who lives up to his name physically, played the central position. Harry Morgan, a respected hardware man of Peterborough, of middle age, was located at rover. It is said he is the same man who once electrified the fans at the game. Then "Jakey" Moore, the meek, filled in a job on right wing and struck up an acquaintance with Goosie Taylor. Quinn, of Lakefield village, started in on the defence at cover. The new arrangement worked poorly and Quinn was sent to the forward line, Moore going back. The team was the weakest that has represented Peterborough so far this year.

The Post says:

And the Midgets rose in their might and smote the Quakerites and great was the fall thereof.

And the lamentations of the people of Peterborough could be heard throughout the land, for great was their distress.

And there was great rejoicing among the people on the Scugog in their triumph. Verily, I say unto you, they shall all likewise perish.

Lindsay in a decisive victory last evening over Rolly Glover's septette in a nine to one touch carried off the championship of the district by a total score on the round of 10—1. The locals demonstrated their superiority over the Quakerites, and the visitors, like true sports, acknowledged the coin.

The Loosers

The Peterborough line-up was somewhat changed last night. Charley Ray and Rose were off and their places were taken by Harry Morgan and Herb Long, who played rover and centre respectively. "Jakey Moore was on right wing, while Leo Quinn played his favourite position at cover point. The team, the management held, was stronger than last Wednesday's line-up. Leo Derocher forgot his rabbit foot last night and did not play his usually brilliant game. An off night comes to the best of them occasionally. Rolly Glover at point played his usual brilliant, gentlemanly game, and proved a tower of strength to the visitors' defence. Leo Quinn was the star of the evening. He played a wonderfully brilliant game, his stick handling and rushing bordering on the phenomenal, but his efforts were not always assisted. His work was clean last night, and he made many friends among the local fans. Harry Morgan was on again. This battle scarred veteran worked hard and did good work, notching Peterborough's only goal. Harry made his "final bow," and is entitled to a tablet in the hall of fame. Herb Long, of the Strathconas, made his debut at centre, and as a good, strong player, with plenty of ginger in his make up. Dusty, the speedy left wing, played his position well, and gives promise of being a "good one." Jakey Moore, on the right wing, did very well, but he did not play the game he usually puts up on the defence.

The district championship has again come the way of the Lindsay Midgets. For four years past the team has come out on top of the district series, but the past night has been the hardest probably. Cobourg, Belleville and Peterborough all had good teams, yet the Midgets emerged from the series with but one defeat, the Peterborough seven winning one game at home by the score of 5—2. The Midgets scored 44 goals to their opponents' 21 in the seven regular O. H. A. games played.—Lindsay Warder.

Lindsay, Lindsay, all the way,
Peterborough, Peterborough fade away;
The Midgets nailed the lid down tight,
And Peterborough died hard in the fight;
And now the Midgets up and ready,
To trim the life out of anybody—I
It matters not, who, or where,
The Lindsay Midgets do not care
If it's Collingwood, Goderich, Toronto or Stratford.
We're out to win—just take our word
—Lindsay Warder

Turn over, you're on your back.

"This is positively my last appearance,' said Rolly Glover to a Post reporter last night.

"Tell the boys I wish them success and hope they will land the championship," said veteran Harry Morgan, in bidding good bye to his Lindsay friends last night.

Chris. Graham, one of the old boys, accompanied the visitors last night.

Gene Hurtubise, the celebrated wrestler, is "long" for this world. He was a good umpire last night.

The visitors took their defeat gracefully, and had no kick to register.—Lindsay Post

CHARLIE KAISER IS HERE FOR HIS MATCH WITH HURTUBISE TO-MORROW HE IS CONFIDENT OF A VICTORY

Charlie Kaiser, the Oswego, N. Y. grappler, who is to meet Eugene Hurtubise at the Auditorium Roller rink here to-morrow night in a handicap match arrived in the city this morning accompanied by his manager and pronounced himself ready for the battle. He informed the Examiner this morning that he was in the best of shape and he certainly looked the part.

Kaiser is only twenty-four years of age and looks younger, bearing none of the scars of battle that one usually associates with professional wrestlers. He weighs only 158 pounds and in tackling Hurtubise is going away out of his class as far as weight goes. Kaiser stated that he depended upon his speed and science instead of strength and was confident that he will be able to throw the local mat artist three times instead of twice in one hour as the conditions of the match call for. He has been wrestling four years starting as an amateur when he was twenty years of age and has never been beaten by a man of his own weight, which is sure a good record. He has gone on against such men as Frank Gotch and Yankee Rogers in handicap matches, defeating the latter. Rogers was to have thrown him five times in one hour and failed to get a fall at all. In the match with Gotch, the world's champion, undertook to throw Kaiser, and another wrestler each twice in an hour. Gotch succeeded in the task of throwing the other man twice in six minutes while it took thirty-three minutes to floor Kaiser twice.

Kaiser started the wrestler game with an old Peterborough boy, Peter Thompson, who is well known here. This Mr. Thompson did some wrestling himself and afterwards acted as Kaiser's manager for some time.

Kaiser seems to have little fear of the result of to-morrow night's big match, but local followers of the game think that he has a big task ahead of him to throw Hurtubise twice in sixty minutes. Gene is in fine shape just now, and will give the visitor from across the line just about as hard an argument as he wants.

It should be a great bout and there promises to be a big crowd, as much interest is being displayed in the event among the members of the sporting fraternity.

The preliminary will be on a par with the main bout as it will mark the first appearance in Peterborough of the well known Bobby Chandler, 115-pound champion of Toronto, who has been matched with Geo. Lillie the local 122-pounder, in a six-round bout for a decision and purse that would prove about as interesting a mit affair as has been pulled off here for some time.

The rink will be found very comfortable as arrangements have been made for heating the building thoroughly.

PROPOSES THE ORGANIZATION OF A TENNIS LEAGUE IN PETERBORO

Mr. W. H. Cluxton has sent the following letter to the different secretaries of the different tennis clubs in the city. "I beg to propose the organization of a City Tennis League for the season of 1909, for the giving of an organized impetus of tennis in Peterborough, and to determine which club will obtain first place; and to give players of the game an opportunity of winning the city championship; also that the winner and winners may be presented with a trophy as recognition of merit.

I. That each club will be represented by four men.

II. That home and home games of doubles only, be played.

III. That the total number of sets won, count.

IV. That umpires be appointed by the league.

V. That a tournament of men's singles be played by the players representing the different clubs for the city championship in singles.

VI. That $1.00 fee be charged each entry for a trophy fund.

VII. That the league shall draft the schedule of matches and rules and name the courts matches shall be played off on.

Will you be kind enough to let me know whether you will enter a team to represent your club.

Yours truly,

W. HAROLD CLUXTON.

YANKEE ROGERS BEAT MOHL IN TWO STRAIGHT FALLS IN TORONTO

Toronto, Feb. 13—Although beaten in straight falls last night, Fritz Mohl, the German giant, proved himself to be one of the gamest and trickiest wrestlers that ever appeared in Toronto. His conqueror was the well known heavyweight, Yankee Rogers. Rogers won the first fall in 37 minutes and 35 seconds, and the second in 20 minutes and 12 seconds. The bout took place at Riverdale arena.

Mohl showed his grit and courage in the first engagement when he refused to surrender to a double toe hold, one of the most punishing holds known. Just when it seemed as if the German's folded legs must both snap, he threw all his strength into one effort and kicked Rogers clean across the mat. He turned quickly, and diving head long after the surprized Yankee, nailed him with a bar nelson and all but downed him before he figured out what had really happened. The crowd already wrought to a high pitch of excitement by the liveliest sort of a mat battle, climbed up on the chairs and seats in pure excitement at the sudden change in the struggle. A moment later Mohl pulled off a crafty trick. Rogers had him in a dangerous hold and apparently down when the German reached behind him and slapped him smartly on the back. Thinking it was the referee's signal for a fall Rogers let go the hold and Mohl seized an unexpected grip and while Rogers protested to the referee, almost got him again. Mohl, after extricating himself from various bad holds, including a full Nelson, and several toe holds, threw Rogers twice off the straw to escape falls. He was finally pinned by a double leg hold a very pretty fall.

In the second hour both travelled fast and had the crowd cheering like mad all the way. Then Rogers got his famous leg lock and kneeling calmly on one knee and utilizing the other to twist Mohl's leg, proceeded to make the German quit. For fully three minutes he held him, but the plucky Teuton stuck to his knitting and finally wrenched the twisted foot free, only to go under a moment later to a shoulder lock and further arm hold. Though it was fast hard bout all the way, Referee Garner Marsh only had occasion to warn the wrestlers twice for foul tactics. Rogers is the best man who has ever appeared in Toronto.

STRATHCONAS AND LAKEFIELD ARE TO SETTLE THEIR DIFFERENCES

Ever since Lakefield defeated the Strathconas in the final game for the City League championship there has been a rather heated discussion going on between the two teams and their supporters as to which is the better team of the two. The Strathconas have maintained all along that their team is faster and better balanced than Leo Quinn's bunch and that it was only a case of an off night with them that they did not win the City League championship. On the other hand, the Lakefield bunch say that they can defeat the Straths any old time. An opportunity has been given at last to settle the matter as the managements of the two teams have at last stopped their talking about the matter long enough to arrange a series of games between the two, goals to count to settle which is the better aggregation. The first game will be played tomorrow night in Lakefield and the return game here, at Brock St. rink on Thursday night. The announcement will no doubt be received with interest by the local fans, who have also been discussing the question since the final City League game. It will be about the last important game of the season with the exception of the Church League play-off, and those who saw the last game between the two will be on hand on Thursday night knowing that they can expect a hard fought interesting game.

THE MAIL AND EMPIRE TEAM WON THREE GAMES FROM LOCAL PRINTERS

The team representing the Mail and Empire Printers had not much trouble in defeating a team from the local newspaper offices in the match game on the Peterborough Bowling Club's alleys on Saturday night. The Queen City Rollers won all three games, the last one being cut short at six frames and they were ahead on the total by 250 runs. Falconer had the highest single score with 200, while McDonald had the best three game total, rolling 446. The local bowlers did not roll in form, with the exception of Cairns, who was second high for the night with 443. The games were interesting, however, and quite a large crowd of spectators gathered. The visitors were a jolly bunch who quickly made themselves solid with the local ink spreaders, and they seemed to enjoy their visit. They were loud in their praises of the excellent alleys. Following were the scores:—

MAIL & EMPIRE—
Falconer	200	142	81—	423

BRIDGE AT BALL LAKE PROBABLE

Inspection Made by Warden Scott, Mr. Fife and Mr. Shaw—Report Will be Presented to County Council.

WOULD SHORTEN DISTANCE.

For some time there has been a movement in South Harvey for better communication with Bobcaygeon, and since the opening of the railway the residents of South Harvey have felt that they are paying a rail way tax for which they are not getting the advantages that they should. Lately a proposal was formulated for a floating bridge across the Ball Narrows, which would place Lakehurst, the centre of South Harvey, within about eleven miles of Bobcaygeon, instead of the present twenty miles to a railway by road in the summer.

At the last meeting of the Peterborough County Council, Mr. Robert Shaw, Reeve of Harvey, brought the question before his colleagues, and they left it to the Warden and Chairman of the Bridge Committee to investigate, and see what could be done. Accordingly Warden Scott and Mr. Fife arrived in Bobcaygeon by the noon train on Tuesday, and were met by the Reeve and Council of Harvey, the Reeve and Executive of the Bobcaygeon Board of Trade, composed of Reeve Shaw, Reeve Byng, Messrs. Allan, Elliott, McKinty and Graham, of Harvey; Messrs. W. C. Moore, W. Hickson, John Conway and C. E. Stewart.

During the afternoon the party drove to the Narrows and inspected the lay of the land, with the result that the project was considered quite a feasible one, and one that both Mr. Scott and Mr. Fife expressed themselves ready to assist as far as they could. It will now be put into practical form, estimates obtained and steps taken in the direction of finances.
